YES, THIS IS HOW PI PHI GROWS. It is through the outstanding accomplishments of its active members. Miss America of 1963, Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, Illinois Epsilon Pi Phi from Sandusky, Ohio appears before the youth of America today as a shining symbol of noble womanhood. Her determination in pursuing a goal is admirable, but her humility on achievement of that goal is even more praiseworthy. Her identification with Pi Beta Phi reflects credit and honor on the Fraternity and on the system of which it is a part.

The ARROW bids to give your year a fraternal ending or beginning depending on the timing of its arrival. It brings the editor's hope that you have known a happy holiday and her wish that the coming year will hold a generous portion of happiness and achievement for each of you.

All fall your husbands, sons, brothers, and perhaps some of you heard sportscasters comment that football was a game of inches. Particularly was that phrase employed in tense moments when a play barely missed its mark.

About that time I was finding that magazine editing and mailing can also be a game of inches. The fall ARROW was a week late getting to the printer because I missed my mark while reaching in a folder for a paper in our weekly newspaper shop and snipped a fraction of an inch off a typing finger. Some six weeks later another fraction of an inch reared its minute head to delay the mailing of the magazine.

This occurred when Central Computing Company in Decatur, which prepares the huge rolls of ARROW mailing tapes, specified that the tape to be used would be punched for perforation every 2 and 11/16 inches; and our printers, George Banta Company, had a wheel made for its mailing machine that would cut the tape at such intervals. However, when the tape arrived and was put on the mailer, it was found to be punched every 2 and 13/16 inches—a difference of 1/8 of an inch. This required the making of a new wheel for the machine before the magazine could be addressed and mailed.

It was a tense moment—and our "play" missed its mark in not getting the magazine to you when we had hoped it would be there—early in October.

The girl who didn't miss her mark graces our cover this issue. Jackie Mayer seems completely worthy of this outstanding honor that she achieved early in September. I know that Pi Phi everywhere who watched her the night she was named Miss America and who have kept up with her activities since are filled with justifiable pride.

In compiling the information for this issue it was my privilege to come to know her lovely mother, Beverlie Buck Mayer, through a telephone conversation and correspondence. Knowledge of Jackie's wonderful family and their happy home gives a better insight into her preparation for that big moment in her life which came in the Miss America Pageant.

Her father, Jack Mayer, is president of a small manufacturing firm, Sandusky Nut and Machine Company, which does sub-contract work. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club and was an organizer and charter president of the second Kiwanis Club organized in Sandusky—which is a town of 33,000. For many years he was Council President of the Camp Fire Girls. He had already known pride in his daughter in those days when she attained the highest local rank in Camp Fire Girls three times in homemaking, dance, and music.

Mrs. Mayer apparently is one of those remarkable people who can crowd thirty-six hours activity into a twenty-four hour day and love it. She is in her fourth year as a full time teacher of vocal music in Adams Junior High, where she handles 400 seventh graders daily. She directs the Congregational Church choir and the Firelands Chorus, a semi-professional group of 35 lovers of singing. She says that in her spare time she "manages a few piano and voice lessons, keeps house, prepares a few meals, tries to coerce someone else into ironing, and listens to the various tales of whatever young people are in the house at the time."

Jackie's older brother, Lynn, was not at the Pageant to appear with the family because he was already in Phoenix, Arizona, working on his master's degree at the Institute of Foreign Trade. Beth, the sister who is 14 months younger than Miss America, charmed everyone she met in Atlantic City with her bubbling personality. She is a sophomore in the Conservatory of Music at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio. There is no Pi Phi chapter at Berea, so Beth did not have an opportunity to join her sister in Pi Phi and chose Alpha Gamma Delta as her sorority. The proud younger brother, James, who joined Jackie on-stage when she was crowned, is a busy man in Sandusky High sports and musical activities. He is a junior student out for football, swimming, tennis, and baseball, sings with the A Cappella Choir, is a member of Keynotes, an instrumental group, and was elected to Octet this year. He is vice-president of this year's Junior Class and on the Student Council.

. . . This brief introduction to the Mayer family seems to lead to an obvious and heart-warming conclusion . . . Pi Phi's new Miss America comes from an All-American family.

In the fall ARROW you saw the new Loom House at Settlement School and read of the dedication of the Evelyn Bishop Lounge in the building. That lounge, which is a memorial to one of the school's most dedicated staff members, was made possible through the gifts of Pi Phis and friends in Gatlinburg. Henrietta McCutchan Huff, who helped administer the fund, wrote me in September that $600.00 was given and that she was sure that all Pi Phis who had contributed would be very happy with the type of memorial that their gifts had helped establish.

Two fine people who have enriched the programs of the Settlement School and Arrowcraft immeasurably have both chosen to retire from active service this year. You will find news of their retirement and a word of appreciation from the Settlement School committee and Fraternity in the Little Pigeon section of this magazine.

Marjorie Chalmers and Winogene Redding have served as nurse and weaving instructor over a long period of years and each has given freely of her talent, time and interest to build the Settlement School program into a stronger and more productive endeavor.

To say they will be missed is a classic understatement. They cannot help but be remembered always, because the evidence of their contributions lives quite abundantly everywhere you turn at the Pi Beta Phi Settlement School and Arrowcraft facilities in Gatlinburg.

The attention paid to that outstanding Pi Phi, the late Grace Goodhue Coolidge, in the magazine in recent issues has brought word of the death of one of Mrs. Coolidge's closest friends from active chapter days on through her life. Ethel S. Guptil, who died in August of this year at the age of 81, was one of the founders of Vermont Beta along with Grace Goodhue. Later she was young Grace's maid of honor when she married Calvin Coolidge. Mrs. Guptil was a loyal supporter of Pi Beta Phi for 64 years. She had lived in New Haven, Connecticut, for the past 40 years and was active in its civic work until her death.

The annual report of National Scholarship Chairman Helena Moore, which appears in this issue, should be a source of real pride to all members of Pi Beta Phi, both active and alumnae, and should serve as a challenge to active chapter members in their academic work this year.

Speaking recently, Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., who has succeeded Dr. Herman B Wells as president of Indiana University said, "A fraternity chapter offers a unique opportunity in emphasizing scholarship endeavors, one of the reasons why fraternities have a lasting place on our campuses."

Surely there is no area in which the college members of our Fraternity can render greater service to their chapter, the Fraternity at large, and the entire fraternity system than that of scholarship.

A well planned chapter scholarship program offers both incentive and guidance to the individual member. But it does a great deal more than that in its success. It maintains the concept that the fraternity system is capable of making real and lasting contributions in the field of academic excellence. It gives irrefutable proof that the fraternity is cognizant of our basic reason as individuals for being on a college campus and that it accepts its responsibility to challenge us to give our best in fulfilling that reason.

The net gain of academic achievement by an individual always accrues to her in the benefits that she will know throughout her life as a result of her study and academic accomplishment. Her sorority enjoys the fringe benefits of respect, admiration, and evidence that it has met the test of its ideal of worthy scholarship.

As we reach the mid-way point in this college year, there is still time to re-evaluate our efforts as individuals and our programs as chapters in the scholarship area. If the experience of a semester has taught us new lessons, revealed weaknesses or pointed up strong points, that experience should be used to the fullest advantage in the time that remains in the college year.

If this is done, there is every reason to believe that the 1963 Scholarship Report will exceed that made this year, and that the accomplishments of the individuals who made it so will play a vital part in making their campuses better today and our world a better place tomorrow.

Cheers formed a background for Miss America Pageant emcee Bert Park's repeated announcement that "Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, Miss Ohio, is our new Miss America," when another voice slipped onto the air with, "She is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority."

Those words from a Pi Phi sister, Marilyn Van Derbur, 1958 Miss America, brought a breathless thrill to thousands of Pi Phis across the nation on September 8, 1962. The special kinship developed in sorority sisterhood formed a background of its own for a great, collective feeling of immeasurable pride and happiness that one of Pi Phi's own had again been judged the epitome of fine young womanhood.

A message of congratulations in the name of the Fraternity from the Grand President went out immediately and arrived with those from Illinois Epsilon sisters and bales of others.

Jackie Mayer of Sandusky, Ohio, had pledged Pi Beta Phi at Northwestern University in 1960 and was initiated in 1961. This versatile young woman, who was to know unanimous approval as a Miss America candidate, came to Pi Phi from a warm and happy home, on the heels of an outstanding high school career and an unusual experience as an American Field Service Student in Austria. She interrupted her college career in 1961 to accept an invitation to travel for a year with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians.

Last summer she won the Miss Vacationland title that led to any entry in the Miss Ohio contest—and suddenly the path of Jackie Mayer took a momentous turn toward the threshold of international recognition and fame when she was named Miss Ohio and thus designated her state's representative to the Miss America Pageant.

On winning the Miss Ohio title, Jackie Mayer had confessed to a dream held from childhood—that of winning her state's top beauty and personality title and with it a chance to compete for the Miss America honor. The fact that both dreams did come true for this lovely hazel-eyed, brunette daughter of Beverlie and Jack Mayer, is due in large measure to the fact that she didn't leave the development of that eventuality purely to wishing.

Blessed with much natural beauty, a keen mind and musical talent, she had worked resolutely through the years to guard the beauty through self-discipline, to broaden and deepen the mind through study and vicarious learning, and to develop the talent through practice and hard work.

Coincidentally these are the attributes that writers often associate with the building of the great nation Jackie Mayer now represents. They also reflect ideals underlying the fraternity system of which she is a part. The knowledge of their embodiment in her life and career adds a deeper meaning for many in those words,

"She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority."

AS A CONTESTANT . . .

A big Ohio smile in Atlantic City parade.

Suddenly she was no longer Jackie Mayer, a 20 year old girl who couldn't decide for herself whether to continue to travel with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians or to return to Northwestern University in the fall of '62; for now she was "Miss America," Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, the American ideal of womanhood and reigning beauty of the world. Her life was no longer her own and for a full year she would have to discard her previous plans in order to become this shining goddess of beauty, talent and personality.

Almost immediately after Maria Beale Fletcher placed the coveted crown on Jackie's head, she was spirited away to her room which was flanked by a guard keeping a night's vigil at her door. She was permitted to see her family for a brief time and then was left in a sort of solitary confinement. That night the delegations from Ohio and Texas celebrated her winning by throwing a big impromptu party, complete with a band, in the downstairs lobby of Jackie's motel. Jackie's younger sister, Beth, entertained the guests by singing a few selections. Also Gerry Toti, a soloist from the Waring group, shared his talent with the exuberant crowd. And at the same time, in the same building, the missing guest of honor sat alone in her room, munching on a hamburger and a malt, aware of the tumultuous party that was being given in her honor, but unable to attend due to pageant policy.

The few weeks between her Ohio victory and the subsequent trip to Atlantic City were filled with hectic activity for the brunette miss. She was advised by Atlantic City officials to change her talent selection. For the Ohio contest she had given the dramatic reading from St. Joan. Because this piece had been done so many times in the past and had been butchered almost as frequently as it had been performed, it was felt that even if she were able to perform it well, it would be an automatic strike against her. Thus Jackie was prompted to change her selection. This problem proved easy to solve, as Mrs. Mayer, Jackie's mother, wrote a new talent sketch for her daughter which incorporated a bit of singing, dancing, and dramatic reading talent. This seemed to be a genius plan, as it manifested Jackie's versatile talent capacity.

The week before the pageant began, Jackie went to New York City to confer with her aunt, a prominent fashion designer, on her wardrobe plans. She and her aunt spent endless hours visiting the many famous fashion salons and finally Ceil Chapman joined their ranks and the three women plotted the meticulous fashion course which Jackie was to follow. They selected one unifying color, spanish red, which Jackie wore as often as possible. Her inter-

Stars In Her Eyes

view dress, bathing suit and talent cocktail dress were all spanish red, a color that served to accentuate Jackie's lovely tan and made the most of her dark coloring.

While in Atlantic City, she shared a suite with the vivacious "Miss Texas," Penny Lee Rudd. She and Jackie became friends and spent the entire pageant week in close contact with each other. They both adopted jello as their main dish for every meal. They requested so much jello that the motel had to make a special order and provision so that these two young ladies could have their desired jello diets.

Jackie's official chaperone for the week was her mother, who was her constant companion day and night. She was responsible for Jackie's safety and regimentation. Jackie, like the other 51 contestants, was not permitted to speak to any males, not even to her own father.

The pageant week was rigorous. Jackie openly admits that her year of travel with the Waring group was of immeasurable help as far as cultivating the enviable social poise which she possesses.

Upon meeting Jackie, one would not find her to be an extrovert. Her general mood is quiet and reserved. Her self composure enables her to meet almost any situation with a serene charm. She might be described by a personal friend as a true lady, sincere, genuine, and as loyal a friend as anyone might ever wish to have. She radiates warmth and sincerity.

Within a month she and her two female chaperones were to travel to London and Paris where she would make personal appearances. Around October 25th she was to appear in Chicago, but whether she would be able to escape for a brief visit with her Northwestern friends and Pi Phi sisters was doubtful. She is simply not permitted to deviate from her carefully planned schedule.

Her headquarters are in New York City where she operates out of the Parklane Hotel. All her phone calls and mail are screened. She receives hundreds of marriage proposals weekly, and adoring letters from small children who beg for an autographed photograph or a letter for their scrap book.

Jackie was the only "Miss America" in the entire history of the pageant who ever received the unanimous vote of all the judges.

Jackie's very nature is not presumptuous or pompous. She never has considered herself a "femme fatale" nor one extremely endowed with good looks.

She hopes to return to Northwestern next fall to finish her college education and to head for a serious career in drama. Her name appearing with those of the immortal stars of Broadway may eventually become a reality, for as Arlene Dahl said of Jackie, "This girl was born with stars in her eyes."

The Story of a Pi Phi

by Beverlie Buck Mayer

Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer was born on a hot August 20, 1942, just about the time most of the nurses were off to lunch and at Good Samaritan Hospital in Sandusky, Ohio, so that father Jack thought for a while he was going to be the chief obstetrician. She was the second child, following a two year old brother Lynn, and was named for her father and her brother, with her second name for her only cousin on Daddy's side.

She was a very active child; by the time she was nine months old she was walking. The only thing that did not come quickly was speech, because for three years she used only vowel sounds and climbed to get her wants fulfilled when people did not understand her. At five she started tap dancing lessons, which continued for thirteen years, augmented by five years of ballet with Kay Lutes, who is the leading teacher of the Cecchetti method of ballet training in this area. School to Jackie was fun, and with a certain amount of studying she managed to make good grades. She always loved to sing, and since Mother is a music teacher, she began her piano lessons at home. When she reached junior high, she also took clarinet and in high school added bassoon to her accomplishments.

Jackie was already looking up at the age of five.

Her first dramatic role was as a seven year old in the Harlequin's (Sandusky's little theater group) production of "The Great Big Doorstep." This she loved, and each year pestered to be in another show. Her greatest playtime activity was putting on "shows" . . . after cowboys, for she was a horse fan without ever owning a horse. Her assortment of play pistols and gun holders rivaled any boy's in the neighborhood.

In high school, besides four years of band, she was the soloist for the dance band and filled in as accompanist on occasion. As a sophomore she was selected for A Cappella Choir and the following year made the exclusive Key Notes group and Octet. She was one of four freshmen chosen for Swan Club, the synchronized swimming group whose yearly show plays to sold-out houses.

Her greatest honor in high school was to be chosen by the American Field Service as the first Sandusky High student for the winter Americans Abroad program. On a month's notice, with French as her background language, Jackie mastered enough German to sail for her six-month stay at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bruno Sitka in Kapfenberg, Austria. Here she made many new and dear friends, the best of whom was Irmi Sitka; and here she learned to think as an international with a firm belief in American democratic principles.

After her return to her American home, she was accepted as a Freshman at Northwestern. The first week was that mad period known as Rush Week. Jackie met many lovely girls in various sororities and became more and more confused about which one to pledge. She had sought help in making up her mind. Mother had belonged to a local at Baldwin-Wallace, so this was no help. I remember telling her to look for girls with similar interests and to try to evaluate the group by the composite picture or impression the girls made upon her. One set of girls had this, another had that, and then she said, "Mother, there are several American Field Service students in the Pi Phi house." I reminded Jackie how difficult it was to be chosen as an AFS student, how the students were sorted, sifted, and screened for these scholarships. Then I suggested she go to bed Wednesday night and sleep on it. Jackie always said that she went to bed Wednesday night not knowing what to do and awoke the next morning with the certain knowledge that she should give Pi Phi her first choice. Jackie has a strong inner faith that helps her in difficult times—call it what you will, a feminine intuition, a guiding light, a Divine Power. It is there, and she believes in it and trusts it. For this is what made her a Pi Phi, this is what led her to accept Fred Waring's offer to be a Pennsylvanian last year, and this is the magic that carried her victoriously through Miss Vacationland, Miss Ohio, and now Miss America.

HONOR STUDENTS 1961-1962

It is the fraternity's privilege to acknowledge and commend its members who distinguished themselves with high scholastic honors during the year 1961-62. In so doing, they have upheld one of the highest ideals of Pi Beta Phi. It is regrettable that twenty chapters failed to file a report, and that some very worthy scholars are not listed for this reason. Fifteen of the other eighty-eight chapters reported no such honors this year.

The following breakdowns are given to recognize the three chapters and provinces having the largest number of members in each category. In some cases more than three are listed because of existing ties.

Kansas Beta's new home

New Pi Phi

KANSAS STATE

Climaxing several exciting years of planning, building, and decorating by the actives and alumnae of the Kansas Beta chapter of Pi Beta Phi, the new four-story Pi Beta Phi sorority house was officially dedicated Saturday, October 13, 1962, by the national president, Mrs. Alice Weber Mansfield. Construction on the French Regency home, located at 1819 Todd Road, Manhattan, Kansas, was begun June 1, 1961; however, the lot was purchased in 1958 and the original plans for the new home were drawn during 1959. The old chapter house, located at 505 Denison and sold to the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, was vacated by the women June 1, 1962.

Wolfenbarger and Associates of Manhattan were the architects, while the general contractors were Smith, Toothacher and Nolder. The electrical contractors were Yeo and Truby, and the plumbing was furnished by Powell Brothers, all of Manhattan. Mrs. Joe Price of Price Rugs and Draperies, Overland Park, Kansas, was the interior decorator. The 25,000 square foot lawn was landscaped by the Blueville Nursery. Contract price of the home was listed at $325,000.

The French Regency home with a mansard roof is completely air conditioned and houses 60 girls plus the housemother. The exterior, Arkansas white brick with black wrought iron decorations, utilizing the Pi Beta Phi symbol, the arrow, appears on the balcony, door panels, and stairways. Black wrought iron lamps offset the extended front porch. Four floors comprise the elegantly furnished home. Pink marble floors, which highlight the entrance, contrast with the dark cherry furniture upholstered in soft rose and pale blue. Leading in from the back patio, the terrace room is a popular place to play bridge or listen to the stereo set before dinner. The terrace room features the pink marble floor and two trophy cases built into mahogany paneling.

A white grand piano sets a luxurious atmosphere in the living room, decorated in shades of green and blue. The cut stone fireplace, set into mahogany paneling, is flanked by large built-in bookcases. Hand painted double-sheer curtains extend from the ceiling to the celodan carpeting.

Three Italian gold candelabras and indirect lamps light the dining room, which can seat 100 persons at one time. The ten cherry dinner tables feature formica tops. Pale blue brocade drapes complement the ivory and light blue walls and the ivory vinyl tile floors.

The completely stainless steel efficiency kitchen was designed explicitly for cooking for large numbers of people. Three electric ovens, a gas stove, and the deep frier assure maximum oven space. The metal storage cabinets have stainless steel tops. The extra large refrigerator features four cold storage compartments. Four stainless steel sinks, one for the head cook, another for the second cook, the third for the houseboys and the last in the dishwashing area, are located in separate areas for convenience. The dishwasher and drier are by Hobart. Two popular items with the Pi Beta Phi women are the ice cube maker and the cold milk machine. An outside delivery entrance opens into the pantry. A dish storage warmer keeps hot meals ready until service. The quarry tile floor means easier cleaning.

Three rooms comprise the housemother's suite. Mrs. Josephine Haight, of Fayetteville, Arkansas, is enjoying her first year with the Pi Phis. Her living room, decorated in blue and lavender, features a small kitchenette for entertaining. A pink tile bath and her bedroom complete her private rooms.

Light blue wrought iron stair railings with the arrow design lead to the upper floors. The second and third stories contain the bedrooms. There are fifteen rooms on each floor as two girls share each room. Every bedroom contains a studio couch, desk, built-in chest of drawers and a double closet. The rooms host individual color schemes, and the president's room is decorated in the Pi Beta Phi colors, wine and blue. Two sleeping dorms on each floor

Homes at . . .

OKLAHOMA STATE

New home of Oklahoma Beta

A lovely new home welcomed the Oklahoma Betas as they returned to classes this fall. The members were filled with excitement and wonder as they toured their new home for the first time. Each girl was overwhelmed with gratitude to everyone who had helped make this dream come true.

The house, built in provincial style of used brick with white trim, is the newest one on the campus at Stillwater and will be the new home for 72 Oklahoma Beta active members. The new house had to be big, simply to fit the needs of so many girls in one place at one time. Yet, by using low beamed ceilings and dividing its main living and entertaining areas into special sections, its planners avoided a barn-like appearance.

Another surprise was the way the builders put the huge structure on the lot without destroying several native elms. One elm is encircled by a well in the front courtyard and others stand at the edge of the back patio. The house is located at Fourth and Cleveland, a few blocks from the University campus, and as you approach it, you notice immediately how the trees frame the house, soften its steep roof, and shade the paved courtyard in front.

The courtyard is enclosed by a low brick wall with wooden benches set just inside it. The yard is paved in concrete squares set in a diamond pattern with strips of used brick separating them. All the movable furniture in the courtyard is black wrought iron. On the long porch, however, the settees and chairs are of white wrought iron, as white as the wooden supports and trim on the house itself.

Beautiful double front doors with decorative handles lead to the inside. A color scheme of off-white and pale blue and French provincial furnishings were chosen for the interior. A long gallery runs the width of the house just inside the front door, and a low used brick wall topped with white wooden balustrades divides the gallery from the spacious clubroom-cardroom beyond.

Like an inverted T, the pink tile paving is used in the gallery and in a strip extending between the companion clubroom and cardroom. These rooms are twins and are furnished almost identically. Though much of the wood is French provincial antiques white with gold trim, there are some tables and chairs in walnut. The quilted built-in divans that run the width of the rooms against the balustrades are done in flowered blue on off-white. Both areas have ranch plank floors with soft off-white rugs edged in long fringe. These are shaped to fit conversational groupings of the furniture.

There are enough differences, though, to give each area individuality. The entire south wall of the cardroom is filled with trophies protected by a glass front. The backing here is of the same flowered blue fabric used on the long sofas. In the clubroom, it is the pale blue baby grand piano that catches the eye. Finished to match exactly the other light blues in the room, the piano was presented by Mrs. F. E. Stanley of Nowata, Oklahoma.

If the clubroom-cardroom has rich informality, the parlor has a plush elegance. It is separated from the other living areas only by the gallery, but what a difference in tone. There is thick off-white carpeting instead of flooring and rugs. The fabric used at the windows is the same heavy off-white linen as the cafe curtains in the other parts of the house, but it is made into full-length drapes held back by wide self bands. The colors, though they stay within the realm of blues and whites, go in for a wider and deeper scope. Some of the blues are almost purple, some are mountain blue, and some border on turquoise. Yet, there is still enough of the pale blue to reflect the other parts of the house. The huge fireplace that nearly fills one wall, the handsome credenza, the sconces and a dainty wrought iron candelabra all combine to produce an air of true grandeur.

The hostess' suite is across the hall from the parlor and follows the blue and off-white color scheme which is pretty as a background for the mahogany furniture. The guest room, reserved mainly for visiting officers, opens through double doors from the cardroom and has a long window looking out onto the back patio.

From the clubroom, folding louvered doors open into the huge dining room. The blue wainscotted walls and the flowered wall paper above echoes the design on the living area divans. The tables seat eight girls each and are in walnut with matching chairs upholstered in blue.

The bedrooms for the 72 girls in the three-story house are all decorated in similar style with varying color keynotes. The predominating color may be yellow, pink, blue or green, and the draperies and plaid bedspreads in each room blend with the main color. A desk and pole lamp for each girl and a dresser finished in walnut for each two girls complete the furniture arrangement.

Everywhere there are telephones in special wall insets—an absolute necessity, as everyone will agree, when 72 girls are living together in one house. There is also a lounge with a coffee urn handy for late hour studying, a laundry room equipped with two washers and two dryers, and a sundeck laid in redwood, an added feature for those sunny Oklahoma days.

Mrs. Phil C. Bennett of Oklahoma City was in charge of the fund drive for the house and worked with professional decorators from New York and Chicago on the interior.

The house was officially opened just before classes started this fall, when hundreds of alumnæ throughout Oklahoma and surrounding states were invited to visit. But, more fun than just visiting is living in this lovely house, according to the Oklahoma Pi Beta Phis.

hold 16 girls per dorm. The fireproof rooms have sound-proof acoustical plaster ceilings and brown and white vinyl tile floors.

Unique to the second floor is the lounge, which opens onto the serenade balcony that overlooks the front porch. A hairdryer and card tables are included in the lounge.

A pink bath on second and a yellow on third are floored with ceramic tile. Special features include fold-out ironing boards and built-in sprayers.

A full basement holds the furnace room, a laundry room featuring a Norge washer and dryer, a snack bar, the cook's room, the houseboy's rooms and adjoining bath, the chapter room and archives, the recreation room with television, and private guest room, closet and bath.

The house corporation trustee committee formed the nucleus of the planning group. They are Mrs. Charles (Nadine Smith) Green, president, Mrs. E. L. (Lillian Beck) Holton, treasurer, Mrs. T. J. (Elanor Dempsey) Griffith, Mrs. Gerald (Dorothy Kendall) Smith, secretary, Mrs. Ward (Jean Holmgren) Keller, Mrs. Ralph (Ruthana Jones) Lashbrook, and Mrs. Chester (Edith O'Brien) Brewer, who acted as the chairman of the house building committee. Others who actively assisted are Mrs. Perle (Jean Lawson) Botlger, Miss Beverly Hayes, Mrs. Ivan Wassberg, Miss Helen Moore, and Mrs. John Busenbark.

For Mrs. E. L. Holton, a Golden Arrow member and an outstanding Pi Beta Phi member, this newest Kansas Beta house is the third for which she has contributed her tireless efforts. Mrs. Holton has served Pi Beta Phi for many years, including 17 years as a national officer. She was the assistant to the national treasurer, the chairman of the Settlement School Committee and the counselor for the House Corporation during this time. She helped organize the first Kansas Beta chapter house, and has been instrumental in both the building and furnishing of the second and third houses. Mrs. Holton has served as treasurer of the Kansas Beta Alumnæ House Corporation for many years. It is through such outstanding people as Mrs. Holton and the house corporation trustee committee that the new Pi Beta Phi sorority house was finished for fall rush week of 1962 and the women were able to enjoy the new home immediately upon their return to Kansas State.

Golden Arrow Pi Phis

Life and Its Problems Have Been Her Challenge

Norma Council O'Bannon was initiated into Pi Beta Phi's Illinois Eta Chapter in 1912. Fifty years later she had a role in the installation of the Fraternity's 108th chapter in the state that has been her home for the past 49 years, Mississippi, and said at that time,

"Now, after fifty years of being a Pi Beta Phi, I am ever thankful for this honor and I still say how inspiring to be a Pi Beta Phi. I shall endeavor to be worthy of the name."

The remarkable record of leadership in the fields of education and other civic improvement compiled by this Golden Arrow Pi Phi speak out boldly in testimony to the fact that she has been truly worthy.

A modern school in Greenville, Miss., bears the name "O'Bannon School" in grateful recognition of her determined leadership in consolidating, improving, and expanding colored school facilities in Washington County, Miss., where she has been County Superintendent of Education the past fifteen years.

Norma O'Bannon carried the critical problems of scattered, inadequate colored school facilities to every group in her area—from the people to their elected representatives in state government. In twelve years, the program she instigated and persevered for had resulted in the reduction of the number of colored schools from 81 to 7. She had inspired and challenged Negro teachers to bring up accreditation from 114 below standard licenses to only 9 at present and from 38 with bachelors' degrees to 125 with such degrees and from no teachers with masters' degrees to eleven with such degrees.

In her fifteen years as superintendent nearly three million dollars have been spent on all schools with much of that coming from bond issues urged by Mrs. O'Bannon and her co-workers. Colored schools have evolved from frame, one room buildings to new brick buildings with well equipped and planted campuses—all with cafeterias and central libraries and all high schools with gyms, auditoriums, shops, science laboratories, business education and home-making departments.

When she was nominated for a civic award in 1961, a fellow townsman paid tribute to Dr. O'Bannon for,

"The tremendous improvement brought about, almost singlehandedly in colored education in Washington County, particularly in school facilities . . . and in upgrading qualifications of all school teachers," and he called her, "the one most powerful influence in establishing and constantly improving racial relations throughout the county."

Dr. O'Bannon received her A.B. degree from Milliken University in 1912 and that University awarded her an honorary Doctor of Pedagogy in 1959. She earned an M.A. degree from the University of Alabama in 1938 and has done graduate work at seven other colleges and universities ranging from the University of Michigan to the University of Florida.

She is an active member of eleven civic groups in Greenville including the DAR, AAUW, Business and Professional Women's Club and was the first woman to be elected an officer of the Greenville Community Fund. She has been recognized in Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who in American Education, and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

She married Fred O'Bannon soon after moving to Greenville with her parents and has one daughter, Mrs. Frank Holiman and two grandsons.

Looking back on her fifty busy years since her Pi Phi initiation, Mrs. O'Bannon says she is grateful for their varied experiences, glad and sad, and adds,

"Life and its problems have been my challenge; a healthy body my security; an active mind has given me an incentive for work and service; and open heart has helped me share and love and understand; my wish is to use every day to the fullest to grow 'before the Lord.'"

Two Valued Staff Members Retire

December, 1962, will record two important milestones in Settlement School history with the retirement of Mrs. Marjorie Chalmers and Miss Winogene B. Redding. Each has devoted a considerable number of years in serving the Settlement School and the Fraternity owes an immeasurable debt of appreciation and gratitude to both of these fine resident staff members for their many contributions.

Thank You, Marjorie Chalmers

After twenty-seven continuous years, Mrs. Marjorie Chalmers retires as Registered Nurse in charge of health service and education at the Jennie Nicol Memorial Health Center. "Miz Charmer," as she is known, brought patience, tact, and tirelessness when she came in 1935 to assume her vital position in the community.

She has witnessed the growth of Gatlinburg from a quiet little village to the bustling tourist town of today and has ever kept Health Center services abreast of the changing times. She served thirteen years at the Old Health Center and was especially happy when the "new" Health Center was built in 1948.

With Marjorie's warm personality, ability, and dedication to her work, the way was paved to trust and love; the Health Center came to be what Marjorie herself was—a haven in time of need.

Initiated in 1958

Pi Beta Phi was honored to initiate Mrs. Chalmers into the Fraternity at the 1958 Swampscott Convention and to make her a part of the organization for which she had worked so selflessly and faithfully.

Her code through the years is expressed in her own words, "May I never be too busy with persons to care for personalities. May I never see duty so clearly as to be blind to its blessings. May I always find beauty in life and be ever grateful for each loveliness that I find."

Although "Miz Charmer" is retiring, she will not be forgotten by the thousands of individuals she has helped. She will continue to reside in the community she has served. All Pi Phis join in gratitude and best wishes to Marjorie Chalmers as she retires from Settlement School service.

Thank You, Winogene Redding

Miss Winogene B. Redding, Weaving Designer and Supervisor at Arrowcraft, first came to the Settlement School in 1925. Although not serving continuously since then, she will retire at the end of the year with twenty-two years of service acquired in several different employment periods.

She has received recognition over these many years for the successful planning and organization of the Arrowcraft Weaving program. It is very fitting that during her last year her achievements should be honored by being among those handcrafts exhibited last June and July at the Smithsonian Institution,

Marjorie Chalmers in the uniform so familiar to all those Gatlinburg area residents who love and admire her and know her as "Miz Charmer."

Winogene Redding looks down at a loom that is being used to put one of her unusual designs in cloth.

and that the permanent exhibit will include her designs.

"Miss Gene" will long be remembered by the local weavers for her assistance and guidance. After gaining their confidence and friendship, she patiently and constantly supervised their work to achieve excellent high standards of weaving we know so well today.

Helped Guild Organize

The Weavers Guild was organized by the Arrowcraft weavers under Miss Redding's direction, and later she helped the Guild found the Garden Club.

Through her work at Arrowcraft, Gatlinburg has become a major center of handweaving, and from this has come the great revival of the other handcrafts in this area. Her technique of design and her ability to pass it on to others will leave an influence at Arrowcraft for a long, long time.

Miss Redding also plans to retire in the area and is building a new home nearby Pigeon Forge. All Pi Phis join in appreciation and best wishes to Winogene Redding as she retires from Settlement School service.

Permanent Exhibit in Smithsonian Institution

Pi Beta Phi has again been honored by the Smithsonian Institution, the United States National Museum. A permanent collection of Arrowcraft handweaving was selected by the Smithsonian from items in the month-long exhibit held last summer. Three pieces of old weaving that were loaned to us for that exhibit were chosen along with nine items that are currently being woven at Arrowcraft.

Old Pieces Included

Permission has graciously been given by the owners of these old pieces to add them to the permanent collection. An old, well-preserved coverlet is donated by Jessie Moeur Hamilton (Mrs. James Monroe), Arizona A and Pi North Alumnae Province President, in memory of her mother, Mrs. B. B. Moeur, to whom it belonged. Margaret Glanding Rupp (Mrs. C. R.), New York A, is kindly donating a linen guest towel in the Monk's Belt pattern, which was purchased from Arrowcraft in the 1920's. The third item is another towel in an early American pattern called M and O. This towel is fringed at one end and hemmed at the other, with a loop at one corner to hang on a nail. It had been given to the Settlement School by Eva L. Hathaway, Iowa B, a former teacher at the school, after the death of her dear friend, "Miss Evelyn" Bishop, New York A, who was Head Resident of the Settlement School from 1918-1933. This towel was one of the Log Cabin Museum collection.

The currently produced items, all designed by Miss Redding, are a red and white Whig Rose tablecloth and matching napkin, a length of blue woolen yardage, a brown and gold afghan, a brown poncho, a gold stole, a brown stole, a brown and gold guest towel and matching finger tip towel.

The Smithsonian plans to make these items a small comprehensive exhibit in 1967 the Centennial Year of Pi Beta Phi. They are accessioned as a gift from Pi Beta Phi.

Album Profits Will Go to Settlement School

The Philadelphia Alumnae Club's record "Pi Beta Phi—Keep Singing" has been turned over to Central Office for further sale and distribution.

The price is $4.25 per album including a mimeographed copy of the lyrics to the songs.

The Philadelphia Alumnae Club was allowed to stipulate where any future profits from the album sale should go and it voted that all profits from future sales should be sent to the Music Department of the Pi Beta Phi Settlement School.

FROM Pi Phi Pens

Edited by Mary Elizabeth Lasher Barnette, Ohio A

JULIA SIEBEL, For the Time Being, Harcourt, Brace & World, 219 pp.

Julia Siebel

In this age of hyperbole displayed on a wide screen, we read For the Time Being and its predecessor, The Narrow Covering, with a building sense of profit. Here are two tightly written novels which make capital of the fact that the elements of good drama are to be found in the way human beings, however insignificant in the world as a whole, work out their life's problems.

The writing itself has quality; quality which suggests it has been written, rewritten, and listened to by an author who demands more of herself than just the telling of an absorbing story. Her characterization is strong, and she has a sense of the fitness of things which keeps the story from jumping boundaries that appear to have been well defined from the beginning.

For the Time Being is an intimate story of five distinct individuals having in common little more than the fact that they are husband, wife, and three children. There are a few peripheral characters, but the emphasis is on Paul Bembroy against whom fate has slightly weighted the odds. He isn't a tragic figure. In fact, his wife, blinded in a gratuitous accident, is more nearly that, but both of them, and their son and two daughters, also, are consistently a little short of nearly every goal.

If any symbolism is intended, it would be in that area that this one mid-western family, facing the economic problems of the thirties together with its own private difficulties, could represent the "family of man."

Paul Bembroy is a dedicated amateur astronomer, and it is against a backdrop of the universe that one comes to see him clearly and to know that he is neither tragic nor a failure and why.

AUTHOR INTEREST: Recognition came promptly and positively to Julia Ferguson Siebel, Illinois Epsilon, when her first published novel, The Narrow Covering, won the annual Friends of Literature $500 award in 1956. Born in Kansas, now an Illinois resident, she has had three residencies at the MacDowell Colony for writers at Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. In addition to novels, she has written short stories for The New Yorker and New World Writing magazines and she served several years on the editorial staff of Poetry. Her married son is doing graduate work at the University of Chicago and her daughter attends Washington University in St. Louis.

ANNE GUTHRIE, Madame Ambassador, Harcourt, Brace & World, 192 pp.

Any list of the world's outstanding woman leaders today would have to include Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, who has represented her native India in Russia, England, and the United States, and has served the world as the first and, to date, only woman president of the United Nations General Assembly. One can readily understand her appeal as the subject of a book, for she is a remarkable person whose experiences and opportunities have been equal to her talents.

As a friend and admirer of Madame Pandit for many years and herself involved with the United Nations, Anne Guthrie imparts her own enthusiasm for her subject without being excessive, and though the book is directed toward the adolescent reader, it has interest for the adult as well.

Newspapers and periodicals have made the Indian leader as she is today a familiar figure, and Miss Guthrie effectively fills in the early history and is especially intriguing when showing how the Nehru family, particularly Madame Pandit's father and older brother, now prime minister, was first absorbed into the Gandhi movement.

Religious and social customs and physical surroundings have a share in the biography and enhance its appeal for the young reader, who should find special delight in the anecdotes of courtship and marriage such as the one explaining how Gandhi's wife came to weave the material for the future ambassador's wedding sari.

Madame Pandit was prepared equally well for domestic and political life, and both facets came into play the time she entertained a group of college girls in the UN's delegates' dining room when the seventh session was under way. At home the night before she took time to make a special Indian dish which she thought the girls would enjoy sampling. These girls, Miss Guthrie reports privately, were Pi Phis whom she was guiding through the UN in the course of a week's visit.

Incidents of this character contribute much to the pleasure of learning about a contemporary public figure.

AUTHOR INTEREST: Born in San Diego and brought up in Denver Anne Guthrie was an undergraduate member of both Colorado Beta and California Alpha and was graduated from Stanford University where Guthrie House on the campus was named for her. Today, having traveled in over sixty countries and lived on three continents, she is truly a citizen of the world. Her career for many years was with the international Y.W.C.A., but today she is an accredited representative to the UN from the International Alliance of Women and vice-chairman of the U.N.'s Speakers Research Committee.

ESTHER CHAPMAN ROBB, There's Something About a River, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 182 pp.

Even an unimaginative boy shouldn't get many pages into this highly readable book without identifying with its ten-year-old hero Davey Lee so authentic is its setting and so believable its adventures.

After spending numerous summers on the banks of the St. Croix River between Minnesota and Wisconsin, Mrs. Robb knows well the surrounding she chose as the site of the Lee's boat-renting business for which young Davey becomes responsible when his mother is called away by her father's illness and his own father's hands are burned in an accident.

Davey proves his worth, makes a new friend, and saves the reputation of an old one, Mike, the shanty-boatman, who is accused of stealing boat motors.

Although written to fill a need for boys' books at the nine-eleven age range, this entertaining book shouldn't be ignored for girls of the same age level. It would make a fine Christmas gift.

AUTHOR INTEREST: Esther Chapman (Mrs. Walter C.) Robb, Minnesota Alpha, has entered a new area of writing with the preparation of this book, but in the field of script writing she has had six radio plays, one Dr. Christian and two Grand Central Station ones included, accepted for national network use. Her river book, however, grew out of several short stories she wrote for her pen group in the American Association of University Women. She's had ample experience with boys too, having brought up three of her own. Other Pi Phis in the family include her daughter and a daughter-in-law.

The Role of Fraternity in Establishing Values

"The fraternity has a major role to play in establishing values for its members and pledges, as well as for a campus community. It has the best opportunity of any residence on a campus to promote the kind of values and patterns of conduct about which educators dream. Here are small, well-defined living units with a tradition of brotherhood, ready-made purposes and rituals, and years of tradition which develop a unique kind of loyalty among the members. Thus, ideally, they should be playing key roles in motivating individual members to become intelligent, well-educated young men and women who will make important contributions now and in the future.

Much has been said in criticism of the fraternity system as it exists today, and with a certain degree of justification. Many people, the fraternity and sorority members, and their governing bodies have disregarded the high goals and objectives set for them by their founders. Rather, I believe that they are reflecting the mores of society, a society which no longer strongly upholds the values which made us a great and strong country.

Today many young people are still turning to the fraternities and sororities as a means of identifying with groups which work toward establishing high ideals. But there is evidence that these groups are not meeting their needs. On our campus an increasing number of young women "self-drop" from rush or depledge. I should like to quote from interviews with two who depledged:

"I felt the group was a little false. Individually they were all great people and I like them very much, but the "group front" entered."

"There was not enough emphasis on the academic side. We were told to go to study tables and then had so many meetings and functions during that time it was impossible to study as we should. Those mid-week functions are death."

These criticisms can be met if the officers of the individual chapters and the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils will insist upon high standards of conduct from their constituents. Too often they appear to feel that a firm stand will make them unpopular. As a result they frequently lose the respect of their membership. The chapter officers and the fraternal governing bodies must work closely together. They cannot be fearful or distrustful of each other, or of their alumnae advisors and university administrators who work with them. Fear and distrust destroy, and we have no right to destroy a system which has such a unique opportunity to contribute positively to a way of life of which we can all be proud.

I believe strongly that the challenge to the fraternity system is an exciting one, one which the members are quite capable of meeting."

Pi Phi Claims a Loyal Friend

STELLA SUE HUFF COX, SETTLEMENT SCHOOL
PUPIL AND TEACHER IS AN HONOR INITIATE

Stella Sue Cox is the daughter of the man who led the efforts to help Pi Beta Phi Fraternity establish its Settlement School in Gatlinburg. At the age of four she was a member of its initial first grade class in 1912 and she has served many years as a teacher in that school. With this background of friendship with the Fraternity, Stella cemented those ties in March 1962 when she was an honor initiate of Tennessee Gamma Chapter of Pi Beta Phi.

Her invitation to membership came from Grand Council on the recommendation of the Little Pigeon Alumnae Club of Gatlinburg and Tennessee Gamma. Her initiation was particularly significant since it came in the golden anniversary year of the Settlement School with which she has been so closely identified throughout her life.

Stella Sue Huff Cox

Andy Huff's Daughter

It was through the efforts of Sue's father, the late Andy J. Huff that the Pi Phis remained in Gatlinburg in 1912 and he remained a true friend of Pi Phi throughout his life.

Although she was only four that year, she entered the first grade of the new Settlement School. After she had completed all the schooling offered by the School in its early years, she finished her high school work away from Gatlinburg and graduated from Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn. She then returned to Gatlinburg to teach high school English in the School and has given years of service as a teacher.

For many years she served on the local Settlement School Committee (which no longer exists) that worked with the Pi Phi Settlement School Committee in solving many local problems. Through the years she has made many Pi Phi friends and one who is very dear to her is Miss Amy B. Onken, Honorary Grand President.

She has always been a leader in civic and church work and presently is superintendent of the Baptist Church Junior Sunday School Department, sings in the church choir and is a Training Union Leader. She is active in the P.T.A., the Gatlinburg Garden Club and the Sevierville Music Club.

Pi Phi Family Ties

Sue has a Pi Phi daughter, Connie Sue Cox, Tennessee Gamma; a Pi Phi sister, Mattie Huff Lawson, Iowa Gamma; two Pi Phi sisters-in-law, Henrietta McCutchan Huff, Missouri Beta and Pauline Whaling Huff, Illinois Alpha; and three Pi Phi nieces, Barbara Huff BeVillie, Patricia Sue Huff and Barbara Cox McCroskey, all of Tennessee Gamma.

Her husband, William G. Cox, has served on the Sevier County School Board from the Gatlinburg District for eight years. They have three children, Connie who graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1962 and now teaches in Atlanta, Ga.; Billy, a history teacher at the Pi Phi High School and Sammy, a freshman at Carson-Newman College.

Sue, who has expressed her deep pleasure in being a Pi Phi, now has another civic activity in which she takes intense interest—the Little Pigeon Alumnae Club.

It's Dr. Dalton Now

TENNESSEE ALPHA PI PHI EARNS PH.D. WITH HONORS

by Mary Y. Hale, Tennessee A

Elizabeth Landress Dalton (Mrs. Sethur W.), Coordinator of Secondary Education in the Chattanooga Public Schools and a Tennessee Alpha alumna of Pi Beta Phi, has made a distinguished record as an educator and administrator culminating June, 1962 in the attainment of a Ph.D. degree, with honors, from George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee.

Within the same week a daughter, Barbara, also Tennessee Alpha, received her A.B. degree from the University of Chattanooga and a son, David, his diploma from Chattanooga High School. Another daughter, Anna, is in high school and a son, Robert, in junior high. The quartet of children and the husband form an admiring group around Elizabeth in her academic role in the picture below which appeared in a Nashville newspaper with the caption, "Sheepskins Pelt Chattanoogaans."

Chapter President

Elizabeth Landress entered the University of Chattanooga in 1926 and was initiated into Tennessee Alpha in 1927. She served as recording secretary 1928-29 and as president of the chapter 1929-30. She was delegate to the national convention at Pasadena in 1929. Elizabeth was active on campus serving as secretary of Student Council and as an officer in various clubs—Beta Pi Theta (French), Sigma Tau Delta (English) and the Spanish Club. She was graduated with honors in French and English, presenting a thesis entitled, "Rostand, His Life and Works." Elizabeth was elected to Alpha, honorary scholastic society, and received the Alumni Achievement Award given to the outstanding senior of the class of 1930.

In 1937 she married Sethur W. Dalton, chief accountant with Dixie Mercery Company of Chattanooga. Except for leaves of absence for the births of her four children Mrs. Dalton continued to teach; first, elementary school; then junior high French, Spanish, English and business; and high school business education, including shorthand, typing, secretarial practice and bookkeeping. The master of education degree, cum laude, was earned at the University of Chattanooga in 1952.

In the administrative field she was designated Educational Aide to Superintendent L. G. Derthick, who was subsequently U. S. Commissioner of Education; then she became Assistant Principal of an elementary school until her appointment as Supervisor of Secondary Education. Her present post as Coordinator of Secondary Education was attained in 1960.

While completing the work for the doctorate, Mrs. Dalton was graduate assistant to Dr. William Alexander, chairman of the Department of Education, George Peabody College for Teachers. She was granted a Ford Fellowship at this time. Her doctoral dissertation, "Preparation Programs of Junior High School Teachers," is being published by George Peabody College as one of its pamphlet series, "Master Teacher—Classroom Keeper?"

Active in Civic Work

Dr. Dalton has not limited her activities to her career and home, however, but has also been a participant in church work and civic affairs. She is a member of the Central Baptist Church where she teaches a class for women. She is a member of the board of the Family Service Agency, an active member of Kappa Delta Pi, a national honor society in education, and Alpha Delta Kappa, a national honorary society for women teachers. Among the many professional organizations in which she holds membership are: Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Association for Childhood Education, Tennessee Supervising Teachers and National Education Association. Dr. Dalton has published articles in The Tennessee Teacher, The High School Journal, edited the Chattanooga School Newsletter, and is a regular book reviewer for The Chattanooga Times.

It is always inspiring to watch the results and influence of an accomplished homemaker and devoted mother. When these duties are dovetailed with an outstanding career in a highly competitive field which demands ability, application and continuing research and study, then we point with pride to one of our number who exemplifies success in a triple fashion: wife, mother and teacher, Elizabeth Landress Dalton.

Mrs. Jane W. Johnson

Miss Christine I. Irvine

At Dalhousie and University of Maine

PI PHIS IN ADMINISTRATIVE POSTS

Two Pi Beta Phis have recently been appointed to administrative posts at leading universities where they had been initiated into Pi Beta Pi as undergraduate students.

Mrs. Johnson At Maine

Mrs. Jane Wiseman Johnson, a Maine Alpha Pi Phi, has joined the University of Maine's administration as Assistant Dean of Women.

Mrs. Johnson graduated from the University of Maine in 1956 with a B.A. in history. After teaching for four years, she returned to the Maine campus in 1960 and earned her master's degree in education in the field of guidance.

While she was working on her graduate degree, Mrs. Johnson served as assistant house mother at Chadbourne, a freshman girls' dormitory.

The following year she worked as guidance counselor at Bangor High School, Bangor, Maine. Her appointment as Assistant Dean of Women came in the spring of 1962.

Mrs. Johnson had an outstanding career on the University of Maine campus as an undergraduate student. In addition to being a member of Pi Beta Phi, she was an Eagle, which is a sophomore honor society designed to guide freshman women, a junior resident, and a member of All-Maine Women, which is similar to Mortar Board. She also served as President of Associated Women Students.

Miss Irvine

Miss Christine I. Irvine, Nova Scotia Alpha, has been appointed dean of women at Nova Scotia's Dalhousie University. She will also serve as lecturer of accounting in the Department of Commerce and the College of Pharmacy.

Miss Irvine attended Dalhousie and received a bachelor of commerce degree and became a chartered accountant in 1959. Last June she became the first woman ever elected to the Nova Scotia Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants. She has been very active in the association, particularly in connection with student seminars.

She is an executive member of the Canadian Club and the University Women's Club.

Miss Irvine was president of Nova Scotia Alpha chapter of Pi Beta Phi in 1946-47 and is a member of the Halifax, Nova Scotia Alumnae Club.

DePauw's Highest Honor

by Nancy Phillips, Indiana Epsilon

To Marilyn Kitchen, a 1962 graduate of Indiana Epsilon of Pi Beta Phi, came this spring the highest honor any DePauw girl could hope to attain. Marilyn was crowned May Day Queen, indicating that she was the most outstanding senior woman at DePauw University. The selection for May Day Queen is made by the senior women on the basis of personality, scholarship, and activities.

It is no wonder that Marilyn should have received such an honor. She held the office of President of Indiana Epsilon this past year and was known on campus for friendliness, fairness and charm. A.W.S. was a main part of Marilyn's college life. She was not only an active member but also held the office of secretary and was a member of the Senior Board. In her junior year, Marilyn was selected as one of two girls to be the advisor of a freshman dorm. At Indiana's State Day, again Marilyn was singled out to receive high Pi Phi distinction, that of being chosen as the recipient of the Zeta Province Chapter Service Award.

Now she is working just as efficiently and very happily as Mrs. David Halteman. Indiana Epsilon will always hold the accomplishments, the charm and friendship of sister Marilyn as high as the Arrow points upward.

She Reigns Supreme in Virginia

by Susan Roche, Virginia Gamma

Joyce Hoskins, perky Pi Phi from Virginia Gamma, has reigned supreme over talent and beauty contests throughout the Virginia area. Last spring as a freshman at William and Mary, Joyce was chosen from a field of contestants as "Miss William and

Joyce Hoskins

Mary" for 1962. This entitled Joyce to attend the Miss Virginia Pageant in June where her talent was dress design and sewing.

Fashion design and being in a pageant was not a new experience for Joyce. In 1961 she was Miss Halifax County and a Princess in the National Tobacco Festival. That same year she was state winner of the Vogue Fashion-Sewing Contest.

This past summer Joyce served as the William and Mary representative to the College Board for Rippe's Fashions in Danville, Va. and coordinated a fashion show for Leggett's Department Store in South Boston, Va. Since returning to school, she has modeled in Casey's Fall Fashion Parade in Williamsburg and in a show in Hampton, Va.

Joyce's sewing talents have made her costume chairman for rush at Virginia Gamma, costume chairman for the homecoming float, and on the costume committee for Orchesis. In addition Joyce designed the costumes for a girls' drill corps which she trained this summer.

Her activities at school include being a majorette with the William and Mary Band, membership in Westminster Fellowship, Student Education Association and Pep Club. With a combined major of Secondary Education and Government Joyce has found time to bring a host of honors to Virginia Gamma while wearing her golden arrow.

AT OREGON UNIVERSITY

Elisa Thomas Is Most Outstanding Junior

Three years of academic excellence and campus leadership were climaxed with honor for Oregon Alpha member Elisa Thomas last spring when she was named the recipient of the Gerlinger Cup awarded to the most outstanding junior woman in the University.

Elisa began this career of college service in her freshman year when she was president of her dormitory. In her sophomore year she was chosen for membership in Kwama, a sophomore women's scholastic and service honorary, and was elected president of the group. She earned membership in the junior woman's scholastic and service honorary, Phi Theta Upsilon, last year.

She has also been tapped for membership in Mortar Board and as a member of Pi Lambda Theta, a women's education honorary.

Elisa has been particularly active in the Student Union, which is the hub of student activity on the University of Oregon campus. She has served on its Board, which is the Union policy-making body and has been chairman of the Student Union Personnel Committee. Her efforts in this area of activity were recognized last year when she won the Student Union Outstanding Leadership award.

She has served on the six member Associated Women Students Reference Board. This group is made up of representatives of sororities, dorms and Co-ops and is responsible for disciplinary action and revision of women's rules. She also holds the Associated Women Students' Leadership Award.

STUDENT LEADER—Linda Lane, Alabama Gamma, was an outstanding student leader at Auburn University. She was president of the WSGA, Senior of the Year in Education, Mortar Board, and Kappa Delta Pi.

Elisa Thomas

While filling her many campus responsibilities so adequately, Elisa has also maintained a high scholarship average, a 3.2 accumulative on a 4 point system.

Linda Mugg—Miss Indiana U

Miss Linda Mugg, Indiana Beta, was selected last spring from a field of fifteen finalists as "Miss Indiana University—1962." The final judging was based on beauty, talent, and poise. She was crowned by her sorority mother, Karin Grimsley, who performed her final duty as "Miss Indiana University—1961."

Linda, a junior from Kokomo, Indiana, is majoring in English literature. She is a member of Enomene, a scholastic and activities honorary, and spends most of her free time singing with the Belles of Indiana. Her other interests are dramatics, water skiing, and horseback riding.

Linda represented Indiana University in the "Miss Indiana" pageant this past summer.

A Law Above Average

by Nancy Reynolds, Washington A

When you combine good looks, leadership, intelligence, and service, what do you have? A girl named Sandy Law. Where might you find this Washington Alpha Pi Phi? Well, for a little more than three years, she has been almost running the University of Washington student activities. On campus where undergraduates number over eighteen thousand, it is often a challenge to "make your mark," but Sandy has done this in a true Arrow way, for she has served the Fraternity too.

Frosh Editor

Her freshman year started out with work for the Pi Phi chapter when she was elected president of her pledge class. From there she hit campus as the Pi Phi representative to Junior Panhellenic. Sandy was also Editor of the Frosh Daily, and Secretary of the Blood Bank committee. For these, and other activities, Sandy was chosen as one of the "Top Ten Outstanding Freshmen," a prized honor when the freshman class numbers several thousand.

Beauty Too

During the following summer, Sandy showed that she not only had activities but good looks, too, for she was chosen as Miss Maritime and was a Seafair Princess. Once school started again, Sandy was back in the swing of things as the chapter Treasurer and on the Executive Council. On campus she was not forgotten and was tapped for W-Key, a sophomore women's scholastic and activities honorary, of which she was elected Treasurer.

When the "Husky Honeys," an honorary that welcomes dignitaries, football teams, and other guests to the University campus, chose its members for poise, personality, appearance, and conversational ability, Sandy was naturally one of those chosen. Since this girl has shown that she is usually elected an officer of any organization she is in it was only natural that she was elected Secretary of "Husky Honeys."

The following year, Sandy was elected Vice President of the Junior class. She served on the Program Panel, which schedules all student events, and was tapped for the Upperclass-women's honorary, Totem Club. Her chapter was also served this year, for Sandy was the Scholarship Chairman, and again on the Executive Council. This year too, Sandy's good looks helped her to be chosen as the Homecoming Princess.

Busy Senior

During last summer, Sandy represented the University at the National Student Association Convention in Ohio, and at the Pacific Coast President's Association. This year, as Secretary of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, Sandy's year has been as busy as ever. She is on the Board of Control, the Program Panel, the Constitution and By-Laws Commission, the Ways and Means Commission, and the N.S.A. Committee. While doing all this, Sandy is also a permanent member of the chapter's Executive Council.

As can be seen by her record, Sandy Law is definitely an above average girl and is Washington Alpha's example that activities, a good scholastic standing, service to the chapter, and queenly poise can all be wrapped up in one girl.

A Summer Reunion Report

by Patricia McBride, North Dakota Alpha

Late in July North Dakota Alpha Pi Beta Phis had a chapter reunion at Lake Metigoshe on the North Dakota-Manitoba border. Twenty-five girls were able to attend, and five of those were guests, four from Manitoba Alpha and one from Colorado Alpha. Convention Delegate Avis Goheen was hostess and the "Song of Pi Phi" below recounts the success of the idea . . .

Taking a break from meetings—front to back: Lois Meyer, N.D. Alpha; Judy Duncan, and Judy Dryborough, both of Manitoba Alpha; Joan Nichols, Diane Farland, and Jean Jenner, all of N.D. Alpha.

By the shining Big-Lake-Water
Stood the cabin of Av Go-heen.
Dark behind it rose the forest,
Rose the white and spreading birch trees,
Rose the firs with cones upon them;
Bright before it beat the water
Beat the clear and sunny water,
Beat the shining Big-Lake-Water.

From their lodges came the Pi Phis
Dressed for travel, armed for planning
Dressed in bermuda shorts and tennies.
Also brought their pens and notebooks,

In each head, many ideas
In each heart, the desire to share.
So they journeyed northward, northward,
Crossed the mighty Missouri River,
Passed the mountains of the prairie,
Through the land of robins and coyotes

Finally reached the home of the Blackfeet, and came unto the Lake Metigoshe.

At the cabin those summer days
Sat the busy No Dak Pi Phis;
Heard from the convention delegates
Heard ideas of Manitoba Pi Phis,
And, of course, the Colorado Pi Phi,
Sounds of music, words of wonder;
Saw some pictures, pretty pictures,
Convention pictures, Settlement School too;
and they sang the songs of Pi Phi
Sang the songs they loved so well.

Sometimes their pace they slackened,
Sometimes they paused and halted,
Paused to water ski and swim,
Paused to visit, hike, or dream.

Alice Gill Is Member of Indiana Youth Committee

Alice Gill, president of Indiana Alpha, was appointed this year to serve on the Indiana Youth Advisory Committee, a state wide project of the Governor's Youth Council.

She was appointed as a Franklin College representative on the basis of leadership qualities and demonstrated interest in her fellow youth.

Alice heads three other campus groups as president, the German Club, Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, and Gold Quill, a scholastic honorary. She is also a member of the Franklin Panhellenic Council Student Court Student Council and College Choir.

She and other Y.A.C. members attended a youth general assembly in Indianapolis in October to meet with nearly 300 other high school and college representatives to discuss youth problems particular to Indiana and propose means towards their solution.

Maydelle Vaughn Foster

Jeane Burke Rogers

Two Texas Alpha Pi Phis shared a spotlight of honor in the 1962 Fiesta Week in San Antonio. Maydelle Vaughn Foster was chosen Queen of the Order of the Alamo, and Jeane Burke Rogers was Princess of the Order's Court. The Order of the Alamo is a patriotic organization of San Antonians which has a key role in this annual week-long celebration marking the commemoration of Texas winning her independence from Mexico.

Maryland Beta Wins First in Interfraternity Sing

Maryland Beta sang its way to first place in the University of Maryland Interfraternity Sing in the spring of 1962. Pictured on stage is the group with

The chapter won the Greek songfest cup with a highly polished rendition of "September Song."

Library Projects Claim Pi Phi Interest

Texas Gammas Sponsor Tech Library Section

by Rebecca Parker, Texas Gamma

Local philanthropy of the Texas Gamma chapter is that of contributing to a section of the Texas Tech library. The section is comprised of a collection of rare books dealing with the pre-history and history of the Southwest. The Southwest Collection is closely related to a vital part of the Texas Gamma members' annual program—a biennial retreat to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Retreats of this nature were originally a part of the club KoShari which later became Texas Gamma of Pi Beta Phi.

Olive Price Holden was sponsor of KoShari at the time of its inception in 1932. She was founder of the KoShari's Southwest Indian theme. This theme was developed further by Santa Fe Retreats. These trips included rituals and ceremonies to aid in developing the club's theme. Olive Holden sponsored the trips until her death in 1934. At this time Miss Elizabeth West, Tech Librarian, placed Olive Holden's memorial books of the Southwest in the Tech library. KoShari's contributed to the fund, and later Dr. Holden, husband of Olive Holden and also a Tech history professor, and his daughter, Jane, set up a charter to match the amount given annually by the KoShari's. Instead of buying books, the amount would be invested and the interest be allowed to compound. The money would then become a nucleus of a permanent fund which would increase until it met a sizable amount. At this time the principle would become static and the yearly income would be used to purchase books of the Southwest.

When the Texas Gamma chapter of Pi Beta Phi was chartered, members accepted this philanthropy and a new contract was drawn up for their contribution to the Southwest Collection. It was decided that the chapter would donate $200 annually to the Olive Price Holden Memorial Endowment Fund. This was to be matched by Dr. Holden until the fund reached a total of $100,000.

Bookplate Planned

Through contributions of the Texas Gamma members and alumnae, Dr. Holden and his daughter, and the investment, the amount has now reached a balance of $4,250.31. The fund is presently administered by a committee of Librarians, the Dean of Women, a comptroller, and a representative of Texas Gamma. From a recent interview with Dr. Holden, one time sponsor of Texas Gamma, it was reported that progress is being made on a bookplate for the collection which will read: "Donated by the Texas Gamma Chapter of Pi Beta Phi."

Mrs. Bard K. Dowse, chairman of the Sacramento Club project and Mrs. Victor R. Lagomarsino in the Starr King School Library with Stephen Ashley.

Sacramento Club Gives Aid to School Library

At the Starr King School for Exceptional children in Sacramento, California, the alumnae members of Pi Beta Phi meet once a month to fulfill their obligation to this unique institution which was chosen as the group's philanthropic project.

The idea was conceived five years ago and since that time loyalty to the project has been consistent.

The monthly workshop activities include cutting and pasting pictures, making puppets, assisting in the physical therapy room on occasion and providing transportation for the children when field trips have been planned.

Mitzie J. Dowse, chairman of the project, was approached early this year by the principal of the school with a new idea, that of being responsible for the new library which was just coming into being at the school.

The club was consulted and gave unanimous approval to the project.

In May an enthusiastic group of Pi Phis spent a busy month stacking, cataloguing and marking the new books which had been heaped in the freshly painted Library.

Now, three times a week Pi Phis check books in and out and assist the children in learning the intricacies of library procedure and catalogue new books as they are received.

The workshop however is not neglected as the spare time of volunteers is filled with work requested by the teachers.

Anchorage Pi Phis Form Alumnae Club

by Bonnie Lou Torrey Smith, California D

The need for fellowship is great in Alaska, the frontier state. Here the majority of people have come prepared to make their homes far from friends and family. For several years Anchorage has had an active National Panhellenic Chapter which holds luncheon meetings once a month but it was not until October 1961 that there were enough interested members of Pi Beta Phi in Anchorage to form our own alumnae club.

October of 1961 until April of 1962 was a time of organization and it was in April that there were at last twelve members and the time came to apply for charter. Central Office was of tremendous help during this time and presented the Anchorage, Alaska Alumnae Club its charter on May 24, 1962.

The original twelve members are: Mildred Schiller Crowder from Connecticut Alpha, Kayleen Sandtner Erickson from Washington Alpha, Miriam Thomas Flagg from Michigan Alpha, Ruth Boisch Gordon from Florida Alpha, Darlene Witt Langston from Oklahoma Beta, Vivian Beckwith Moriarty from South Dakota Alpha, Bonnie Lou Torrey Smith from California Delta, Judy Allen Stelson from Maryland Beta, Mary Jacoway Stephenson from Tennessee Alpha, Martha Mahoney Stewart from Colorado Alpha, Toni Dickenson MacDonald from Washington Alpha and Jan Hale Dukes from Tennessee Gamma.

This summer the rushing recommendations from Anchorage had an official tone at last and with the fall semester's start there were two pledges of Pi Beta Phi from Anchorage.

The picture was taken at the first official meeting of the new group when the new charter was presented by the president, Kayleen Sandtner Erickson.

This has been a gratifying experience for all and one of rededication and renewed enjoyment of Pi Beta Phi fraternity ideals.

*ALPHA PROVINCE

*MAINE ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF MAINE, Chartered, 1920. Pledge Day, December 9, 1962. INITIATED, May 6, 1961: Karen Cooper, Anson.

Many important offices were acquired by chapter members last spring. Ann Van DeBogart was elected president of A.W.S. and Theresa Curran was elected treasurer of A.W.S. Those who were chosen to serve on Judicial Board were Linda Minott, Joyce Ring, secretary, Barbara Rider, and Barbara Waters. Susan Ward was elected secretary of Panhellenic Council and Stephanie Barry was elected secretary-treasurer of Neati Mathetai, an honor society for the top ten ranking freshman women. Linda Minott was tapped All Maine Women, a senior honorary society similar to Mortar Board. Barbara Waters and Paula Reddy were tapped Eagles, a sophomore honor society formed to guide freshman women. Jane Wiseman Johnson, a Maine A graduate of 1936, assumed position as Assistant Dean of Women.

The Greek Weekend held in March was one of the most enjoyable events of the year. The annual ball, following the Grecian theme, honored the new women's fraternity presidents and the new Panhellenic president. Highlighting the weekend was a jazz concert given by George Shearing and the Terriers.

Maine A concluded the year's events with an overnight outing held at a nearby cottage where everyone relaxed before studying for finals. The seniors took a reluctant "dip" in the lake much to the delight of the underclassmen. The seniors, also honored at the annual strawberry breakfast, presented the chapter with a lamp and a hassock.

The University of Maine is still experiencing growing pains. York Hall, a girl's dormitory, has been completed for occupancy this fall. A girl's dormitory, two men's residencies, a women's gymnasium, a technological building, and an auditorium are to be completed by next fall. All the students take great pride in their rapidly expanding campus.

MARCIA FULLER

*NOVA SCOTIA ALPHA—DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY, Chartered, 1934. Pledge Day, November 17, 1962. The Student's Council Elections held last spring, found a number of Pi Beta Phi elected to positions to be held during the 1962-63 year. Those elected were Elizabeth Whelan, Junior Girl; Gillian Ash, vice president of the Girl's Athletic Society; and Joan Stewart, president of Delta Gamma, the society to which all women students belong.

The spring term also saw many Pi Beta Phis receiving awards for their contributions to campus life. During the Munroe Day celebrations, Carol Quigley was awarded a Gold D, and Beth Chreighton, Peggy Mahon, and Joyce Smith, Silver Ds. Athletic letters were awarded to Sheila Mason, Marcia Smith, Gillian Ash, Virginia LeQueene and Margot Horne, during presentations at the Athletic Award Banquet.

Fraternity life ended last spring with a dinner held in honor of the chapter, and given by the alumnae. Fraternity life this year began with a Panhellenic Tea, held during Initiation Week at the home of Barbara Gough, in honor of the freshettes entering Dalhousie University.

MARGOT HORNE

*VERMONT ALPHA—MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, Chartered, 1893. Pledge Day, February 17, 1963. INITIATED, May 6, 1962: Susan M. Emrich, Norwalk, Conn.; Elizabeth Fink, Topeka, Kan.; Carol A. Haas, Wilmette, Ill.; Barbara Heeren, Teaneck, N.J.; Susan L. Hervey, Wellesley, Mass.; Carol L. Hoffman, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Elizabeth Holmes, Carol J. Olmsted, Rochester, N.Y.; Jane L. Isaacs, White Plains, N.Y.; Andrea Johnson, Upper Montclair, N.J.; Jean A. McCormack, Melrose, Mass.; Sally W. Scull, Needham, Mass.; Wendy West, Glenview, Ill.

INITIATED, September 26, 1962: Elaine Henrich, Mt. Carmel, Conn.; Ruth M. Tomasi, Bristol, Vt.

Awards given during the spring were many. Betsy Barkentin was valedictorian of the women's campus, graduating magna cum laude with high honors in psychology. Bonnie Boyd, last year's president, graduated cum laude as salutatorian. She and Betsy were both members of Φ B K. Cum laude graduates were Marianne Gallagher, Anne Thornton, Karen MacLellan, and Janet Young.

Among the eight juniors tapped for Mortar Board were four Pi Phis: Judy Bogert, Beth Douty, Pat Moore, and Mary Robson, who was elected president. Susan Camden, Susan Hixson, and Debby Gillette were chosen to guide this year's freshmen as Junior Counselors. Eleven of our fifteen pledges are members of Sophomore Guides this year: Sue Emrich, Liz Fink, Carol Haas, Sue Hervey, Carol Hoffmann, Beth Holmes, Carol Olmsted, Jane Isaacs, Jean McCormack, Ruth Tomasi, and Wendy West.

On the more aesthetic side of campus life, two Pi Phis were in the Junior Weekend Court. Jane Corcoran and Ann Wadsworth were chosen by fraternities as their junior queens. Beth Holmes and Andi Georgi starred in the spring dramatic production of "Italian Straw Hat."

The independent women joined the chapter for an evening lecture with American Literature professor, Dr. Munford, and later met with us to discuss opinions of college and its academic or social conventions. Pi Beta Phi also sponsored a Pinata Party for all the sororities on campus.

This fall we are redecorating the rooms with fire insurance money from last year's casualty. Unfortunately, they were not ready in time to impress our national visitor, Mrs. Dix, with whom we spent three enjoyable days, and whom we sincerely welcome as the new Grand Vice President. Our other recent national contact was through convention delegates Pat Moore, and Susan Hanson, who brought the week in Washington to more meaningful life with slides, programs, and informal discussions.

PLEGDED, September 24: Helen Chadwick, Lewiston, N.Y.; Barbara Hazen, Orange, N.J.; Ruth Ingersoll, Newton, Mass.; Odiorne Woodman, Waterville, N.Y.

*VERMONT BETA—UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT, Chartered, November 24, 1898. Pledge Day, February 11, 1962. INITIATED, May 6, 1962: Frances Brickman, Ramsey, N.J.; Marcy Bullock, Birmingham, Mich.; Jane Christie, Port Washington, N.Y.; Susan Clarke, Yonkers, N.Y.; Sally Dewey, White River Junction; Susanne Direnga, Chatham, N.J.; Pamela Gerhard, West Chester, Pa.; Gwen Johnson, Allentown, Pa.; Janet Koch, Greenfield, Mass.; Emily Langley, Horseheads, N.Y.; Eileen Maclean, Tenafly, N.J.; Susan Monti, Susan Wesoly, New Britain, Conn.; Judith Nelson, Wethersfield, Conn.; Patricia Warren, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

October 4, 1962: Patricia Russell, Springfield; Janet Waterman, Windsor.

Many Vermont Bs met other Pi Beta Phis over the summer. Among them our Convention delegates, Janet Hill and Sylvia Seibert, have brought back informative and enthusiastic reports. We are looking forward to an enlarged program of learning about the national Fraternity.

We welcome Mrs. Kathleen Duke as our house mother. To honor Mrs. Dix, Grand Vice President, and Mrs. Duke, we held a tea on October 10. In the chapter house live fourteen seniors and four juniors. Our project of revitalization has been well worth while and we are enjoying a spirited housecleaning.

We are proud of all the honors won by our members. Mortar Board: Nora Barclay, Kae Gleason; Staff and Sandal: Kathy Allenby, Janice Cole, Ginger Loyd; Sophomore Aides: Frances Brickman, Jane Christie, Janet Koch, Susan Wesoly. President of O N is Connie Anderson. Janet Koch is president of A A Δ. Active on Women's Student Government are Kae Gleason, vice president, Martha Russell, house chairman, Nora Barclay, social chairman, and Patricia Farrand, public relations. The University of Vermont will be represented by Janice Cole and Patricia Farrand at the International Student Association Conference. We feel lucky to claim Barbara Wool as a Vermont B. She is spending her junior year at the University of Tokyo.

Our biggest campus-wide event for the fall is an Open House with Acacia. "The Terriers" will sing folk songs at a program to benefit the Community Chest.

Best wishes to all Pi Beta Phis for a successful college year.

BEVERLY JEAN HUME

*MASSACHUSETTS ALPHA—BOSTON UNIVERSITY. Chartered, March 17, 1896. INITIATED, May 5, 1962: Priscilla Beaton, Belmont; Linda Buckley, Newburyport; Susan Colcock, Brookline; Rosemary DeKoning, Babylon, N.Y.; Ruth Goddard, Simsbury, Conn.; Barbara Schaller, Sherborn.

On October 6, Massachusetts A was very proud to welcome Grand Vice President, Mrs. Carr Dix. A dinner given by the chapter's active members followed by an alumnae coffee hour highlighted the events of this weekend in honor of Mrs. Dix.

The royalty in Massachusetts A's midst keeps growing until it now boasts a full court of queens. After Lynne McWilliams was crowned Homecoming Queen of 1961 and attended in her court by Jane Porter, she in turn proudly served on the court of her chapter daughter, Priscilla Beaton who became Greek Week Queen. To continue the tradition, Priscilla was a finalist for the Miss Boston University of 1962 contest. She is secretary of her sophomore class at the College of Business Administration; while another active, Gail Churchill was voted president of the senior class at Sargent College, president of Honor Auxiliary at the college, and was honored as Boston University's exchange student for the summer in Sweden. The Junior Advisor of Sargent College and a member of Honor Auxiliary is Elaine Mahoney.

There is much excitement here over the High Rise building expansion program begun at the university with a new Student Union, Law and Education Building, and dormitories.

Homecoming Weekend was one of the most important events of the fall semester this year. The university welcomed West Point on November 3, for the weekend which included Homecoming Ball, a float parade, and football game. All the activities agreed this event was a tremendous success.

LINDA HERBUT

*MASSACHUSETTS BETA—UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS. Chartered, 1944. Pledge Day, December 7, 1962. INITIATED, March 18, 1962: Joan Carey, Westwood; Joan Chiminello, Quincy; Janet Crowell, Reading; Susan Herron, Melrose; Linda Schechterle, Springfield; Janice Smith, Quincy; Royalyn Tanner, Hampton, Va.

Massachusetts B was pleasantly surprised on returning to campus this fall. We were greeted by our wonderful new housemother, Mrs. Martha Cheyne, and we also were delighted to find that the new living room was more beautiful than we had imagined.

Our delegates to convention, Roben O'Brien, president, and Marie Makinen, assistant Panhellenic Representative, returned with enthusiasm and with many new ideas.

This being the Centennial of the University of Massachusetts, all of the campus organizations are very busy making preparations for the many events scheduled. Among the workers are Bobbie Hanna, secretary of the senior class; Trisha Chase, a member of the Student Union Governing Board; Sue Iossa, chairman of the Student Union Dance Committee; the Mortar Boards, Trisha Chase, Carol McDonough, Barb Viera; the sophomore Scrolls, Mery Halstead and Kathy Osterberg; and Reveler, Bobbie Hanna.

Barb Viera was elected to be Chief Justice of Women's Judiciary Board and Carol McDonough is the vice president of Mortar Board. Debbie Beerman is treasurer of the Zoology Club.

Ann Barton was chosen Sweetheart of T K E at their house formal last spring. Lorrie Genarri is quite busy this fall cheering the Redmen on to victory as a member of the Cheerleading Squad.

Scholastically Massachusetts B is working hard to maintain its present standing in first place among the sororities. Among the seniors asked to do Honors work in their major fields are Ann Barton, Debbie Beerman, Alice Cary, Trisha Chase, Priscilla Hutchinson, Carol McDonough, and Barb Viera.

Karen Kober has been selected to be house chairman of her dorm. The dorm counselors are Joan Carey, Susan Herron, Marie Makinen, Linda Myers, Linda Schechterle, and Marcia Trimble. Jo-Anne Veale was house chairman during the Freshman Orientation Program this summer. Pat Stankiewicz, the recipient of the Panhellenic Scholarship presented at Student Leader's Night last spring was also a dorm counselor during summer school.

During the annual Greek Week celebrations last April, one of the pledges, Gail Benvie, was a member of the Queen's Court.

Mery Halstead, a pledge, starred in "Invitation to a March," the spring production of the University's theatrical group Roister Doister's. Also, Pam O'Donnell participated in a program entitled "A Summer in the Country," a one act play produced by the experimental theater group.

Massachusetts B had a delightful time at the Founders' Day dinner they were invited to by the West Suburban Alumnae Club.

CONNECTICUT ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT. Chartered, April 10, 1943. Pledge Day, October 15, 1962. INITIATED, October 13, 1962: Nancy Ayers, Weston, Mass.; Marion Bothelo, Windsor; Elizabeth Caye, West Milford; Susan Fox, Winchester, Mass.; Sharon Germaine, West Hartford; Beth Ellen Hiebee, Christine Wahl, Stamford; Mari Irvine, Port Chester, N.Y.; Priscilla Mead, Riverside; Brina Medin, Oakville; Linda Michelon, Union City, N.J.; Cynthia Moore, Troy, N.Y.; Barbara Slink, Greenwich; Nancy Ungerer, Manchester; Carolyn Webster, Meriden; Louise Williams, Torrington; Pamela French, Glennis Metcalfe, Devon; Patricia Panek, Islington, Mass.

Connecticut A had an exciting spring semester culminated with the crowning of Louise Okon as Miss University of Connecticut. Greek Week was highlighted by the annual Greek Sing in which Connecticut A's rendition of Inch Worm won first place in the sorority competition. Second place in the all sorority scholarship averages was won by the Connecticut A for the spring semester and for the school year. Margaret Barrie was elected president of Panhellenic and Margaret Karbovanec was elected copy editor of the Connecticut Daily Campus. Jacqueline Stenstrom and Patricia Kuncik were elected to  $\Sigma \Theta \Gamma$ , national honorary fraternity for nurses, and Elaine Perkins to  $\Phi \Lambda \Theta$ , history honorary. Elaine Steckley reigned as  $\Delta X \Lambda$  Crescent Girl and Susan Clark as A T P queen.

Fall rush was carried out successfully on a wild west theme with a chuck wagon breakfast and a pistol packing Pi Phi formal party with original songs. The University of Connecticut's eighth president, Dr. Homer Babbidge, was formally introduced to the student body in a reception on October 4. The chapter was also honored with a visit from Helen Boucher Dix, Grand Vice President.

This year the alumnae treated us to dinner and joined us as we listened to Ellen Voegtlin, our president, and Karen Abel, our membership chairman, give an impressive account of Convention.

*ONTARIO BETA—UNIVERSITY OF WESTERN ONTARIO. Chartered, October, 1934. Pledge Day, September 30, 1962. The 24 actives and 26 pledges of Ontario B began the year with chapter convention held the weekend of September 22. Convention delegates, Anne Askew and Sue Edwards were enthusiastic over their experiences in Washington and they had a very eager audience. Our second social get-together was at the tea held for the active chapter and pledges by the alumnae club on October 1.

At Convocation last May, several of our graduates received honour awards. Sheila Tweedie was honoured with a University College Merit Award; Occidental Honour Awards went to Susan Peever, Libby McAskile, and Shirleyan Grieve. We were naturally very proud of these girls and for their outstanding contributions to Western U.

Ontario B is once again fully participating in the various campus activities. In Student Government, Di Davis is Minister of External Affairs on the University Students Council. On the University College Council are Sally Young, vice president of '63, Mary Jane Pryce, representative of '64, pledge Mary Greenwood, vice president of '65, and Carole Kennedy, as clerk. Representing Pi Beta Phi on the Purple Spur Society are Sally Young as secretary, Noelle Grace, Sharon McLean, pledges, Joan Haugh, Marnie Campion, Anne Sengbusch, and Jan Spencer.

Our Mustang football team will be led to victories this fall with the aid of cheerleaders Mary Jane Pryce, Anne Sengbusch, and Carolyn Hogk. Lovely majorettes Noelle Grace as head majorette, pledges Heather Mitchell and Georgina Hartwell, and Julie Ann McCallum as a substitute will also be helping along with pledge Barbara Phipps in the Colour Party. These Pi Beta Phi will certainly contribute to the colour and precision of our famous Mustang Marching Band.

Ontario B's pledges are well in the middle of a very busy term. The new furniture in our pledge dorm has been revarnished and the dining room is expecting a fresh coat of paint from these eager girls. Bears for punishment, they have organized a maid service for the fraternities and private homes in London, plus a baby-sitting service for the alumnae. With Homecoming Weekend fast approaching, the pledges are also busily planning the Pi Beta Phi Boat for the Homecoming Parade and are out for prizes.

The activities are already making plans for our annual Christmas Bazaar in early December. We hope it will be the usual success financially and socially.

We in Ontario B are anticipating another year of good scholarship, service, and fun.

KAPPA PROVINCE

*WISCONSIN ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN. Chartered, November 1, 1894. Pledge Day, October 8, 1962.

Returning to college, the Pi Beta Phi began the year with a picnic at Nancy Yost's house where they heard about Europe from the eight girls, Judy Bridgman, Heather Millar, Ginger Wolfe, Carole Nechry, Lee Evans, Kitty Zimmerman, Carole Walsh and Martha Baldwin, who had been touring the Continent all summer. Carol Condon, Jane Hollingsworth, Sheryl Barnes and Norma Himself came back from Convention with many new ideas which they eagerly shared with the rest of the chapter. During the first week before classes began, a Panhellenic conference was held on the campus; all of the women's fraternities participated and each representative gained much valuable information. After a few days of diligent song preparation and rush practice, the Pi Beta Phi started their "Alpine" rush. Completing a very successful rush, Wisconsin pledged thirty-two girls.

Members of the chapter have been well rewarded for their high scholarship during the past semester. The following Wisconsin A Pi Beta Phi have received honors:  $\Sigma E \Sigma$ , freshman honorary fraternity, Mary Kay Bauman;  $\Sigma A M$ , honorary speech and hearing fraternity, Rosa Rappaport;  $\Phi T O$ , home economics honorary fraternity, Jane Hollingsworth, Judy Moyle;  $\Pi A \Theta$ , honorary education fraternity, Bette Bardeen;  $A T \Delta$ , professional nursing fraternity, Mary Lynn Estes; Sue Hoebreck and Carole Nechry were tapped for Mortar Board. In addition, Judy Moyle received the Bess Tyrel Burns Award, entitling her to a scholarship. Also, Rosa Rappaport secured a California Alpha Scholarship.

The Pi Beta Phi has also been very active in extra-curricular activities this semester. Heading the list is Carole Nechry, who was elected president of the Wisconsin Memorial Union, the first girl in many years to obtain such a position. Pamela Phelps was selected for the House Committee of the Union, and under that committee she also is chairman of the Beekeepers Banquet. Bette Bardeen returned to school early this fall to assume her duty as chairman of the guides for the New Student Week Program. Participating on the Student-Faculty Human Rights Committee is Jane Hollingsworth. In addition, Bette Bardeen heads the subcommittee on Fraternal Organization on the Student Life and Interest Committee, of which Carole Nechry is also a member. To be copy editor of the Badger, the university yearbook, is Lynda Schelker's big job for the year. Carole Nechry is a member of the Student Senate, the student governing body of the university.

Pi Beta Phi also has two officers on the Panhellenic Council this year: Jane Hollingsworth is the treasurer and Lynda Schelker is the mechanics rush chairman. The executive secretary of Homecoming this year is Carol Condon. Heading the Associated Women Students' Executive Council are Judy Bridgman, assistant secretary, and Charmaine Tetik, academics chairman. Planning the A.W.S. Fashion Show will be Marcia Lawton, the chairman of this annual event; helping her are two other Pi Beta Phi, Gretchen Brown, personnel chairman, and Mary Manske, skit chairman. Bonnie Burbidge is presently the co-publicity chairman of the Blood Drive.

Numerous beauty honors have been captured by Wisconsin A. Marcia Lawton was chosen Badger Beauty, selected from a field of 300 candidates. In addition, Gretchen Brown was first runner-up in the  $\Delta \Sigma \Pi$  Rose Queen contest. Another first runner-up was Karen Krumm, who placed second in the Miss Madison pageant.

*MANITOBA ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA. Chartered, May, 1929. Pledge Day, October 18, 1962. Early this spring the active chapter held its annual sorority camp at Shelagh Dwyer's cottage in the Whiteshell. Everyone attending agreed that this was one of the highlights of the college year.

All summer, rush meetings were held in preparation for the fall rush season beginning October 11. This year we are starting a new quota system on our campus which will apply to all sororities in the Panhellenic Association. This year also, girls eligible for rush are not required to register but will automatically be sent invitations to every sorority's first party.

Freshie Week at the university was filled with activities from the Guys and Dolls Dance to the Royal Premiere Ball. Pi Beta Phi was well represented in the Panhellenic float in the Freshie Parade by Lois Flett and Irene White. Our "silver blue" sorority dress was modeled in the annual fashion show for freshman women by Joyce Matheson.

Something new at the University of Manitoba! Football has once again come to our campus after an absence of fourteen long years. Representatives from Pi Beta Phi and other sororities usher at all the home games. Judy Duncan and Linda Muir are "Bisonettes," cheerleaders for the team.

Heather Henderson, president of Manitoba A, has been awarded the Gamma Phi Beta scholarship presented annually to the sorority girl with the highest average who has contributed the most to her university!

At the beginning of last spring quarter, the Pi Beta Phis were busily preparing for a week of formal rushing and Campus Carnival. Both endeavors were very rewarding. Minnesota A worked with Phi X and for the second time in the last four years they won the coveted Campus Carnival all-participation trophy.

The annual Founders' Day luncheon, sponsored by the St. Paul Alumnae Club, was held at the Mendakota Country Club. The main event of the luncheon was the presentation of scholarship awards to the girls having the highest scholastic averages for the year.

At the end of May, the granddaughters escorted their senior grandmothers to the Cap and Gown Day luncheon sponsored by the university. At this time, the new members of Mortar Board and the recipients of university service awards were announced. Sheila Knapp was tapped for Mortar Board and Bobbie Weinard, Sara Streich, and Barbara Smith received Ski-U-Mah awards. Other social events included the Mothers' Day tea, the spring formal, held at the White Pine Inn, and the annual Senior Farewell.

Minnesota A was especially happy last spring when it received permission to initiate the house mother, Mrs. Hanson, as member of Pi Beta Phi. For nine years, Mrs. Hanson has been greatly loved and respected by all the Minnesota Pi Beta Phis.

This fall, formal rush was held two weeks before classes began. After rush, many Pi Beta Phi participated in Welcome Week as advisors and in Freshman Camp as counselors. Although fall quarter has just begun, Minnesota A has already obtained many honors. Jan Barber was chosen chairman of the Freshman Queen contest, Diane Sims was elected assistant advisor for Union Board Council, and two new pledges: Wendy Gislason and Carole Oberg were chosen to be members of Union Board Council.

The U of A campus is rapidly expanding. A new ultra-modern Education building is being erected. Plans for a Commerce Building are being put into effect and work has begun on a graduate library. New multi-story residence buildings are being erected to meet the rapidly expanding demand for accommodation.

The new term sees Pi Beta Phi well represented in various aspects of campus life. Anne Dodds is vice president of the Student's Union and many clubs and committees have Pi Beta Phi in executive positions.

Rush will soon be under way and there is much enthusiasm and anticipation of fun and success.

A present of curtains and bedspreads from the Mothers' Club has brightened up the house for the eleven girls living in. A work party is scheduled for the repainting of the bedrooms. Rushes will surely be impressed with the results of Pi Phi Spirit!

Iowa A began the year with a retreat to plan for the events of rush and homecoming. The overnight stay at the home of a patroness proved valuable in work and fun. The results were a wonderful new pledge class and excellent plans for the homecoming skit and float.

Upon their return to campus, they found that the Pi Beta Phi who had remained near the college over the summer had been hard at work on projects. The chapter apartment now has an air conditioner, and the active room has been redecorated.

*IOWA BETA—SIMPSON COLLEGE, Chartered, 1874. Pledge Day, September 14, 1962. INITIATED, October 14, 1962: Sue McPherson, Lombard, Ill.; Wanda Triplett, Ankeny.

Iowa B started off another exciting year with Judith Pilmer, Carol Van Bergen, Joan Book, Carolyn Bakker, and Sue Germeaad named to the Dean's List for spring semester.

After an active rush period Iowa B started plans for the Christian Liberal Arts Festival. Since our chapter has the highest grade point average of any housing unit on campus we were honored by entertaining Dr. C. A. Simpson, Dean of Christ Church, Oxford University, at our house for an evening.

Homecoming plans for this weekend are underway and work on the float has been the main concern for Iowa B this past week. Two girls out of three nominated for Homecoming Princess are Iowa Bs: Marko Keil, Beaver and Bonnie Wright. We are quite proud of these girls and all of us are hoping that the honor of Homecoming will come again to the house for the third year in a row.

Carol Van Bergen is serving as chairman of the Honors Committee for Student Senate. Sue Haldeman is president of Home Economics Club and Ann Timberlake is president of Blackbirds.

Everyone is hoping for a successful year in the Iowa B house. PLEGDED: Nancy Blum, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Susan Ferguson, Newton; Christine Johnson, Sheboygan, Wis.; Sandra Sorenson, Des Moines; Pat Garden, Oskaloosa.

*IOWA GAMMA—IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY, Chartered, 1877. Pledge Day, September 4, 1962. INITIATED, August 28, 1962: Linda Boyd, Boone; Barb Flickinger, Minneapolis, Minn.; Polly Horlacher, Storm Lake; Cleta Iverson, Ellsworth; Carol Straehle, Anne Van Ness, Ames.

Iowa Gamma began another busy fall season with as much enthusiasm as was reflected by last spring's campus activities involving numerous Pi Beta Phi. At our Founders' Day luncheon, the annual chapter awards were presented to deserving active members. Sally Blanchard received the Scholarship Plaque for having the highest grade average for one year. Nancy Lesell rated the Scholarship Arrow for raising her grades the most in one quarter, and Sheila Haggard won the Effort Award given to the girl who has worked the hardest to attain high scholarship. Sue Tomlinson was awarded the activities lavalier for outstanding participation in campus and sorority activities.

April also meant the "Pinmate Dinner" and the Spring Serenade, directed toward organized houses and fraternities with pinmates. Friends and pinmates of the girls became better acquainted and our circle of friendship was extended.

Naiads held their annual aquatic production in the spring, with Cindy Loy, Linda Boyd, and Marilyn Mack all participating in the show.

Pi Beta Phi's have contributed both time and money to Iowa State's newly conceived People-to-People program. Those taking an active part both committee members and chairmen are: Kathy Kerl, Susie Pillars, Judy Oukrup, Judy Suhr, Gleneta Miller, Karen Scott, and Pam Helm.

Pi Beta Phi gained a new queen during spring activities as Jackie Hash, cheerleading captain, was elected Varsity "I" Queen by campus lettermen. Jackie was also the 1962 "Miss Legs" in the university's Charity Blast.

Deanna Smith Waters, Pi Beta Phi senior, was named alternate winner of the Harold Fellows Memorial Scholarship. In receiving this honor, Deanna is considered one of the top four broadcasting students in the nation.

Pi Beta Phi was in the campus news throughout the three-day May Veishea festival. This holiday was a perfect climax to a year of activity and recognition. For the third year in a row, Pi Beta Phi received the honor of seeing a sister crowned Veishea Queen of Queens. Leslie Graham, 1961 Queen, crowned Barb Haugen the 1962 Queen, and Carol Johnson, "Pledge Princess," presented roses to Barb.

The chapter was triply honored when new members of Mortar Board were tapped, and Deanna Waters, Kathy Kerl and Sue Tomlinson, received the recognition. Deanna's husband Dave was tapped for Cardinal Key, adding a happy note to a Pi Beta Phi family. Sally Blanchard, Mortar Board president, was on hand to tap the new incoming president. Pi Beta Phi and B Θ II combined to win honors in the combination float division. The "Stars Over Veishea" production "Wonderful Town" cast Betts Baukol and Jan Readhead, with Anne Collison costume chairman, and Deanna Waters co-director.

Among the many offices and honors which Pi Beta Phi held and received during the spring and for the fall season include these: Sue Brookhart, Young Republicans secretary; Cleta Iverson, Kathy Kerl, members of Student Union Board; Sue Tomlinson, Dean's Advisory Board Chairman; Karen Scott, YWCA Vice President, and Sindy Krumrey, "Y" secretary; Cindy Loy, Panhellenic Secretary; Jackie Hash, 1962-63 Cheerleading Squad; Barb Haugen, T K E Sweetheart; Betsy Crane and Nancy Flickinger, Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit.

O N, home economics honorary, added Sherry Stoddard as a new member. A Δ Δ, freshman scholastic honorary, tapped Bet's Baukol and Jeanie Grant. Sally Blanchard was announced the top student in the home economics education division of the university. Pi Beta Phi is doubly proud of Sally, who was chosen Amy B. Onken candidate from Mu Province.

With the return for "rush" week, the chapter was saddened by the sudden death of our beloved "Mother Don." The many hours of joy and strength she gave to Iowa Gamma will long be remembered, and it was with the knowledge of her desire for our success that we tackled the preparation for rush week, and added nineteen lovely girls to our house.

We are presently looking forward to the October 1 visit of our Grand President, Mrs. Alice Weber Mansfield, as well as beginning plans for the 1962 Homecoming celebration.

Many of the members were still starry-eyed over an exceptionally rewarding spring semester of honors and activities. Iowa Z claimed three Mortar Boards: Janet Armstrong, Nancy Files and Nancy Glenn. *KANSAS ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS. Chartered, April 1, 1872. The Pi Beta Phi members excelled not only as individuals, but also as a group, for we won second place in the Women's Small Groups' Division in the Greek Week Sing. We also won first place in both divisions of the bowling intramurals.

We did not return to college as early as we have in the past because the Panhellenic Council decided not to have fall rush this year. The campus looks very different than it did last spring. Construction is under way on three new university buildings, and best of all, construction is almost finished on the new Pi Beta Phi house. We are hoping that we shall be moving in soon.

by surprise when all 19 of them sneaked away at 6:00 a.m. September 29, for a run-filled week-end of swimming, horseback riding and other activities.

Homecoming is scheduled for October 13. House decorations and an open house are being planned to celebrate this annual event. Several other events have been scheduled for this semester. Two open houses will be held on October 21 and November 4. The girls are already excited about Mothers' week-end to be held on November 3-4. A feature which has been added to our social calendar for the first time is the faculty dinner planned for November 11. At this time the members will have an opportunity to meet several professors from the various fields in which Oklahoma Bs are enrolled.

The spring semester brought many honors and awards to the members of Oklahoma B. The chapter placed first in the annual  $\Sigma$  X Derby Day contest. Sue Nall was a finalist for the Danforth Award in Home Economics. Another Oklahoma B, Suzanne Crawford, was the choreographer for the Broadway hit "Bye, Bye, Birdie" when it was staged on the Oklahoma State campus. Worth; Susan Fowler, Nansy Hoskins, Marian Seward Rubey, Mary Jane Walton, Houston; Bea Ann Smith, Midland; Betty Jopling, Paris; Patricia Parker, San Antonio.

Texas A is, indeed, proud of these outstanding girls.

Rush week this fall was definitely a success for Texas A, thanks to the hard work and leadership of Carol Cory, Rush Captain. The fifty new pledges, as well as the seventeen new transfers, seem as eager as do the actives to make this school year the very best yet. The pledges have been quite industriously involved with retreats, work days, parties, and studies. They are anxiously awaiting formal pledging which will be held on October 20.

The whole chapter feels quite fortunate that the property next door to the Pi Beta Phi House has been acquired and that plans for a new extension are underway. This, of course, means more room, re-decoration, and something, indeed, about which to look forward. The new addition will be finished by next fall.

Alpha Xi Delta women's fraternity has colonized a new chapter on the University of Texas campus. The chapter did not hold a formal rush, but rather it scheduled interviews at the end of rush week.  $\Delta$   $\Sigma$   $\Delta$  now has forty-five pledges and will be allowed to pledge thirty-five more in the spring. Texas A welcomes the new addition to the campus and wishes it much success.

As this school year unfolds already the University of Texas campus is filled with spirit. The first two football games have been exciting victories, and with the encouragement of Kay Bailey, cheerleader finalist, enthusiasm has been great!

Campus groups are sedulously planning government and service activities for this year to be a successful one. Jan Jopling, recently elected Arts and Sciences Assemblyman, is doing a fine job.

OMICRON PROVINCE

*WASHINGTON ALPHA—UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON. Chartered, January 7, 1907. Pledge Day, September 26, 1962. Following a successful rush Washington A brought out brooms symbolizing that again we swept campus with our tremendous pledge class. Credit for this clean sweep goes to Ellen Koogle, rush chairman, and Sandy Campbell, her assistant. The leadership of these two girls and the spirit of the chapter enabled us to pledge 38 outstanding girls.

To relax after the strain of rush the entire chapter went on a cruise aboard the "Thea Foss" around Lake Washington. The day was beautiful and the food delicious. We were all very grateful to Sandy Campbell's parents for their hospitality on the cruise.

Amid the sounds of saws, hammers and confusion we are trying to get settled in a study routine. The noises around the house are the result of the workmen who are busy on the new addition to our chapter house. When finished the addition will provide "living in" space for 70 girls. The livingroom and much of the downstairs have been redecorated and look lovely. All of us are excited about the new look our house has and we can hardly wait till it is completed.

Last spring quarter was an exciting one for all Pi Beta Phi at Washington. We pledged two wonderful girls, Judy Strang from the University of Vermont, and Sandy Craig from Seattle.

The annual ASUW or student body elections were a successful adventure for us also. Sandy Law was elected ASUW secretary, Nancy Peterson was elected senior class treasurer, and Ann Hamilton was elected sophomore class treasurer. With these three victories you can imagine the excitement and pride we all felt.

Honors were attained by many of our sisters. W-key, sophomore women's honorary, tapped Judi Buck and Ann Hamilton for membership. Joyce Parsons, Nancy Reynolds, and Marlis McCully were tapped for Totem Club, the upperclass women's honorary. Judi Lone and Mary Ellen Conner were welcomed into A T Δ. Marilyn Mills was selected for O N, the home economics honorary. Husky Honeys, the university's official hostess group, added nine new Pi Beta Phi's to its roll call: Barbara Clanton, Linda Knutsen, Mary Kay Schiffler, Mary Ellen Conner, Sue Risk, Sue Shaw, Sue Rosene, Karyn Oberg, and Dedee Schram.

One of the proudest times came with the announcement that Marilyn Marschante had been selected to be a Varsity Songleader for next year.

In the campus beauty department two Pi Beta Phi's became known. Judi Lone was a finalist for Sophomore Bermuda Day and Dedee Schram was a finalist for Frosh Day.

Our two biggest social functions last spring were the spring formal and the Mother-Daughter Banquet. The formal was a dinner-dance held at the Seattle Tennis Club on May 5. The banquet was held on May 20 at the chapter house. Both of these affairs were very successful.

Hard work and high scholastic achievement enabled our chapter to attain first place in scholarship last quarter. We hope that this trend will continue this year and for many more. Under the able leadership of Donna Schram, scholarship chairman, we will strive to stay on top.

Looking forward to the near future we will be honored with a visit from our new province president, Mrs. Flinch. She will stay with us from October 21 to 23. This quarter will be a busy one with the end of the Seattle World's Fair, Homecoming, and the pledge dance, but always we will endeavor to keep in sight and reach the promised land where learning, knowledge, education, and enlightenment abound.

PLEGDED, September 26: Susan Anderson, Terry Anderson, Jean Barline, Sue Baylon, Julie Child, Cheryl Culverwell, Diane Deskins, Coleen Dombroski, Sally Fitzpatrick, Ruthe Green, Nancy Gordon, Faye Griswold, Louise Henry, Carlene Hildman, Beverly Hoeffler, Janice Hoeffler, Ronee Hoheim, Linda Hopkins, Judy Johnston, Diane

The following Sunday after pledge day was spent at Karen Kimey's summer home on Lake Coeur d'Alene. Such activities as boating, log-paddling, swimming, and water-skiing were the most popular with both pledges and members. However, sunning and singing relaxed the group and tired heads were bent as the day neared the end.

*OREGON BETA—OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY, Chartered, 1917. Pledge Day, September 24, 1962. INITIATED, September 20, 1962: Janet Young, Linda Morlan, Medford; Lynn Forrest, Roseburg; Sharon Trorey, Whittier, Calif.

Oregon State opened this year with the enrollment up to nearly 10,000, almost one thousand more than last year. Because of the increase, both the Independent and Greek living groups are crowded, but the students as well as faculty are pleased with the progress the university is making. To help ease crowded conditions, a new women's dorm has been built, and a new library is in the process of being finished.

This fall, as we look back on last year and mainly focus upon spring term, we are reminded of many things. First of all we remember that we did extremely well on grades—attaining the highest grades on campus all three terms, and spring term had a house average of 3.07, a 4 equalling an A. Everyone in the house this term is continuing to work hard to keep up our good record.

Oregon B was the hostess to a faculty dessert held at the chapter house. Many of the members of the faculty were invited and were served strawberry shortcake.

Beverly Bergren, our president, and Patty Huffschildt, our delegate, both enjoyed Pi Beta Phi Convention and have shared many of their experiences with us.

Honors were also plentiful as evidenced by Sharon Trorey being Queen of the Rook-Sophomore picnic and Linda Morlan being on the court too. Tammy Tweed and Terry Rogers are both members of Beaver Belles, a select group of girls who act as hostesses for the football team. Carol Ann Warrington was elected secretary of the junior class, and Carol Mortenson is a member of varsity Rally. On the Junior-Senior Prom court last spring both Patricia Warner and Carol Lindblom were princesses.

PLEGDED: Chloe Bergren, Sue Chorlton, Stephanie Lee, Pamela Richmond, Peggy Thomas, Cherie Viggers, Mary Caye Wahoske, Patricia Wilson, Tamara Young, Portland; Ann Altheide, Astoria; Theresa Sorensen, Beaverton; Kathy Ellingson, Klamath Falls; Lynn Saylor, Eugene; Sue Armstrong, Marcia Burbidge, Chris Busick, Sharon Ertz, Salem; Charlene Dent, Roseburg; Cherie Ingram, Haines; Bonnie Demler, Sherry Gillis, Long Beach, Calif.; Jane Sanders, Arcadia, Calif.; Kathy Sawdey, Hayward, Calif.; Janet Wilson, Santa Paula, Calif.; Susanne Wiesner, Seattle, Wash.

The fall brought many events for Oregon  $\Gamma$ . Our rush was very successful and we pledged twenty top girls.

Our new house is finally under construction after a long delay. It is expected to be finished by spring vacation. We are looking forward to moving into more spacious quarters, but we will miss our lovely old house.

One of our new pledges, Joan Kane, is on the rally squad along with Sharon Brown, Cheryl Bohannon, and Tori Hull.

Lin Howard is the Angel Flight captain, and new members of the drill squad include: Nancy Farmar, Molly Gaynor, and Joining the girls tapped last spring: Pat Cramer, "Pledge Presents" on September 22 at the El Cortez.

The big hurricane which hit the Northwest last week was worse right here in Salem, but we suffered no damages except for four and one half days without electricity. It is easy to imagine the effects of no heat, food, or hot water for forty girls! The candle lit evenings were quite romantic anyway. Our routine is back to normal for the time being.

PLEGDED: Molly Gaynor, Beaverton; Sylvia Goodrich, Bend; Laurie Hall, Sue Hemenway, Marilyn Viken, Portland; Dita Luers, Salem; Carolyn Moore, Tigard; Kathy Norris, Tillamook; Sue Sweet, Bandon; Lisa Torp, Lake Oswego; Cathy Atterbury, Belvedere, Calif.; Michel Bliss, Sacramento, Calif.; Nancy Farmar, Escondido, Calif.; Pat Hart, San Mateo, Calif.; Laura Huntington, San Marino, Calif.; Joan Kane, Atherton, Calif.; Donna Kemp, South Pasadena, Calif.; Elmer Lindquist, Camp Pendleton, Calif.; Ruth Yonker, Los Altos, Calif.; Robin Taylor, Seattle; Pat Cramer, Great Falls, Mont.

As is always the case in September California B opened its door for rushing. But this year there was additional pride in the house because of improvements made over the summer. The living room was completely refurnished. New curtains and pillows for the chairs were put in the study hall. And shutters now cover the windows in Brown and President's rooms. When we closed our door again there were seventeen outstanding pledges locked inside.

The first weeks of school were filled with glowing reports of convention this summer. And everyone is anxiously awaiting 1964 when convention again meets. Girls are already planning their summer vacations to include the meeting in Victoria.

California B again has many honors coming its way. Jane Downer and Janet Primm were chosen for Panile, a sophomore women's honorary. Betsy Bright who was president of Panile last year gave up her gavel this year after doing an excellent job. Patsy Nicolaus, Paula Daly, and Judy Primm were tapped for Women's Rally Committee, a spirit group on campus. Barbara Adams, Maureen Doughty, Mary Shirley, Barbara Quaintance, Tally Bigelow, and Sally Gessler were all elected to the Card Stunts Committee. Pam Kimble is president this year of Card Stunts.

On October 9, the most outstanding honor of all was given to Helle Stueland. She was chosen Panhellenic Girl Of The Year. Each sorority chooses their most outstanding member in grades, activities, offices, and personality. And out of these twenty-one girls one girl is chosen by the Panhellenic Association of the Bay Area. Helle will have this honor for the whole year.

Social activities have already begun this year. The entire house had an exchange with the K N. And the pledges have had two successful exchanges with the T K E and the  $\Delta T A$ . We are all looking forward to Big Game this year and especially the formal which is to be held on December 7, at the Peacock Gap Country Club in Marin County.

\*CALIFORNIA GAMMA—UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. Chartered, July 27, 1917. Pledge Day, September 20, 1962. The members of California  $\Gamma$  are again looking forward to another successful year on campus. Last semester's activities were climaxed by the annual University of Southern California Songfest in which the Pi Beta Phi and  $\Sigma \Phi E$  entry "T.V. Special" was awarded not only first place in novelty division but also the sweepstakes trophy. \*CALIFORNIA DELTA—UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT LOS ANGELES. Chartered, September, 1927. Pledge Day, September 16, 1962. Upon returning to UCLA from various summer activities, we were greeted with some exciting scholarship news; despite all of our spring activities, Pi Beta Phi came out number one in scholarship on the row, out of twenty-three sororities. Although we have gotten near this mark several times, this is a first for first!

One of the spring activities in which we participated was a Mardi Gras Booth with  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$ . We helped to earn the largest sum of money ever from this activity, given to support our University Camp. Among the officials was Sue Schaefer, booth chairman.

Then came the ultimate in spring activities—Spring Sing, held in the Hollywood Bowl. We sang in Mixed Division with  $\Sigma A E$ , winning first in the division, and barely missing sweepstakes. We also entered Women's Division singing "Love," an original California  $\Delta$  serenade song. Led by Phyllis Blackmun, we finished second in the competition.

New members in various organizations include Phyllis Blackmun and Anne Plumb in Prytanean, upper division woman's honorary of which Toni Church is the new president. Among new Spurs, we are proud of Jeanne Norris, president, and Candy Pope, historian. In the field of fashion, Abby Dickow has been chosen AWS Fashion Board Chairman. In the beauty line we had several representatives: Pam Ward was a finalist for  $\Sigma N$  White Rose Queen and Janet Hawley for  $\Delta X$  Queen. Maureen Webb was selected a Southern Campus Princess for spring. Also top among Pi Beta Phis on campus was Kathy Murphy, senior class secretary and an Outstanding Senior Award winner. \*CALIFORNIA EPSILON—SAN DIEGO STATE COLLEGE. Chartered, September 1, 1949. Pledge Day, September 11, 1962. Excitement is in the air at 5105 College Avenue as news was released that a new house may not be in the too far distant future. The La Jolla Alumnae Club worked hard all summer to raise money for a new house for California  $E$ . They sponsored a "Day at the Races" at the Del Mar Race Track.

The active chapter treated the pledges to a slumber party at the chapter house on September 11. The pledges of all the women's fraternities were presented at the Panhellenic sponsored "Pledge Presents" on September 2 at the El Cortez.

September 29 was the date of the alumnae sponsored luncheon and fashion show at Vacation Village in Mission Beach. Betty Adams, Sherill Bottier, Anne Cobb, Peggy Hunt, and Sandy Jaworski were models from the active chapter.

On October 7 the chapter had a joint with  $\Sigma A E$ . The theme for the joint was "Children's Playground." Everyone dressed as little kids and played games.

"Dad's Night," on October 13 is a time when every California  $E$  has a date with her father for the football game and dessert after the game. Entertainment is provided for the dads by the pledges.

On October 14 the Pi Beta Phi mothers have a chance to meet and get to know each other at the annual Mothers' Tea.

A "Night at the Old Globe Theatre" on October 28 will be the next project to raise money toward a new house. All tickets for the evening performance will be sold by the actives and the pledges.

*CALIFORNIA ZETA—UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT SANTA BARBARA. Chartered, February 2, 1950. Pledge Day, September 16, 1962. INITIATED, September 3, 1962: Patti Jo Wehrheim, La Canada; September 22, 1962: Julie Williams, San Gabriel; October 7, 1962: Linda Bragg, Bellflower.

The University of California at Santa Barbara renews its promise each year to become the finest campus in California through a unique blending of culture, intellect, and scholarship. Under the guidance of its new chancellor, Vernon Cheadle, UCSB has begun to achieve goals that educators have only dared to dream.

A totally new program has caught the imagination of many students on the campus: the Affiliates. This is a group of Santa Barbara residents who have pledged their financial support and their personal assistance to the Associated Students. For example, if a group of students share an interest in a certain field, an affiliate with the same interest may invite them over for coffee and conversation. The goal is to establish communication between the residents and the students.

The University Abroad Program is well under way this year. Eighteen students from UCSB are studying in Bordeaux, France, for seven months, including Pi Beta Phi Colleen Malcolm.

Construction of new buildings goes on interminably. An eight-story dorm, San Miguel, which broke ground last spring, is nearly complete. Two national fraternities have joined the Greek world at Santa Barbara: Sigma Chi and Phi Psi.

California Zeta pledged thirteen girls in fall rush this year. Being slightly under quota, the chapter participated in open rush, adding four girls to the pledge class and making a grand total of sixty-three members.

The active chapter is striving for closer association with the Santa Barbara Alumnae Club. A dinner held on October 3 did much to strengthen this bond. At this time the alumnae members chose for little sisters the new pledges and their big sisters.

Scholarship is as important as ever. Chairman Lynn Peterson will soon see her efforts bear fruit as California Z climbs to the top of grade point list. There might be a slight interruption in the study schedule the weekend of October 26 as Santa Barbara has its Homecoming festivities. This year's theme is "California Heritage" and Pi Beta Phi joins  $\Delta T \Delta$  in the float building. Lynn Pendleton and Peggy Schevill are co-chairmen. Tommie Biggs is planning a skit for Galloping Gaucho Revue, a traditional university talent show scheduled the same weekend.

Spurs, a sophomore women's national service honorary, tapped Pi Beta Phi's Jan Cooper, Judy Ensign, Candy Harrington, Barbara Horwith, and Lee Anne Horine, who was elected president. Su Newlin was chosen for Chimes, a junior women's honorary.

Pledges Diana Hall and Carol Peterson were nominated for Frosh Queen. Patti Denton was chosen  $\Sigma \Phi E$  Queen of Hearts, and on her court were two Pi Beta Phi princesses: Jan Cooper and Linda Sauer.  $\Sigma A E$  voted Cheryl Liggett as a Little Sister of Minerva.

California Z President Mary Leinster and Lynn Peterson are members of Cal Club this year: quite an honor.

The Pi Beta Phis at Santa Barbara share an eagerness for learning balanced with service and social activities which will strengthen the chapter and make this the best year yet!

PLEDGED: Julie Rudd, Alamo; Carol Emery, Altadena; Diana Hall, Atherton; Leslie Stringfellow, Colton; Diana Buffington, Hermosa Beach; Georgia Young, Glendale; Sallie Irvin, Inglewood; Sue Hill, Linda Joy Gerrish, Los Angeles; Robin Watts, Long Beach; Gini Hairgrove, La Canada; Sharyn Oakes, Palos Verdes Peninsula; Vicki-Leigh Yarwood, San Bernardino.

Union chairmen were Cathy Orizer, Bonnie Knutson, and Joanie Graves. Working diligently as AWS board members were Diane Armour, Kathy Farmer, and Bonnie Knutson.

Sue Hovik was the copy editor and now is Senior Staff Writer for the Daily Nebraskan. Sue also spends much time in YWCA work as do "Y" assistants Janice Luschen, Willa Meyer, and Tommie Alexis, Sue Hovik as chairman organized Spring Day while Mary Ralston and Ardyce Gidley were Spring Day special workers.

Ruthie Read was selected as the vice president of Orchestis and Kathy Allen was chosen for membership. Terri David was a select dancer in the Spring Kosmet Show, "Guys and Dolls." Jane Hanger was in Aquakettes, "The Sea Gull" and "Hello from Bertha" featured Sue Guenther as a lead. Gail Galloway, Mary Knolle and Julie Hempel toured with the University Singers and Gail served as President of Mu Phi Epsilon (professional music sorority).

Spring also meant several campus queens. Susie Rosewell was Rose Queen of Delta Sigma Phi, the second Pi Phi in a row. Kay Schnurr was Rose Queen of Delta Sigma Pi. Cornhusker Beauty Queen finalists were Willa Meyer, and Bonnie Knutson. Miss Air Force was Ruthie Read, Sig. Ep. Sweetheart finalist was Ann McDaniel and Theta Xi Dream Girl finalist was Susie Salter.

We were very proud of Bonnie Knutson who was chosen as one of the two Pages in the Ivy Court. Also in the Court were Susie Salter, Karen Skoda, Ardyce Gidley, Janet Luschen, Ruthie Read, Judy Brown and Mary Kay Coonrad.

The entire chapter made an excursion by chartered bus to Columbus, Nebraska, where we were the guests for our Spring Retreat at the home of Mary Ann Behlen.

This fall the members returned determined to make this an even better year. We began by pledging 24 new girls during formal rush week. Sigma Chi Derby Day was a very exciting time for the campus. The chapter pledge class won first place, Susan Segrist was the runner-up for Miss Derby Day, and the peppy Nebraska Betas won the Spirit Trophy.

Two new pledges have already received honors at University pep rallies, Marian Fisher was runner-up for "Miss Quarterback" and Becky Haas was a spirited pledge cheerleader. The pledges were honored at a dessert by the Lincoln Alumnae at the home of Mrs. Richard Groff.

New dorm councillors are Willa Meyer and Judy Kriss; Diane Armour is on the Dean's Advisory Board; Christy Brehm is a Cadence Countess; and Gail Galloway has a lead in Kurt Weill's opera, "Street Scene."

We are hoping for a very successful year!

PLEGGED: Mary Lou Adams, Scottsbluff; Cheri Jo Beel, Valentine; Clea Bode, Gothenburg; Penny Dye, Lincoln; Eileen Eskew, Lincoln; Mary Lou Farmer, Valentine; Bev Fenstermacher, Nebraska City; Lorna Fischer, Omaha; Marion Fisher, Lincoln; Becky Haas, Lincoln; Gia Hemphill, Alexandria, Va.; Susan Moore, York; Mary Ann Morledge, Omaha; Kay Morris, Lincoln; Pam Nordin, Omaha; Gail Overholt, Omaha; Bobbi Schock, Sioux Falls, S.D.; Karen Schnurr, Alliance; Susan Segrist, Leeward, Kan.; Susan Stuckey, Lexington; Susan Sweeney, Omaha; Lois Turner, Omaha; Gwen Vinardi, Omaha, . . .

OREGON DELTA—PORTLAND STATE COLLEGE. Chartered, December 4, 1960. Pledge Day, October 17, 1962. This term started off with two weeks of rush. The Oregon Deltas found themselves quite busy with parties practically every night of the week. Although very busy, the Pi Phis at Portland State are working desperately to maintain the top grades which they hold on campus.

The Oregon Deltas at Portland State are very proud of the activities that their girls are engaged in. Joan Welby is Panhellenic President and doing a fine job I might add. Pat Flanagan has taken on the responsibility of A.W.S. President.

We are now making preparations for the fall Panhellenic Dance.

It is called the Pajama Dance and has proved to be a success in years passed.

Diane Kopta and Bonnie Apperson are heading a service project for the Oregon Deltas. It consists of gathering and packing books for the Philippines.

Shirley Abbott and Joan Welby are working on a Christmas Party which looks as if it is going to be a little out of the ordinary and a lot of fun.

PLEDGED: Bonnie Sloan, Beverly Kingwell, Arlene Matson, Pat Danford, Shayla Miller, Joy Martin, Kathy Williams, Sally Sagar, Doreen McClan, Barbi Chambers, Joani Walton, Linda Merz, Carol Kessinger, Linda Routan, Susan McKee.
