JENNIE HORNE TURNBULL

Jennie
Horne
Founder

April 29, 1846 —
November 4, 1932

"To live in hearts we leave behind Is not to die."

TRULY can this be spoken of Jennie Horne Turnbull. Those who knew her loved her for her quiet charm, her gentleness of character, her serenity of bearing, her sympathetic understanding, and her womanly grace. She exhibited the qualities of indomitable strength characteristic of the West which gave her birth, and the tireless energy of the East which for many years she called her home.

Besides devoting much attention to her home and her Church, Mrs. Turnbull attended regularly the meetings of the Philadelphia Alumnæ Club of  $\Pi B \Phi$ , taking an active part in all local enterprises. She attended the Asbury Park Convention in 1931, and though in poor health at the time, showed keen interest in the affairs of the Fraternity and followed closely its operations. The death of her son last February and of her husband, Dr. Thomas Turnbull on July 14, 1932, and the subsequent changes which it caused, brought to her already frail constitution an additional shock, from which she never recovered. While on a visit to her son in Bellevue, Pennsylvania, the end came calmly and peacefully November 4, 1932. Several Pi Beta Phis were able to attend the funeral services which were held at Bellevue.

Jennie Horne Turnbull was born in Moorefield, Indiana, on April 29, 1846, the date of her birth fittingly celebrated with that of the founding of the Fraternity she helped to establish. She lived in Monmouth, Illinois, during her college career and until her marriage, April 24, 1873, to Thomas B. Turnbull, a minister of the United Presbyterian Church. After serving in the communities of Aledo, Illinois, and Argyle, New York, the Turnbulls came to Philadelphia where they continued to live even after Dr. Turnbull's retirement from active service. Dr. and Mrs. Turnbull brought up a family of five children: Dr. William Turnbull, Superintendent of the Philadelphia General Hospital; Reverend David Turnbull, who died last February; Mr. Wallace Turnbull of Bellevue, Pennsylvania, and Mr. Paul Turnbull of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, both civil engineers by profession, and Susie Turnbull Crowe, also of Philadelphia with whom Mrs. Turnbull had planned to make her home.

Mrs. Turnbull engaged actively in all types of church work, being especially interested in Missions. She served as president of the local Missionary Society in her home church in Philadelphia from the time of its founding until her death. She was greatly interested in the Pi Beta Phi Settlement School, and through the Philadelphia Alumnae Club gave an annual contribution for its support. She took a pardonable pride in the fact that her two granddaughters, Katherine and Marjorie Turnbull, were carrying on the family traditions as active members of Illinois Alpha Chapter.

Dr. and Mrs. Turnbull enjoyed a long period of married life such as is allotted to few—fifty-nine years—and Mrs. Turnbull had increased her span of three score and ten by sixteen years, being eighty-six years of age at the time of her death. The many Pi Phis who knew Mrs. Turnbull personally will ever cherish the memory of a true Christian character and be thankful that it was their privilege to have been associated with her. The Philadelphia Alumnae Club will always look upon her as their very own, and recall with pleasure the many years they could call her counsellor, comrade, and friend. Through the pages of the history of our Fraternity, her beautiful life will ever speak eloquently to us all, and be an inspiration to every member of  $\Pi B \Phi$ .

Mrs. Turnbull's body arrived in Monmouth, Illinois, on the afternoon of November 7, accompanied by her son, Dr. Will Turnbull, and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Will Crowe, all of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. A group of Pi Phis were at the station to meet them and accompany them to the cemetery, where simple services were conducted. Rev. N. J. Calhoun read the scripture and Dr. W. C. Williamson, a life-long friend of Mrs. Turnbull's husband, offered the prayer. Representatives of the Knox and Monmouth chapters, including the president of each chapter, and members of the alumnae clubs of both Galesburg and Monmouth were present. Representing the fraternity were the Grand President, Miss Onken, and the Eta Province President, Florence Hunt Webster. Our beloved Founder, Margaret Campbell, her sister, Mrs. Agnes Murray, and Inez Webster, ARROW File Custodian, were in the lines formed by the Pi Phis present, through which the casket was carried to the grave. Several chapters and alumnae clubs had sent beautiful flowers. On the casket was the spray of orchid and white chrysanthemums which the Fraternity itself had sent. Present also was Dr. James H. Grier, son of Ada Bruen Grier, Founder. The privilege of attending this most appropriate service was augmented by the fact that both the son and daughter of Mrs. Turnbull mentioned how much their mother had loved the Fraternity and how much happiness it had given her.

MRS. COOLIDGE

THE death of Ex-President Calvin Coolidge is greatly mourned by members of the fraternity, and has filled their minds and hearts with deepest sympathy for Grace Goodhue Coolidge.

Grace Coolidge is very precious to  $\Pi B \Phi$  and we are privileged in our realization that a fellowship which is dear to us is dear also to her. She is to us an evidence of what integrity, grace, and fineness can mean in living.

Grace Goodhue Coolidge has sent to the fraternity a very beautiful letter which expresses "to all Pi Beta Phis everywhere" her appreciation for their sympathetic thought at the time of her great bereavement.

UNDERGRADUATE LOAN FUND

THE need of our Undergraduate Loan Fund, which so aptly has been called our "home missionary work," has never been greater than it is at present. Home missionary work it is because through this fund only are we able to help our own girls who are not able to finance their college courses.

Business conditions as they are today have increased the number of girls in need of this fund, and to many of them it means their life career. It is often their only resource by which they may remain in college, and prepare themselves for work in their chosen fields. We do not want any Pi Phi to drop out of college because the fraternity cannot come to her aid.

Contributing to this fund gives the alumnae their opportunity to show their loyalty and interest in making an investment in the youth of today, and gives the actives the happy privilege to share in helping less fortunate members.

It is urged that wherever possible, contributions to the Undergraduate Loan Fund be increased to meet the ever growing demands, and be sent as soon as possible to the chairman of the Undergraduate Loan Fund Committee.

WHY THE CHAPTER LETTER?

THERE has been much discussion in various groups concerning the worth of the chapter letter. That one section of the fraternity magazine entails much expense and often is stricken out of magazines as an unnecessary drain on resources. When the budget needs that well known balancing, the chapter letter section seems to be the one first made to feel the pinch.

Anyone will admit that there is little value in that letter which merely contains local items for the swelling of the pride of those concerned and gives no real information. Braggadocio has no place in any part of a dignified magazine. No one cares to read about Mary pouring at this tea or John striking a homerun at that team practice or the details of the decorations of this dance or that rushing affair. Those pages are a waste of money and of the time of the correspondent, editor, and reader. It might even be added that it is squander to destroy the paper and ink necessary for the printing. A fraternity is injuring its own name in allowing such irrelevant information to be published.

On the other hand, much value can be derived from the well-rounded letter. By that is meant one that contains general news of the chapter and campus in regard to activities, scholarship, social life, policies, and improvements. Letters written around a theme chosen for a particular issue are excellent as means of comparison. For example, one issue stresses economy, so in addition to the usual topics, each letter also contains information of what that chapter is trying to do to lower its own expenses for the pledges and actives and what other groups on the campus and the college itself are doing toward that end. This affords an exchange of ideas, in a concise form and very much to the point. It is available to every member for ready reference, without the formality of working through some committee for the data.

Of course, other than serious topics also should be included. By all means, a letter to be interesting must keep the personal touch. However, when padded with reams of trivial activities, it hasn't the appeal for the outsider. Chapter letters are written by the actives but should contain such items that would make the disinterested reader become interested and informed. That section of the fraternity magazine is the most important, and practically only, means of informing all actives, alumnæ, and outsiders of news in the various chapters and campuses. Alumnæ keep in touch with their own chapters sometimes but also should be and usually want to be informed about other chapters. Through the medium of the chapter letters members obtain a broader national viewpoint, and non-members seek to learn the policies and activities of the fraternity and the different colleges and universities. Thus, chapter letters are worth while and should be maintained if at all possible. We believe they form a most vital portion of the fraternity magazine.

Epsilon Province Vice-President

ELIZABETH ESTES GENTRY (Mrs. William R., Jr.) Missouri A, recently has been appointed Epsilon Province vice-president. She is a most interested and devoted member of the Fraternity.

After graduating from the music and academic departments of Christian College (Junior College) and the Journalism School of the University of Missouri she engaged in newspaper work for a short time, and then married William R. Gentry, Jr.,  $\Delta T \Delta$ , a lawyer, and went to St. Louis to live. Mrs. Gentry at once became a member of the St. Louis Alumnae Club and was its president in 1929-30. Prior to her appointment as Province vice-president she was in charge of magazine subscriptions for the club in St. Louis, and served on the advisory Committee of Missouri B during 1930-31.

Mrs. Gentry's time has not been devoted entirely to fraternity work however; for two years she was State Secretary of the Missouri society of United States Daughters of 1812, and for the last two years she has been president of her church guild which is devoted to social service and philanthropic work. She has also served as president of the Christian College Club of St. Louis.

Zannie May Estes Manning (Mrs. Everett), Missouri A, Mrs. Gentry's sister attended with her the Breezy Point Convention in 1927. Besides her sister, Mrs. Gentry has two sisters-in-law, two nieces and several cousins who are Pi Phis.

The present position of Province vice-president is now occupying a great deal of Mrs. Gentry's time and thought for she is deeply interested in the welfare of the clubs in her Province.

Twenty-Nine Questions

By L. PEARLE GREEN, K A @, Chairman, N.P.C. Publicity Committee

TWO types of questions confront the fraternity world today: those becoming acute through the gradual shift of college emphasis and customs during the last decade; those created by the present unusual economic conditions.

Those created by present economic conditions are being solved on most campuses by careful economies and co-operative effort. Where student bodies are much reduced in size, and large new houses are only partially clear of debt, solution is less sure.

Are there too many fraternities represented on some campuses? At the Interfraternity Conference meeting Thanksgiving week-end, it was asserted that a field was overcrowded in a state university if more than 55 per cent of the students were fraternity men, in a privately endowed college the maximum might be 75 per cent. Would similar percentages hold for women students? If these percentages are even approximately correct, how about the policy of those colleges which demand—"fraternity affiliations for every student who wants such connections"?

Have fraternities been too critical in their selection of members? Visiting fraternity officers often wonder why this and that outstanding student is not a fraternity member. It may be by choice, but, if so, what is wrong with the chapters on that campus that they do not attract such students? Where a freshmen delegation is too small, aren't there desirable girls in other classes who would strengthen a chapter? How meet the problem of the girl who wants to join but "can't afford to now?" Wouldn't a fund to meet such situations be a better alumnæ gift than the usual new house furnishings?

Wouldn't the omission of one chapter dance provide such a fund?

But when we begin to cut down on chapter activities we become a party to more unemployment, as one campus found out recently. In a glow of enthusiasm Panhellenic decided that each house could help tide over the shortage in its budget by the girls waiting on themselves at table, and by substituting victrola and radio for the usual orchestra at dances. But, countered the university, then what will happen to the sixty student waiters who are depending on that work for their living expenses this year, and to the thirty men who are paying their way through college by playing in college orchestras? To what extent have chapters become their brothers' keepers? Is it a square deal, to follow the style set by business and economize at the expense of the other student?

Immediate concern with such pressing questions must not crowd out study of the vital questions that must be answered if the future of fraternities is to be protected.

How is fraternity life to be adjusted to meet changing college conditions? What changes, you ask? The great increase in two year students of two classes: those transferring from junior colleges, those dismissed with a certificate at the end of sophomore year as not qualified to profit by further years in college. The trend, not even halted by depression days, toward the building of more and more dormitories. The rule that all freshmen must live in dormitory. The limit placed on number of students and the rigidly enforced selective process.

What shall be the scholarship goal of a fraternity? High rank as a group, or real intellectual interests? What on campus and in fraternity is most conducive to fine scholarship? How about the chapter house tutor system? Would a change in chaperon qualifications bring into the chapter houses college trained women whose presence would stimulate finer intellectual standards?

What is the best housing plan for a college? Or, is the best plan for one college, the worst for another? How can fraternity practices be adapted to such a best plan? Should there be a limit on cost of a chapter house? Should there be a limit on number a house is built to accommodate? Should residents in such a house be strictly limited to that number? Who is to control living conditions and costs in chapter houses? Which is best for the college, a Commons, or dining rooms in individual houses? Where chapter houses are impracticable or forbidden, is the preferred plan chapter lodges, or fraternity rooms in a woman's building or union?

We have no panacea to offer for any of these problems. We do have confidence that by study and discussion the fraternity women can solve them all. And so—we present them as vital material for chapter meeting programs, and, we hope, as a preliminary step toward the solution of 29 questions.

MY FRIEND

I LOVE YOU not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you.

"I love you not only for what you have made of yourself, but for what you are making of me.

"I love you for the part of me that you bring out.

"I love you for putting your hand into my heaped-up heart and passing over all the foolish and frivolous and weak things that you can't help dimly seeing there, and for drawing out into the light all the beautiful, radiant belongings that no one else had looked far enough to find.

"I love you for ignoring the possibilities of the fool and weakling in me, and for laying firm hold on the possibilities of good in me.

"I love you for closing your ears to the discords in me, and for adding to the music in me by worshipful listening.

"I love you because you are helping me to make of the lumber of my life not a tavern, but a temple, and of the words of my every day not a reproach, but a song.

"I love you because you have done more than my creed could have done to make me good, and more than any fate could have done to make me happy.

"You have done it without a touch, without a word, without a sign. You have done it just by being yourself. Perhaps that is what a friend means, after all."—Mary C. Davies in the Baton of Φ B.

Third Greek Conclave

By MARIE WINSOR STEBBINS, *Michigan Beta
Beta Province President; Pi Beta Phi Representative, Panhellenic Conclave*

IT IS said the Greeks have a name for it—and those representatives, fortunate enough to attend the last biennial Greek Conclave, held at Ohio Wesleyan University on December 2, 3, and 4, 1932, called it inspirational. Unique custom, is this of Ohio Wesleyan's—holding a Conclave every two years, sponsored by all the fraternities on their

the over-looked introductions were made and the others cemented. It was here that Miss Edith Cawkins, national treasurer of K A Θ, squeezed out all the wit and humor that could possibly be found in an avocation such as hers during times such as these. Dr. Francis W. Shepardson, national president of B Θ Π, captured the attention of everyone present with the keynote address of the Conclave—a plea for the young people of today to search for lost loyalties—loyalty to the home, to the university, and to our country. It was during this banquet that the Conclave Queen was introduced—charming and attractive Barbara Dove, Ohio Δ.

The next day the men and women wended their separate ways, but the national guests were entertained at breakfast by the Deans of the University, where the problems of the Ohio Wesleyan campus were outlined and hope expressed that the Conclave might provide a solution for each. For the fraternity women, Miss Margaret Winant, grand president of Δ Γ, fittingly opened the General Assembly by outlining what the National Panhellenic stands for and the policies it recommends for all campuses. Contemporary with this meeting was the Freshman Assembly, addressed by Miss Julia Riser, Α Γ Δ, and attended by all pledges. The duties of a pledge to a chapter were propounded as were the responsibilities of the fraternity to the pledge.

Perhaps the most interesting of the meetings, and the most instructive as well, were the discussion groups that convened immediately after the assemblies adjourned. Mrs. D. E. Young, Δ Δ Δ, led the discussion on "Rushing" offering the suggestion that alumnae use their homes for entertaining rushees campus. One representative—sometimes more—from each fraternity goes to Delaware, Ohio, there to lead the different discussion groups and participate in the general assemblies.

The Third Conclave was informally opened with an afternoon tea on Friday, December 2,—followed that evening with a formal banquet, at which and recommending a short rush season, soon after orientation week. As a contribution to harmony on the campus, Mrs. Young suggested this aphorism, "Keep your rushing rules in your heart as well as in your head."

"Pledge Training" was the subject of the discussion group led by Mrs. D. Neil Reid, A X Ω. Encouragement for the freshman and abolishment of the idea that the initiation requirement is the final goal for making grades, was the substance of this "round table," while Mrs. W. H. Fletcher, Θ Υ, urged greater emphasis on improvement in scholarship than on high scholarship, in her discussion of "Upper Class Problems," stating that high scholarship will result if improvement is made.

At noon all the women's groups assembled for luncheon at the Φ K Ψ house, after which an informal meeting was held, when definite resolutions were passed and the President's Council respectfully urged to put them into effect during the school year. The Council, which is especially effective at Ohio Wesleyan this year, requires no importuning to carry their splendid Panhellenic spirit to the campus, but the development of certain projects was suggested, as an aid to better university life, such as the elimination of cliques in the dining halls and the displaying of a sense of social responsibility in the library and dormitories.

The Third Greek Conclave ended with the formal ball at the Armory, which served also as the crowning ceremony for our own Conclave Queen. Much praise is due Ohio Wesleyan for having founded a bourse where worthwhile ideas may be exchanged. It is a custom others might well imitate.

The Conclave Guests were as follows: Mrs. D. Neil Reid, A X Ω; Miss Jean James, A Δ Π; Mrs. Lois Sanborn Dodd, A Δ Θ; Miss Julia Riser, A Γ Δ; Mrs. Grace Cogger Carlson, A Ξ Δ; Miss Hilda Threlkeld, X Ω; Miss Marguerite Winant, Δ Γ; Miss

ILLINOIS ZETA
Winners of Balfour Cup, June, 1932

Illinois Zeta Wins Balfour Cup

By BETH OLWIN, Illinois Zeta

ILLINOIS Z is wholly cognizant of the honor bestowed upon her in receiving the Balfour Cup for 1932-33. She is also cognizant of the standards and requirements necessary for winning this honor, and is exerting every effort to maintain them.

A new plan is being tried in an effort to raise the scholarship. Form cards are turned in every Tuesday to the scholarship member of advisory board. Each girl fills out a card, recording any grades received during the previous weeks, either in examinations or recitation, a grade estimate, if she has had no definite grades, and the number of cuts for the week. These cards are gone over carefully, filed, and checked on from week to week. In this way a girl becomes more conscious of the kind of work she is doing, and will exert an extra effort to improve if she is not doing well. If a girl is consistently poor in a subject she is tutored. High individual scholarship is recognized in each class, by awards presented at senior breakfast.

In an effort to encourage extra-curricular activities, a small card catalogue is kept in which each girl has a card recording all of her activities from her freshman year on. Freshmen are given activity points for certain things, 100 of which are required for membership in Orange and Blue Feathers, the freshman honorary. Each girl is encouraged to pursue one major activity rather than to do a little in several, for in this she is able to maintain a deeper interest, form closer friendships, and receive better training of executive ability and character.

Having the retention of the Balfour Cup as her goal, Illinois Z is striving more than ever to keep the ideals of  $\Pi B \Phi$  before every member, to make each girl realize that she isn't working as an individual, but as a part of a great unit. Upon each officer is impressed the seriousness of her responsibilities, and the offices are apportioned as equally as possible according to class and capability. In this way is insured greater cooperation within the chapter, with the alumnae club, and with the national organization—all of which are extremely important in having a strong working chapter.

Illinois Z is grateful to every one who helped to make the winning of the Balfour Cup possible, and hopes that she may be fortunate enough to have the cup repose in her hall a third time.

CONNECTICUT CLUBS

CONNECTICUT now has two alumnae clubs instead of one. At the December meeting, it was voted to apply for charters for separate clubs, to be called the New Haven Club and the Hartford Club, each covering half the state. This is the first increase in the roll of Alpha Province in several years.

Oklahoma Alpha's New Home

IN SEPTEMBER, after many years of hopeful planning and scheming, Oklahoma A moved into the new chapter house which the faithful and untiring endeavors of the alumnae have made possible. And such a lovely and truly home-like house it is, with its tall, white, colonial pillars, reminiscent of the Old South and symbolizing the sincere hospitality within.

The house is Georgian in style of architecture, with early American furnishings throughout. The two-story columns and trimmings in white, together with the green shutters, form a pleasing contrast to the body of the house, which is of red brick. There are two pairs of French doors opening off both the living room and dining room onto the veranda. The main entrance, through a colonial, paneled door with leaded glass fan and side light, opens into a spacious hall which runs the width of the house. Facing the door is the stair-case, carpeted in gold. The hall is furnished in green and gold and carpeted, as is the living room, with a true copy of an Early American hooked rug of all-over flowered design in shades of green and gold. The living room, to the right of the main hall, is entered through a wide, low archway. This room is of good proportions and has a stately fireplace, surmounted by a walnut mantel, in the center of the north wall; hanging over the mantel is a handsome portrait of Jenny Lind. Two love seats upholstered in solid rust embroidered in colonial nosegays are placed on either side of the fireplace; another sofa and several chairs done in green, together with the rust-colored drapes, help to carry out the general color-scheme. In the sun-room, which is on the north side of the house and opens off the living room, green is the predominant color. The sofa and chairs in this room are of maple, upholstered in various home-spun fabrics, and, in combination with a Duncan

Phyfe drum table and a large wing chair, they help to carry out the period style. At the windows are draw-curtains of putty-colored mohair. The dining room opens off the main hall on the south and in the connecting archway are hung green curtains of rough antique satin. These portières are lined, on the dining room side, with a colonial print in red and green, and the French windows are draped with the same material. The walls are painted a soft shade of apple-green and form a pleasing background for the ladder-back chairs, refectory tables, and Welsh dresser of maple, with which the room is furnished. Connected by another small archway is a charming little breakfast nook, similarly furnished, which is most convenient for Sunday morning breakfasts. Opening off this is the kitchen, equipped with all the modern conveniences, including an electric refrigerator and kitchen aid. In addition to these main rooms, there is the house-mother's suite of rooms, consisting of a bedroom, bathroom, and sitting room, off the main hall to the left of the staircase.

The woodwork throughout the house is walnut, with oak floors stained to harmonize. The walls are stippled and cream in color. The lighting-fixtures are pewter with short candle lights.

On the second floor are ten double bedrooms, each containing a roomy closet with plenty of shelf-space, a comfortable double bed, two dressers, a study-desk, and two chairs. Filmy tie-back curtains and Kentucky coverlets throughout make for uniformity, but each girl has added the personal touches necessary to prevent monotony. There is also a sleeping porch, extending the width of the house on the south side; it is furnished with double-decker beds, and the pledges, who live on the third floor, sleep here. The third floor is very much like the second, except that the rooms are somewhat smaller and contain single instead of double beds. All second and third floor halls are carpeted in green.

From the main hall on the first floor, the staircase goes down into the basement. Here are located the trunk room, furnace room, two service rooms with bath and private outside entrance, chapter and lounge room, and archive room. The lounge and chapter room is the same size as the living room above and one of the most attractive rooms in the entire house. It contains a large brick fireplace and is furnished with wicker furniture upholstered in cherry-colored home-spun fabrics. The floor is covered with black and white marble tile linoleum.

The active members feel a great pride in their new home, for it is the visible and tangible evidence of the alumna's interest and faith in them as a group, and they hope that every Oklahoma A alumna, through her gift, will feel an even closer tie and deeper personal interest in the chapter.

"THE WORD CHAPERON today does not have the same meaning that it had 10 years ago," writes Agnes Wright Spring, former editor of the ARROW of  $\Pi B \Phi$  in the Crescent of  $\Gamma \Phi B$ . "We do not need in our chapter houses a woman to act as a figurehead, whose being there is a mere matter of formality. We need housemothers to manage the chapter houses in an orderly, systematic way; to give atmosphere and culture to the homes; to be there as confidants to the young women of the chapters; to be responsible for the health, welfare, normal and social developments of each individual chapter as if each were a mother in her home."

Women Are the Money Raisers!

By LOUISE FRANKLIN BACHE, District of Columbia Alpha

HAVE you ever noticed that whenever men have a campaign to put on in which money must be raised, they never rest until they have rounded up all the energetic, up-and-doing women in their community, and put them to work? In lots of other campaigns they pass us by completely, but let it be a hospital to be built, a church to be helped, aid for unemployed, or some other civic and worthwhile project and no man in the United States thinks of going six inches toward the announced goal without our help.

Personally, I like men, and I like working on campaigns with them, and, moreover, I am convinced that in selecting women to help them they are showing rare intelligence and the soundest of judgment. They know a lot more about us than some of us seem to know about ourselves. For example, they know that we women are not easily discouraged, that when once our minds are made up, no matter how many doors are banged in our faces, we still persist in carrying out our mission. Where men are inclined to play for big stakes we are sweetly content to walk our feet off for pennies, nickels, and dimes. And the result—well, watch any campaign in your community. Doesn't the women's team always win?

But the strange thing about this money raising power of ours is that it seems to work better for others than it does for us! Take our Pi Phi Endowment Fund for example. All we need now to make our goal is $30,000. If every Pi Phi in the country gave one dollar and a half, we should have it raised before any of us could say "Jack Robinson" or miss the money from our pocketbooks. If every one of the one hundred and fifty-six chartered alumnæ clubs would make it its chief concern to raise two hundred dollars this year for this one purpose, we could wipe out entirely the amount now needed to complete our endowment.

Campaigns are like porridge, they need to be kept hot in order to insure an enthusiastic appetite. If I should dare to criticize our Pi Phi Endowment Campaign I'd say the trouble with it is that we have let it get chilled to the core while we talked lustily about the "depression." Our psychologists tell us that there is no better way of forgetting our troubles than by good, honest work—work in which we forget ourselves! In bending every effort to raise the allotted Alumnæ Fund we shall have discovered, therefore, one sure antidote for the effect of hard times on our nervous systems.

But you say, "Money is hard to get now! No one has any to spare! People are starving—their needs come first." All this is true, but having spent most of my life in money raising ventures, I have come to the conclusion that fair be the times or foul, money is always difficult to secure if one goes at it in a faint-hearted manner. A worthwhile cause—and surely you will agree our Endowment Fund is all of that—can always win support if we present our story well, believe in it, are ingenious and resourceful in our methods, and determined to win. I can think of no better year to put this campaign over than the present one.

Reaching our goal before the end of 1933 will prove that one group of women in the United States is determined to down the depression. By the successful accomplishment of our task we shall give courage to others. All we need now as a nation to get back once more to "normalcy" for which we long so ardently are courage and its famous by-product, the determination to succeed!

So, though it is two months late, let's add the securing of the full endowment fund to the resolutions we intend to keep in 1933.

Remember—women are the money raisers!

MAY LANSFIELD KELLER

DR. MAY L. KELLER, Maryland A, was one of the four eminent alumnae invited to address the annual meeting of the Alumnae Council of Goucher College on October 28, 1932. The speakers were chosen because of their wide experience, each in her special line of work. An excerpt from the Goucher Alumnae Quarterly of November, 1932, says:

"During the Council session President Robertson, in tribute to Dean Keller, quoted a verdict passed on her several years ago by a prominent educator: 'The most hard-boiled fighter for high college standards in the South.' 'Hard-boiled,' however, is not the adjective by which Goucher alumnae would be prone to describe her, for her small, spirited, enthusiastic self has for so long meant so much to the Association that we are sometimes apt to forget her academic distinctions. With a graduate background of Berlin and Heidelberg (where she took her Ph.D. in 1904) Dean Keller's teaching lines have always fallen in pleasant places—Wells College, and our own Goucher, where she served as assistant professor of English from 1906 to 1914. Since 1914 she has been professor of English and Dean at Westhampton College, of the University of Richmond.

"Concerning her present avocations she reports, first, the delights of two European journeys. In 1930, after a trip to Greece and the Mediterranean she 'came home and read the classics all over again.' Last summer she revisited old friends and old haunts in Germany, particularly those at Heidelberg. Her second source of pleasure these days is her garden, where she 'raises everything except vegetables.' She has a rockery and a pool, but her special treasures are her delphiniums."

ANNA ROOSEVELT DALL

ANNA ROOSEVELT DALL, daughter of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, was initiated into Delta Chapter of A Φ, at Cornell University, Ithaca,

New York, in the winter of 1925-26.

Mrs. Dall is a very popular and much beloved and interested member of the fraternity.

Choosing Chapter Officers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With a view to aiding the chapters in making selections of officers, opinions upon choosing a chapter president have been requested from: R. Louise Fisch, Δ Δ Δ, Dean of Women, Cornell University; Mary H. Young, President of Tennessee A Advisory Board; Margaret Martindale, Corresponding Secretary, Michigan B; and Ruth Whalley, Iowa Z, President of Mortar Board and Φ Β Κ on her campus, her senior year.

The opinions vary widely, and present many views of the problem. The symposium is presented here in the belief that it will incite constructive thought upon this subject important to active chapter members.)

THE choice of a chapter president each year is a complicated procedure and requires much careful consideration. Shall she be a senior? What if the seniors are few in number and drab in personality? Suppose your most acceptable senior wishes to hold a college office? Shall this be added unto her? Or, in the large chapters of the present day, can you find one more who could do the job satisfactorily as her main non-academic interest?

How simple it all would be if these questions could be answered by "yes" or "no." But they cannot, for too many factors are involved. You may not have a chapter house; again you may, but your members may not all live in it. Some, especially freshmen, may live in the dormitories, or most of you may live at home in the city. Your chapter may be divided among all these places of residence. A president has an interesting time unifying these groups. If you have a house, do you merely use it as a boarding house where you eat and sleep, or do you make it the chapter headquarters, a home of refinement, consideration for others, and all the other attributes which mark a cultured home—and individuals of the same type?

At the University where I am, at the present time, Dean of Women, the girls handle these situations, in the main, exceedingly well. As places of residence, sorority houses come under the dormitory system, and the house president is appointed by the W.S.G.A. Executive Committee which also appoints the dormitory vice-presidents. Each sorority submits two or three names to this committee which then considers the scholastic record of each, her ability to handle groups of girls, her participation in other organizations, her need for self help, and the probable time she can give to the office. Sometimes all the names submitted are rejected and the committee recommends a member for the sorority's consideration or asks for other recommendations. The points allowed to this office equal those allowed the dormitory vice-presidents, the Women's Athletic Association vice-president, or President of Mortar Board, for example. This gives dignity and responsibility to the position. The chapter president, chosen by the sorority has supervision over her whole group and should be an even more able person.

All things being equal the chapter president should probably be a senior, but frequently all things are not equal, in which case the welfare of the chapter should be considered. If a junior will be more successful, elect a junior. If an exceptional sophomore can handle the situation best, by all means let the sophomore do it and repeat her success the following year.

Sometimes the girl who fails to "make" important offices in campus organizations, makes an admirable president. Frequently, a girl does not care for the notoriety and politics involved in campus organizations. She likes working quietly and intimately with girls, especially when, unhampered, she can develop a group spirit and responsibility, and yet draw out one girl, suppress another, encourage a third, polish off a fourth and keep the whole group harmonious and contented.

It is a big, interesting task and one attendant with honor and prestige. It requires patience, forbearance, tact, good humor, and generalship to develop a group and the individuals in it simultaneously, without "running" or even leading them. That is the kind of a personality who, if chosen for the presidency of a chapter, can make a group and the individuals in it, respected, admired and influential as college women.

I believe it is preferable for a chapter to choose a girl who is outstanding on the campus for president rather than one who is not, but who would have more time to give to the duties of the chapter. It seems to me that the chapter would gain by this basis of selection for the following reasons:

A girl who is outstanding in her senior year proves that she has true ability and leadership. Her distinction has not been ephemeral but has stood the test of time. The president must often represent the chapter as a whole; and if she is a girl who has been a leader in campus activities and has gained therefrom valuable assets of poise and leadership she will best represent the chapter.

The president who is in demand for many activities must of necessity delegate the majority of chapter duties to chapter members. This is good for the chapter as it ensures greater responsibility and therefore greater loyalty to the fraternity and closer cohesion among the members. A girl with greater poise and leadership leaves a richer heritage for the chapter. Undergraduates unconsciously pattern their standard after their ideal chapter executive and strive to attain her achievements.

An outstanding girl will usually combine many traits desirable in a president while the other girl has only her willingness to devote her greater amount of time. Her talent has been hidden away for three college years, and might be too weak to stand the bright light of senior glory.

The question of whether it is more advantageous for a chapter to elect as major officers girls who have prestige on the campus than to elect girls less prominent in campus activities who would have more time to give to the development of their offices in the chapter has been discussed by Michigan B from every possible angle. The result is not a statement that would apply to every major office collectively, but has come to demand certain requirements for the fulfillment of each fraternity office.

A few weeks preceding election of any major office the president reads the sections in the Constitution and Preamble that apply to the chapter office, in addition to which the acting officer gives a brief résumé of responsibilities entailed in the office.

The president of the fraternity is usually not a girl who is prominent in campus activities. The chapter as a whole feels it too important a position for a member properly to conduct this office along with the duties that outstanding campus activities require. The president-elect is generally a member who has held previous fraternity office and who has chosen at every occasion to act upon fraternity matters above outside activity. However, the president is a girl who knows her campus and thoroughly understands the position of the house in relation to it, and who at all times will interest and help to foster the members in their participation in campus activities.

The vice-president and secretary are juniors or seniors and are elected from purely personal basis; campus and previous fraternity officers are usually given preference over girls who have had no experience in these. The vice-president is generally a girl who has come into contact with the Settlement School and who is enthusiastic over it. The corresponding secretary is generally one who has had journalistic experience; her outside activities or campus prominence not being considered.

The campus activities of the treasurer are generally outstanding, which shows in more than one way her dependability. The office of corresponding secretary and treasurer each has an assistant in the sophomore or junior class who ordinarily succeeds to that office, or another fraternity position of equal importance.

The pledge supervisor, this year the president of the Women's League, is chosen for her knowledge of campus activity and fraternity standing.

There are no definite rules for the election of girls in this manner, but this custom has been established because it has proved more effective for the Michigan campus.

MARGARET MARTINDALE

I well remember the many pro-and-con discussions at chapter election time on the advisability between choosing leaders in activities and girls with few outside responsibilities.

Personally I think there is only one logical side to the question. The girl of outstanding character and ability, who can devote all of her time and energy to leading her chapter, should have first consideration for the office. But—you say—the girls with most leadership are in outside activities. They are most outstanding or they would not have been selected. Not necessarily. Many girls are not aggressive enough to be voted into a campus office. Yet, in their own fraternity they could lead its activities very capably. Chapter offices require much time and careful thought. They offer a splendid opportunity for character development and leadership to a competent girl, other than the girl who has been chosen to lead campus activities. Let's divide the honors.

GREETINGS FROM THE MUSIC COMMITTEE!

By MARGARET L. KELLENBACH, Chairman

ALL Pi Phis like to sing. Wouldn't you like to share your favorite song with the other chapters? We are anxious to receive copies of new  $\Pi B \Phi$  songs with original words and music. In each ARROW we plan to print two of the best songs sent in to the chairman of the music committee. Anyone, whether a Pi Phi or not, may submit the song, but it should be sent by some member of our Fraternity or by some one of our chapters. What we are after is a truly good new tune. In order to be considered for publication in the May ARROW, songs should reach the chairman by March 15. We feel sure that there is much musical talent among our members, and we are anxious to become acquainted with our musicians. Everyone likes a new song, so send yours in! Appropriate words to popular tunes can also be printed in THE ARROW. If you have this type of fraternity song, send it in also.

Oklahoma Beta Directs Distribution of Food for Needy Families

By RUTH FLEMING, Oklahoma Beta

DECEMBER 25, which might have been "just another day" for some six hundred old folks and tiny tots of Stillwater, Oklahoma, was transformed into a real Christmas by the Women's Panhellenic Council of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Under the direction of Oklahoma B of  $\Pi B \Phi$  four trucks and ten automobiles delivered hundreds of pounds of food to the needy families of Stillwater on Christmas eve. Ruth Fleming, vice-president of Oklahoma B, was chairman of the Christmas project. She had members of the six national women's fraternities represented on the campus as assistants; there were members of  $K A \Theta$ ,  $X \Omega$ ,  $K \Delta$ ,  $\Sigma T A$ ,  $A \Delta \Pi$ , and  $\Pi B \Phi$ .

A week before vacation began all women's and men's fraternities began bringing food to the office of the Dean of Women. Here were collected the canned tomatoes, sent by  $K A \Theta$  and  $\Pi B \Phi$ ; the cabbages sent by  $X \Omega$ ,  $K \Delta$ , and  $\Sigma T A$ ; and the oranges sent by  $A \Delta \Pi$ . The men's fraternities sent 500 pounds of sugar. The boys' and girls' dormitories were asked to assist in providing the food, and they responded by sending oranges, potatoes, and canned vegetables. Townspeople voluntarily donated nuts, butter, and cabbage.

In order to have funds to buy the other desirable foods, the Women's City Panhellenic entertained with a benefit bridge in November. Mrs. Sam Myers, Oklahoma B alumna, was in charge of the bridge, which was held at the largest hall in town donated by the American Legion. The city of Stillwater furnished the lights and the gas company donated the gas. The prizes were furnished by the stores, each contributing one prize. Good prizes such as turkeys, baked hams, linen, hose, vanities, $2.50 worth of cleaning, $2 worth of beauty parlor work, and $2 worth of tickets to the picture show were among the gifts. They made $60 with which Mrs. Myers bought Christmas candy, beef roasts, two loaves of bread, and a peck of apples for every family.

The list of needy families was secured from the United Charities, who usually supply these baskets of food; but this year they were glad to have the money to use as a shoe fund. Besides this list, a number of hungry college boys who were "batching" in attics were helped.

About fifteen girls volunteered to sack and sort the food during the vacation. Then Saturday at one o'clock assisted by Boy Scouts, they loaded the cars and trucks. With three or four girls on each truck and two in each car the food was distributed.

This was Women's Panhellenic's biggest project of the year. Other programs of the year are as follows: Meeting with all pledges to explain what being a fraternity woman means as a pledge, member, and alumna, with  $\chi \omega$  in charge; discussion of altruistic projects of all national women's fraternities, directed by  $\kappa \Delta$ ; tea given for all senior girls and for members of A.A.U.W. under direction of  $\Sigma T A$ ; meeting with the Women's City Panhellenic, with  $\kappa A \Theta$  in charge; discussion of plans for new year under direction of  $A \Delta \Pi$ .

Symmetry in Living

By MARIA LEONARD, Indiana Gamma
Dean of Women, University of Illinois

SYMMETRY is one of the most beautiful words in our language. Taken from the Greek we find sym means together, metron, measure, a measuring together—team work as it were. Did you ever stop to think of team work in your own living, team work within your own self? Health is symmetry within your own body. For illness means that some one or more members of your inner household have refused to play fair and traffic on the road of health is blocked. Symmetry of living is the highest expression of art today on our planet, the most "worth-whileness" and yet apparently the hardest thing to accomplish by individuals or by groups. Overcoming this very difficulty, therein lies the achievement. Never more than today, modern philosophers tell us, have individuals had to fight to keep a beautiful proportion in living, in thinking, in working, in playing, in religious life, emotional life and family ties or group life than right now.

I am not telling you anything new when I tell you that life is strenuous, that even campus life is strenuous, and yet in a way the great outside world has been pushed back, held at bay as it were from our almost selfish campus living while our own class politics have held the center of the college stage, while the campus daily looms larger in a sophomore's mind than the reports of the Geneva Conference or the war debt controversy. Even while not participating in the hurried worried interests of the world at large (not as much as students should perhaps) we have spun our own academic lives into many a needless frenzy and have labored long over trifles. Nowhere later in life, when in the outside world, pushed aside by noisy tram cars in life's busy traffic, fighting for bread in a tight economic condition, will youth find the atmosphere of learning to live symmetrically so sympathetic as on a university campus. Mind you, you do not think so now but if I had space and time to relate the responses of the "old grads" who return for a visit to the Alma Mater with the query, "Why didn't you tell us more about using our undergraduate days for preparing and making habits for living life?" I could prove it to you.

One lad, a graduate of two years, confided to me on a Homecoming return that he realized only after he had left the university that he had existed while in school, on a daily diet of being popular, getting by, being a regular good fellow, with the idea of "Tomorrow will take care of itself." Then one day he found himself suddenly graduated—turned out into the great wide world to live!

With his A.B. all he could call his own, he went out to learn the rest of the alphabet which the world might teach him. Seemingly he learned it all in one interview, for in applying for his first job (which by the way he did not get) he said he was held up to himself as face to face with the boy he might have been. The direct questionings about his habits, his ability to think, his energies, his leisure time, by a certain keen eyed official in a large city bank, made him grow (or shrink rather) more inches to the minute than any whole semester in his university life before. He realized then, facing this critical, impartial, efficient business man, for the first time in his life, that for the past four years he had merely existed, playing at living, playing at thinking, that his life was bulged greatly on the social side, was meagre and wrinkled on the intellectual side, warped and jeopardized on the moral side and not even at all in the great spiritual values of life. He said very quietly when leaving, "When I had a chance to grow, I only swelled. I developed no inner reserves, built no foundations, no philosophies for abundant living. I tell you this, Miss Leonard, because you can pass it on to those coming, to profit by my sad college mistake."

I sat alone with my thoughts when he had gone seeing only in my mind what might have been a strong physical, mental, moral, and spiritual structure, one unsymmetrical, ill shaped and out of proportion.

Let me say once again that since we have chosen to take the name of Greeks should we not try to build along their lines of beauty adding also the scientific and spiritual qualities to life that the world has gained since their decay and make college life more beautiful because of us, remembering what Plato himself said of Education—that "It is that which brings to body and soul all the beauty, all the perfection of which they are capable." Our age in which we are now living is a clever age but it is too stimulated, too restless to be beautiful. Somehow through our mad rush for cash, character is often pushed aside. There is a leanness and meagerness to this scientific century. We will have to depend upon youth, to whom I am writing, to bring a radiance back into life, into home life, into motherhood and womanhood. Can it be true what James Truslow Adams says that "America is the only country in the modern civilized world where what a man does counts for more than what he is?"

Recalling the ancient Greek torch race the prize was given not to the swiftest runner but to the one first crossing the tape with his torch burning.

How can we find symmetry in living? No better place would I know to go than to a group of young fraternity women who with their bond of friendship, built out of their ritual, can plan their lives to develop themselves and their pledges in symmetry in their campus life, first, in their work, not for high grades and scholarship alone but for intellectual living; secondly, in their play, not "wreck-reative" but re-creative; thirdly, finding in their emotional life, the deep appreciation of the relation between manhood and womanhood on a higher than physical plane; and lastly in their religious life, the knowledge that the world is built on spiritual values for happiness cannot be bought for price, it comes only in making others happy.

As Dean of Women I realize I could perhaps have given you some group and individual counsel on participation in campus activities, cooperation with your administration, suggestion for pledge life within the group, community responsibilities of both individual and group, but rather would I give you the "how" than the "what," give as my New Year's message to you one beautiful motif, the Symmetry of Living, and let each Pi Phi girl work it into her own exquisite pattern as she herself interprets life in everything she thinks, says and does, one definite purpose around which she can and should build her own philosophy for her own living for this will give permanent direction to her life. If a college girl glimpses the vision of perfect symmetry in her daily living, something will surely come to her, the greatest possession of all the ages, a rare personality. "Education isn't something we get," as one college president expressed it, "it is something we become."

After all it comes only from loving life well enough that we constantly choose the beautiful things, books, friends, habits, thoughts, music within our daily reach, in place of the mediocre for "Just good enough is not enough" for this symmetry in living.

Alice Jean Cleator has expressed this quest for the beauty of abundant living in the delightful lines—

*The day will bring some lovely thing
Some gay adventurous thing to hold
Against my heart when it is gone
And so I rise and go to meet
The day with wings upon my feet.*

*I come upon it unaware
Some sudden beauty without name
A snatch of song—a breath of pine,
A poem lit with golden flame;
High tangled bird notes, keenly thinned
Like flying colors on the wind.*

*No day has ever failed me, quite—
Before the gayest day is done,
I come upon some mystic bloom
Or a late line of crimson sun
Each night I pause—remembering
Some gay, adventurous, lovely thing.*

Ruth Wellman and Books

By MERCEDES JORGULESCO, Massachusetts Alpha

MARY ANN was crippled beyond all hope of recovery. She reclined on her little cot in the children's charity ward, oblivious to all the pain that twisted her tiny body, for in her hands was a book from whose pages elves and pixies marched, carrying her away to that wondrous Land of Make-believe.

ALL PAIN FORGOTTEN

The book was given this child by an agency bearing the prosaic name of "The Extension Division of the New York Public Library" and the capable head of that important department of one of the world's largest libraries is Ruth Wellman, D.C. A.

Under her guidance is accomplished all the circulation work of the New York Public Library in districts not reached by branches. Her division is responsible for twelve sub-branches and for sending cases of books to hospitals, prisons, schools, orphan asylums, old ladies' homes, settlements, summer camps, and fire and police stations. Last year alone, considerably over one million volumes were circulated among groups whose nationalities include Italian, Jewish, Russian, German, and Scandinavian people. In addition, over eleven thousand books, withdrawn from circulation, were sent to various institutions coming under the jurisdiction of the Department of Correction, to the City Home for the Infirm, the House of Refuge on Randalls Island, and many others.

Keen perception, executive capability, and sympathetic understanding are necessary in the administration of this vast system within a system. Ruth Wellman's natural graciousness and competency are supplemented by fifteen years of fruitful and varied library experience. She majored in library work at George Washington University and followed it with a special course at the Pratt Institute in New York. She will talk about herself only with great reluctance and would rather refer to the success that is obviously hers as "the accomplishments of the Division."

Praising the effective work of this  $\Pi B \Phi$ , Commissioner Richard C. Patterson of the Department of Correction stated: "The Extension Division of the New York Public Library performs a very important public service . . . to the thousands of inmates confined in the correctional institutions of the City of New York. The reading population of the penitentiary has shown an increase of twenty-five per cent over the previous year. This speaks for itself, and the same condition holds good for many of the other major institutions in the Department where the inmates are confined for substantial terms.

"A penological maxim is that reformation can be accomplished 'only through the mind' of the offender against society. It follows that . . . some external stimuli of a salutary nature must be exerted. The Extension Division of the New York Public Library is to be commended for its activities in promoting a more healthful mental influence among those unfortunates whom society has decreed must be segregated."

It seems incredible that within the limits of the largest city in this country, is a vast area lying beyond the districts reached by the branch libraries. The heterogeneous population of the Borough of the Bronx numbers 1,250,000 but the stupendous problem of supplying worth-while books to the congested tenement and the remote rural districts alike has been adequately solved by Ruth Wellman. After many months of careful planning and forethought, she saw her division press into service the latest innovation in traveling libraries. A truck of huge proportions was acquired at a cost of $10,000 and has a capacity of 2,000 volumes. It has the additional advantages of offering the selection of books in both good weather and bad and possesses appointments such as lights and hot water heaters. Its daily trips include stops at a number of public schools, a garden city, a large Hebrew orphanage, three schools for crippled children and a school for the blind. In summer, grass mats and a large umbrella make an attractive outdoor reading room for adults and a cozy place for frequent story hours for the younger borrowers.

It is necessary that Miss Wellman predetermine not only what the individual group wishes to read, but also what literature will help them the most to wrestle with their particular problems. Her influence is a vitalizing, intellectual force among many groups otherwise suffering from a paucity of mental stimuli. "Unemployment," she said, "has made its demands upon our work. It has been felt in the large increase in the home use of books, which, to a large extent, must be attributed to the fact that with less money for travel, lectures, amusements and for buying books, people have turned naturally to the library. In the increase of over fifty thousand in the circulation of fiction there has undoubtedly been for many people a happy release from discouragement and despair. The demand for Freud, Flügel, Brill, Hollingworth, Jastrow, and Overstreet is surely based on an eagerness to meet increasingly difficult personal problems with greater understanding. Books on vocations are asked for both by those who want to prepare themselves for new positions and by those who want desperately to hold the positions they have.

MORE BOOKS FOR THE KIDDIES

"To the International House of the Y.W.C.A., where seventy-five girls are housed while looking for work, we send books to help keep up the individual morale in the nerve-destroying hours of waiting. A group of foreign girls who are making the most of their leisure by studying our language, want books in easy English. We add books on typing and filing, some cheerful fiction and Russell's Conquest of Happiness, Barrie's Courage, King's Conquest of Fear and Overstreet's About Ourselves."

Not within one's imagination, can be estimated the many hours of intellectual growth and profitable recreation this  $\Pi \Phi$  has afforded those whose circumstances have become less fortunate or those to whom educational advantages have been denied.

Some Pi Phi Deans

Three Young Pi Phis Are at Present Accomplishing Interesting Things in Deans' Work

WESA DALE, Illinois Z, has been appointed Assistant to Dean of Instruction, and Registrar of the Women's College, Fredericksburg, Virginia. Wesa has written, "As Assistant to Dean of Instruction and Registrar here for two years, I've learned enough to give me an added urge to study more." Her leave of absence will begin this spring, when she will complete her graduate study at Columbia University, and then go to England for a research project in English universities.

WESA DALE

Helene Turner, Nevada A, is a Student Dean at Syracuse University, which means that she is one of a group of ten young women selected from as many different colleges for training for dean's work. The course is practical as well as theoretical, including academic tutoring, social advising, and personnel guidance. In her capacity as chaperon of the University Cottage, a house for freshman women, Helene comes directly in contact with problems confronting girls in a large university. She has had previous experience in this type of work, having been for two years on the staff of the dean of women at the University of Nevada. Her work at Syracuse will lead to a Ph.D. in education.

Her hobby is dramatics and at the present time she is taking courses in dramatics along with her graduate work.

Helene, whose home is in San Francisco, has been active in three  $\Pi B \Phi$  chapters. She was first pledged by California A and was repledged and initiated by Nevada A. Since she has been in Syracuse, she has taken an active interest in New York A.

Marian Patterson, Florida A, was appointed Dean of Women of Southern College, Lakeland, Florida, September, 1932. She attended Stetson University two years and Southern College, Lakeland, Florida two years. After this she was a kindergarten teacher in private school, 1929-1930; and in 1930 to 1932 she was instructor in Lakeland Public Schools. Marian is a member of the P.E.O. Sisterhood.

Dorothea Pohlman, Sculptress

DOROTHEA POHLMAN, an alumna of Missouri B, for sometime has been doing work of outstanding note. A sculptress of considerable ability and promise, a lecturer and a teacher, Miss Pohlman is now working on her M.A. at the University of South Dakota where her father, Dr. A. G. Pohlman, is dean of the Medical School.

As a child Miss Pohlman exhibited a curiosity in the weird bones of skeletons in her father's research laboratory at St. Louis University where he was head of the university anatomy department. Her interest in anatomy grew until she seems to have gained an instinctive understanding of the precepts especially as they affect art. She can look at a figure and tell at a glance if it is in proper proportion, and whether or not the features are in their proper relative positions.

After finishing high school at the age of sixteen years, Miss Pohlman studied painting and art in Europe at a Swiss school near Lausanne and in Paris under Antoine Bourdelle, the outstanding sculptor and teacher of his time. On returning to the United States she spent two years at the Connecticut College for Women at New London and two years and a half at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts. She has found her greatest facility in portrait sculpture. She attributes this to the fact that she has always been enormously interested in people; and she hopes to do some good things in portraiture. She says that the bust or statue after all seems to her to be the most natural portrait; a picture depends so much on light and color, but a bust, like a human being, may assume different aspects at distances or in different lights. It is more human looking and gives a picture from many different angles.

Miss Pohlman can look at a statue and tell immediately if it is anatomically and structurally correct. When looking at an individual she unconsciously picks out the distinguishing marks of the person's countenance. These are the things she puts into her work, and are the things essential to a successful portrait artist.

The summer after graduating from college, Miss Pohlman acted as assistant librarian in the art department of the public library in St. Louis and in September was appointed an assistant in the educational department of the City Art Museum. Her work there was of a most interesting as well as diverse character. It is remarkable that a girl so young could assume the duties which one with a background of fifteen or twenty years of art history and criticism might have found difficult. Every Tuesday afternoon she gave an illustrated travelog called "Tales for the Traveler." In each travelog, the audience was taken to the great palaces of art with the aid of pictures of the works of the great masters furnished from the archives of the museum. Miss Pohlman herself has made two trips to Europe since her student days in Switzerland and Paris and has seen the world famous masterpieces of the men who have made art history. The purpose of the travelogs was to create more interest in art and to increase the appreciation of the exhibits at the museum.

Beside giving "Tales for the Traveler" once a week, Miss Pohlman was one of four women employed at the museum to act as a lecturer at a club meeting of any sort.

She is quoted in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat as saying, "We lectured at churches, schools, clubs, and various meetings. All a person had to do was to put in a request at the museum and the lecturer was furnished. And what a host of things were asked. There was no limit set on subjects. When I was given an assignment I began to work up my data from whatever sources possible. If it were not an obscure topic of art or history, I didn't do much research. But if, for instance, some one called for a talk on the methods of glazing pottery in the time of Ptolemy III—well, I had to do a bit of rummaging around."

Miss Pohlman was called upon to lecture on the great schools of painters, on modelling technic, on arms and armor, on the decorative art of fixtures, on pistols, Indian relics, rugs, the relation of music to painting and the various American art periods. No matter what was requested it was always complied with and Miss Pohlman always managed to give an interesting and entertaining talk. She lectured at least once a day and sometimes twice.

A third duty of Miss Pohlman's at the City Art Museum was conducting a free class in drawing for children between the ages of seven and ten. This class was planned to create in her pupils an understanding of art and its worth, and, to quote the teacher "to inculcate in them an idea of artistic processes and of the difficulties and limitations with which artists are faced in their various mediums; to familiarize these budding men and women with beauty and the age-old attempt to achieve it. If a person knows a little about how statues are molded and cast, he will naturally be more interested in the treasures of the museum."

At the University of South Dakota, Miss Pohlman is working to complete her M.A., the subject of her thesis being, "John Ruskin, Art Critic and Enthusiast."

In her own words the story of her work in Vermilion follows:

"I came out here to South Dakota, when my father was made Dean of the Medical School of South Dakota, to complete my work for an M.A. There was no means for the children of this state to acquire an education through the medium of the Museum and so I asked permission to do this work. In October I was made Director of Education of the Museum of South Dakota, located at the University of South Dakota. There was no salary available so I became a "dollar a year man," or "woman," I should say. The university cooperated with my idea and made it possible for me to have my programs printed.

"I could not begin with adult education since my time was limited to a few afternoons a week so I deemed it wise to begin with the children. My first talk was given in October, and to my surprise one hundred and twenty-five children came to the first story hour and heard a talk about the Totem poles of Alaska. All children enjoy working toward a goal so I announced at the first story hour that we would have a Junior Museum Club and membership in this club could be obtained by attending five story hours. Today there are over one hundred members of the club.

"The week before Christmas I adapted an old Breton Song into a Christmas pantomime. Thirty-eight children took part in a production called "A Pair of Wooden Shoes." The properties were, for the most part, objects of interest to be found in the Museum. It was quite a success for it brought articles seen on display into use and explained their histories in an enjoyable manner. About two thousand children have come to the Museum and carried away some idea as to the value of the collections either in the form of a story or an illustration. The Art Club of Vermilion has offered prizes for the best illustrations of the stories heard during the year. It is surprising to see some of the drawings done by five year olds and the very clever illustrations by children of eleven or twelve. Some of the work handed to me is made of wood, soap, or in finished drawings and posters."

Miss Pohlman is at present a member of the Vermilion Alumnae Club. She was initiated into  $\Pi B \Phi$  while a junior at Washington University and was corresponding secretary during her senior year. Her mother is a member of  $\Delta \Delta \Delta$  and her sister is a member of  $K A \Theta$ .

PEARL BUCK'S MESSAGE TO RANDOLPH-MACON GIRLS IN THEIR YEARBOOK, THE HELIANTHUS

DEAR RANDOLPH-MACON GIRLS:

It has been many a year since I walked your college halls and the green lawns of the campus. Across these years, across the wide seas, what have I to say to you today? I think only one thing; believe in life! Life is glorious.

I would not have missed any of it. I shall be in love with life to the very end. Bring zest to it and bring humor and purity of purpose and you will find that, pain or pleasure, life is good.— Pearl S. Buck in the Helianthus, as printed in the Angelos of  $K \Delta$ .

A Poetry Playhouse

By JUANITA DAY CARMAN, Minnesota Alpha

SOMETHING unique among artistic experiments—A Poetry Playhouse—has been the achievement of Cloyde Duval Dalzell, charter member of California  $\Gamma$ , and associate professor of speech at the University of Southern California. Associated with Miss Dalzell as founders of the Playhouse are Alta Hall and Dean Roy K. Immel, of the School of Speech at the University of Southern California.

With an A.B. in dramatics from Carnegie Institute of Technology, an M.A. from Occidental College, she has done work on the professional stage in New York, been director of dramatics at Hunter College, lecturer in creative dramatics in the Creative Arts School at the University of Wisconsin, and supervising director of the Workshop of the Pasadena Playhouse. As a background for her work at the University of Southern California, Cloyde Dalzell says that the Poetry Playhouse was the outgrowth of a long-thought-out desire. In a small intimate theater building, seating about sixty with a selected invited audience, the first poetry playhouse in America was launched last spring as "An Adventure with Youth and Poetry." It has averaged a performance a month since then and played to over four thousand persons.

Poems by such writers as Amy Lowell, Vachel Lindsey, Carl Sandburg, Lewis Carroll, Rabindranath Tagore, and Zoe Akins are among those that are included for the dance themes. The aim of the Poetry Theater is to show that the spoken poetical word is as musical and rhythmical and as conducive to grace and abandon in the dance as are the strains of music; hence

THE POETRY PLAYHOUSE

CLOYDE DUVAL DALZELL

a chorus of voices chants the poetry as it is acted and danced. The opening program states that poetry is an echo asking for a partner. Poetry therefore acts as the rôle of chief musician in the performance. "The performers," says Professor Dalzell, "are young and the girls must be beautiful and the men virile." Chinese, Japanese, and Hindus are included in the dancers. Also listed in the "Players and Sayers of the Playhouse" are two Pi Phis, Roberta von KleinSmid and Haila Stoddart Gude, both of whom have done noteworthy work. An especial performance from the Playhouse was offered as a climax to the second day's program of the annual convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech held in Los Angeles during the holidays.

To quote from an article by Verna Arvey in the American Dancer: "Doubtless, if Professor Dalzell continues to work out her project on the lines she has already begun, she will eventually formulate something that will have the artistic world agog. But only the artistic world—since such niceties do not appeal to the layman."

CHAPTER LETTERS

IT HAS BEEN the custom for some time to place a star beside the chapter letter in each issue which, in the judgment of the Chapter Letter Editor and the Editor is the best, using as the criterion, promptness, clearness, completeness, and general interest and variety of subject matter.

It is with the greatest pleasure that the Chapter Letter Editor and the Editor announce that owing to the high excellence and promptness of so many of the letters which appear in this issue, it has been impossible to star any one letter as the most outstanding. The Chapter Letter department presents in this issue a true and interesting picture of the  $\Pi B \Phi$  chapters, and the conditions on their campuses. The Editorial Staff extends grateful appreciation to the chapter corresponding secretaries for their splendid cooperation in making this department a truly representative one, valuable, and interesting.

Dr. Monroe Discusses Modern Turkey

THE First Lady of Robert College and the Constantinople Woman's College in Istanbul is a wearer of the Arrow, Mary Ellis Monroe, Indiana A, whose husband, Dr. Paul Monroe, has recently assumed the important office of president of these two institutions. Both colleges are located on the shore of the Bosphorus, one and one-half miles distant from each other. President Monroe is maintaining relations with the Turkish authorities and directing the educational policies.

The majority of the 700 students at Robert College are Turkish. In addition to the College of Arts and Sciences, the Technical School offers courses in mechanical, civil, and electrical engineering. Constantinople Woman's College has a present enrollment of 400 students and is the outstanding institution for the higher education of women in the Near East.

"The need for leadership in Turkey is greater now than ever before," Dr. Monroe said. "The changes in Turkey are so sweeping that it can readily be seen that the American educational institutions are operating in an environment very different from that in which they were founded. They must now be directed chiefly to the training of Turkish youth to take their proper place of leadership in their changed and changing culture and national life.

"Modern Turkey is passing through stages of evolution similar to that through which Western Europe passed at the beginning of the Modern period of history. The destruction of the Ottoman Empire and the founding of the Turkish Republic is the transition to modern nationalism intensified by the same forces that are intensifying nationalism the world over. The secularization movement represents changes similar to those brought by the Reformation movement in Western Europe. The cultural changes are similar in many respects to those of the sixteenth and seventeenth century Renaissance movement in western culture. In Turkey, all of these changes have taken place in the twentieth century, mostly since the close of the World War. Naturally, their roots may lie deeper.

"At the present, Turkish society is largely rural and consists for the most part of two groups: a large class of farmers and a small intellectual class. The farm group, mostly of the peasant type, presents an unusual opportunity for cooperation between American education and institutions and the Turkish authorities and Turkish society. Officials, professional men, and some merchants largely compose the intellectual class. The new opportunities and the system of universal public education will soon produce the necessary middle class, and a much larger intellectual class.

"When the Near East Colleges were founded, Turkey was organized as the Ottoman Empire with a vast extent of territory and varied population. Constantinople was an imperial city, one of the great commercial cities of the world, with a varied cosmopolitan population of great wealth. The shipping, commerce, and finance of the Near East were largely centered there.

"A situation now exists entirely different in kind from that previous to the war. Constantinople, now generally known as Istanbul, is one of the changed cities of the world, as are Peiping, Leningrad, and Vienna. No population of wealth exists, commerce has greatly dwindled and the city is no longer the center of political intrigue and influence, of commerce, of finance, of wealth, of cosmopolitanism. It is a new city, in a new country, with new problems to face.

"The fact that many of these problems are being faced and successfully grappled with, gives to the American colleges in Istanbul a new problem and a new opportunity. These problems and opportunities can be better understood by a brief statement of the various changes initiated by the Turkish authorities of the new regime and acquiesced in and supported by the Turkish people.

"The government, schools and all institutions have been secularized and the funds of the state church taken for schools. The Monastic orders, with their vast number of members and large properties, have been suppressed. The caliphate, for centuries combined with the sultanate, is abolished. Women have been given new freedom and the veil, the symbol as well as the most effective means of their seclusion, has been abolished. The traditional national garb, both for men and women, has been abandoned in favor of the ordinary European dress. The Turkish alphabet has been replaced by a Latin one, and a new calendar adopted.

"A modern school system has been built up and a large percentage of children of school age is in the schools. Through the adoption of the new alphabet the younger generation has been cut off from contact with the traditions of their people, as these have been transmitted through literature. This difficulty is intensified since the sacred literature, the Koran, was used in the Arabic alone. To meet this situation an authoritative history in four large volumes, has been written, embodying in modern form the traditions of these people, incorporating the entire Turanian culture, interpreted to include most of the early civilization of the Near East. The latter half of the work, however, has for its purpose the basing of modern Turkey's history and culture on the Graeco-Roman civilization, thus identifying Turkish culture with the European. This work is used as the basis of all teaching of history and civics in all schools and must be taught by Turkish citizens.

"Turkey has great natural resources almost wholly undeveloped. Coal, iron, copper, and other minerals are to be found in abundance but need exploitation. If this is done by foreign capital, the engineering staff is apt to be foreign, but the engineering line will need a far larger body of trained engineering subsidiaries at first. Highways and railways are greatly needed and are being widely developed.

"Such development alone calls for many trained in engineering service. Architecture, irrigation, agriculture, horticulture, viticulture, sericulture, animal husbandry, industries of various types, need development. A ready market already exists for the products of all such enterprises. Plans are being formulated, none of which can be carried out without trained youth.

"The government authorities are greatly interested in these lines of applied science. Few existing schools, other than the American, are equipped to give any such training. Robert College includes an engineering school and a department of agriculture with a large farm. Both colleges have departments of commercial education. The American approach again has an advantage in that it coincides with the needs of the country.

"The task of training Turkish leaders is one in which Americans with a philanthropic and an international interest may well take a part. It offers a contribution to the reconstruction of the entire Near East civilization. This region, from whence has come the major lines of all our Western culture, has long been stagnant, and too often subject to political exploitation by various western peoples from the time of the Crusades to the World War. There is now opportunity for friendly cooperation and for constructive efforts such as have not existed in all of this long preceding period. To this work, the Near East colleges are dedicated."

The list of Dr. Monroe's achievements is awe-inspiring. To mention only a few, since 1923 he has been Director of the International Institute of Teachers College, Columbia University, a relationship which he still retains. He made educational surveys in the Philippine Islands, in Porto Rico, and in Iraq, and was educational expert for the Chinese and Polish governments. He is a trustee of the International College of Smyrna; the American College of Sofia, Bulgaria; Lingnan University, China; Peking Union Medical College; China Medical Board; Shantung Christian University; Institute of International Education; American Jugo-Slav Society; and Kosciusko Foundation. He was decorated by the Persian Government with the Scientific Medal of highest degree and holds honorary degrees from the University of Peking, Franklin College, and Columbia University. He is a Fellow of Sociology at the University of Chicago, an Honorary Fellow of the Educational Institute of Scotland, and an Honorary Fellow of the Hungarian Academy of Science. He has published many articles and books dealing with all phases of education, both modern and ancient and has been consulted on educational problems by institutions in all parts of the world.

From the windows of old Kennedy Lodge, where Dr. and Mrs. Monroe are living, one can see way up north through the Bosphorus and directly across to the Asiatic shore. The beauty of this delightful home has been further enhanced by brasses and rugs purchased by their daughter, Jeanette, after many days spent in prowling about the bazaars.

Kaya Benepe, Artist

KAYA BENEPE (Mrs. Lucien B., née Kathryn Buzzell), Montana A, has been achieving merited recognition as a painter.

She is formerly of Helena, Montana, and now of LaJolla, California. Many of her works have been exhibited from time to time, and have created widespread interest.

Among her works of note are, D'Artagnan, a colorful picture, which art critics have said would attract attention in any gallery; a portrait of her mother, almost life size; "Desert Gold," "Desert Solitude," "Drifting Clouds," "Imperial Sunrise," and "Spanish Interlude."

Kaya Benepe has sold many of her pictures to Los Angeles people and art collectors. When J. Victor Kohler, Helena art dealer, viewed the collection, he said, "Benepe is a real artist. She is destined to make a great many pictures which will decorate the walls of some of the best homes on the south Pacific coast."

A Surprise Trip to Europe

SELDOM do we know a winner of a contest and we are happy to learn that Louise Rhees Berryman (Mrs. James T.), D.C. A, has won for herself and her husband a trip to Europe with these few simple, yet meaningful words:

"Shattered Glasses! A friend's tribute!
Symbol of broken lives that, too, had
Auf Wiedersehen! In Death!"

After seeing the motion picture One Way Passage, Louise was interested in the contest sponsored by Warner Brothers, The Washington Post, and Eastern Air Transport. This picture has an ending which is entirely a matter of individual opinion. What interpretation was to be placed on the parting of the two lovers in One Way Passage? In order to answer this question a contest was conducted. No doubt many persons who have seen the picture had formed an entirely different opinion of its ending. Regardless of other interpretations all will agree that Mrs. Berryman has expressed a beautiful sentiment in a very effective manner.

The winner would receive a trip to Europe on any French line boat, could go at any time, stay any length of time and take a companion of his or her own choice. Added to this there would be a delightful airplane trip from Washington to New York with a two day visit in the great metropolis for the clever person.

Surprise mingled with joy as the news reached her across the front page of the Sunday Morning Post one morning the latter part of November that her interpretation had been judged the best. The news came as a real surprise, for she had received no advance notice or intimation of her good fortune.

Mr. and Mrs. Berryman are sailing on April 22 on the Champlain and will make a seven weeks' tour of the continent including in their visit France, Switzerland, Germany, and the British Isles. According to their present plans they will return home on the Ile de France, June 7.

This Season at the Panhellenic

SPECIAL features of the midwinter and spring programs of entertainment at the Panhellenic Hotel, 3 Mitchell Place, New York, built and owned by twenty national sororities, are weekly dances and concerts.

The younger element in the house this winter have taken hold of the dances with enthusiasm and success, and the dances have been particularly popular. They have occurred, and will continue to occur, once a month. The younger members from the various owner-fraternities have been functioning on the committee in charge of these events. The annual ball of the Panhellenic House Association will be held at the Plaza in February.

Weekly concerts are a feature of the House, and the series this year have been particularly fine. Owing to the depression and consequent unemployment of many musicians of the highest grade, it has been possible to obtain through Dr. Walter Damrosch, conductor of the Philharmonic Society, performers of chamber music of unusual charm and proficiency. The scope of these concerts has been widened to include the East River colony settled between the Panhellenic and Sutton Place.

Thursday nights, on which the concerts occur, are also featured as special dinner nights for the neighborhood.

Dinner, followed by coffee in solarium or lounge, and by a concert of excellent quality, is fast making a genuine neighborhood center of the House.

Sunday nights continue to be given over to forums, speakers on public questions, or an informal house entertainment. A house tea is held on Sunday afternoons in the club room.

The mild winter has made a feature of the roof, where steamer chairs and rugs provide a lazy Sunday in the fresh air, with views of the East River and the immense and varied architecture of the Grand Central zone—far enough removed to be restful.

On Saturdays, the whole House buzzes with fraternity girls holding business meetings, teas, benefit bridges, and banquets. Fifteen fraternities, through their New York branches, hold all meetings and functions regularly at the Panhellenic.

Lucille Logan, Illinois H, is spending the winter in New York at the Panhellenic Hotel. Alice Phillipson, Washington University, is making her home at the Panhellenic, and is acting as junior executive on the national field staff of the Girl Scouts of America. Janice M. Prince, Florida State College, spent a month this winter at the Panhellenic.

Recent editions of several fraternity magazines have taken the forms of songbooks. The Delta of  $\Sigma N$  and the Phi Gamma Delta are the latest to publish in this fashion. Limited sales of songbooks led to this movement, editors say. Selection of songs for some songbooks was made from questionnaires to undergraduate chapters, national officers, and alumni.

Dr. McLaughlin has the honor of having the ninth Doctor's degree granted to a woman from the Department of education at the University of California in nearly thirty years.

Mrs. Frank W. Benson

MRS. FRANK W. BENSON has the distinction of having personally known every member of Oregon A, University of Oregon, Eugene. Mrs. Benson came to Oregon A in October, 1916, as house-mother and held that position until June, 1932, when she resigned. The chapter was installed October 28, 1915; Mrs. Benson began her duties almost a year later, about ten days before the first birthday of the chapter. Mrs. Benson has maintained such contact with the membership that she now knows the married name, approximate location and calling of each member including those who were active during the year before she assumed her position. She has, as well, a photograph of every initiate of Oregon A.

Mrs. Benson is the widow of the late Frank W. Benson who died in April, 1911. Mr. Benson had recently retired as Governor of Oregon which position he, as Secretary of State, held for a period of approximately two years. He was elected Secretary of State in 1906 and again in 1910.

During the first nine years of Mrs. Benson's service she acted not only as house manager but also as treasurer.

Due to the efforts of Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Fletcher Linn, Iowa A, and Mrs. Edna Datson, Oregon A, the valuable lot, upon which stands the present chapter

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

By EVELYN BISHOP

THERE really is a Santa Claus; and if you ever begin to doubt the Good Saint, just spend a Christmas at Gatlinburg and your faith will be renewed.

Christmas is not just a day or a week here; it lasts a full month. Thanksgiving is no more than over when preparations begin for the Christmas entertainment. This comes the morning school closes, and for many the sixteenth of December meant more than did the twenty-fifth. For two weeks each teacher is pretty sure it is a mistake to put so much time into practice, but by the time the eventful day arrives all are as excited as the children. This year the youngest pupils gave a short operetta; the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades gave a play and a pageant; and the seventh grade gave a play. I feared it would all be about the length of Strange Interlude and require intermission and perhaps dinner too; but when the time came, even the little folks managed to listen pretty quietly, and all was over by noon. It was a blessing we did close so early, for the children scarcely had time to get home before the snow began to pour down.

In spite of an attic full of improvised costumes of various kinds there are many new ones to make each year. Again this year the P.T.A. ladies helped with the sewing and saved the teachers many a night of hard work. The best part is that the women are willing and take much interest. We have so many pupils in school that Mr. King was sure there would be no place for the visitors; but by the time all the chairs and benches had been brought in, and even some bleachers, there were seats for nearly everyone.

Since the beginnings of the school, it has been the custom to give each child a Christmas gift. For the past three or four years we have wondered if the time had come when we should discontinue the custom. We would decide to, and then the lovely boxes would come with gifts enough for all, and we would be sure it was all right to have a toy or doll for each one. I can see some of you smiling as you read this and remember the discussions we have had, how firm we have tried to be up to the last minute, and then with what joy we have weakened and wrapped up those presents. This year it was all decided for us—we knew it was out of the question to try to give to all the pupils in school. To those clubs which wrote asking about Christmas I suggested their sending money to help get the fruit and candy. However, a number sent their boxes as usual. We talked with the women at P.T.A. and Weaving meetings, and all agreed that the best way to do would be to appoint three or four women to pack baskets for some of the families that surely would have no other Christmas and then have a sale the day after school closed. We also talked with two merchants to see if that plan would in any way hurt their business. Both agreed it was perfectly all right to carry out the plans.

As it snowed all the afternoon and night of the sixteenth, I did not think that many could get out the next day; but in the morning several women came to help arrange and tag the things. The home economics room looked like a Christmas toy shop. There were dolls of all sizes and styles of dress, toys that fascinated us all, and practical things such as baby gowns and blankets, many pairs of stockings, and one table of used clothing that could be sold very cheap. In fact, all prices were low enough to make it possible for almost anyone to buy a toy or a doll. Opening these Christmas boxes has always been the biggest excitement of the year for us, and I realized this year that it had been almost a shame to deprive the people of the fun. They just reveled in the things. I am sure, too, that it encouraged several people to have a family tree Christmas Eve.

My heart nearly failed me the day before school closed when one little girl asked me whether it were true that there would be no gifts on the Christmas tree. When I told her, "Yes," she said in a pitiful voice, "Well, I don't guess it will seem much like Christmas." No doubt I would still be worrying about that child if I had not seen the mother, the girl, and the little brother looking at every doll and every toy over and over again. The few nickels that were tied up in an old handkerchief were spent with the greatest joy in the world, even though the mother and the little girl did not agree in their tastes. The mother kept urging the child to decide in favor of a doll with hair; she said she always did like a doll with "haar," but the youngster was firm for a bald-headed baby, and that was the one she carried home with her. All afternoon people came; and as a result nearly $30 was added to the noon lunch fund, and I am sure as many children were made happy as when the gifts were distributed from the tree. We are convinced it was a most successful venture, and I believe you all would have been satisfied had you been here to see how it worked out.

Fruit, candy, and toys were saved to put into the baskets the women packed the next day; and all during the vacation we gave to children who we knew would be without Christmas at home.

Wednesday before Christmas had been set as the night to carol and then play games in the school gym, but the ice and snow as well as much flu in the neighborhood caused the caroling to be postponed. We had the games however. On Sunday night the weather was milder, and Miss Whaling suggested caroling instead of the B.Y.P.U. service.

Our own family Christmas is always just grand. We have Christmas Eve just for ourselves. Of course that includes a few in the Burg who have always had Christmas with us. It would never seem right without our precious Aunt Lizzie. We open our packages and read our cards, drink coffee, and eat our fruit cake, and wouldn't be anywhere else for anything in the world.

However, Gatlinburg was not the only place where Santa Claus called. He may have the reputation of traveling only on snow, but I can testify he makes his rounds through mud too. The roads into Laurel Lick were a sorry looking sight, but Christmas was there just the same. I could tell a tale on myself of how I started in the morning of the twenty-third and would drive until I saw some still worse looking road, then tell my passengers they would have to walk the rest of the way, have a change of heart, and drive on a little farther. We finally reached the school just in time for the program which I wouldn't have missed for anything. Pauline Whaling had been over there three days helping with costumes and practice, and there were brownies, fairies, bees, good little boys and girls and Santa Claus just as though there had been snow and reindeer. All the time I was enjoying the play and the songs I found myself wondering how all those people could get into that schoolroom with so little mud. Eva explained afterward when she told us that some of their pupils even washed their shoes at the pump before they went in. And speaking of shoes reminds me that several boys and girls are in school now who wouldn't be but for a pair of new shoes or a sweater. The Christmas checks for Laurel Lick allowed enough for some most necessary clothing, and in return the children are helping in various ways. Already a few potatoes have paid for a pencil or a tablet, and two cords of wood have bought shoes and overalls. Giving in a way that will help is no small problem but one that we all try to work at.

Again this year the friend in Chicago that our family call the Christmas Candy Man sent us a generous box of candy, and that with the checks that came provided candy and oranges for all the boys and the girls in the Gatlinburg and the Laurel Lick schools. Even though we did not use the contents of the lovely boxes in the usual way, I believe just as many people were made happy and more good was done. I only wish you all could have seen what a lovely Christmas we had.

Many thanks for all you did and lots of good wishes for 1933!

TO THE FAIR

By KATHERINE COLLINS, Colorado Alpha

"So deck yourselves out in your finest array—and heigh-ho! Come to the Fair!" And we went, the eight dormitory girls, a truckload of boys, Jessie Branham, the home economics teacher; Don Smith, the agriculture teacher, and I to the East Tennessee Fair in Knoxville. For weeks the girls had been getting ready for the momentous trip. And with the help of Mrs. McDonald, matron of the girls' dormitory, each girl had a new fall hat cocked on one side of her head. The boys literally shone—one could have seen himself reflected in either their slicked-down hair or polished shoes.

At the fairgrounds the boys and Mr. Smith left us. As our ostensible purpose in coming to the Fair had been to see what great and wonderful things the farms of Tennessee could do, we did manage to glance at the exhibits. And then we "took in the sights." Half of the girls had never been to a city before, and none of them (or I, for that matter) had ever been to a big fair.

So there was lots for us to see. We began with the ferris wheel. At first, Miss Branham and I had to coax some of the more faint-hearted to get on, but before it was over we were begging them to get off; and we were trying to find excuses for not accompanying them on some of the wilder rides that the Fair offered.

We met the boys and Mr. Smith for a picnic supper. After supper we watched trapeze-performers and tight-rope-walkers while standing on a hill that had at least a 90 per cent grade. We stood an hour of this, then we gently suggested to some of the boys and girls that it would be nice to go get good seats to watch the fireworks. They refused to budge until the last flip-flop was turned. We rushed to the edge of the lake to see the fireworks on the other side. If anyone could have seen the shining eyes that watched the last skyrocket burst into the Stars and Stripes, I'm sure he would have felt the same thrill that we experienced.

MOLLIE MOORE

By LADELLE ALLEN

The word "cooperation" and Mollie Moore are synonymous. Meetings are Mollie's particular joy; for no matter what the nature of the meeting, be it a rummage sale, weaving meeting, curb market meeting, old harp singing, or a Southern Handicrafters Guild meeting, Mollie is on the front row taking everything in. She comes early and brings her lunch but usually has to leave early to be home before dark. She lives almost at the head of Baskins Creek and trudges a rough mountain road which crosses the creek seventeen times—there are foot logs—between school and her home. The road is too rough for any wagon; and all food supplies bought at the village store are taken up on a wooden sled, still a popular and necessary means of transportation in the mountains.

In the seven years that Mollie has been weaving for the school she has woven Pi Phi towels, all-over pattern towels, monks' belt finger towels, knitting bags, and last but by no means least Washington diamond ring runners. In the past nine months Mollie has woven, with some help from her two daughters, 771 of these runners, a full share of the 6767 yards woven by the forty-six women who weave for the school. The more intricate the pattern, and the Washington diamond ring is an intricate one, the better Mollie likes it. She says she "would a 'sight on earth' rather weave a pattern than just plain weaving, it's more interesting."

During the fall rush there nobody works harder or more faithfully than Mollie. When she promises to bring in weaving, you know she will be here regardless of the weather.

The Washington diamond ring runners which Mollie weaves are 14 inches by 12 inches, fringed, all-over pattern, in almost any desired color, priced at 75 cents. May we send you one?

FARM MANAGEMENT STUDIES

By DON SMITH

To the boys now studying farming at the Settlement School, the subject of farm management as a new field of agriculture has presented quite a few new problems and has brought up more than one old problem in a new light.

Heretofore, the whole business of farming has been attacked from the student angle chiefly with the one question, "How?" How can I grow better corn, better potatoes, more corn, make hens lay more eggs, or cows give more milk? It is now becoming more and more a recognized fact that "How?" is no longer the chief consideration, but that the queries "What?" and "How much?" and "Why?" are demanding attention from every student of agriculture in high school, or even for that matter, in college. We would like to add, with perhaps the characteristic freshness of the relatively inexperienced youngster, that a serious facing of the above questions would have a strong tendency to help de-fossilize more than one Ph.D. who occupies a chair in our agricultural colleges.

Enough of that! You are, no doubt, wondering what all this discourse has to do with the things our boys do here at the school. This year we have been studying the farm, more as a business and not as a place to learn how to grow more corn or potatoes.

The following are some of the abilities which we are seeking to develop in the boys:

1. To select and economically secure a farm on which one can make a better and happier living.
2. To arrange fields, pastures, wood lands so that they will produce the better living and be economically cared for over a period of years.
3. To locate properly new buildings and fences, or arrange old ones on the farm.
4. To plan and provide more convenient, comfortable, attractive and economical buildings and fences.
5. To make the outside of buildings, home grounds and surroundings more sanitary and attractive.
6. To save and economically use food and feed products that are produced on the farm.
7. To determine the economic returns from the different enterprises on the farm.

If we fully develop any of these abilities, either in ourselves or our students, we shall be busy a long, long time but we have been, and still are, plugging along.

One of the things with which the boys have had most fun is taking a farm of limited area, sketching it on paper and showing locations of fields, pastures and wood lands and making out a plan by which one animal unit per 5 acres can be kept, and providing for feed for the amount of livestock the year around to be produced on the farm.

Early last fall the boys planned, and ordered seed to sow 5 acres of a mixture of barley, winter oats, Austrian peas, wheat, rye, and rape for winter pasture for the cows on the school farm. These pastures have caused quite a bit of favorable comment from our neighbors, as well as increased milk production from the cows. The boys are keeping records of the number of cow-hours grazing which the pastures are returning.

Then, too, we have attacked the alternative of a young man renting or buying a farm, with the assumption, of course, that he has very limited capital. The problem of land taxes, interest on investments and borrowed capital, labor income, and net profit or loss, have been rehashed and discussed. Each boy has been required to write a rental contract for a farm of 150 acres or more in legal form, covering all the possibilities of the situation, both from the standpoint of the renter and the land owner.

Yesterday we took our Bostrom level and surveyed a pipe line from a spring across the hill to carry water to Jim Reagan's new house. We found he would have to install a hydraulic ram. He thinks he will do this.

Our next job is to make a complete plan for this year's gardens on the school farm. We must raise more vegetables on the same ground this summer, if possible, for there are rumors of a curb market in Gatlinburg to take care of the summer tourists' demands. We wish ourselves luck.

A LETTER TO PI BETA PHI

Harrison McCarter, the basket maker whose picture appeared in the February, 1932, ARROW, makes the square markets, wall pockets, garden baskets and magazine baskets. When asked if he would write a short article on what the school had meant to the community, he said he would be pleased to do the best he could, though he knew he could not begin to say what he wanted to. The article was brought to the Arrow Craft in two installments, the first just a very few days after he had said he would write it. He said that the folks all went to church and he just "datved at him" and wrote a bit. About a week later he brought in the P.S., saying he had to get up in the night and give one of the children a dose of castor oil and so just stayed up and wrote a bit more. Harrison was rather apologetic when he brought it in because he did not feel he had done justice to the subject, but I am sure we will all agree that he has said a great deal.

LADELLE ALLEN

It is regrettable that ARROW readers cannot see the letter as Mr. McCarter wrote it, but a reprint follows:

Nov 30 1932

In regard to the Phi Beta Pi Settlement School:

I want to express my thought in regard to what the Phi Beta Pi School has been worth to this community and other joining communities it has been worth lots to the people I cant begin to tell what it has been worth to me it has give people a job in many ways and give people a chance to school their children clost home and give them a chance to pay their way through school and it is helpful in many other ways it has give many a person a job which had not been for this School propley they would have not got any job which many has got Well I cant express my thoughts and sympathy I have for the Phi Beta Pi School just the way I would like to it has been worth a fortune to lots of us people but there is lots of us do not Presinate what the School has done for us.

so I will close

Truly yurs

[Signed] Harrison McCarter

P.S. a few more words to the school I have worked for the school last 15 years and I find it honest and helpful in many ways it has been helpful to lots of communities in sickness and in health and has learned lots of the young people many things about carpenter work and lots of the young girls to cook and sew which maybe if it had not ben for the school they would not tuck interest in so we cant say how much we presinate what they have done for us thanking them very much.

REQUIREMENTS FOR TEACHERS IN TENNESSEE

In order that members of the fraternity wishing to teach at Gatlinburg may know the requirements for teaching certificates in Tennessee, the Settlement School Committee is publishing below information from the State Department of Education in Nashville.

Quoted from requirements for Tennessee Certificates.

Senior High School Teacher:

Standard four-year college degree; 27 quarter hours of educational credit. No applicant will be licensed to teach a subject of which he or she has less than 18 quarter hours of credit. To qualify for Home Economics the applicant must offer 12 quarter hours of foods and nutrition, 12 quarter hours of clothing and textiles and 12 quarter hours of home management, house furnishings, child care and home nursing.

Elementary and Two-Year High School Teacher:

Two-year high school teacher—(4-year certificate)—Six quarters (72 weeks) of standard college work; 90 quarter hours of credit including 18 quarter hours of education. Elementary teacher—(Permanent certificate)—Two-year curriculum for elementary teachers of an accredited college or normal school consisting of not less than 90 quarter hours of credit including 18 quarter hours of education.

Elementary teacher—(4-year certificate)—Three quarters (36 weeks) of standard college or normal school work consisting of not less than 45 quarter hours of credit including 9 quarter hours of elementary school methods and management.

In his letter of January 4, 1933, Mr. P. M. Harned, Supervisor of Certification, wrote:

The Educational courses required for permanent elementary certificates have not been prescribed. We expect those who are undertaking to meet the requirements for elementary certificates to confine their Educational courses to the elementary field, and those who are applicants for high school certificates to confine their courses to the secondary field.

We do not count as professional Education courses in Religious Education, and if Psychology credit is offered as professional Education, the applicant is limited to two semester hours of General and four semester hours of Educational Psychology.

Actives who think they would like to teach at the Settlement School at some future time are advised to study these requirements.

"I AM STILL RICH"

We have passed through a panic, suffered from a crash on the stock market, and are now more than half way through the depression, and I am still rich.

It may be true that I have much less to live on than I had a year ago, but it is certainly true that I have just as much as ever to live for. The real values of life are unshaken and solid. . . .

The depression has not lowered the value of a single friendship. Neighbors still greet us in the same old cordial way, business associates believe in us, and our sons hold us in high respect. The wife's welcome at the close of the day has not depreciated in the least, and our daughters continue to lavish their affection upon us with the same old extravagance.

My faith in the goodness of the universe is unimpaired. By that faith I am emboldened as I face defeat and despair. The prayers my mother taught me and the faith in God instilled in me by a devout father remain as priceless treasures no depression can touch.

No nation becomes great by becoming rich. Neither does a man find enduring satisfaction in life by owning something—only by becoming something. The most degrading poverty is that which results from killing the spirit that the body may be served.

This depression is a challenge, not a catastrophe. A generation that has conquered the air and sent giant planes circling the globe, which has plunged into the deeps and disported on the ocean's floor, which has climbed above the clouds and lived in the stratosphere, is now faced with the challenge to rise above its dependence on mere things and seek an emancipation of the spirit of man.

The last six months have been for many men a thrilling spiritual adventure through which they have discovered their real wealth. Bereft of dividends and profits, they are discovering the sustaining powers of a strong religious faith, the abiding values of courage, heroism, honor, charity, and trustworthiness.

A financial crisis can wipe out profits and bring business to a standstill, but character is beyond its reach. It can rob us of all we have, but it cannot affect what we are. . . .

The deepest satisfactions of life—those which come from sharing and serving—remain secure.

I am still rich because I am independently rich—none of my wealth depends upon the business conditions or market reports.—Financial Advertisers Bulletin, via Laurel of Π Κ Σ.

FROM PI PHI PENS

Edited by ANNA HOLM DE MONSEIGLE (MRS. EDMOND F.)

Your editor wishes it were possible to share with all ARROW readers the many gracious letters which come to her desk. These all reflect the charming personality of their authors and help make the work of this department a joy.

One envelope postmarked Deadwood, South Dakota, was found to contain a letter bearing an even more intriguing heading: Tinton, Black Hills, South Dakota. Yes, you've no doubt guessed that this reply came from Ethel Powelson Hueston, Iowa A, who has just made another contribution to fiction. ARROW readers are referred to the February, 1931, issue for a story and photograph of Mrs. Hueston.

The jacket of Good Times hails the book as "a cure for chronic and acute gloom," and further describes it as "a peripatetic comedy, light, sure and diverting." The leading characters are destitute young people, victims of depression, 1932 style, who decide to "hitch-hike" to the West. In passing, the wayfarers make converts who share their astonishing, often near-tragic, but always breath-taking adventures. However, it is in depicting the life of these young folks after they settle down on a ranch in the Black Hills that Mrs. Hueston excels. She has succeeded in transferring to the printed page her love for the country she calls home. We recommend the book to lovers of youth, adventure, and romance.

The latest of the children's books by Lois Donaldson, Florida A, is Greta in Weatherland. This is styled a Swedish picture book and again the pictures are by Maj Lindeman—one of the favorite children's artists in Sweden.

The story relates the happy experience of a little girl who was whisked away from a rainy night down on earth to the joyous realm of Weatherland, where she meets the makers of sunshine and happy smiles. From the cave where the little old men forge the sunbeams, she follows the golden path along the West until she meets the golden Princess and the little girls dressed all in yellow. The book contains enough light and happiness to dispel all gloom and brighten even the darkest day.

Once more we note the grace with which Miss Donaldson handles her words and the skill with which she creates the atmosphere of fancy and imagination—all with that light and delicate touch which children love.

Since May, 1930, when THE ARROW contained an article about Lorine Pruette (Mrs. Douglas Fryer), Tennessee A, she has not been idle. The Readers' Guide lists the following articles from her busy pen: Country Schools New Style, (The Survey, June 1, 1930); Part Time Job, (Woman's Journal, June, 1930); Why Women Fail, (Outlook, August 12, 1931); Tanya Craves a Ford, (Outlook, March, 1931); Mother's Job (Parents' Magazine, November, 1932).

In Books of the New York Herald Tribune for December 11, 1932, Lillian M. Gilbreth reviews Dr. Pruette's latest book, The Parent and The Happy Child. She says in part: "This book is for any one interested in parent-child relationships, and the home as a project in family happiness. It is a book to be read slowly, carefully, and not at one sitting.

"The first part seems the most worth while, and the most original. We have here a combination of far-seeing thinking and practical good sense, a real contribution to home making as well as child study. There is fine emphasis on the importance of the father and his responsibilities, and of urging the mother to step gracefully aside at times, not only to allow the children to know their father better, but to let them develop individuality and take over the right responsibilities for the home.

"This is a quotable book. There are well phrased sentences like this: 'The children are engaged upon this tremendous adventure of growing up in a strange and often perplexing world; the father must help them as a man, as a friend, as a parent, rather than as a Heavenly Father or a Great Indulger.' Also: 'The psychological health of the home is based on three aspects: the emergence of the child as an individual, of the mother as a person, and the father as a parent.'

"Dr. Pruette's experience in business and industry as well as in the home, the college and in research, has doubtlessly contributed to her understanding of life, its changing demands, and the importance of facing them squarely as well as meeting them adequately. Her book cannot fail to stimulate, and as such, it merits attention."

Denverite Is Biography Translator runs the caption of an article in the Denver Post of October 30, 1932, referring to the most recent work of Josephine Trott (Colin Shepherd), Colorado B, of which announcement was made in THE ARROW for November, 1932.

A recently issued novel-biography by Mme. Delarue-Mardrus, sees the hero as the product of eleventh century Normandy, a Normandy of castles and stench, armor and bestial cruelty, cathedrals and superstitions, pageants and conquests. This Normandy which Mme. Delarue-Mardrus sees with such authentic familiarity was to produce a final flower, Guillaume, illegitimate son of Mme. Arlette and the Viscount D'Exmes.

In the Times' Book Review of October 16, 1932, P. W. Wilson says: "If William had been proud alone, he would have perpetrated fewer atrocities. His trouble was that his pride was wounded. What brutalized all that he achieved was his illegitimacy complex. In his turbulent life there was no day without a sense of shame over the bar sinister on his escutcheon. Grim and grand were the climaxes of William's career, and in these pages they lose nothing in the telling."

According to Miss Caroline Bancroft, in the Denver Post, "An appreciation of color and emotional values is what most characterizes this new book. These Miss Trott has preserved with unflinching aptitude in her translation."

Well deserved mention is accorded in the Journal of the American Association of University Women for October, 1932, to a member of  $\Pi B \Phi$ : "The publication this fall of Oliver's Secretary: John Milton in an Era of Revolt, by Dora Neill Raymond is of special interest to the A.A.U.W. since it marks the completion of a study begun when Mrs. Raymond held the Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial Fellowship, 1922-23."

Of this newest work by Dora Neill Raymond, Texas A., the New York Herald Tribune Book Review for January 1, 1933, says: "Mrs. Raymond's account of Milton's education and authorship is simply an introduction to her account of the pamphleteer on divorce and kingship, and her treatment of the major poems is largely in terms of their subject matter, at least in so far as this illuminates the inner biography of the man. She has followed a difficult course with impressive ease and skill; she has brought order out of these chaotic years of Milton's career, chronicling them with a sympathetic hand."

We agree with Percy Hutchinson who writes in the New York Times Book Review of December 18, 1932: "Although Mrs. Raymond's biographical study is not written dramatically, it is the author's perception of the drama in the middle period of Milton's career which shapes and informs the entire work."

"So firmly fixed for one is the mental picture of Milton as the blind irascible poet of England's great epic that it is difficult to eradicate that austere portrait and to think of him as a young man, who, if he had died leaving behind him only Lycidas and the lighter poems L'Allegro and Il Penseroso and his sonnets, would be thought of today as with Keats, not as a companion of Dante and Vergil. Yet one has only to glance at the portrait of the young Milton by William Dobson to realize the desirability of a new approach.

"An unusual and engaging countenance combining in a most curious manner austerity and a suggestion even of sensuality, albeit a most fastidious sensuality, the Dobson portrait makes it simultaneously clear why at Cambridge, John Milton was nicknamed 'The Lady of Christ's,' and why subsequently he was to become champion-scholarly champion of the Puritan Rebellion. It is the Milton who sat to the friend of Van Dyke, the Milton who was limned by the sergeant painter to Charles, who is the preoccupation of Mrs. Raymond.

"Because his poetry sprang largely from militant ideas, and because he was the defender of the Regicides, Milton has been called the "fighting poet." Hazily, but clearly enough, the amorous monarch perceived the truth behind the writings of Cromwell's erstwhile Latin secretary."

John Milton never compromised. His last will and testament concluded: "Cultivate truth with brotherly love; neither adopt my sentiments nor reject them unless every doubt has been removed from your belief."

The critic concludes by calling the book a scholarly and understanding biography.

This is a really monumental work—from the point of view of fact-finding alone it represents a colossal task—so accurate and well authenticated are all the data. The stirring drama of events as the story unfolds, are equalled only by the masterly style of expression; while the hand of the artist is present, not only in the careful portraiture, but in the richly woven tapestry which serves as the background—in all, this piece of writing is a notable achievement.

ETHEL YOHE LARSON

District of Columbia Alpha

Ethel Yohe Larson (Mrs. John E.), born July 13, 1898, died on November 9, 1932. Ethel was born in Washington. She was initiated into Columbia A on February 17, 1917.

After receiving her A.B. degree from George Washington University in May, 1920, she, during fourteen years of valuable service to the United States government, through the Department of Labor, translated the industrial legislation of Mexico and the Latin-American republics from Spanish into English. She has to her credit several volumes of this work, some of which are still to be published subsequent to her sudden death. The translation of the workman's compensation laws and decisions of the Latin-American countries is accepted as a standard authority. Her work brought her into personal contact and acquaintance with many foreign diplomats, and she has received complimentary letters from the offices of almost every Latin-American embassy and legation, for the accuracy and excellence of her work. South American papers received her work favorably in every instance.

On May 17, 1924, she married John E. Larson, prominent Washington attorney, and a member of Θ Δ X. While making her valuable contribution to the work of the government, Ethel found time to create an attractive home, and take an active part in the work of the Washington Alumnae Club. She served as vice-president of the Club during the year 1931-32.

Ethel, on the day of her death, gave birth to her first child, an infant daughter, named Ethel Yohe, who, through the unceasing care and devotion of its father, has survived in spite of the handicap of premature birth, and an at-

It occurred to the Exchange Editor that a definite theme might be a "change" for the Exchange. She chose a subject which all try to evade but none can—depression—and attempted to make available certain slants on depression as related to the fraternity system. Needless to say there was no dearth of material.

EDUCATIONAL ENROLLMENTS DECREASE

Preliminary reports of colleges and universities show decreases in student enrollment this year over the year 1931-32. The larger part of the decrease falls in the large universities. Many of the so-called small colleges report only very slight decreases or in many instances indicate increases in student enrollment for the current year.

The same was true of the past year. When our large state colleges and universities showed sharp decreases the small privately endowed college held its enrollment. Thus it would appear that the small college has the greater stability, and this is especially interesting to fraternity men. In times of prosperity the great increases are naturally larger in the state universities and colleges. Fraternity population should be based on depression conditions to have the required stability. . . —The Quarterly of Φ Π Φ.

SHOULD UNIVERSITY SALARIES BE CUT?

"Dartmouth keeps faith with her faculty," said President Ernest M. Hopkins in a message to Dartmouth alumni recently.

"Many of these have accepted call to Dartmouth's service, remained loyal to her ideals and devoted to her interests, when in days of economic buoyancy major financial rewards have been available to them elsewhere. Capable men, hesitating between accepting careers in college teaching and the seemingly more brilliant prospects of industrial, commercial, or financial life, have made justified assumption that as against immediate financial advantage and the possibilities of immediate large material rewards, membership in a college instruction corps assured security of tenure and financial subsistence, regardless of fluctuations of the prosperity index in the outside world of material affairs. To renege at this point, before dire necessity compels it, would be a violation of all implications that attach to the mutual relationships of the college and its competent and loyal instruction staff."

A special study of university salaries in twenty-seven institutions reveals that not until 1928 had university salaries caught up with the cost of living and that at no time during the period 1913-28 was the amount of money received by university teachers the equivalent in purchasing power of the amount received in 1913.—O.S.U. Monthly.

CAMPUS LIFE IS HARD HIT BY DEPRESSION, A SURVEY REVEALS

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—The backwash of the depression which has swept from the college campus much of the gay background against which the undergraduate was wont to pose his education, has also adversely affected college enrollments, a survey of twenty-four colleges and universities of the country indicates.

In answer to queries from a New York newspaper officials of institutions from Boston to Berkeley estimated that the chief effect of the depression had been to modulate the carefree joy of campus life and to turn the attention of students to books and blackboards. The student of 1932, many of the replies indicated, has sold the flashy roadster and is buying second-hand books, and more than ever before he is asking for scholarship aid, low priced dormitory rooms, and a chance to work his way.

Some of the institutions reported that registration was not complete and others forwarded estimated, rather than exact enrollments. A compilation of replies from nineteen institutions which furnished complete or estimated enrollment statistics shows that the total enrollment this year is about 96 per cent of last year's figure. Six of the nineteen reported gains; in the far west the University of California at Berkeley showed by far the largest gain with an addition of 608 students.

An interpretation of the statistics and replies indicates a trend away from technical education toward cultural subjects.—Chicago Tribune.

SCHOOL EXPENSES ARE LOWER AT K.U.

Cost of an education at the University of Kansas is far below that at many comparable institutions, according to a careful study by F. P. O'Brien, of the university's school service bureau.

In submitting his averages to Chancellor Lindley, Professor O'Brien said he had obtained figures from 405 students, representing fraternity and non-fraternity groups—self-supporting students and those on allowance from home. This, Professor O'Brien said, represented a real cross-section of the student body of the university, including the costs of the extremely frugal, self-supporting student, as well as those with practically unlimited spending accounts.

The average cost of the university student for room, board, clothing, fees, books, and incidentals seemed to range from $394 a year for self-supporting women to $610 a year for the men reporting. A western insurance publication lists costs at some colleges thus: Northwestern $1200 to $1450; Wisconsin $1400 to $1500; Michigan $1500 to $2000; Yale $2000 to $4000.

Professor O'Brien had reports from students who said they spent less than \$10 a month, or \$170 a year, including fees. At the other extreme he found students whose expenses exceeded \$1000 a year. The minimum is too low to be at all representative, he said, and the maximum is not at all necessary. Professor O'Brien's investigators found also that room rents are likely to range about \$10 a month next year, compared with \$11 and \$12 rates now. . . .—Triangle of  $\Sigma$  K.

THAT NON-PAYING SISTER

Few and far between are the people now who will not grant that it is no small matter to obtain the money to pay all the necessary bills; this situation has reached into all walks of life. There are times in which the wisest of judgments has failed and the ablest of managements has fallen short of its accustomed mark.

Sorority chapters are no exceptions, and we find groups everywhere faced with the necessity of trying to make ends meet. The question continually arises as to just how much risk a chapter may dare to take in pledging a girl whose finances are doubtful, but who thinks she might be able to meet her chapter obligations at some later date if pledged at the present time. The question the chapter must decide is whether the girl will meet those obligations, or whether she will be one of those (all too frequent among us) who will drift on and on with the crest of the chapter's accomplishments, only to drift out eventually, still in debt, at least for the same amount if not more, that she was in the first place.

How often it happens that she leaves without signing a note for the amount! How often it happens that there is no response from the chapter's letters asking for a settlement! How often it happens that eventually the letters are returned to the chapter house marked "Moved; left no address" or "Unknown here!"

Experience appears to teach that if a chapter cannot secure a girl whose finances are sound, she is better left unpledged. Lackadaisical financial habits are too easy to attach to one's self, and a chapter house is often an easy mark.—Urn of B Σ O.

WARNING THE WORKING STUDENT

The colleges are warned against encouraging students too much in the attempt to earn the whole or a part of their college expenses, by Albert B. Crawford, director of the Department of Personnel Research at Yale. At the Institute for Administrative Officers held at Chicago University last July,

Mr. Crawford said: "One of the problems too long neglected by many colleges is debunking the impressions regarding how little college costs and how easy it is to earn that little." He estimates that probably one-third of the women students and over half of the men are partially self-supporting, and that their combined earnings may be estimated at over fifty millions of dollars. "Colleges must face the necessity of limiting the proportion of their working students within the proportion which each can adequately assimilate," said Mr. Crawford, and expressed his doubt as to whether the sheepskin finally attained was worth, to every student, the mental and physical strain, the disappointments, and exclusion from college life, which were too often the price paid for it.—Lyre of A X Ω.

AND ON THE OTHER HAND

An employment system has been instituted by the Σ K Sorority, under which each alumnæ chapter president appoints a "positions committee" chairman to receive from unemployed members data on types of jobs they seek and from other members first news on "help wanted." The chairmen are not supposed to urge the employment of any certain members, but simply to see that members get early notice of vacancies so that they may seek the positions while the vacancies still exist.

This form of aid by a Greek letter organization to its members is nothing new, of course, but only in times like these does it take such formal shape. In such times as these Kappa Sigmas should be more than ever considerate of their brothers, taking pains to give at least equal opportunity to Kappa Sigmas to earn places in their business organizations when vacancies do occur.

Members of all fraternities today have an unequalled opportunity to prove their loyalty and the seriousness of their pledge.—Caduceus of K Σ.

THIS IS HOW SOME ARE MEETING THE DEPRESSION

Theta Chi Fraternity met the depression year by:

Adding two strong units, increasing its chapter roll to fifty.

Occupying three new chapter houses. Increasing National Endowment Fund to more than $90,000.

Installing audit system of chapter financial supervision.

Establishing Theta Chi Placement Bureau.

Creating the position of fraternity director of scholarship.

Revising "Songs of Theta Chi."

Holding the first sectional conference of chapter advisers.—Rattle of © X.

TO THE ALUMNÆ

A new year is now well under way, offering us another lap on our race for success. The past year's records are finished and can never be changed. Our problem now is to make this new year's record one with no "regret" in it. For each of us there is the opportunity to do really worth-while things for ourselves, our alma mater, and, best of all, for our chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron.

Now, as never before, our chapter needs the wholehearted, loyal, intelligent support of each one of us. Service should be each Beta's watchword for the year so that all chapters may grow strong and healthy in their fight against "General Depression."

This enemy General has such loyal, sly henchmen that they might creep in anywhere without being detected until it is too late. There is Lieutenant Commander It's-Too-Far-To-Go—does he work overtime? What about Lieutenant I'm-Broke? He furnishes the best unanswerable alibi I know. Then watch out for Captain I-Know-No-One-Now. He's extremely clever at devising ways to keep you at home. Sometimes plain Private I-Can't-Leave-Jack-Alone is the most insidious worker of them all.

Down deep in our hearts we all love old Beta Sig and want to see her "come out on top." So let us all make an extra effort this year to give our loyal, wholehearted support to her in every way we can and then just watch "General Depression" slink off to fairer fields of pillage.—Urn of B Σ O.

LOYALTY

There were recently said at the graveside of a man who for nearly forty years had worked and talked and shouted for his college some words of wisdom—and of warning—that are worthy of being passed on to all who love this land of ours. After referring to the dead man's loyalty to his alma mater, Dr. Rollin H. Walker continued: "It is a beautiful thing to maintain our loyalties. It is easy to let them slip. For loyalty always means sacrifice, and is chiefly manifested when we are out from under the influence of the hurrah of the celebration in the atmosphere of the dullest of dull prose. The best of us need an exhortation to keep alive our loyalty to those institutions and enterprises and societies that in times past have helped us on our way."

There has been no time within the memory of the present generation when a call to loyalty was more needed than it is now. We can only sense the need for the call and ask you to heed it when it comes: another Lincoln or Roosevelt or Wilson—at least, another master of the art of touching the hearts and intellects of men—must be the one to phrase it, in such a way that it will change torpidity into action. . . .—WILLIAM FREDERICK BIGELOW, Editor—The Good Housekeeping Magazine, via The Lamp of Δ Z.

ALPHA PROVINCE

BOSTON CLUB

The fall meeting of the Boston Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Rider in Jamaica Plain, with the members of one of the club groups acting as hostesses, and the same group sponsoring a small food sale. There were about thirty present.

Mrs. William E. Austill gave an informal, but most interesting, talk on "Echoes from Geneva," where she and her family spent the past summer.

The second gathering, early in January, was the Settlement School meeting, with the members of another club group acting as hostesses.

ABIGAIL P. MACKINNON

Coming Events

February—Massachusetts A initiation. Alumnae reunion. March 4—Pleasure and profit. Speaker, Mrs. T. Jefferson Glover, "The Task of Growing Up." Mrs. Harris LeRoy, hostess. Hostesses, North Suburban group. Mrs. Walter I. Chapman, chairman. April 29—Founders' Day luncheon.

BUFFALO CLUB

At the November meeting of the Buffalo Alumnae Club a display of Arrow Craft products met with much approval. Most of the articles were sold and orders were taken for more of the hooked table mats and small towels which were especially popular. We feel that a similar sale on a larger scale, where people other than Pi Phi might have an opportunity to buy, would be very much worth while.

The annual Christmas party was held on the evening of the seventeenth at the home of Mrs. Theodore Wright. It was a huge success with almost 100 per cent attendance of members and husbands. The January and February meetings will be devoted to the study of the Constitution and discussion of the nearest active chapters.

ADELAIDE M. ROBERTSON

BURLINGTON (VT.) CLUB

The October meeting of the club followed a covered-dish supper to which the seniors were guests. The club hopes during this year to entertain the members of each of the other three classes in this way.

In November we sponsored a combined Christmas sale and tea held in the chapter house at which Settlement School products, home cooking and winter bouquets were sold. We hope to make this function an annual affair, social as well as fund-raising.

The Christmas party this year was especially enjoyable in that the alumnae and active members were all guests of the Mothers' Club at a chicken supper, prepared and served in the chapter house. In the evening a gift tree was enjoyed from which the joke gifts, mostly toys, were later sent to a local orphanage.

The great sorrow which has just come to our cherished founder, Grace Goodhue Coolidge, saddens each member of our club as indeed it must every member of Pi Phi. LOIS B. HORSFORD

CONNECTICUT CLUB

For some time the Connecticut Alumnae Club has felt its problem in the geographical space from which its number was drawn, involving time and expense in travel. To solve this problem, in view of the spirit of the times of seeking economies, it seemed that in smaller and more closely connected groups the fraternity's interests could be best carried on.

At the December meeting of the club, at the home of Mrs. Glover Campbell, at Windsor, formal action was, accordingly taken to dissolve the Connecticut Alumnae Club into two separate clubs, the Hartford and the New Haven groups, each with its own organization. On the evening preceding, at a meeting of the New Haven section of the club an unwritten sentiment in favor of the division was formed as an expression of many who could not attend the general meeting. At both the meeting at Windsor, and at New Haven, Miss Richardson, our province vice-president, was present, who gave us counsel in making the division.

In order that the two clubs might still keep in contact with one another, they will join each year at the meeting in observance of Founders' Day. MARY E. MEYER

NEW YORK CLUB

The December meeting of the New York Club was a combined Settlement School meeting and Christmas party. Members of the club presented a folk play, "Up the Little Pigeon." Settlement school articles were exhibited and sold. Santa Claus distributed gifts to members and their friends. The singing of Christmas carols was enjoyed by everyone.

The January meeting was an informal dance for members and friends at the Panhellenic Hotel.

In February the club expects to hear Mr. Jonel Jorgulesco, scenic designer, speak on "How the Modern Scenic Designer Works." EVELYN I. IHRIG

ROCHESTER CLUB

The Rochester Alumnae Club, despite the depression, has gotten off to a grand start toward raising money for the settlement school. A bridge-tea and a supper-bridge party have been given with marked success, and plans are under way for a large supper-bridge benefit to be held in February in place of the scheduled night party for husbands and guests.

Settlement School articles have been displayed at the meetings and benefit parties, and the committee is well pleased with the number of sales made.

The club is looking forward with much enthusiasm to Miss Richardson's visit the week of February 19.

The Panhellenic club held its annual bridge luncheon November 5, and  $\Pi B \Phi$  was well represented. Plans for a formal Panhellenic dance to take place in February, were made.

ZOU CHASE WRESTLING

TORONTO, CANADA, CLUB

The members of the Toronto Alumnae Club feel that so far the "membership year" has been a very successful one, the attendance at the first three meetings being most gratifying.

The first meeting took the form of a formal bridge-party, where the Toronto club was pleased to welcome two of the Edmonton Alumnae and one from Winnipeg.

Following the constitutional meeting, M. Cira gave a most enjoyable talk on interior decorating. He did not attempt to lay down definite rules, nor did he talk of any of the usual things suggested by this subject; rather did he try to present to us the philosophy of beauty in its every aspect and form.

The birthday-party, celebrated with the active chapter, was held at the "Barnio," a pseudo-barn. Ping-pong, indoor rugby and numerous other games made the evening pass quickly though noisily and it was voted by one and all to be a tremendous success.

DOROTHY F. HARDING

WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS CLUB

The first meeting of the year was held December 15 at the home of Maude Corbett in Springfield. This was a Christmas party to which each brought gifts which were placed on the Christmas tree and at the end of the party were given to the secretary to distribute among children who would otherwise have had no Christmas.

Folders in the fraternity colors were given to each member this year. These contained the names of the officers, the program for the year and the names and addresses of the members.

Plans for the year were discussed at the December meeting and letters read from the province vice-president. The next meeting will be held February 19 with Jennie Dale and will be in the form of a cooky-shine.

MRS. EDGAR D. BROWN

Coming Events

February 19—Hostess, Mrs. R. P. Dale. Cooky-shine. April 22—Founders' Day Luncheon at Y.W.C.A. June 10—Hostess, Hettie Craighhead. Picnic at "Raggedy Crags," West Brookfield, with the Connecticut Alumnae Club as guests.

BETA PROVINCE

AKRON CLUB

Members of the Akron Club were pleased by the large attendance at their first meeting which was held at the home of the president, Mrs. U. M. McCaughey.

Series of bridge parties held at the homes of individual members during the months of November and December have been so successful that the club has decided to continue this practice throughout the months of January and February. The benefits are to go to the Settlement School.

Plans are now under way for an evening benefit to which the husbands and friends will be invited, and also for a fitting celebration of Founders' Day.

ESTELLE M. HAWKINS

CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA CLUB

The Central Pennsylvania Alumnae Club has been working for the Welfare Relief Fund, either by donation through the churches (each church was asked by the Committee to raise a certain amount), by personal gifts of clothing and shoes, work, etc., and also through the Civic Club or other organizations.

Some of our younger members who are members of the Junior League of the Civic Club lately gave a card party which was very successful to earn money for books for the Public Library.

Several of the members attended as guests the Christmas dance of Pennsylvania B in the Tustin Gymnasium at Bucknell.

Under the leadership of Nancy Griffith, chairman, the club is planning to give a card party during January or February for the benefit of the Settlement School.

Ethel Hottenstein Cobbett, of Milton, who lost her husband two years ago, and her only child (a nine-year-old boy) this winter, is closing her home and will spend some months with her sister in Philadelphia.

HELEN R. HOFFA

CLEVELAND CLUB

Cleveland Alumnae Club boasts ninety-three paid members to date.

Due to the popularity of the one evening supper meeting last year, it was decided to include two such meetings in the calendar this year, the first of which was enjoyed by 75 members December 5 at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Don. A play, written and presented by Pi Phi sons and daughters was the main feature of the program.

The old standby ways and means of making money are encouraging in view of present conditions. The rummage sale held in October netted almost $300. About $200 worth of Settlement School goods was sold at the display and sale held in November. The annual bridge tournament is in progress, with ten groups in various parts of the city playing. The sale of Christmas cards, aprons, extracts, and the like, all help to swell the annual contribution to the Settlement School.

Cleveland Panhellenic Association has established permanent headquarters at Higbee's with a secretary in charge. Here a complete record of all the members of each woman's fraternity is kept on file for the convenience of strangers in town.

Plans are already under way for the observance of Founders' Day, which in Cleveland is always held the first Saturday in May. We hope to have as many neighbor Pi Phis join in this happy occasion as last year.

MRS. RAY T. KELSEY

COLUMBUS CLUB

The Columbus Alumnae Club has had very interesting meetings this year. At the October meeting, Esther Boyer gave a talk on a trip she had taken into Japan, telling particularly of her experience in a Japanese hotel. Miss Boyer, one of our own members, has been hostess for many foreign tours. Mrs. M. Y. France was our hostess for this meeting.

Our second spread of the year was held at the home of Bessie Heskett. The thirty-seven new pledges of Ohio B were our guests. After the spread, Mrs. Marguerite Bartlett, Indiana I, read some Chinese poems which had been translated into English. Mrs. Bartlett, who is working on her doctorate at Ohio State University, has lived several years in China where her parents were missionaries.

We were quite happy to have with us at our December meeting, Mrs. Stowell C. Stebbins, our Beta Province President. This also was Settlement School night. Mrs. Ernest Carmen told of her trip to the school this summer, a trip which we all hope to take some day. Our Settlement School

Chairman, Violet Bogen, had some articles from the Arrow Craft shop on sale and took orders for others. This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lester Edwards. MAY SCOTT HOOVER

Coming Events

March 6—Dinner and musical program at home of Alice Denton; April 3—Dinner and election of officers at home of Mrs. Huston Fulton; April 28—Founders' Day observance; June 5—Dinner at home of Mary Cook. Program, "The Drama" with Mrs. James Hengst and Mrs. Fonsa Lambert acting as chairmen.

DAYTON CLUB

Sixteen Pi Phis enjoyed a Christmas party December 12 at the home of Edith Daughters, president. Ten-cent gifts were exchanged, and a turkey dinner was served.

The next meeting is to be a baked bean supper at Mrs. J. E. Cowden's home on January 16. The February meeting, as usual, will be a bridge party to which the husbands and sweethearts of our members are invited. The men say they really look forward to it.

The sale of Christmas cards this year, while not great, was almost as good as last year. The club also has been selling a consignment of goods from the Settlement School. In these two ways the members hope to earn their contribution to the Settlement School.

This fall the club conducted a membership drive; calling on every member in this vicinity who is not already a member of the club. This resulted in several very pleasant contacts, and brought a few members into the fold who were a little shy about making advances.

Mrs. Henry Gerth had the misfortune to fall and break her ankle in several places, two weeks before Christmas. As she has always been one of the club's most active members, this will be a great loss, for she will be obliged to wear a cast for at least three months.

JEAN MAVOR ROEHM

HARRISBURG-LANCASTER CLUB

On October 1 the Harrisburg-Lancaster Alumnae Club opened its activities for the year with a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Norman B. Shepler. Committees were appointed for the year and plans were made for raising money for the Settlement School and the Loan Fund. It was decided to give up the usual card party and to make each member responsible for raising five dollars through her own efforts. In addition to this contribution Christmas Cards were sold again this year.

At the second meeting, late in October, the club was entertained at a luncheon. Mrs. Robert Woodside, Jr. was hostess at the Millersburger Hotel, Millersburg, Pennsylvania.

In November the regular business meeting was held at the home of Adelaide Markley. Part of this meeting was given to a study of the changes in the Constitution of II B Φ. Plans were discussed for an Interfraternity Tea to be held later in the year and to be sponsored by the club.

The December meeting, being a social one, began with a progressive dinner. At the conclusion of the dinner a Christmas Party was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Rhoades. Inexpensive gifts were exchanged. K. ADELAIDE MARKEY

MORGANTOWN CLUB

In addition to attending the scheduled monthly meetings of the Morgantown Alumnae Club most of its members went to the tea which the girls of West Virginia A gave for Mrs. Stebbins, Beta Province President, during her visit to Morgantown in November. The members of the advisory board entertained Mrs. Stebbins at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Richard Earl Davis, and Mrs. P. I. Reed had a table of bridge for her at her home, Graegstan.

On Sunday evening, December 11, the actives and the alumnae had a cooky-shine at the chapter house at which time the alumnae gave an electric clock to the active chapter. REBECCA WADE

NORTHERN NEW JERSEY CLUB

The Northern New Jersey Alumnae Club is enjoying its usual monthly meetings which have been held in various towns in northern New Jersey. This month the club will have a luncheon meeting at Kresge's Department Store in Newark, after which a program will be put on by the store, "The Home as a Mirror." Last month the club had the privilege of hearing Madame Alice Mengle, a pianist and accompanist of prominence, and at the same time Miss Patricia Parmley (of the Noyes group) gave us a program explaining through the medium of the dance the meaning of the "Noyes System." HESTER DODSON

SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY CLUB

The South Jersey Club held its Christmas luncheon and meeting December 7 at the home of the president, Mrs. E. Kent Bodine. Three members of the Philadelphia Club were guests. Mrs. Guernsey Scholl gave a reading, a Christmas story by Margaret Sangster, Mrs. A. L. Sherd sang carols after we had heard their history presented by Mrs. Charles Coolidge. After the meeting Mrs. Edmund Shatton conducted a sale of articles from the Settlement School.

In January the club made a tour of the Graphic Sketch Club under the leadership of Mrs. R. V. Puff, and three of our members were guests at the Philadelphia Club meeting.

A Settlement School benefit is to be held in February in the form of a card party at the home of Mrs. Edmund Shatton.

SOUTH HILLS CLUB

Santa Claus took the form of stork in the homes of three of our members this Christmas. In a group as small as the South Hills Club this was very outstanding generosity.

The usual Christmas party with husbands as guests, which was scheduled to be a dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Luft, was postponed because of the unusual prevalence of illness.

The magazine subscription committee, under Mrs. Oscar Luft, has been very active. Club members are selling Tonco dusting paper for the Settlement School fund, and are planning a benefit bridge at the home of Mrs. I. W. Simmonds in February. ELSIE C. HORTON

TOLEDO CLUB

The membership of the Toledo Alumnae Club is increasing. It is glad to report an attendance of 25 at the Christmas party and a membership of 38. A box of canned goods was donated by its members at the Christmas party to be given to a needy family. The club has definitely given up the idea of evening bridge parties this year and each member is trying to raise money individually for the Settlement School. The members are anticipating a Lincoln luncheon to be given in February. MARY W. CHASE

GAMMA PROVINCE

BALTIMORE CLUB

The club program has proceeded normally. Since the last letter two regular meetings have been held. One was a display and sale of Arrow Craft products at Mrs. Tottle's home and was very well attended. Business was not enormous but results were fairly satisfactory. The hand-woven articles are to our mind, desirable, well made, and practical in their uses. One feels a pride in passing them on to non-Pi Phis as gifts, with the little Arrow Craft tags attached to arouse questions of interest.

As a means of raising money for the Settlement School, we have undertaken a series of "vanishing luncheons." They seem to have vanished during the Christmas holidays to a fatal degree, but a revival is expected shortly.

A number of new members have come to Baltimore recently and are welcomed cordially to the club. Among them is a graduate of the class of 1932 of Goucher. This is really worthy of a cheer, as recent alumnae of Goucher are all too few in our membership.

MRS. C. JACKSON WATERS

NORTH CAROLINA CLUB

The North Carolina Alumnae Club held its first meeting of the year during a luncheon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. E. Caldwell. A special effort was made to get all members to attend. Several Pi Phis who live in Durham come to our meetings but will probably organize a local club soon.

In October the club gave a dinner for the active chapter and rushees at the home of Margaret Bullitt, with Mrs. Harry F. Comer in charge.

The November meeting was a cooky-shine at the house for the actives, pledges, and their guest, Miss Mary J. Hornaday, Gamma Province President.

The club had a table at the Presbyterian Church bazaar for the purpose of selling handwork from the Settlement School and also took orders for a handmade Manila dress. The club will cooperate with the active chapter in their effort to make money for the Settlement School.

RICHMOND CLUB

The Richmond Alumnae Club held its Christmas meeting at the home of Dr. May L. Keller and Miss Pauline Turnbull. This was a supper party followed by a business meeting. As usual, ways and means of raising money for the Settlement School was the chief topic of discussion. Mrs. Eugene Sydnor, magazine chairman, reminded us to get subscriptions through her. ## ANN ARBOR CLUB

The annual Settlement School sale was held November 23, 24, and 25 at the home of Mrs. Alfred H. White and Mrs. G. Carl Huber. Over $200 has been received to date. In addition to this, $55 was made for the Settlement School at the rummage sale which was held November 8.

The pledges were entertained by the alumnae at a supper at the home of Mrs. Ray Fisher. The Settlement School tea and a business meeting was

The January meeting was held in the home of Miss Adelaide Rotherts. Mrs. Harris gave an informal talk on the Settlement School.

MARJORIE R. TAYLOR

WASHINGTON, D.C., CLUB

A luncheon at the Columbia Country Club, followed by bridge, was given November 12 by the Washington Alumnae Club, in honor of the new pledges of Columbia A Chapter. Two recently chosen national officers, Mary Katherine Lutz, ARROW Editor, and Mary Hornaday, President of Gamma Province, were also guests of honor.

Mrs. Sippel, Province Vice-president, visited the club in November, and talked to us at our Settlement School meeting at the home of Marion McCoy. Mrs. Gardner Helmick, who knew the school in its infancy, told of her early experiences there. Settlement School articles were on sale all evening. Quite a good start was made toward our goal for the School fund for this year. Pledge cards were distributed that evening, and pledges amounting to about $300 have been received so far.

Mrs. E. B. McKinley was hostess to the club in December at her apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, when in spite of inclement weather 56 members were present. Contract and auction bridge were enjoyed following a short business meeting. Many of those present bought Settlement School articles that evening, for Christmas gifts and for their own use. There was also a shower of dimes and small gifts from the alumnae to the active chapter girls for their rooms.

Three group bridge parties were given during December, and more will be given in January. These parties, for the purpose of getting old Pi Phi friends together and new ones better acquainted, are arranged so that Pi Phis from one of two provinces meet with several District of Columbia Pi Phis. Mary Hudson was hostess to the members from Gamma Province; Margaret Somerville to Beta Province, and Janet Esch to those from Lambda and Eta Provinces.

On January 10 we met informally for dinner at the Y.W.C.A., with the patronesses of Columbia A and the chapter president as our guests. Miss Clara McQuown, well known traveler and current-topic lecturer, discussed "Modern Changes in Four of the Great World Cities: Jerusalem, Athens, Rome, and Constantinople."

The newly organized Panhellenic Association of Washington, of which Mrs. Wilson Compton, II B Φ, is president, met at a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel on February 4. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Representative in Congress from Florida and a member of Δ T, was the guest speaker. There are twenty-one national women's fraternities represented in this organization, and the attendance was large.

BETTY ALLEN

held January 14 at the home of Mrs. A. E. White.

Meetings have been planned for April 1, May 6, and a Mothers' Day luncheon for the mothers of the girls in the chapter, May 13.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS CLUB

The small but enthusiastic Bloomfield Hills Alumnae Club again had a booth at the Village Christmas Mart in Birmingham. This year, when people were "not buying, just looking" we were very fortunate in disposing of most of our allotment and thus doing our bit for Settlement School. We were happy in having a short visit from Mrs. Wild, Province Vice-president, the latter part of October and were interested in hearing from her of the way in which the Indiana groups celebrated Founders' Day each year. Our group this year as usual has luncheon meetings every two weeks at the members' homes and, being small and having the same interests, usually has a hundred per cent attendance.

HAZEL STORY EATON

BLOOMINGTON CLUB

The Bloomington Alumnae Club held its first meeting of the year in October. Plans were made at this meeting to have a party for the pledges of Indiana B and later 22 girls were entertained at the home of Carolyn Karsell.

Mrs. Robert Wild, Delta Province Vice-president, visited us. An informal tea was held at the home of Mrs. Louise Thompson. That evening the entire group had dinner at the University Commons in Indiana University's new Union Building. The other meetings have been devoted to the active chapter and discussions concerning the Settlement School and the Constitution.

MARGARET DUNN

DETROIT CLUB

Mrs. Robert S. Wild, Delta Province Vice-president, paid the club a visit last November. She was the guest of Mrs. William O'Neill Kronner, Detroit Alumnae Club President, but everyone had a chance to meet her for luncheon one day at the Women's City Club.

The benefit bridge, held in Mrs. Wendell Wilcox's home December 3, was very well attended. The next large meeting is to be a cooky-shine at Mrs. E. S. Reid's home on April 25. Juniors and seniors from the active chapter in Ann Arbor will be guests on that occasion.

Settlement School products and magazines seem to be selling pretty well all the time.

ALICE CALLENDER

FORT WAYNE CLUB

The Fort Wayne Alumnae Club events have been well attended this year. In making money for Settlement School a benefit bridge was held at the home of Mrs. Chester G. Scheifer charging each person a quarter. We found people most willing to attend and were able to fill twenty-five tables.

Marian Wild, the Province Vice-president, visited here in October. A dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Scheifer followed by a talk from Mrs. Wild. Mrs. Wild brought with her a display from the Settlement School which prompted the club to put in its order for Christmas gifts.

The annual breakfast-bridge was held at the home of Esther Zart. Five pledges and three actives were guests at the holiday affair. The New Year brings the club a new member who has recently moved to this city. She is Dorothy Lewis Graham (Mrs. Gordon T.) from Iowa Z.

LOUISE SIMMINGER

Coming Events

February—Party benefit of nearest chapter. Dinner at the home of Mrs. White at New Haven with Mrs. Abbett and Mrs. Boggess assisting hostesses. March 13—Little Pigeon Cooky-shine. Hostesses: Mrs. Thornton and Grace Mellon. April 24—Founders' Day luncheon, combined with constitution meeting. Hostesses: Margaret E. Nichols, Mrs. King, and Louise Simminger. May 15—Social meeting with installation of officers. Dinner at Mrs. Richards' at Roanoke with Mrs. Dinius assisting.

FRANKLIN CLUB

In October the club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Robert Todd (Esther Aikens) with a dinner-bridge, at which the senior girls of the active chapter were guests.

The club was happy to entertain our province vice-president, Mrs. Robert Wild, at our November meeting, at the country home of Mrs. Donald Dungan (Gladys Deer). A three-course luncheon was served after which Mrs. Wild gave us a very interesting and informal talk on alumnae club work. Settlement School handicraft was on display at this meeting and several articles were sold.

Miss Ruth Burton and Miss Alice Coffman were hostesses for our December meeting, at the home of Ruth Burton. Miss Clara Suckow told of her recent visit to the Settlement School and also displayed a large number of snap-shots which gave us a very clear idea of the mountain folk and the country surrounding our Settlement School.

The January 17 meeting was our annual "birthday party" celebrating the founding of Indiana Alpha Chapter. Letters were sent to all out-of-town alumnae, inviting them to come and bring a penny for each year they are old. This money goes into our Loan Fund. Mrs. Sam Lanam (Bess George) was hostess for this meeting, assisted by her daughter, Miss Margaret Lanam.

MRS. WALLACE BECK

GRAND RAPIDS CLUB

Grand Rapids Alumnae Club members met with Mrs. Marianne Reid Wild, vice-president of Delta Province, at a meeting held October 24 at the Women's City Club. The group met informally preceding the luncheon and discussed possible projects for raising money for the Settlement School Fund.

Plans for the year were discussed at the September supper meeting which was held at the home of the president. A bridge party to be preceded by a luncheon arranged and served by members, was discussed as a very satisfactory means of raising funds for the Settlement School. A benefit-bridge which is an annual affair for this alumnae chapter was held this last spring when Mrs. George B. Kingston extended the hospitality of her home. Proceeds were turned over to the Settlement School chairman.

During the Christmas holidays a cooky-shine was held at the home of one of the members complimenting local Michigan A and B girls home for their vacations.

Panhellenic organization, which several years ago was active, is being reorganized here, its aims being to establish a stronger point of contact for fraternity women and to promote and establish scholarship funds in the city.

The meetings of the club usually are informal supper gatherings, although it was the aim of the president the last year to alternate tea meetings with those in the evening to enable all to attend. The first fall meeting this year was a supper party which preceded the Panhellenic gathering to which members of the alumnae chapter went in a group.

MARIAN LAMB

HILLSDALE CLUB

The Hillsdale Club members were most happy to welcome on October 28 our province vice-president, Mrs. Robert S. Wild. Her visit proved to be very helpful to the officers and also enjoyable and inspiring to the members of the club in general.

A series of contract bridge lessons, held at the home of Ana Classon Green, have been sponsored by the club, under the instruction of Mr. Robert S. Cooney of Adrian, Michigan, a graduate of the Culbertson Studios, and as a result $25 has been sent to the Settlement School.

On the night of December 26 a delightful Christmas dancing party was given under the auspices of the club. This was also a Settlement School benefit and the club plans to make it an annual affair.

The club is especially glad to welcome back to its membership Mrs. Marion Hall (Marjory Whitney, '10) after an absence of seventeen years in Japan, where her husband was a professor in the Doshisha University, Kyoto. Marjory will be with us for some time as her husband Dr. Hall has been engaged by Hillsdale College as Director of Public Relations.

On December 13 death took from us one of our most loyal and beloved members, Cecil Johnson Parker, of Hudson, Michigan. The sincere sympathy of the alumnae goes to her mother, her husband J. Lundy Parker Δ T Δ, and her cousin, Stacia Johnson, Michigan A.

INDIANAPOLIS CLUB

The Indianapolis Alumnae Club held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. R. C. Beeler.

CHATTANOOGA CLUB

The Chattanooga Club finds itself in the midst of a busy year. In September the members devoted themselves to assisting Tennessee A during rush season. The annual mother-daughter formal rush tea was given by the alumnae September 29. The regular October meeting of the club was turned into a special luncheon honoring the new pledges.

In November the program was in charge of the Settlement School committee. Mrs. S. A. Williams reported on a recent visit to Gatlinburg, and plans were made for a Christmas bazaar of Settlement School products. Also, at this meeting, the club decided to change the plan of meeting at the Coffee Shoppe for luncheon each month, to that of meeting in the various homes or at the chapter house, with a committee of hostesses for each month. A plan is under way, too, for the division of the club into two groups, one meeting possibly at night, in order to increase regular attendance of the club.

The December meeting was held at the home of Mrs. S. A. Williams. Plans were made for the subscription drive contest for the magazine Agency. The Settlement School committee displayed the articles received for the Christmas sale. This sale, which was held in a downtown store the entire week before Christmas, proved very successful.

In January the club met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Wheland. The program was on the history of Π B Φ.

DOROTHY LATIMER

Coming Events

February—Constitution. March.—Election of officers.

COLUMBIA CLUB

At the October meeting, plans for the year were tentatively arranged.

One of the money making events was a rummage sale with Mrs. Coursault acting as chairman. Christmas cards, stationery and novelties

There was a luncheon followed by a short business meeting. Mrs. Norman Green had charge of the entertainment which was history and constitution material in the form of a game. The object was to answer as many questions correctly as possible in a certain length of time. The one answering the most received a prize, Helen Barrett won. The meeting was closed by a Christmas Play presented by Bettie Whetsel of Fortville, Indiana. Toys were contributed for the Settlement School.

Ferenc Molnar's play, The Swan, sponsored by the Indiana Alumnae Club at Thanksgiving, was very successful.

MAXINE RIGSBEE

LAFAYETTE CLUB

The Indiana Delta Alumnae Club has met each month since September, and in November, at the time of the annual Settlement School tea, the club was visited by Mrs. R. S. Wild, Province Vice-president, who assisted in receiving at the tea and gave a talk after dinner.

In December the club met at the home of Bernice Baugh, where Eva May Knight gave the examination program.

Although an immense profit has not been made in doing so, we have sold Christmas greeting cards, the Settlement School articles, and some magazines this year. We have eighteen paid members to date.

DOROTHY PUCKETT

were sold during the late fall under the leadership of Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Allton acted as magazine chairman.

A large social event given by the club, was a tea at the chapter house following the annual homecoming football game. Mrs. Whittle, Alma Hill and Queen Smith had charge of arrangements. Another affair, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Deering, was a display and sale of Settlement School products. Tea was served to those attending.

The club was happy to have as our guest at the December meeting, Mrs. Frank Terrell, province president.

The freshmen of the active chapter were entertained at a tea following the January meeting. In February we are having as our guests, the mothers of Columbia Pi Phi who are in the active chapter.

MRS. A. M. MCCAPES

FALLS CITIES CLUB

The Falls Cities Alumnae Club has held regular monthly meetings this year on the second Tuesday of each month at the Kentucky A house. The business meeting is held at 5:30 and is followed by supper. A short program is given after supper and it was decided at the December meeting to have a review of some outstanding book given at each meeting in addition to the regular program planned by the program committee.

On December 17 the club sponsored a dance given at the Kentucky Hotel. This dance has just about become an annual affair as it was the third one which has been given. The 1932 dance was in charge of Gertrude Vogt and netted the club approximately $30.

The club has decided to bring a Russian movie to Louisville and show it at one of the smaller theatres in the residential district. These foreign pictures have proved of great interest to Louisvillians, and as a Russian picture has not been shown in Louisville before, we believe this picture will draw an unusually good crowd and be an entertaining and interesting way to earn money.

JOSEPHINE WARNER

MEMPHIS CLUB

The Memphis Alumnae Club determined at the first meeting to do their money raising early, so that it wouldn't be a problem throughout the year. A benefit bridge party was held on October 8. Everyone in the club worked on it, and although we have only about 15 regular members, we raised sixty dollars, which was divided among Settlement School, Loan Fund, and Endowment Fund. Money from magazine subscriptions and sale of stationery the rest of the year is to be sent to Settlement School. Putting a plan into effect early served to get the club well organized at the beginning of the season, and developed the interest of the members, as well as getting our obligations out of the way.

In November, the club entertained their husbands and escorts at a spaghetti supper the night after Thanksgiving. About twenty were present, and bridge and anagrams formed the evening's entertainment, following a few piano selections by one of the guests.

Not having an active chapter very near to work with, we had as our meeting devoted to the nearest chapter, a Christmas tea for active girls at home for vacations, and their mothers. The actives present were: Sara Marshall, Indiana A.; Mary Beverly Neal, pledge at Missouri A.; Eddie May Murray and Nannette Miller, pledges at Arkansas A. and Elizabeth Markham, Alabama A., who is now attending Southwestern University. The girls spoke briefly about their respective chapters. Pi Phi is gradually getting a stronger foothold in the south, and we are glad to have so many new Pi Phis in Memphis.

ST. JOSEPH CLUB

St. Joseph Alumnae Club with a membership of 22 members is so new that definite plans for the year's work are still in the making.

Meetings, presided over by Pauline Stewart Symon, are held once a month in the evenings at the homes of the various members. The club voted not to have regular dues this year, but to assess each member when necessary.

Three large families were well taken care of at Christmas time—clothing, food, and money being donated by members.

Actives and pledges home for the holidays were entertained at tea.

ST. LOUIS CLUB

The last meeting of the old year was held in the Women's Building on the Washington University campus. A luncheon was served in the dining room and later bridge was played in one of the lounges. The club is starting the new year with a campaign for new members urging them to join for at least the last half of the season.

During the latter part of January the club will sell tickets for a stock company show. The percentage the club receives from the sale of these tickets will be turned over to the Settlement School.

The Springfield Alumnae Club has been holding six o'clock meetings on the second Wednesday of each month at the homes of different members. The business session precedes the buffet supper and the evenings are spent informally.

Barbara Horton opened her home for a Settlement School tea that was well attended. The guests had a special interest in the materials that Barbara had woven.

The club had a Christmas luncheon at Heer's Tea Room with several out of town members present. In January an informal meeting and buffet supper was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Neale, at which time the business for the new year was discussed.

MAY BERRY

Mrs. F. M. Robinson entertained the club and all the  $\Pi B \Phi$  pledges living in Atlanta at a dinner and social evening during the Christmas holidays.

BETTY LOUISE VAN HART

BIRMINGHAM CLUB

The Birmingham Club has been having a cooky-shine with the active chapter, with very unique programs in conjunction.

The club entertained the chapter January 26 with a formal dance. Mid-term rushees are to be honored, also.

The committee has been appointed for Founders' Day banquet and this year's celebration promises to be one of the most colorful ever given in Birmingham. BETTY JANE CARLSON

DE LAND CLUB

The De Land Alumnae Club was glad to have Mrs. Henry, province vice-president, as a visitor early in the fall. Mrs. Henry brought with her a display of Settlement School work and spoke of her recent trip to Gatlinburg. One of our group who had also visited the school likewise spoke of the life and work there.

Much fun was derived from a leap year dance held at Dayton Beach in December. It was a girl-bid and girl-break affair.

Money was raised for the Settlement School by selling Christmas cards, stationery, and by magazine subscriptions. The annual benefit bridge party was held January 12 at the Hotel College Arms. Settlement School woven work was displayed and many orders taken during the afternoon. The prizes at each table were also from the school and the wrappings decorated with Arrow Craft seals.

Plans for the celebration of Founders' Day are nearing completion and it is hoped that this can be made a gala occasion.

Simpkins with Mrs. Gladys Yard, Mrs. Margaret Lomax, Mrs. Helen Ball, and Mrs. Carrie Chain as assisting hostesses. The program which was devoted to History and Constitution was in the form of a clever examination. Several guests were present.

At six-thirty o'clock, November 17, a cooky-shine in honor of Mrs. Ruth Sutton, province vice-president, was given at the home of our Founder, Mrs. Libbie Brook Gaddis. This meeting was one of double interest in that the club gained much of value from Mrs. Sutton, and in that all the members felt particularly honored with Mrs. Gaddis as hostess. AUDREY F. KING

BELOIT CLUB

Although our average attendance at alumnae club meetings is about ten this year, they seem to be quite as spirited and enthusiastic as they were in the days when our membership was larger. Our meetings are very informal, regularly taking the form of a supper followed by a program or bridge. The advisory board enjoyed having dinner with Mrs. Webster when she visited Wisconsin B late this fall. Several plans are under consideration for increasing our contribution to the Settlement School.

CAROLYN E. SHEPARD

CARTHAGE CLUB

The Carthage Alumnae Club entertained Mrs. Ruth Sutton, Eta Province Vice-president, at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Williams, on November 18. Miriam Williams discussed book reviews and told about attending the Los Angeles Alumnae Club meeting in October.

At the October meeting Mrs. D. S. Sutton, Province Vice-president, was guest of honor. The November meeting was of special interest since Dean Maria Leonard, Indiana P, dean of Women at the University of Illinois, spoke on her summer abroad. An added feature for the October meeting was the enthusiastic reports of Mrs. W. G. Palmer, Mrs. Geo. L. Clark, Mrs. A. W. Stoolman, and Mrs. Morris Hecker, of their recent visit to the Settlement School.

The December meeting was in the nature of a Christmas party at the II B  $\Phi$  house in conjunction with the active chapter. Pi Phi mothers were guests.

CHICAGO CLUB NORTH

The fall cooky-shine of the North Chicago Club was held October 25 at the Admiral Hotel with Mrs. D. S. Sutton, Province Vice-president, as guest of honor.

As is the policy of the club, whenever possible, to raise money by sale of products which are necessary in the average household, it introduced in the fall a line of toilet accessories which is proving to be a very good source of income. The sale of vanilla extract has continued its second year of popular demand. The sale of these products can be used by any alumnae club to a profitable advantage; for information see back page of ARROW.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Leon Pescheret, Settlement School Chairman, those members interested made several layettes, and with these sent two large boxes of used children's clothing to the Settlement School before Christmas. Mrs. Pescheret keeps on hand at all times, Arrow Craft products, and so far the club has realized in excess of $85 from the sale of these.

During January and February the groups are giving a series of small benefit bridge parties in the homes of the members, as a means of creating closer relationship between the groups and for the purpose of raising additional funds. The prizes and refreshments are to be donated.

The board at its December meeting voted to send $150 to the Settlement School, $10 to the Endowment Fund, and $10 to the Loan Fund.

MARGARET T. MAUER

CHICAGO CLUB, SOUTH

A tea, display and sale of hand woven articles from Arrow Craft was held December 9 in the Recreation Room of the apartment of Mrs. K. R. King. Due to the weather and also the times, it was not the success we had hoped it would be.

The club has never had a magazine subscription chairman before and because of this, Mrs. F. A. Crabb, our chairman, has had an uphill job but we hope to develop this means of helping the Settlement School to a much greater extent next year.

Several of our groups who have always played cards at their meetings want to devote that time to sewing for Settlement School. The club will buy the material and is awaiting instructions from the Province Vice-president, Mrs. D. S. Sutton, before going ahead with this project.

CELESTINE S. LOFGREN

CHICAGO WEST SUBURBAN CLUB

The West Suburban Alumnae Club was quite busy during the holidays. The members donated toys and books which were sent to the Settlement School before Christmas. On December 16 a Christmas party was given for the children of friends and members of the club, at the home of Mrs. George A. Berry in Hinsdale. At the previous meeting the members dressed dolls which were later wrapped and hung on the Christmas tree. There was a real Santa, Christmas games and stories, and the traditional ice cream and homemade cookies.

During the month of January several of the members devoted most of their time to preparing for a play which was given on January 20 at the home of Mrs. R. G. Graham in Westchester. The meeting concluded with a tea.

ALICE ELIZABETH STEVENS

DECATUR CLUB

The annual homecoming dinner, given by the alumnae, was held in the chapter house on November 5. Although there were not many out-of-town alumnae back this year the club welcomed the opportunity for a monthly meeting and there was a large attendance.

The second week in November Mrs. D. S. Sutton, Eta Province Vice-president, made her visit to the chapter. She met with the club in the chapter house on the evening of November 14 and gave quite an instructive talk as well as many helpful suggestions which the club is endeavoring to follow. On November 15 there was a luncheon in her honor at the Decatur Club with forty members in attendance.

At the Christmas party December 6, in the home of Mrs. Phillip Sproat, the club sewed for the Community Store which is a branch of the Social Service Agency. Following the meeting there was a program of Christmas music and readings.

There are four Pi Phi alumnae working in the offices of the Macon County division of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission (Federal). Elizabeth Graham, the director, is a Pi Phi from Illinois A at Monmouth, and her aunt, Fannie Thompson, was one of the Founders. Marian Wait is a supervisor in charge of township cases; Innes Holt is the Junior Office Organizer; and Katherine Alsip is the Registrar.

With ten monthly meetings and the visits from province officers scheduled, the club is looking forward to the new year as a promising one.

ELGIN CLUB

The Elgin Alumnae Club held the usual dinner meetings in October and November but illness in the homes of many of the members made it necessary to omit the December meeting. The club is happy to welcome Mrs. E. D. Dickerman (Doris Spurling), Vermont A and Marjory Salisbury, Illinois A, as new members.

LUCY M. MALVERN

GALESBURG CLUB

On November 19, the Galesburg Alumnae Club entertained the active girls and their initiates at a cooky-shine at the home of Mrs. C. E. Marsh. Eta Province Vice-president Mrs. D. S. Sutton was present at this meeting. Her visit, though short, gave us the enjoyment of contacts and experiences outside our own club.

On December 2, our annual Settlement School benefit dance was held. Under the capable chairmanship of Dorothy Weinberg, the committee realized a substantial sum for the Settlement School. Plans are now in the making to raise additional funds for the Settlement School and also to carry on our local charitable project, a room in the Galesburg Cottage Hospital. The club has been selling vanilla extract for the past several months to help swell the fund.

Flowers were sent by the club in sympathy and respect to the memory of our founder, Jennie Horne Turnbull, who passed away recently. A number of alumnae and active girls attended the services.

THELIE HINES

GLENHURSTON CLUB

The Glenhurst Alumnae Club is enjoying a happy year and with the problems of a new organization practically solved, is becoming a very active club.

We have twenty-three active members and the average attendance is sixteen. Our meetings are held on the first Tuesday of each month. A buffet supper is served by the hostess and her committee and this is followed by the program.

The officers were hostesses at the first meeting which was a business meeting. Plans were made for the year and several new committees formed.

In November we had a Settlement School sale and tea at the home of Mrs. A. F. Bates, our first president. Besides being a lovely party it was successful financially, for we sold about $100 worth of Settlement School goods.

A Christmas party in December proved to be one of the most enjoyable times we have had together.

One way we have of swelling our Settlement School fund is through the taxi fares. Each person who drives her car to the meetings collects ten cents from each of her passengers and this usually nets quite a nice little sum. Our magazine agency chairman is working hard to better our record of last year. In general the interest is keen and we feel very hopeful for the future of our club.

Small lighted trees decorated the porch and a large trimmed tree with presents beneath, filled one corner of the living room. The festivities began with a dinner given by Milwaukee firms to advertise their products. This was followed by a style show put on by a neighboring shop. Pi Phi songs were then sung until Santa in all his glory came to distribute the presents.

E. W. FERRIS

MONMOUTH CLUB

Monmouth Pi Phi deemed it a privilege to have a part in the burial of our beloved Founder, Mrs. Turnbull. Cars in which were Pi Phi formed an advance guard from the Burlington station, where we met the funeral party, to the cemetery.

Miss Amy B. Onken, her brother, Robert Onken, and his wife, a Pi Phi, were in one car, following them was a car driven by Dr. James H. Grier, a son of Ada Bruen Grier, a Founder, and in which rode another Founder, Miss Margaret Campbell, and her sister, Mrs. Agnes Murray. Others in the procession were Eta Province President Mrs. Florence Hunt Webster and a delegation from Knox College and the Illinois Alphas, both actives and alumnae. At the grave a double line through which the casket was carried, was formed. Sincere sympathy is extended to all members of the Turnbull family.

On Monday, November 21, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Lynch, the Monmouth Alumnae Club entertained the new Province Vice-president, Mrs. Ruth Nicholas Sutton. Previous to this meeting a cooky-shine was enjoyed. Other guests present included Mrs. Florence Hunt Webster and the active chapter of Illinois A.

A rummage sale held in Evanston in October brought in $187.70 toward our Settlement School gift. In December a Settlement School tea was held at the home of Katherine Biggett, at which some articles made in Gatlinburg were sold and some orders taken for future delivery.

BEATRICE H. ALBERS

DULUTH CLUB

In view of everyone's personal activities during the holiday season, nothing was planned for the club as a whole. A pre-holiday affair was the bridge party given at Bridgeman-Russell Company's ice cream factory. They furnish the place, tables, ice cream and cream for coffee upon condition that the guests make a tour of inspection of the plant. It proved to be interesting and also a profitable venture.

Before election a political meeting was held with Mrs. Turnquist taking Hoover as her subject, Helen Thompson the part of Thomas, and Gladys Chatman championing the potential victor, Franklin D. Roosevelt. A straw vote was taken, the result proving that even Pi Phi can make a wrong guess.

At the last meeting, Mrs. Lounsbury gave a review of the "Eight Best Books and Why."

Mrs. Edna Walling has offered the amusement room of her home as the place where the tournament will be held and money prizes will be given. Another means of raising funds this year is the sale of articles from the Settlement School workshops. The club has held two sales, one before Christmas and a Christmas luncheon December 31. Both the Christmas party and the Christmas luncheon had a large attendance from both the St. Paul and Minneapolis Alumnae Clubs and the active chapter.

The January meeting was featured by a talk by Bess Wilson on "Interesting People I have Interviewed." Mrs. Wilson is a special writer for the Minneapolis Journal.

The club extends its sympathy to Charlotte Winger Choche, whose father died recently.

At this meeting Mrs. Gloeckler as chairman of the program committee distributed the yearbooks and gave a brief outline of the study of the year "The Old South."

In October the alumnae entertained the actives, pledges and patronesses at a supper held with Mrs. J. C. McCoid. Later in the evening a one-act play was presented by some of the alumnae and patronesses. The pledges then gave a short skit and the remainder of the evening was spent in singing fraternity songs.

Mrs. Palmer was hostess for the November meeting and Mrs. Gloeckler gave a paper on "The Old South as it Used to be." The alumnae club is happy to have Mrs. William Donahue (Nona Spahr) as an associate member.

At the December meeting with Mrs. C. S. Rogers it was decided that each member earn as much as possible from fifty cents principal and this extra money is to go into the Settlement School fund. GERTRUDE GAMBLE MOORE

SIoux CITY CLUB

With the Sioux City Alumnae Club the perennial topic for discussion is, "How shall the organization raise money for the Settlement School?" No definite plans have been made, the bridge benefits may be the solution.

In November Mrs. Brubacher (Iowa T) and Mrs. Stewart (Iowa Z) entertained the club members, six out of town Pi Phi and one Pi Phi mother at a house-warming tea in the new home of Mrs. Brubacher. A little gift to the new house was presented by the club.

In October and December the usual evening meetings were held. The January meeting was a luncheon. Evening meetings again in February and March. Founders' Day will be celebrated with South Dakota A. This has been the custom since the installation of the active chapter.

LINCOLN CLUB

The first meeting date of the Lincoln Club was changed from the regular meeting day because of the visit to the club of the Province Vice-president, Mrs. Shrive B. Collins. The meeting was followed by a tea in honor of Mrs. Collins to which the active girls and pledges and the chaperons were also invited.

After discussion and reports of last year's money-raising projects it was decided to limit active selling campaigns to our own membership for this year, although reorders would be gladly accepted and filled from non-members. The club dues were also somewhat reduced this year in the hope that threatened loss in membership would not occur.

Miss Helen Stange, Iota Province President, made a visit to the local chapter in November and the Lincoln Alumnae Club Advisory Board entertained her at a luncheon at the Country Club, November 8.

MARY D. KESNER

MANHATTAN CLUB

The Manhattan Alumnae Club has centered its fall activities around earning money for the Settlement School. Practically every member has participated. Some have sold Christmas cards; others had a rummage sale. One member made kitchen aprons to sell just before Christmas, and another sold home-made fig puddings. At the November meeting some articles from the Settlement School were on display and sold. Edith O'Brien Brewer announced that she will receive again the order for magazines from the Legion Auxiliary for its state hospital, in addition to her other orders.

The club welcomes two new members, wives of army officers from Ft. Riler, Mrs. F. R. Pitts, Vermont A, and Mrs. L. H. Slocan, California A, and regrets losing Mrs. Kelso Slaughter (Marjorie Stevenson), Kansas B, who has moved to Colorado Springs, Colorado.

RUTH HOLTON

OMAHA CLUB

The December meeting held in the new home of Mrs. P. H. Jenkins was designated "Guest Day." Quite a number of Pi Phis who are unable to attend the meetings each month were guests that day. The diminutive Christmas tree and green candles on the luncheon table added to the festive air of the occasion. A travel talk on Scotland proved interesting and instructive. Settlement School goods were displayed and many purchased things for Christmas Gifts.

Our program for the remainder of the year will be as follows: Saturday, March 11, Settlement School program; Tuesday, April 11, musicale; Founders' Day banquet; Saturday, May 13, Constitution Day; and Tuesday, June 13, cooky-shine.

MARY ANNE MCINTIRE

POUDRE VALLEY CLUB

At the previous meetings of Poudre Valley Alumnae held this season much discussion has been heard concerning the means and ways of earning money. The club was unfortunate in losing its bank balance through the closing of a bank. No decision has been reached as yet, but with the coming of the new year we hope to have definite action.

At the October meeting held in Loveland, Willa Clammer Woodward, a bride of the summer, was given a canned fruit and jelly shower. In November, the club held their meeting for the benefit of the "Nearest Chapter." The time of the December meeting was spent in sewing for the local social service. For January the club anticipates a book review to be given by Vivian Withrow Smith.

The club wishes to extend utmost sympathy to Mildred White Ryan (Mrs. Joe E.) Colorado B, in the loss of her mother, Mrs. George White, January 4, 1933.

In the November meeting the chapter was entertained in Mrs. Rose Pryor's home. The new initiates of Colorado A, Miss Maurine Smith and Miss Cleone Barbrick, both of Pueblo, were included.

Donations were made for the II B  $\Phi$  Needle Work Guild and plans were discussed by which money might be made for the Settlement School. The same amount was pledged as the year before with the determination that every effort would be made for those who were depending on the II B  $\Phi$  Fraternity.

LAURA BELLE STOCKTON

WICHITA CLUB

The Wichita Club held its November meeting in the home of Mrs. Neil Kirkwood. A committee was appointed to investigate ways of making money for the Settlement School, and plans are being made for either a benefit bridge or to sponsor a theater performance early in the year. Honoring the pledges and their mothers, the members presided at a tea during the Christmas holidays at the home of Mrs. Ralph Rounds. Guests of the club also included a number of rushees and their mothers.

ARDMORE CLUB

Meetings of the Ardmore Club are held monthly in the homes of members. The club is very pleased with the success of Gladys Sivally, Oklahoma A and member of the Ardmore Club, as chaperon at Oklahoma A Chapter at Norman. Through her the club expects to keep in closer touch with the active chapter.

November 8 the club entertained Carrie H. Williamson, Province Vice-president, with a luncheon at the Country Club.

The club has sent an initial donation of $10 to the Settlement School. During the year approximately $75 worth of articles from the Arrow Craft Shop have been sold in the gift shop of one of the members.

MRS. STANLEY BROWN

AUSTIN CLUB

The remark has been made by the Founders of the Texas A Chapter that no matrimonial agency in the world could excel the active chapter of the Austin Alumnae Club. The alumnae club has gallantly upheld this claim with six marriages in the club in the past two months.

The visit of Miss Onken was greatly enjoyed by all members. The alumnae club and the active chapter were joint hostesses for a banquet given in Miss Onken's honor. The club also enjoyed a visit from Mrs. Williamson, our province Vice-president, and gave a luncheon naming her as honor guest.

Initiation of six new members into the active chapter was attended by many members of the Austin alumnae.

The club's annual rummage sale was held in November, and out of the proceeds, a first installment of $50 was sent to the Settlement School. Another rummage sale is to be held later on in the spring.

MARGARET HOWIE GASWELL

DALLAS CLUB

Miss Onken visited our club and the active chapter at Southern Methodist University in November. She was entertained by the two groups, jointly, at a banquet at the Dallas Woman's Club, with Mrs. Ralph Malone acting as toast-mistress. The table was decorated with silver blue tapers in silver candlesticks, and wine chrysanthemums in blue bowls. Mrs. Lynn Milam entertained at luncheon, where Miss Onken met with the advisory board.

Our club has also had as its guest this winter our Province Vice-president, Mrs. George M. Williamson, of Shreveport, Louisiana. She was the house guest of Mrs. Walter Sistrunk, and met with our group at a luncheon in her honor, at the Dallas Woman's Club.

The Settlement School Tea was had in November, as scheduled, and we feel that it was very successful. It was well attended, and more than $200 worth of articles made at Little Pigeon were sold. We expect to make this tea and sale an annual event.

For several years our alumnae club has made a practice of awarding a Pi Phi Scholarship ring to one Pi Phi freshman in Southern Methodist University making the highest average for the year. During the past year two freshmen made identical grades, so the club awarded two rings, these going to Emily Marshall and Elizabeth Miller.

On December 14, there was a Christmas dinner-dance at the Baker Hotel for members and their husbands or escorts. It was a most enjoyable occasion, and we expect to repeat it next Christmas Season.

JUNE HARRIS GRANGER

FORT SMITH CLUB

Fort Smith Alumnae Club is feeling happy this year with 17 paid members, which exceeds the membership of former years. We were also very glad to be able to make contributions to the Settlement School and Loan Fund. Since hard times we have not attempted to make money by doing anything on a large scale, but have raised our money by individual gifts, the profits from selling Christmas cards, and the profits made through our magazine agency.

Our club had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. George M. Williamson, Kappa Province Vice-president, on November 8.

We are looking forward to more interesting meetings this spring, and as we always do—to our Founders' Day banquet.

The New Orleans Alumnae Club is showing a marked increase in its active membership and interest and enthusiasm are growing right along. The first meeting of the year was held in September and there was a good attendance.

The alumnae sold tickets for a neighborhood movie house and cleared twenty dollars which was sent to the Loan Fund.

Mrs. McIlhenny gave the pledges a party in October.

The actives had Settlement School articles on sale in December under the supervision of Jack Bartlett. The alumnae cooperated whole-heartedly.

NORMAN CLUB

The alumnae club made possible the new II B & house at Norman. This was accomplished through the untiring efforts of Mildred Clark.

The board of trustees, composed of Mrs. Louis Burns (Sammy K. McCall), Mrs. Neil Johnson (Florence Wagoner), Mrs. Bennie Turner (Gert-rude Gardner), Margaret Thurman, and Mildred Clark, incorporated and purchased the house.

Mrs. Neil Johnson, Mrs. Louis Burns, and Mildred Clark were very active through the summer traveling over the state, meeting with the various alumnae clubs, collecting the money to pay for the furnishings of the new house.

Mrs. Louis Burns and Mrs. Chelson (Elizabeth Andrews) supervised the interior decorating and furnishing of the house.

The Norman Alumnae Club held a call meeting in honor of Mrs. Carrie Williamson, Kappa Province Vice-president.

The advisory board of the alumnae club, com-

OKLAHOMA CITY CLUB

Since the publication of the last ARROW the Oklahoma City Alumnae Club has had two very interesting meetings. On November 11 we held a successful Settlement School tea and were particularly fortunate at that time in having the Province Vice-president, Mrs. George M. Williamson as honor guest.

In December we had a cooky-shine. One of the features of this meeting was a fashion show with the fashions starting with 1933 models and going backward to about 1913, the girls wearing garments that they wore when they were in school and belonged to the active chapter.

GLADYS LUCKAN MURPHEY

OKMULGEE CLUB

Okmulgee Alumnae Club has been holding its regular monthly meeting on the second Tuesday evening of each month. We have twelve members and an average attendance of ten.

Our November meeting was a high spot on our year's program for Mrs. Williamson was with us. We entertained with a buffet supper at the home of our president, Mrs. Fred Watson. After the supper Mrs. Williamson talked to us informally about alumnae activities. The next day we met at the Beauclair for a luncheon and another visit with her.

We have several projects for the purpose of raising Settlement School funds. One is the sale of pecans, another the sale of wild rice for game dinners, and, of course, the continued support of the magazine agency.

In December we planned a basket for a needy family. The gifts were assembled at the home of Frances Hays and on Christmas day taken to the chosen family.

We are glad to have Frances with us after two years' absence. Our club remains the same in number, as Mrs. Harry Baker is in Tyler this winter.

Besides the sale of the Settlement School articles, money was raised through the sale of vanilla and other local products from which we could make a profit. The Christmas card sale netted a nice sum and the magazine agency head reports numerous subscriptions.

Mrs. Williamson, Kappa Province Vice-president, paid the club a visit in December, and was informally entertained at the club.

The crowning event of the season was the  $\Pi B \Phi$  Charity Ball. About 160 couples attended. Coffee, cakes, and punch were served during the evening. The proceeds of this dance were equally divided in three ways giving to two charitable causes in Beaumont and one in Rauge.

The meetings are held every third Friday with a simple luncheon followed by the business session and programs on the work of the Fraternity, book reviews, and topics of the day which are of special interest.

The club has been most energetic in its efforts to raise money for the Settlement School and by means of selling stationery and holding a Christmas bazaar, we have been able to send in a contribution of $50.

To Carrie Hopkins Williamson, Louisiana A, one of our most loyal members, and who is now the Kappa Province Vice-president, the club tendered an informal tea prior to her departure of visits to the chapters in her province.

CALGARY, ALBERTA, CANADA CLUB

The Calgary Alumnae Club was organized July 25 at a meeting held at the home of Helen Smith. Plans for the year were discussed and it was decided to meet on the last Monday of each month, the first part of each meeting to be concerned with business and the latter part devoted to playing bridge. A budget was outlined and local fees set to cover general expenses of the club. In addition each member was to pay 25 cents a meeting. Money collected in this way before Christmas was to be sent to the active chapter and after Christmas to the Settlement School.

The September meeting was a corn roast held at The Weaselhead, to which Calgary members of the active chapter and prospective rushees were invited.

At Christmas the members donated money for hampers of food which were sent to several poor families in the city.

The club is sorry to lose one of its members, Mary Bowlen, who was married on January 3 and is to live in Vancouver. Prior to her marriage the club entertained at tea for her and a presentation of a copper tray was made.

Christmas week was spent in concentrated rushing as bidding in the active chapter took place on January 15. On December 27 a breakfast party was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph B. Cooper to which ten rushees were invited. A tea was held at the home of Mrs. Reginald Fry on December 29 and on January 2 a luncheon at the York Hotel.

AUDREY HAMILTON COOPER

EDMONTON, ALBERTA, CANADA CLUB

Since our last letter, Mrs. Russell's visit has been the most important event. As there are not many alumnae here, we joined the actives during her stay.

There was open rushing on the campus during Christmas vacation. The alumnae entertained the actives and the Edmonton rushees at a breakfast party at the home of Ruth Cushing.

Two business meetings were held in December and were devoted to discussion of the Constitution and entertainment plans.

HELEN MCGAIG

EUGENE CLUB

The supper meetings, held from six to eight o'clock on the first Tuesday of every month are being continued this year, as they have proved most satisfactory from point of view of attendance. On Founders' Day the club plans to sponsor, with the actives of Oregon A, the banquet and program in observance of that occasion, and hopes to have Oregon B actives and alumnae as guests at that time.

BEATRICE MILLIGAN

PORTLAND CLUB

The December meeting of the club was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Case. Christmas carols were sung and Mrs. Harold Broughton gave a reading.

Chances had previously been sold on a "Patsy Doll" with a very complete and elaborate wardrobe. The drawing for this doll took place at this meeting, netting the club $20.

Very generous donations in the form of clothing, food, toys, and money were turned over to the Christmas charity committee. Mrs. E. C. Sammons, chairman of this committee, reported the committee had in mind four needy families whom they expected to make happy at Christmas time.

The January meeting will be the "Health Meeting" and in February the club will have an evening meeting with bridge as the main diversion.

The club plans to hold a series of benefits during the remaining winter and spring months hoping to raise their Settlement School quota by this method.

SALEM CLUB

The Salem Alumnae Club helped make the month of December a little happier for a needy family by supplying them with clothing for the winter months.

In December our second bridge-tea benefit was given at the home of Adjutant General and Mrs. George A. White. There were thirteen tables of bridge in play during the afternoon. The prizes were Settlement School products.

SEATTLE CLUB

The first meeting this fall was a luncheon at the Woman's University Club, at which Roberta Frye Watt (Maryland A) gave a review of her book, The Story of Seattle. In October an evening meeting at the chapter house, was a cooky-shine in honor of the new pledges of Washington A. More than 100 actives, pledges, and alumnae attended. A Settlement School sale and card party were combined for November. The sum of $50.25 was cleared on the card party and this amount was given the chapter house for the furniture fund. Up to date over $110 of Settlement School products have been sold. The Holmes Marionettes were sponsored for the December meeting which was held at the D.A.R. House. Many parties were given for children before the show.

The Mothers' Club cooperated with the alumnae for the rummage sale, and a net profit of $80.35 was made. We feel that the help of the mothers was a big factor toward making the sale a success.

Mrs. Russell, Province President, was a guest at the chapter house the latter part of October. The alumnae club gave a luncheon at the Woman's University Club in her honor. We are looking forward to a visit from Mrs. Humphrey, Province Vice-president, early in the spring.

A Christmas gift was sent to our two nearby chapters, Washington B and Idaho A. The club also voted at the December meeting to send half of our Settlement School pledge after the first of the year.

A bridge-dinner for the husbands at the Spokane Hotel was so much enjoyed that another one is being planned. KATHERINE MATTES

TUCSON CLUB

The meetings of the Tucson Alumnae Club have all been held at the chapter house this year. There have been no refreshments served at the regular meetings as an economy measure saving both time and money.

In November the Tucson Club was in charge of the tea given in honor of Mrs. Alford, Province President, at the chapter house. Following Mrs. Alford's visit a special meeting was called for the purpose of reporting on recommendations made by Mrs. Alford and to further the plans for the Christmas party and means of raising money for the Settlement School.

Early in December a tea was held at the home of Audrey Knapp for the purpose of selling Arrow Craft products. This tea under the direction of Gladys Carrol, Margaret Chambers, and Audrey Knapp proved most successful both financially and socially.

The Christmas party held December 17, at the chapter house was enjoyed by a large group. A buffet supper served by the members of the alumnae club was followed by a program around the Christmas tree which was given by the pledges, and the evening closed with all present joining in singing numerous I B  $\Phi$  songs.

Small groups of members of the alumnae club have been sponsoring informal parties for high school girls during the past months and will continue this means of assisting the active chapter throughout the spring.

We are looking forward to a meeting with our Province Vice-president during the coming month.

UTAH CLUB

The last month of the year 1932 was the scene for two very interesting and holiday celebrating meetings for the Utah Alumnae Club. The first meeting on December 5 was sponsored by the Settlement School Committee. The second meeting December 13 was a tea given at the home of Mrs. James A Hogle. The active and pledge members of the fraternity were bidden guests. The second meeting of December is to take the place of our January meeting.

Panhellenic was recently established on the University of Utah campus and a change was made in the rushing rules. Up until this time a girl must have completed two quarters of college work before she was eligible for pledging. With the new rules she must complete but one quarter college work for eligibility. This change brings the rushing season the second week in January. Every alumna worked eagerly with the active chapter to make this the most successful of all rushing seasons.

The program for the month of February will be devoted to the studying of the Constitution. The meeting for March has been planned to cover Fraternity Study and Examination.

Although as yet Ontario A has not been able to run a house, plans are being formed for one next year. In the meantime, an attempt is being made to bind the chapter more closely by serving regular luncheons in the rooms twice weekly.

Decreased rushing expenses and economic measures taken will make possible a lowering in local fees for the second term. JOAN KNOWLTON

No Pledging

During the fall, Middlebury has had the opportunity to hear Will Durant, the noted author and lecturer, and a recital by John Goss and his London Singers.

A new system of electing class officers and chairmanships has been put into effect. Each class has a nominating committee composed of one representative from each fraternity and the neutral body. This proposal plans to eliminate politics and to put elections on a more rational basis of selection.

The A. Tempo Club, a musical organization, is sponsoring twilight musicales each Friday afternoon in the chapel. Talented students are selected to take sole charge of the programs.

Vermont A is striving to raise her scholarship through a plan submitted by the National Scholarship Committee. All girls whose averages are below 80 cannot go out for extra-curricular activities. All girls whose averages are below 83 must report the number of hours of study each week to the chapter scholarship chairman. Also, the chapter is divided into teams of three where a system of points for cuts and grades is worked out. The team having the least number of points against it, wins.

Four of the seven girls, who modeled for this show were from the chapter. Plans were made under the chairmanship of Eileen Brown for the winter house party of W.A.A. This was held after semester examinations were over and afforded an opportunity for

Pledge Day, October 15, 1932

INITIATED, October 30, 1932: Dorothy Boyden, Marathon; Mildred Carver, Central Square; Mildred Wicke, New York City.

For the past two years New York A has laid special stress on scholarship. At the annual Panhellenic banquet held at the Hotel Syracuse on November 21 and attended by all the fraternity women on the Syracuse University campus, it was announced that New York A had made the greatest advance in the comparative scholarship rating, having risen seven places. This brings the chapter well into the first third of the women's fraternities scholastically.

This year a series of concerts is being presented by the Syracuse University symphony orchestra under the sponsorship of both the men's and women's fraternities. The purpose of this series is to bring the best type of music, both vocal and instrumental, to the students.

The entire chapter was entertained at a formal Christmas dinner at the house on December 18. A slumber party followed at midnight. There was a Christmas tree, and presents were exchanged. The toys which were received were given to the Y.W.C.A. for distribution among the poor children of the city.

Special emphasis is being placed this year on the student loan fund because of the great need among members of the student body. A concentrated drive led by student leaders was held early in the fall. New York A contributed $15. A donation was also made to the Syracuse community chest.

The Syracuse Alumnae Club has continued its custom of entertaining each of the classes either at one of the luncheon meetings or at an evening cooky-shine.

The mothers' club, which was organized last year, has continued to be active this year. For Christmas the club gave a woolen blanket to the house.

The convention of National Panhellenic met in Syracuse on February 10.

Swarthmore College has been attracting the eyes of the fraternity world this year with its new social program for the women students. The hundred freshman women have found themselves busily occupied with numerous social activities planned for them by the W.S.G.A. Among these are co-ed dances, both formal and informal, Friday afternoon teas given by Panhellenic and the Personnel Committee, and tea-dances following the football games in the fall, as well as the regular college social functions. Freshman men and women are becoming better acquainted with each other by dining at mixed tables in the college dining room. Closer relationship between freshman and upperclass women is promoted by a system whereby each freshman accompanies an assigned upperclassman to dinner each Thursday evening.

In a joint celebration of Founders' Day and the 250th anniversary of William Penn's arrival in America, Miss Jane Addams gave the principal address, following which the honorary degree of L.L.D. was conferred upon her by President Ayde-lotte. A group of undergraduates and alumni gave a pageant representing seven episodes in the life of William Penn.

During the semester speakers representing various fields of cultural activities have been presented; among them, Deems Taylor, composer; Louis Untermeyer, poet and critic; Edward Steichen, photographer; and Harrison Fields, a member of the cast of Green Pastures. The Hamburg Show, an annual undergraduate combination pep meeting and vaudeville, was distinguished this year by the more sedate tone suited to its presentation in Clothier Memorial, our new assembly hall. Previous to the recent presidential election, Republican, Democratic, and Socialist Clubs were formed and various platforms vigorously supported by the undergraduates. The college chest fund drive was carried to an even more successful conclusion than last year's, in spite of decreased allowances and enrollment.

The chapter average has risen from last to second place among the seven national women's fraternities on the campus. With no rushing the members of the chapter are concentrating their efforts to maintain the present scholastic attainment and raise the standing to first place before the end of the college year.

Aldyth Longshore, who is president of W.S.G.A., has been elected to membership in  $\Sigma \Xi$ , national honorary scientific society. Elizabeth Thomson, secretary-treasurer of the W.S.G.A., has been awarded the White Open Scholarship for the next three years. She has also been elected to membership in Gwimp, the society of athletic managers. Elizabeth Reller was elected to the little theatre club this fall and played one of the leading roles in the club's annual winter play, Children of the Moon, by Martin Flavin. Ada Clement, president of the chapter, was manager of the girls' varsity hockey team with three other members holding positions on that team. Nancy Harvey is chairman of the college dance committee and Ida O'Neil is vice-president of the senior class. Mary Lu Spurrier is chairman of the honor committee of the W.S.G.A. Ruth Kewley is associate editor of the Halcyon, the college annual.

PENNSYLVANIA BETA—BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY

Chartered, 1895

Pledge Day, October 12, 1932

Upon the suggestion made by Doctor Homer P. Rainey, president of the university, the educational system will be revised at the beginning of the next school year. The plan includes a general two-year course prerequisite to professional, major training, together with revision of the administrative departments and separation of training. The present twenty-seven departments will be grouped into five.

December 9 and 10 the Bucknell forum acted as host to international relations clubs of the middle Atlantic states. Edwin Markham, "Poet Laureate of America," entertained a large Bucknell audience by reading and interpreting his poetry. Dr. H. B. Bode, of Ohio State, and Dr. F. N. Freeman, of the University of Chicago, well known educators, were the speakers at the Bucknell conference of education. Clayton Hamilton, author, editor, and dramatist, addressed a large group of students and faculty concerning the play, Cyrano de Bergerac. Sherwood Eddy, noted author, lecturer, and world traveler, visited the Bucknell campus, January 11.

A Christmas party for poor children of Lewisburg was given by the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., and women's and men's fraternities.

Janet Worthington was elected editor of the Triangle, the official publication of  $\Sigma \tau \Delta$ , National Honorary English fraternity. Of the eight seniors eligible to read for honors in English three are from  $\Pi \Phi \Phi$ : Janet Blair, Fannie Wood, and Janet Worthington. Alice Leslie, Edna Cleckner, Lenore Gross, and Mary Walbridge took parts in the play, Hay-Fever, produced independently by four men students.

PENNSYLVANIA GAMMA—DICKINSON COLLEGE

Pledge Day, October 11, 1932

On December 16, the Y.W.C.A. gave its annual doll show. This show was originated about twenty-five years ago for the purpose of providing dolls Christmas for the prisoners' children in New York City, done in cooperation with Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth. In the first place, each girl provided a doll. Now many prominent citizens of the town are asked to give too. Lately, each fraternity on the campus, both men's and women's, contributes gifts and money to make the children of a nearby orphanage have a merry Christmas, too. The dolls and gifts are displayed at an all-college dance. This year on the doll show committee there were several chapter members. Priscilla McConnell was chairman of decorations, Ruth Shawfield, advertising chairman, Christina Meredith, chairman of food, and Katharine Keller, chairman of gifts.

The chapter gave a tea, December 7, in honor of their pledges at the  $\Phi \kappa \Psi$  house. Pennsylvania  $\Gamma$  has been holding monthly feeds in her rooms all through the fall but the Christmas party just before vacation will long be remembered by those present. The meal was especially good but the crowning feature was the gifts that each received from Santa Claus. It is strange what a sense of humor Santa does have.

The college was grieved at the death of Dr. Morris Prince, a former professor at Dickinson, father of State Senator Leon Prince, grandfather of Mary Prince, '35.

"Dad" Elliot famous college speaker, was here during the week of January 10 to conduct a week of religious emphasis. Mr. Harry Anslinger, national commissioner of narcotics, was here to speak in December.

The dramatic club is presenting The Haunted House. Polly Barnhart has one of the leading parts. Doris Brandt is vice-president of that organization.

Due to the plan given to Pennsylvania  $\Gamma$ , her scholarship record has been improving the last two roll calls. The marks of the pledges are fine. The method used to bring up low marks is to have each person fill out a card weekly stating the number of hours studied for each subject. Then the scholarship chairman and committee deal with each case.

PLEGGED, October 11: Jeanette Bastress, Margaret Davis, Mechanicsburg; Jean Black, Charlotte Chadwick, June Bietsch, Carlisle; Emmatine Sherk, Mary Jane Boswell, Harrisburg; Mary Bell, Gettysburg; Mildred Chase, Clearfield; Katharine Hoffman, Cranford, N.J.; Margaret McWilliams, Roxborough.

Mrs. Stowell C. Stebbins, Beta Province President, made her annual visit to Ohio in December. On Thursday the active chapter gave a formal dinner at the house in honor of Mrs. Stebbins. On Friday the actives and pledges combined in giving a tea, and in the evening the executive board took Mrs. Stebbins to dinner at the Berry Hotel.

December 2 the chapter had a Christmas house party. The house was decorated with hemlock and silver and blue crepe paper. Each girl brought a 10c gift for her guest. These were wrapped in silver and blue and piled on the mantel. At a given signal the gifts were distributed and the fun began.

A Christmas party was held at the house for actives and pledges December 14. The purpose of this get-together was to establish a firmer tie of sisterhood among the girls and to further the spirit of unity and cooperation. Each girl was requested to bring an inexpensive gift. These gifts were turned over to Dean Voigt who was requested to give them to the Athens County Orphan Asylum.

The Y.W.C.A. sponsored the adoption, by the students, of miners' children and orphans for the purpose of buying Christmas gifts for them. Any Ohio University student was permitted to adopt a child and the price limit on gifts was set at 50c. Many of the girls in the chapter adopted children and found great pleasure in spreading a little happiness among the unfortunate.

A Frolic was sponsored by the women's league of which the chapter president, Doris Lee Fletcher, is social chairman. All the women on the campus were invited. Games, singing, and puzzles served as entertainment for the evening.

Among those receiving bids to honorary organizations were: Mary Susan Sullivan and Doris Lee Fletcher to K  $\Gamma$ , national honorary and professional forensic fraternity; Edna Kennedy to K  $\Delta$  II, national honorary education fraternity.

George Washington University announced its first homecoming celebration this year. All organizations on the campus entered into the spirit and made it an event to be long remembered. "Stunt Night," the Oklahoma-George Washington football game, Thanksgiving Day, and the dance in honor of the alumni were the main attractions. It is hoped by the students, as well as the alumni, that this event will become an annual occurrence.

VIRGINIA GAMMA—WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE

Chartered, 1925

Pledge Day, September 22, 1932

The recent visit of Mary Hornaday, the new Province President, marked one of the most pleasant of week-ends. Her first visit to Virginia I coincided with the annual homecoming day, which is an unending source of excitement to all.

The yearly round of women's interfraternity basketball games, sponsored by Panhellenic was completed just before the holiday season. After keen competition from  $\Pi B \Phi$  and K A  $\Theta$ , the  $\Phi M$  squad finally won the trophy.

One of the most outstanding events of the college year was the Panhellenic banquet. Beside the two chapter representatives, the girl with the highest scholastic standing in her chapter was invited. Virginia Clark was invited from Virginia I this year. The silver cup, given in recognition of the fraternity having the highest scholastic average for the past year, was presented to A X  $\Omega$ .

December 16, Alice Person, a local charter member, gave a Christmas party for the chapter and its patronesses. During the course of the evening one of the pledges, dressed as Santa Claus, made her appearance and distributed the Christmas stockings. The best part of the evening arrived when mock presents were exchanged.

The night before the departure for the holidays, fraternity court was a scene of great gaiety and festivity. The large pine in the center of the circle was lighted by varicolored electric lights. A general invitation for the carols had been issued to the students and townspeople, and the court was crowded by those who had come to join in the singing. The idea of this Christmas gathering originated in this chapter.

An event looked forward to with great impatience was the opening of the new Colonial Theater on January 12. The audience on the opening night was composed of invited guests, including college notables, dignitaries of the State of Virginia, and representatives of the Army and Navy. The chapter president, Gladys Monroe, was invited to attend.

At the close of the hockey season this fall, an honor was conferred upon Ruth Kolb, when she was elected to the all-Virginia hockey team. Jane Steele, Frances Lamar, and Virginia Clark have been selected for the staff of the Flat Hat, the college weekly newspaper. Lettie Hairston recently was initiated into the history club. ### NORTH CAROLINA ALPHA— UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

INITIATED, October 15, 1932: Jane Elizabeth Purrington, Scotland Neck.

North Carolina A is concentrating this year on bettering the spirit between fraternity and non-fraternity girls, and on promoting the permanent installment of athletics for women students, which is necessary before women graduates of the University of North Carolina can become members of A.A.U.W. To further the latter project North Carolina A and the X  $\Omega$  chapter have cooperated by planning a series of basketball games. North Carolina A has already played the non-fraternity team—and beat them, too!

A tea was given December 9 at the house for non-fraternity girls, stray Greeks, and X  $\Omega$  in honor of their new pledges. Other informal teas have been given after football games, so that any girls who wanted to might drop in and bring their dates.

The dance annually given by the actives in honor of the pledges was held December 2 at the Carolina Inn. All the stray Greeks on the campus were invited. Two from X  $\Omega$  also were invited, as it is a rule of the University German Club that two bids shall go to every fraternity, men's or women's, in town. Just preceding the dance, the pledges gave a dinner in honor of the active members.

Seven of the sixteen active members of North Carolina A made the honor roll for the fall quarter, and the chapter as a whole made the best chapter average on campus, the Dean reports.

The entire University, faculty and students, is absorbed in the plan for consolidating the three state-maintained educational institutions in North Carolina. The University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering in Raleigh, and the North Carolina College for Women in Greensboro are to be consolidated as the Greater University of North Carolina. Dr. Frank Porter Graham, who was elected president of the University of North Carolina upon the resignation of Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase two years ago, and who was inaugurated in November, 1931, has been elected president of the Greater University. The presidents of the other two institutions will continue in their present positions, but as vice-presidents. Dr. Louis Round Wilson, who resigned his position as head of the library school here last spring, has been elected vice-president of this branch of the Greater University.

North Carolina A was delighted to have an informal visit from Mrs. A. H. White, a former member of the Settlement School committee.

PLEGDED: Betty Barnett, Lakeland, Fla.; Grace Bowes, Rockingham; Edna Cummings, Marina Henry, Chapel Hill; Katherine Jamieson, Oxford; Elizabeth Johnson, Eustis, Fla.; Janie Jolly, Raleigh; Mary Parker, Asheville; Margaret Rawlings, Mount Kisco, N. ### SOUTH CAROLINA ALPHA— UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Pledge Day, February 13, 1933

INITIATED, October 8, 1932: Mary Lees Graham, Columbia; Margaret Watson, Greenville.

Registration has increased to eighteen hundred, the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. The university was named as one of the eleven colleges in the nation whose students can compete for the 1933 W. E. Boeing aviation scholarships at the Boeing School of Aeronautics, Oakland, California. Governor Blackwood and Dr. James E. Copenhaver, professor in the department of chemistry at the university, recently represented the state at the annual meeting of the American Association of Chemists and Colorists, held in Greensboro, North Carolina. Dr. Copenhaver delivered a paper on "The Culture of Indigo in the South."

In December, the college Y.M.C.A. celebrated its semi-centennial anniversary. Former members and presidents were invited to be guests of the active association. The Y.W.C.A. held a novel freshman week on the campus soon after the opening of school. The following program included its activities: Tuesday, a tea for all women students; Wednesday, a banquet for all freshman and cabinet members; Thursday, a membership meeting; Friday, a recognition service for new members. Much discussion of the honor system has taken place in faculty meetings. As a result, in order to prove the honesty of the students, a barrel of apples was sold by the pay-as-you-go method, and the professor responsible made a gain of more than two dollars.

The chapter enjoyed a helpful and inspiring visit from Miss Onken in November. Among the results of this visit was the formation of a mothers' Club composed of eleven members. Three teas were given by the chapter in December; one for the house chaperon, Mrs. Charles Gordon, of Alexandria, Virginia; one for the recently installed  $\Sigma$  K sorority; and an open-house for the fraternities and sororities on the campus. The pledges gave the actives a buffet supper and also presented a clock to the chapter.

Jane Bayard, chapter president, has been given a bid to A K  $\Gamma$ , national honorary leadership and service fraternity. L'Artigue Griffin was elected secretary of the Euphrosynean Literary Society. Helen Terry and Jane Bayard were recently initiated into  $\Sigma$   $\Delta$  II and B II  $\Theta$ , Spanish and French fraternities.

Following Miss Onken's suggestion, the pledge supervisor has made personality charts for each pledge to be checked by sponsors and pledges separately for the purpose of mutual acquaintance and development.

The chapter deeply sympathizes with its vice-president, Julia Park, in the recent loss of her father.

PLEGDED: October 6, 1932: Sarah Boylston.

Besides the pledge award for scholarship, the three girls receiving highest grades in the three upper classes will be given necklaces with the official seal.

Betty Bentz is now wearing the chapter scholarship ring worn each semester by the girl receiving the highest average.

During the Christmas holidays, the kitchen of the chapter house was redecorated, and new curtains purchased.

A new custom established last year was continued by Michigan A in the form of a football banquet. The guests were the squad and coaches. The chapter was especially proud to entertain them inasmuch as the Hillsdale team was the winner of the M.I.A.A. championship.

Mrs. Mildred Tingley Beisel, Delta Province President, was the recent guest of Michigan A. The pledges entertained her at luncheon and the actives, at dinner. Her many worthwhile suggestions are being put into effect.

MICHIGAN BETA—UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

Pledge Day, October 9, 1932

INITIATED, November 18, 1932: Ruth Peters, Ann Arbor; Jeanne Whitman, Grand Rapids.

Because of the need for student loan funds stressed by President Ruthven, of the university, to the alumni council in a recent report, students have organized a good will campaign by which they hope to raise $10,000 for the aid of needy students now at the university. Two students are in direct charge of the campaign, the work of which is being carried out by honor societies and other campus organizations. Contributions of clothing as well as of money are being solicited. The goal set will be reached if each student who is able to do so will give $1.00 or more to the fund. Leaders of the campaign are emphasizing the necessity of self sacrifice on the part of the students who are able to afford a certain amount of money for unnecessary incidentals.

A plan is now before the interfraternity council, which proposes that freshmen shall be allowed to live in fraternity houses during the second semester of the present year. There is now a regulation which forbids first year men to reside in fraternity houses. The proposal has been made since so many fraternities are having financial difficulties due to the fact that many of their available rooms, previously occupied by members of the fraternity, are now vacant. The situation has become urgent for many of the smaller and less well-established Greek letter societies are fighting for existence, and are not able to cope with their straightened financial status. One fraternity, A X P, has been forced to yield its charter, and dissolve the active group. This is the fate which will overtake several of the smaller groups, according to Joseph Bursley, dean of men, unless steps are taken for the combination of two or more of them into larger and stronger units.

Michigan B had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. Mildred Tingley Beisel, Delta Province President, on her annual visit, December 3 and 4. The chapter held a cooky-shine in her honor and the alumnae entertained her at breakfast.

INDIANA ALPHA—FRANKLIN COLLEGE

Pledge Day, September 17, 1932

Reading week, which has formerly been observed each semester immediately preceding final examinations, has been abolished by a ruling of the college officials. This decision will be effective this semester.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, prominent radio preacher of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, F. M. Snyder, noted New York lecturer and publicist, and President J. Brownley Oxnam of DePauw University were among the recent speakers who addressed the student convocations on various aspects of prevalent economic and international relations.

Franklin College was host to the Indiana high school press association, and the Indiana Journalistic Teachers' and Advisers' Association which convened at the college from October 20 to 22.

Thirty well-known Indiana artists contributed to the fourth annual art exhibit which was on display in the college Art Gallery for two weeks, beginning December 4. The reproduction of landscapes, portraits, and still life were done entirely in water color.

Beatrice Roehm and Sara Briscoe, pledges, representing Indiana A in intersorority debating, won the trophy awarded each year to the sorority winning the debate series. They also earned the school title by defeating the interfraternity winner, K Δ P, when for the first time, the intersorority champion met the interfraternity title-holder.

A turkey dinner given by Elizabeth Myers, former president, at her home, featured the chapter Christmas party. The pledges sang their original pledge songs and Christmas gifts for the Settlement School box were wrapped and packed.

Miss Clara Suckow, an alumna of Indiana A who recently visited the Settlement School, gave a very interesting report of her visit, making the school a more vital concern to all.

Mildred Means is a member of The Whole Town's Talking, to be presented by Θ A Φ sometime in January.

The four Indiana chapters of Π B Φ are adopting an exchange system to foster friendship and good feeling between the individuals of the chapters. To each dance and initiation service of a chapter, the other chapters are invited to send two representatives. Indiana B inaugurated this idea last spring, but it was not put into complete operation until this school year.

For several years the chapter has looked forward to a new house. If the present plans are completed and executed, it is probable that the house will be completely remodeled during the summer. In order to save as much as possible, our social chairman has been put on a budget for the entire year. This plan has not been employed before but it is proving quite successful.

The annual formal Thanksgiving dinner for Dean Agnes E. Wells and her two assistants was given November 22. Instead of spending several dollars for corsages and table decorations, a check covering the amount which would have been spent was given Dean Wells for a charitable organization which she is sponsoring.

Continuing their efforts toward retrenchment, the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils by a combined action, discontinued the custom of organizations exchanging Christmas cards. Before the Christmas holidays the chapter arranged to cut the active fraternity fee from five to three dollars per month and the pledge fee from three to two dollars.

Immediately after the Christmas holidays, K A Θ moved into her new house which has been under construction for the past year. The university had purchased the site of the old house, making the new home possible.

Paul V. McNutt, dean of Indiana University Law School and himself a graduate of the school, took his oath of office as governor of the state of Indiana, January 10. Immediately after his election in November a formal reception was given in his honor by the university.

Mary Lou Aikman was in charge of arrangements for the first annual Christmas party given by the women students of the university for the poor children of the community. Floy Frank and Susan Jane Dikeman had two of the important feminine parts in Ten Nights in a Bar-Room. Margaret Morgan had a leading rôle in Ibsen's A Doll's House. Alice Thorn Finney, who is doing graduate work in the university, had the feminine lead in Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew, and in appreciation of her splendid work, Dr. Lee Norvelle, head of the speech department, invited the entire chapter to a performance, as his guests. Fran Dix has been elected to Art club. Harriet Brower was initiated into  $\Phi$   $\Psi$   $\Sigma$  and was presented with a crested scarf by the chapter. Nelle Mixon is a sophomore assistant editor of the Arbutus, the campus yearbook.

INDIANA GAMMA—BUTLER COLLEGE

Chartered, 1897

Pledge Day, September 14, 1932

Nine new faculty members have been added to strengthen the teaching staff. Organization of an evening and extension course worthy of Butler is now in operation.

Administrative changes included the establishment of a definite system of control of university affairs through the board of directors, the dean's council, the university senate, and the various faculties.

President Athern's plan to have all students participate in some athletic competition has been well received by the student body as a whole. New games and sports were added to the university's equipment in order that more students might gain the benefits from the healthful exercise and contacts afforded through participation in a well rounded athletic program which looked out for the interest of every individual.

The new department of clinical psychology and a clinic for the examination of patients with mental diseases have proved popular.

Among the new courses offered this semester is the course known as Marriage and Family Relations. The lectures will be given by Charles R. Metzger, M.L., LL.B., Frack S. C. Wicks, D.D., Mary H. Young, Ph.D., J. L. Rosenstein, M.A., Thurman B. Rice, M.A., M.D.

The chapter placed third in an old clothes campaign which was sponsored by the university before the holidays, the contributions to be used by the Red Cross for charity. As the members' personal contribution to charity, they clothed a family of nine and gave them a large amount of meat and canned goods.

Gwendolyn Schort and Sarah Elizabeth Miller were initiated into  $\Phi$   $\Psi$   $\Sigma$ , national honorary scholastic fraternity. Martha Metcalf was initiated into  $\Sigma$   $\Delta$   $\Pi$ , national honorary fraternity of education. Mariam Barnette was made senior representative of student council of Arthur Jordan Conservatory. Jean Helt was elected vice-president of the freshman class, and Helen Gearen was elected secretary of Bluesters Club. MARIAM L. BARNETTE

INDIANA DELTA—PURDUE UNIVERSITY

Chartered, 1921

Pledge Day, September 17, 1932

In order to stimulate student interest in contemporary topics of national and world-wide interest, a student forum was started last fall. The variety of topics discussed at the successive weekly meetings drew a sizeable group of students and faculty members; the forum will find a permanent place in the university calendar for the remainder of the year.

W.S.G.A., which was completely organized this year, has been seeking various ways of rendering service to the women students. A calendar of activities is being arranged which will eliminate conflicts in the time and place of meeting of co-ed organizations. Before Christmas vacation the W.S.G.A. activity committee undertook to interview each freshman girl to explain to her personally the opportunities for achievement in scholarship and activities, to check on the start she had made, and to help her get started in the fields in which she was most interested. W.S.G.A. has provided magazine subscriptions and a number of books for the women's lounge in the student union building in order to encourage its use during free hours.

Mabelle Cutler was elected representative of the junior class on the W.S.G.A. executive council.

Practically every member of the chapter is participating in some W.A.A. sport during the indoor season, playing on house teams in volleyball, rifle, and basketball, or engaging in the shuffleboard or deck tennis tournaments.

The fall dance in honor of pledges was held December 3. A series of dinners is being planned by the chapter at which members of the faculty will be guests.

MISSOURI ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

Chartered, 1899

Pledge Day, October 3, 1932

INITIATED, October 18, 1932: Bettie Randol, Columbia; Dorothy Sylvester, Kansas City; Maye Louis Wymore, Jefferson City.

Mrs. Frank H. Terrell, Epsilon Province President, made her annual visit to Missouri A in December. She made several interesting and instructive addresses to the chapter, and plans were laid for raising the scholarship average for the coming year through a strict adherence to study hall for both actives and pledges. Deferred initiation for pledges was discussed, and although no definite decision has been made, the plan is being seriously considered in the hope that it will result in raising the scholarship average of the pledge class.

While Mrs. Terrell was in Columbia she attended the Christmas meeting and party given by the alumnae club.

In an effort to continue a program of economy, chapter house bills have been reduced.

Missouri A entertained with its annual Christmas party on the night of December 19. A formal dinner was given at the chapter house, and was followed by a presentation of gifts by Santa Claus in the living room, in which a large Christmas tree was beautifully decorated. A set of four sterling silver candle holders was presented to the chapter as a gift from the Kansas City mothers' club.

At the annual W.S.G.A. Christmas party the pledges of Missouri A won third prize for the play which they presented. Dolls, which were under the Christmas tree, came to life on Christmas eve to dance and sing.

The alumnae club of Columbia entertained the pledges of Missouri A with a tea, January 5, at the home of Mrs. W. S. Williams.

Jascha Heifitz, world famous violinist, gave a concert November 30 in the university auditorium;

he was accompanied on the piano by Isidore Achron. The concert was one of a series which is being given this year under the auspices of the School of Fine Arts. Nelson Eddy, baritone, was presented January 17.

The chapter house of  $\Delta \Gamma$  was destroyed by fire the morning of December 22, the day after the students were dismissed for the holidays. House furnishings and clothing left in the house by students were destroyed. The house was valued between \$30,000 and \$40,000.

Martha Koken, Sophronia Buchholz, and Mary Haley have been elected to  $Z \Sigma$ , sophomore honorary interfraternity organization. Margaret Goodson and Fredricka Boone have both had leading rôles in Workshop plays. Margaret Goodson and Virginia Kelly had rôles in the annual play of the school of journalism, We the People, which was given January 10 and 11. ### MISSOURI BETA—WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Pledge Day, September 22, 1932

INITIATED, October 17, 1932: Virginia Capps and Frances Barham, St. Louis.

Washington University inaugurated this fall a vigorous program of freshman orientation under the auspices of W.S.G.A. All the freshman girls were divided into twelve "frosch families" headed by women prominent in campus activities. The program was brought to a close by a big bonfire celebration at which each frosch family gave a stunt. S. Marie Vaughn was leader of one of the groups which received a prize for the best stunt.

The university officials have authorized the revival of co-ed vaudeville which was abolished several years ago. On an appointed evening each women's fraternity will present a short skit before a mixed audience, the proceeds of the performance being turned over to some worthy cause, not definitely determined as yet.

The chapter was greatly pleased and benefited by the visit of Epsilon Province President, Mrs. Terrell. Her stay was culminated by a cooky-shine at which the pledges entertained with an elaborate performance.

Just before Christmas the pledges entertained the actives at the annual Christmas cooky-shine for which occasion the chapter room was elaborately decorated with Christmas trees and colored hangings. The festive atmosphere was enhanced by the presentation of a ten-cent prize to each member. On December 22 the chapter entertained with a formal dinner dance at the Northhills Country Club. As is customary, representatives from other women's fraternities attended.

Jaunita Wyatt has recently been given the lead in the musical comedy production. Sue Haley, Genevieve Penney, Mary Jane Kerwin, all freshmen, and Jessie Ehlers, were selected as members of the cast. Mary Jane Kerwin was named on the honorary hockey team announced at the fall banquet of W.A.A. Helen Konesko made the highest grades in the freshman class at the mid-semester. S. Marie Vaughn was elected vice-president of the senior class. Virginia Withington has recently been elected to Peppers, honorary pep organization for women.

Due to the enormous number of stags present at the dances given by the women's fraternities on the campus, Panhellenic passed a ruling whereby the number of men at any social function cannot exceed three times the number of women present. This regulation was observed at the Christmas dance.

As a measure of economy, no formal dances have been given by organizations, with the exception of the homecoming dance, sponsored by the men's fraternities.

W.A.C. plans to sponsor vocational lectures for the Drury women. These talks by business and professional women have in the past proved to be most interesting and well attended.

The Liberal Club has been newly-formed for those interested in international affairs and world peace. Virginia Jones is a member. New members of the Cosmopolitan Club are Mary Lucy Arnold and Mary Lou Patterson. Jane Ullmann is president of W.A.A. Jean Handley, Virginia Hogg, Virginia Jones, Jennie Taylor, and Virginia Wolfe are student assistants.

Chartered, 1925

Pledge Day, October 1, 1932

INITIATED, November 5, 1932: Lettie Bliss, Louise Brooks, Mary Bryan, Mildred McMillan, Martine Moredock.

Several groups on the campus have found it necessary to restrict their quarters, or omit lunching at their houses, or in other ways curtail their expenses. Kentucky A has maintained its usual standards, at the same time finding it possible to reduce dues and the cost of lunching together.

The picture of the chapter president, Dulcinea Straeffer, appeared recently in the Cardinal, university weekly, with that of the president of K. A., under the caption: "Outstanding Man and Woman."

The Thoroughbred, U. of L. yearbook, has announced a "Most Beautiful Girl" contest, to be judged by some well-known judge of feminine charm. Kentucky A is planning to enter several candidates. The chapter is also creditably represented on the staff of the Thoroughbred, as well as on the student committee selected by the dean to assist in planning changes in the curricula.

The university was fortunate recently in having the school of music, its newest department, opened by John Erskine. Through programs over radio station WHAS, the school of music, under Dean Jacques Jolas, has gained very favorable recognition in the East.

At Christmas time, Kentucky A, as has long been its custom, cared for families specified by the Family Service Organization. Because of the tremendous need at this season, the chapter by common consent omitted its customary Christmas party, and with the money ordinarily spent on gifts for each other, cared for two additional families.

Kentucky A held open-house December 16. Mildred McMillan and Nancy Gaitner have been forced by protracted illness to leave school for the present.

The midyear rush party will be a buffet supper, held at the chapter apartment. SARAH HALEY mons by the actives during the Christmas season in honor of the girls in the senior class of each local preparatory school.

Rebecca Jones sang the rôle of the angel in the music drama, Through Mary's Window, presented by the members of the university music department. Gladys Roberts was the organist for the drama and Ruth Wilber was one of the violinists. Delphia Tabb, dressed in a biblical robe and turban, ushered.

The chapter has open-house two Sunday afternoons each month for friends of the chapter.

Each pledge must participate in at least two extra-curricular activities before initiation.

The names of twenty-two actives and pledges appeared on the Dean's list for good scholarship, published at the end of the second quiz period. A high standard of scholarship is being urged among actives and pledges as the end of the first semester approaches.

The pledges gave the house a new combination radio and victrola.

Lucy Pope, president of college government association, attended the National Student Federation of America convention as a senior delegate from Florida State College. The convention was held in New Orleans the last week of December. She is also a member of many honoraries and was president of the women's intercollegiate association of student governments, whose convention was held on this campus last November. Shortly before Christmas, Wisconsin A enjoyed a very inspiring visit from Mrs. Webster, Eta Province President, who gave many helpful suggestions about chapter organization. During her stay, the chapter entertained at a luncheon in her honor; eleven members of the Milwaukee Alumnae Club, drove to Madison to attend.

WISCONSIN BETA—BELOIT COLLEGE

Chartered, 1919

Pledge Day, October 6, 1932

Wisconsin B has worked very hard in hopes that they can win the scholarship cup again. Not only are the actives putting forth more effort but they have been supervising pledge studying; an active goes to the freshman dormitory every night to see that the pledges keep working.

At homecoming a cup was awarded to the fraternity and sorority who had the most attractive and appropriate floats in the parade. Wisconsin B won with a Roman frieze typifying victory on one side and defeat on the other. Wisconsin B tied with  $\Delta \Gamma$  for the hockey cup.

Beloit College is encouraging the fraternities to build houses nearer the campus. Two years ago  $\Sigma X$  built and this year  $B \Phi \Pi$  is building a house. It is expected to be ready for occupancy at the beginning of next year.

Wisconsin B's Christmas project is unique because it will last indefinitely. At Christmas they gave baskets and clothes to two Beloit families and during the year they intend to keep in touch with the families by giving parties for the children and helping them in any way they can.

ILLINOIS EPSILON—NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

Chartered, 1894

Pledge Day, October 5, 1932

INITIATED, October 29, 1932: Jane Wheeler, River Forest; Martha Johnson, Wyandotte, Mich.; Jane Welliver, Philadelphia, Pa.

A trend toward the decrease of extra-curricular life at Northwestern has been the subject of much dispute within the past two months. Many traditional events such as the collegiate circus held in the spring, hobo day and the parade which accompany homecoming have been omitted from the student calendar.

W.S.G.A. operates a point system by which the activities of every girl in college are controlled and balanced. Each girl is advised to partake in one major and two minor activities, and upon her individual record corresponding points are recorded. As a result of this system the receivers of honorary awards may be more justly decided. The activity chairman of Illinois E, Jean Hoch, has devised a chapter chart of activities on which stars are placed opposite each girls' name for the various activities. In this manner a constant check can be made upon the chapter participation in campus life.

Frances Weir recently made Φ B K, and both Frances and June Ponader were awarded at honors' day.

Mrs. Webster, Eta Province President, visited the chapter the second week in November for a few days. An informal alumnae tea and a cooky-shine were given for her at the chapter house.

December 10 the Y.W.C.A. held its annual doll show, the subject of which was fairy tales. Sororities and organized houses dressed dolls and made scenes to represent different phases of story-book life. Illinois Z's subject was the pirate scene from Peter Pan. Δ Δ Δ won first place with a scene from the Pied Piper of Hamelin. Individuals also dressed dolls to portray the numerous characters of the most popular fairy tales. After the exhibit the dolls were sent to children in orphanages.

Arepo, a newly organized musical dramatics fraternity, presented the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, Yeomen of the Guard, on January 11 and 12. Arepo is a subdivision of the Illini Theater Guild.

At the last meeting of the Panhellenic Council, it was suggested that supervised study for pledges be discontinued. However, since the chapter is emphasizing scholarship particularly, it was decided to keep the pledges under supervised study for the rest of the semester. To encourage high scholarship, a reward is given at the end of the year to the girl in each of the four classes who has made the highest average.

One of the freshmen, Mary Gale, was elected to X X X, honorary fraternity for pre-medical students, and Elizabeth Ford was initiated into II M E, honorary mathematics fraternity. Mary Jane Chandler and Helen Jo Norris made Shi-ai, the sophomore honorary fraternity for women.

The alumnae in Champaign and Urbana gave their annual Christmas bridge for the actives at the chapter house on December 17. The chapter had its Christmas party December 20 and small gifts accompanied by an appropriate verse were exchanged.

The chapter is trying to get better acquainted with its transfers on campus this year by encouraging the girls to come to the house more often. The second Tuesday of each month all the transfers are guests of the chapter for dinner. They are also invited to the alumnae meetings and the chapter provides for their transportation to and from these meetings when they are held.

INITIATED, November 6, 1932: Josephine Fontaine, Minneapolis; Lois Habberstad, Lanesboro; Jeanette Hall, Wells; Lucille Larson, Faribault; Helen Leach, Fergus Falls; Betty Reinhard, Duluth.

The winter quarter has begun at Minnesota with an 11 per cent decrease in enrollment. Pledge Night, with dancing and a revue by campus talent was held at a Minneapolis hotel, January 14, as a climax to rushing week. With the return of fall rushing for sororities there is only informal rushing at this time with all girls eligible with the exception of those just entering.

A severe flu epidemic has taxed the university health service and hospital to its utmost capacity.

IOWA ALPHA—IOWA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

Chartered, 1868

Pledge Day, October 1, 1932

The university plan of extension work, first tried a year ago by Iowa Wesleyan, will be followed again this year by the college, to the advantage of non-residents unable to attend regular sessions.

To the college museum has been added a historic kitchen outfit, relic of pioneer days, and believed to be the only one in existence in the middle west. The ancient apparatus plainly depicts the hardships of living conditions endured by a past generation.

According to custom, men were again guests at the annual Thanksgiving banquet held on November 19 at Elizabeth Hershey Hall, under the supervision of senior women, and sponsored by all college women.

Professors T. E. Poulter and R. E. Crilley have returned from Arizona where they made scientific observations of the Leonide meteor showers during November, their working base having been established at Meteor Crater near Flagstaff. Complete results are being tabulated and compared by observers both in Arizona and Iowa.

Guy E. McLean, dean of the conservatory of music, has received an invitation to cooperate in making national a local music club, to be known as M Σ.

Research shows an increase in the use of the new P.E.O. memorial library over last year, both in circulation and attendance. To supply employment for students, and to accomplish the year's increasing duties, assistants have been added to the library staff.

The actives were invited by the pledges to "An Evening in Paris," on December 17. This, the customary Christmas cooky-shine, took on an aspect of revelry this year.

National honorary French fraternity, B II Θ, recently elected Frances Rich vice-president. ## IOWA BETA—SIMPSON COLLEGE

Chartered, 1877

Pledge Day, September 24, 1932

As is traditional at Simpson College, Handel's Messiah was presented by a chorus of more than 300 students the Sunday preceding Christmas vacation.

The main all-college social event of the winter season was the formal reception given by the senior class for the faculty and students.

As a step toward better spirit among the members of social organizations on the campus, different groups have been entertaining other groups at informal parties after the regular meetings on Monday evening. Iowa B has had as guests the members of A X O, B E O, Δ Δ Δ. Informal bridge and dancing and a short dance program by local children make up the entertainment.

A Christmas party and cooky-shine were held at the house December 19, with special guest, Theta Province President, Mrs. William Buxton, III, or "Betty" as she is better known by most Iowa B girls.

Iowa B is still working hard for better grades and more representatives in college activities. The chapter hopes soon to reach the goals of "first place in scholarship" and "no campus meeting without a II B Φ present." In order to increase activities, the weekly requirement of outside activity points for both pledges and actives has been raised. The pledges are now required to report seven points weekly and the actives five points.

Important campus activities to which members of Iowa B have recently been elected or appointed are Blackfriars Dramatic Club, Y.W.C.A. cabinet positions and standing committees.

Mrs. Buxton, Theta Province President, was a guest at the chapter house, January 9 and 10.

The aim of the student body of the University of Iowa this year is to bring about an active school spirit. Elaborate pep meetings and demonstrations are held before athletic games and students and alumni, together with the new coach, are co-operating to bring back the spirit of Old Gold.

With fine cooperation Iowa  $Z$  is trying to make  $\Pi B \Phi$  first in all campus activities. Recently the chapter won the exclusive right to sell Frivol, the college humor magazine, thereby earning money for the Settlement School. In connection with the Hawkeye yearbook contest,  $\Pi B \Phi$  placed third, three girls made the staff, and the candidate for beauty placed second, making her eligible for the final choice. Charlene Battey was elected to Seals, honorary swimming club; Roberta Proud was made a member of the university players; Martha Jilly was dolphin attendant in the recent swimming meet, being chosen by the university men swimmers.

Christmas was celebrated with the annual dinner with the Iowa City alumnae club at which time a gift was given to the Christmas tree for the Settlement School, reports were made of the school, and a gift of silver for the tea table was made to the chapter.

This year students seem to be more interested in scholarship. With final exams approaching study hall is held regularly every night from seven to nine and social activities temporarily suspended.

Chartered, 1927

Pledge Day, September 16, 1932

At the fall informal of South Dakota A, which was held in December, the Christmas spirit pervaded in the decorations. Contrary to custom, the senior hop this year was informal rather than formal. Christmas trees and lighted fires in the fireplaces gave a cheery atmosphere. The junior prom, held the first week in January, opened the formal season.

At the annual party given for the first grade children of a school in the poorer section of Vermillion, Santa Claus appeared to distribute gifts, popcorn balls, apples, doughnuts, and gingerbread men to the kiddies. In December, South Dakota A held its annual party for the patronesses and alumnae with a program given by the pledges. A ten-dollar gold piece and a silver plate were given the house by the patronesses and alumnae respectively.

School closed one day early because of an epidemic of influenza. The night before leaving a Christmas dinner and a party were enjoyed by all the girls.

The two student senators from the arts and science college of the university are Eldora Rempfer and Florence Parrish. Eldora Rempfer was initiated into  $\Theta A \Phi$ , national honorary dramatic fraternity. Beverly Bailey, June Brubacher, and Dorothy Crill are pledges to Playcrafters and Florence Parrish, Dorothy Pier, and Vivian Harvey are members of Apprentice Players. The outstanding social event of the year was the military ball held December 2 at which Mary Ulrich served as sponsor for one of the R.O.T.C. companies.

The pledges entertained at a formal dance at the house December 17 in honor of the actives which proved to be one of the most successful parties of the year.

The children of Lincoln alumnae were guests at the annual Christmas party and were royally entertained by Santa Claus and his mechanical toys. The chapter also provided Christmas cheer for a needy family in the city.

Members of Kansas B were guests in the house over homecoming, and several members of Nebraska B spent a delightful week-end as guests of Kansas A during the football season. The Cornhuskers achieved the Big Six championship in addition to individual members placing all-American honors.

Ruth Preston, Isabelle Menaugh, and Anne Bunting were guests at a Mortar Board tea honoring high scholarship.

At the annual Cornhusker Girls' party Mary Quigley officiated as mistress of ceremonies, Anne Bunting served as chairman of the program committee, and Virginia Howell won first place for the funniest costume.

KANSAS ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS

Chartered, 1873

Pledge Day, September 19, 1932

The campus has suffered the loss of Dyche Museum of Natural History which was closed by the order from the state board of regents. The building, declared unsafe by the state architect, also housed the department of anatomy and the latter was removed to the Commons Building.

Recent university visitors were Sir Harry Lauder, Richard Haliburton, Emmy Beckman, and Dr. T. Z. Koo. Major Walter O. Woods, former K.U. student, talked on "Uncle Sam's Money" at a university convocation October 31.

Although the University of Kansas achieved no championship during the football season, it is one of two teams to score against Notre Dame. The 1932 Sullivan Prize was awarded to the former Kansas athlete, Jim Bausch, for having done the most during the past year to advance the cause of sportsmanship.

An all activities ticket is being planned by student representatives to cut expenses for the future. This will mean an approximate yearly saving of sixty per cent of activity fees to students. Included in this ticket will be concert course, play and football tickets, the yearbook, and upkeep and completion of the Union building.

Late in October Kansas A received an unofficial visit from Mrs. Shrive Collins, Iowa Province Vice-president, while she was in Lawrence visiting the alumnae. A week later Miss Helen Stange, the new province president, favored the chapter with an official visit. During her stay a formal Halloween dinner and a midnight feed were given in her honor.

The chapter voted to change the initiation grade requirement to read two hours of B and no grade lower than C. This requires one less hour of B than in the past. Also, the merit system has been tentatively adopted for freshmen governing to replace the former method of straight camping.

In the musical comedy, Maid in Hollywood, written and produced by students, Laure Cooke was featured with a solo toe dance. Other members in the choruses were Violet Kisner, Jane Heffner, Marian Fegan, Winifred Koenig, and Margaret Ryan.

COLORADO ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

Chartered, 1884

Pledge Day, September 24, 1932

On December 6 and 7, Helen Stange, new Iota Province President, visited Colorado A. She was most charming and helpful. Her coming just before finals prevented any extensive entertaining, but a formal dinner was given in her honor. Her constructive criticisms and suggestions inspired the chapter to new efforts.

The freshman scholarship cup was awarded this year to Benneth Hanigan, whose average was highest in her class. Benneth was pledged to  $\Sigma E \Sigma$ , honorary freshman scholastic society, as were also Margaret Kunsmiller and Louise Epperson. I  $\Sigma$  II, honorary chemical fraternity, pledged Mary Foster and Virginia Grant. Margaret Anderson has become president of Y.W.C.A. Betsy Forbes very skillfully interpreted the lead in the homecoming play White Wings. Aileen Huyett was chosen band queen.

Colorado A has contributed as generously as possible to local community chest and charity enterprises. It is, besides, providing a quart of milk a day and food from surplus supplies at the house for one poor family.

In addition to the fall dance in honor of the pledges, at which the haunted house theme was carried out, the annual Christmas dance was given in Denver by Colorado A and Colorado B jointly.

A new skating rink has been constructed in the stadium for the benefit of students. It has two ice hockey fields, and promises to be a popular means of recreation.

During the Christmas holidays Mrs. Oliver C. Lester died very suddenly of pneumonia. She was the wife of the acting president of the university and was the mother of Katherine Lester Hinkley,  $\Pi B \Phi$ . She was a loyal and interested friend of  $\Pi B \Phi$  and her loss will be keenly felt.

COLORADO BETA—UNIVERSITY OF DENVER

Pledge Day, September 17, 1932

Outstanding in the events at the University of Denver during fall quarter was the dedication of the new Mary Reed Library. The library, a gift of a Denver philanthropist, Mrs. Verner Z. Reed, is one of the largest university libraries of the West. The dedication ceremonies were preceded by many chapels, luncheons, and banquets. At the formal dedication over one hundred and fifty colleges and universities were represented, as well as many libraries, churches, and foundations. Soon after the dedication of the library, a tea was held there to which all the mothers of university students were invited. The Mary Reed Library is built on the Gothic style of architecture with a large terrace stretching to the west from which the whole range of the Colorado Rockies may always be seen. An interesting feature of the library is a "Treasure Room" where only old, priceless volumes will be kept. All of the reference libraries, classrooms, and professor's offices contained there were ready for use at the beginning of winter quarter.

For the first time in several years, the University of Denver won the eastern division championship of the Rocky Mountain Conference in football. Colorado B, at the time of the game with Wyoming, entertained the members from Wyoming A at a tea. After the homecoming game, the alumnae of Colorado B were guests at a tea.

Scholarship, one of the most serious problems the chapter had last fall, seems to be improving. Although comparative women's fraternity averages have not yet been compiled, individual grades seems higher, and all but three of the sixteen pledges made the required average of five grade points for initiation.

This year the pledges entertained the actives at a Thanksgiving Dance at the Cherry Hills Country Club. As novel entertainment at the dance, the pledges staged an entire musical comedy. In December Helen Stange, Iota Province President, visited Colorado B. Class luncheons, a chapter dinner, and a faculty tea were given in her honor. During Christmas vacation the members were hostesses at a Christmas tea for the alumnae, followed by a cooky-shine and Christmas party for the chapter. For the fourth year Colorado A and Colorado B held a formal Christmas dance together at the Lakewood Country Club.

To stimulate enthusiasm in activities, the activity chairman has posted a wine and blue activity chart with stars recording each activity of each girl. This has proven not only an incentive for the chapter itself, but is interesting and helpful to any visitor at the house. This fall Betty Pollard was initiated into Drama Club, Betty Stovall and Mary Wilds were elected to  $K \Delta II$ , and Catherine Clark made  $H Z II$ . Dorothy Jones was chosen queen of the engineer's ball.

The chapter is already busy on its rushing program. The newly-elected rush captain, Charline Heath, with various groups of chapter members, held several small informal parties during the holidays.

WYOMING ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING

Chartered, 1910

Pledge Day, September 19, 1932

The chapter enjoyed a visit from Miss Mary Frost of Denver early in December. Miss Frost was able to give many helpful suggestions.

Wyoming A continues to maintain its high scholarship rating. The reports for the first term show that it will have an excellent chance at the cup which is awarded each spring at the honor assembly to the group attaining the highest average. Rather strict study table rules will be observed in an effort to attain this goal. Girls having an average below a two must report every free period from eight until four during class hours. Those below the general fraternity average must give up one date night each week and report for study table.

Margaret Thomas was winner of second place in the popularity contest sponsored by the Wyo, yearbook. A  $X \Omega$  placed first. Marion Isberg was chosen as an attendant to the queen of the engineer's ball. This is the outstanding social event of the fall quarter. Louise Wadsworth had a featured rôle in the  $\Theta A \Phi$  play The Ivory Door, presented during the fall term. In the next play, Rebound, Louise will have the lead. Marion McAllister will have an important rôle in this production. Five members were chosen for the varsity hockey team at the close of the season.

The champion Cowboy basketball team will again seek the conference title. The university skating rink was opened Christmas day through the combined efforts of students and townspeople, and is proving to be extremely popular. Most organizations will give their formal parties this term. The Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Press Association met on the Wyoming campus January 6 and 7. Wyoming A had as guests during the conference three members of Colorado B, delegates to the meeting from Denver University.

The D.D.M.C., a secret organization of the most prominent men students on the campus, was recently abolished by the order of the Board of Regents and its members expelled from college. The students were reinstated at once, however, by executive order of the governor.

The pledges gave the members a Christmas party and formal dinner December 15. The members and pledges exchanged places for the day, according to annual custom, with all the actives performing the usual pledge-duties. PAGE PECK

The most important event of the first semester was the visit of Miss Onken. During her stay a tea and banquet were given in her honor. The entire chapter expressed deepest gratitude for Miss Onken's inspiring addresses which brought to each member renewed interest and loyalty.

A plan to raise the chapter's scholarship standing is being carried out, by requiring everyone of attend study hall two hours, four days a week. This method is giving evidences of good results.

The social activities have been fewer this year. Although no dance was given this semester, a date has been set for one in the early spring. In order to become better acquainted with one another, the members and pledges have an informal gathering twice a month at the fraternity apartment. These simple meetings have been very popular. The rush party given on the eve of the Christmas holidays was enjoyed around a lovely Christmas tree.

Marion Caldwell was initiated into B II  $\Theta$ , French honorary fraternity.

INITIATED, October 28, 1932: Janet Atkin, Banff; Orpha Donovan, Edmonton; Helen Ford, Calgary; Lois Latimer, Canmore; Margaret Lang, Medicine Hat; Margaret MacDougall, Gwen Nixon, Edmonton; Mary Smith, Red Deer; Helen Timothy, Edmonton.

Helen Madden Russell, Lambda Province President, visited the chapter October 28 to 30, and officiated at the initiation ceremony on the evening of her arrival. Her visit brought both inspiration and guidance to the chapter in solving the difficult problems facing it.

The inter-year play competition took place in Convocation Hall on December 28. Margaret Durrell played the leading rôle in the senior class production and Mary Smith took a smaller rôle in the junior class play.

The chapter made up a Christmas hamper for a poor family residing near Edmonton. During Christmas week the local  $\Phi$  A fraternity was installed in  $\Delta$  K E. At the end of the fall term Monsieur Hector Allard, associate professor of French, left the university to enter the diplomatic service at Ottawa.

Rushing has been a complex and confusing problem this year. There have been already two rushing seasons: one in November for junior college women, and another in January for freshmen. This is felt to be a strain both on the finances of the chapters and the time and energy of the members. Therefore the local Panhellenic in conjunction with the dean of women, is looking for a better solution. The Edmonton and the Calgary alumnae clubs were of invaluable aid in their respective cities during Christmas rushing.

Jean Irving, pledge, was elected to membership on the junior class executive. The junior promenade, the most popular social function of the year was held in Athabasca Hall on December 9.

PLEGGED: October 28, 1932: Kathleen Howes Goddard, Cincinnati.

PLEGGED, November 28, 1932: Anna Malone, Edmonton; Hazel Wilkinson, and Flora Williams, Calgary.

Interfraternity sponsored a very novel dance on January 7. Men and women shared the price of admittance equally; dates were not allowed to enter the dance hall together; use of taxis was prohibited; no dances were exchanged between members of the same fraternity; men wore their "cords"; women wore simple dresses, used no cosmetics, and wore no jewelry. Mortar Board held its annually popular ladies' choice dance during January.

Students here are taking advantage of the winter weather and enjoying the invigorating recreation provided by skiing, skating, and tobogganing.

CALIFORNIA ALPHA—LELAND STANFORD JR. UNIVERSITY

Chartered, 1893

Pledge Day, January 20, 1933

The return to the campus of Stanford's most illustrious graduate on November 8 was the occasion for several student rallies. President and Mrs. Hoover and Stanford's president on leave, Ray Lyman Wilbur, and his wife were warmly welcomed. President Hoover closed his campaign with a few words to the students gathered around his home the evening of election day. Stanford is expecting the return of President Ray Lyman Wilbur shortly after March 4.

Several members of California A received athletic awards at the December athletic banquet. Betts Hawkins received a blanket which is the highest award presented. Louise Hudson and Marion Hewlett were given Block "S's." Charlotte Gibner was appointed hockey manager for the winter quarter. Louise Hudson was elected president of "S" Society.

During the summer quarter, Marian Jones had the lead in two plays, Home Chat and Way of the World, and in November she had one of the major rôles in the reading of Of Thee I Sing. Marian was also elected to the English club.

Louise Hudson was chosen a member of Cap and Gown which is the senior women's honorary society. Virginia Ingram, a freshman sponsor in Roble Hall, was chairman of the University Red Cross drive. Mary Della Callahan was chosen Stanford's most beautiful co-ed.

During the fall quarter, Panhellenic instituted several changes in the rushing rules intended, for the most part, to curtail expenses. Each women's fraternity is allowed to give one tea for the new women during the autumn quarter. The refreshments were limited to the very simplest kind because of the need for cutting down expenses. The entire women's student body was in charge of the annual carnival held for the purpose of raising money for the women's gym and the undertaking was even more successful than had been expected. Several members of California A were in charge of amusement booths and others assisted in making the Carnival a success.

PLEGGED, December 20, 1932: Kathrina Wallingford, Wichita, Kan.; Jean Keever, Aloha Apts., Leland Way, Hollywood. January 3, 1933: Jane Hewlett, San Francisco.

JANE WALL

CALIFORNIA DELTA—UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT LOS ANGELES

Chartered, 1927

Pledge Day, October 3, 1932

The most notable event on the campus this semester has been the rapid rise in competitive coast standing of the football team. Since this is a comparatively new university, the place which it has taken in athletic competition has not heretofore been so outstanding, but the fall marked a change in this condition, for U.C.L.A. has become one of the major teams of the conference. Such a step forward causes more school spirit; hence, the rallies and bonfires have been markedly enthusiastic and a spirit of pride and loyalty has grown up on the campus.

Provost Moore requested at an early assembly that the fraternities not spend so much on social affairs. Hence, many of the open-houses have been done away with; and admissions to school dances have been reduced in price. Such an economy tends to make the social events possible for all students and is another proof of the trend of the times which stresses these measures of reducing cost. The former open-houses and lavish decorations of homecoming week were abolished, an all-university dance taking their place. This chapter gave its Christmas dance at the house December 9.

The need for charity work has been felt on the campus to a great extent; many of the fraternities cared for entire families by providing food and clothing for the holiday season. Each member of this chapter brought supplies to the Christmas party, thus feeding a needy family for the holidays. The associated women students charity dance had this same purpose: to give happiness to those less fortunate than they.

Many Christmas parties were given the week before vacation; the Y.W.C.A. arranging an old-English festival dinner with parents and members of the faculty as special guests; Phrateres also gave a holiday party.

The annual visit of the province president, Mrs. Alford, opened with an inter-chapter dinner for California Γ and California Δ on November 30 at which Mrs. Warren T. Smith, Grand Vice-president, and Mrs. Alford were honor guests. The official visit for this chapter was early in December. The Glendale Alumnae Club gave its annual dinner for the officers of the two city chapters with Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Alford honored guests on December 8. At this time gifts were presented to both chapters from the alumnae club.

Two new types of social affairs for the benefit of the women have been introduced on the campus, the first being a small weekly tea given by the dean of women, Helen M. Laughlin, in her office for the purpose of acquainting herself with the new freshmen women and introducing these women to the officers and members of the Associated Women Students' Council. The second is known as a social hour and is given once a month in the women's lounge with all the women as guests; tea is served and bridge or conversation enjoyed. Both have become successful means of bringing together the women of this campus.

This chapter has a representative on three of the four class councils: Betty Fowler on the senior, Estelle Fowler on the sophomore, and Mary Elizabeth Leonard on the freshman.

PLEGGED: Jane Turner, Hollywood.

NEVADA ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA

Chartered, 1915

Pledge Day, Undecided

Mrs. Alford, Mu Province President, visited Nevada A in November. An informal tea was given in her honor, to which the mothers of the actives and pledges were invited.

Open-house was held on November 11, honoring the Olympic Club players. The whole campus was extended the invitation to attend. This was the only open-house held on the Nevada campus last semester.

December 10, a dance was held at the chapter house. Owing to the bank situation in Nevada, the affair took the form of a "depression" dance. Music was furnished by a radio. Several of the other fraternity and sorority chapters here held similar "depression" dances, and from all reports, they were just as successful as dances where an orchestra has been engaged.

Nevada A was the victor in the intramural basketball tournament this year. The cup which was presented must be won three times by one house before that house is allowed to retain it permanently. Last year the cup was won by the Independents.

December 20 a cooky-shine was held at the house, followed by an exchange of Christmas presents not exceeding fifteen cents each.

ARIZONA ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Chartered, 1917

Pledge Day, September 25, 1932

INITIATED, October 15, 1932: Elizabeth Daniel, Longview, Tex.; Nellie Jean Bouse, Jerome.

In the latter part of October, Arizona A enjoyed its annual visit from the province president, Mrs. Adele Taylor Alford. During her too-brief stay a tea was given for her at the house.

Halloween night the active members gave a party honoring the pledges, at which the pledges and actives exchanged places, the former happily putting their elder sisters through their paces as pledges.

The Tucson Alumnae Club gave an Arrow Craft tea at the home of Audrey Knapp for the benefit of the Settlement School.

The annual horseshow was held December 10, with Virginia Burton placing first in the walk, trot, and canter event and Mary Jane Hayden placing third in the same event; Anne Hayden places second in the pair jumping; Frances Huddleson took fourth in the single jumping, and Kay Teague placed fourth in Roman riding.

Just before the holidays the pledges gave the actives a backward party. No one was admitted unless she was in a costume put on backward, the furniture was turned facing the walls and the guests backed in. The refreshments were served on plates turned bottom up. A treasure hunt was held in pairs with the cues in verse. Adrienne Zimmerman and Eleanor Smith were the lucky pair.

The alumnae club gave a buffet supper after which they presented Arizona A with two silver bonbon dishes. The Phoenix Alumnae Club sent a silver sugar and creamer set. Later during the evening the pledge circus was presented. A prize was given for the best set of answers giving the name of the animal each girl represented.

UTAH ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF UTAH

Pledge Day, January 21, 1933

INITIATED, November 29, 1932: Mary Elizabeth Bergstrom, Jane Elaine Bering, Mary Burnett, Virginia Cripps, Margaret Alta Jensen, Afton Smith, Esther Thomas, Becky Nibley Whitney, of Salt Lake City; Irene Rebaleati, Eureka, Nev.

A change very important to the women's fraternities of this campus was made in early fall by Panhellenic. The major rushing season was changed from spring to winter quarter, and open rushing was assigned to the fall and spring quarters. It is hoped thus to lower the expenditure of time and money usually spent in rushing.

This year marked the sixth time the University of Utah has been crowned champion of the Rocky Mountain Conference in football.

In a recent survey made of colleges and universities of all regions in the United States, it was found that the annual individual expense at this university is second to the lowest of all state institutions.

In order that the current financial situation might be met within the chapter without an increase in the dues, a fashion show and card party was given in the Union Building. The affair was a success financially.

Social activities of Utah A, including rush parties and informal dances, have become quite simple, and are given at a nominal expense. Refreshments, in so far as possible, are contributed by the girls themselves. Entertainment, as well, is given by members.

Irene Rebaleati was taken into  $\Theta A \Phi$ , and had a leading character part in the annual play production, The Best People. Margaret Mary Lamplugh, Mary Elizabeth Terrell, Mary Burnett, and Virginia Parsons were chosen for  $\Sigma K \Phi$ , honorary language fraternity. B  $\Delta M$ , music fraternity, took into its membership Alberta Davidson, Jeannette Clawson, and Elizabeth Strong.

The annual Christmas party for children from unfortunate families was given at the house. Children from twenty homes were entertained and given gifts of food and clothing.

A.W.S. and W.A.A. were the hostesses at an informal afternoon party, given for all women students, shortly before the holidays. A variety of entertainment was offered, and it is felt that the spirit of democracy was furthered.

PLEGDED, October 22, 1932: Betty Corfman, Jeannette Clawson, Mary Morris, and Frances Parsons, all of Salt Lake City.

To Make Your Dance Clever and Unusual

PARTY THEME IDEA

Those fraternities which are interested in the original and unusual will be most enthusiastic about the party ideas suggested for various occasions such as a Pledge Party, Football Party, Monte Carlo Party, Hobo Party, or a Pirate Dance.

The favors and programs have been selected in harmony with the party motif and each article has been especially priced to fit the modern fraternity chapter's budget.

Why not make your dance distinctive by carrying out the party theme idea in your programs and favors?

And Now . . .

RIGHT UP-TO-THE-MINUTE FAVOR SERVICE

The Party Plan Catalog has been created especially for your fraternity—to assure you of receiving the newest and smartest of favors and party ideas.

UNUSUAL CONSTRUCTION PERMITS EXPANSION

As new favors are added to the Balfour line, new leaflets are inserted in the special pocket at the back of the book, designed for this purpose. In this way, the Party Plan Catalog gives your Fraternity all-year-round, up-to-the-minute Favor Service.
