ARROW is appreciated

Thank you, thank you, thank you for the two articles in the winter issue of The ARROW about Manchester (CT) alums.

I recently transferred my club membership from Hartford, CT Alumnae Club (after 53 years) to Manchester Area Alum Club. It has been a delightful experience renewing acquaintances with former Connecticut Alpha members whom I knew as Province President when the chapter was a beginning group. The club received Ideal Club province award at last Convention, and the majority of its members are Connecticut Alphas.

We eastern Pi Phis sometimes feel ignored or forgotten compared to the much older and larger and experienced western and southern clubs.

Susi Nuss (Winter, page 20) and Kathy Bach (page 6) told us at different club meetings about their experiences (1) at Arrowmont basketry session and (2) organization coordinator of Safe Rides in Connecticut, and I couldn't help wishing that The ARROW could tell about their experiences for other Pi Phis to read—when lo! I found them both in this issue.

New Englanders are not good at "blowing their own horns" but we should be especially proud of this Connecticut Alpha chapter and the Manchester Area Alum Club which are definitely important and vital parts of our great Pi Beta Phi Fraternity.

Proud of lineage

How many four generation Pi Phi families are there? We have one in our family and we're proud of our record.

Our four generations began with a lovely Pi Phi Angel—now deceased—who was also a Golden Arrow. She was Edith Daniel Dyer, an active Pi Phi at Randolph Macon. As a young housewife and mother of two, with Amy B. Onken's help, she established Texas Beta at S.M.U. where I was an active. Some years later my daughter, Ruth Hammond Swain, became an active in Texas Beta. Three years ago her daughter, Heidi Swain, pledged Pi Phi at North Texas State, where she is presently a vice president of the chapter. She was initiated with her great grandmother's pin, loaned for the occasion by my sister, Anne Dyer McKee, also a very active Pi Phi in the New Orleans Alumnae Club.

We hope to go for five in the future.

A grateful Pi Phi remembers

Approximately sixteen years ago, in another country and while interning and waiting for my first teaching position, I was seriously injured in a head-on collision on my way to school. For months I could not walk alone and my face was disfigured, which meant surgery. At that point I was without income, far from home, and very down. Jennifer Rogers, Lucille Carson and Jean Harmon appealed to the Pi Beta Phi Emma Harper Turner Fund and to my complete shock, one day a check came in the mail to assist me through these very dark times. I remember sobbing uncontrollably. Three years later, I am having the pleasure to be able to donate $1,000 to the Florida Epsilon House Corporation in honor of Jennifer, Lucille and Jean, as they were testimonies to what Pi Phi love really is and should be throughout our lives.

→ The above letter was sent to Helen Larzelere Whittle with permission to reprint it here. The Emma Harper Turner Memorial Fund is an endowment fund named to honor our Grand President from 1890 to 1893 and president of the Alumnae Council (which she formed) from 1910 to 1912. Principal of the Fund is available for chapter house loans and the interest is used to help needy Pi Phis. Names of persons aided are held in strictest confidence, except under circumstances as above.

D.U.s visit G.P.

We are two Delta Upsilon alumni who are currently living in Washington, D.C. area. Being graduates of major universities (where Pi Beta Phi was TOPS!!) we had the opportunity to read several issues of The ARROW. It was always interesting to read about Pi Phis on the move—especially in Kenya! It was in The ARROW that we found out that your Grand President, Carolyn Lichtenberg, was living in our area.

We had the opportunity to drop in on Grand President Lichtenberg in January. Although we did expect to be greeted warmly, we were overwhelmed by her gracious hospitality. While visiting, we were given a tour of her presidential office and shown some materials on the history of Pi Beta Phi. While going through these materials her husband took some snapshots. We are passing them along to you and other ARROW readers to let you know that Mrs. Lichtenberg is always on the job. Before ending our visit, we had the opportunity to meet her charming family.

We have always enjoyed the quality and high standards of The ARROW...

The often unsung officer of a chapter is the treasurer. While there is an annual award, the Olivia Smith Moore Silver Slipper Award, for the very best chapter treasurer of all, the chapter accounting auditor in Central Office felt that there was a need for quarterly recognition of the treasurers. We agree and are happy to announce the chapters with perfect chapter accounting S&S scores for the months of November, December and January. Congratulations to Alabama Alpha, Florida Epsilon, Illinois Zeta, Nevada Alpha, South Carolina Beta, Mississippi Beta and California Theta. Showing great improvement were Alabama Beta, Georgia Alpha and Arkansas Beta.

In the last issue we noted that four new chapters were being added to the Pi Phi roster. Make it five! Gamma Nu, a local sorority of 85 members, at California State University-Chico, will be installed in early September. The local group, formed about twenty months ago with the intent of seeking national affiliation, will become California Theta, the ninth chapter in that big western state.

We're in a quandary. Each year we receive stories from Minnesota Alpha and Pennsylvania Epsilon about their campus-wide fund-raisers—Campus Carni at Minnesota and the Dance Marathon at Penn State. Each time the stories repeat the fact that the respective schools have the largest student-run philanthropy/fund-raiser in the nation. Now we don't know the basis of that claim in either case—whether it's money raised, or the number of participants. So let's hear it from those two schools and clear up this situation.

New York City Panhellenic will award two $700 Fellowships to sorority women doing graduate work at a college or university in the New York City Metro area during 1986-87. Interested Pi Phis should request an application from Ms. Janet Andre, 5 Tudor City Place, 332, New York, N.Y. 10017. Completed forms should be returned by August 15, 1986.

Judy Whiteacre, Director of Membership and Rush, reports some good news. Fall rush returns indicate that of the 3,566 rushees who pledged Pi Phi (106 reporting chapters), 14.5%, or 518, are Pi Phi legacies. Another figure indicated that Pi Phi pledged 35.1% of all legacies going through rush.

Wasn't it nice to read a positive article about campus Greeks in Time last March? It really doesn't happen too often, even in these times of growing conservatism on most campuses. But Greeks were given credit for "cleaning up their act," for philanthropic and service activities, for toughened anti-hazing regulations and liquor control, and an "upsurge of the nice-guy sentimentality once typical of college life." It did sound good!

The California Epsilon Alumnae Advisory Committee (AAC) did something that sounded like fun. For the last meeting with chapter executive officers last spring, AAC kidnapped their counterparts and took them to a special restaurant for some "world famous" pie. Barbara Hinchman, AAC Chairman, writes that it was a great way to start the evening, enjoying their last time together. After pie, they returned to the chapter house and got down to business.

Periodically we must get on our soapbox, as we did at a recent province workshop. The plural of Pi Phi is Pi Phis—without an apostrophe. The plural of Pi Phi is Pi Phis—without an apostrophe. The plural of Pi Phi is Pi Phis—without an apostrophe. Add the apostrophe and you have a contraction or a possessive. Simple English!

Then, one Pi Phi alum is an alumna and two or more are alumnae. A singular male alum (not of Pi Phi, of course) is an alumnus and two or more are alumni. When speaking of a graduate of a college or university, the general term is masculine.

In a recent ATO chapter mailing, editor Bill Krahling quoted an alumnus, Jim Grimshaw, who cited five things for a better life that he learned by being in ATO. We thought they would apply to any membership, and asked permission to repeat the list. 1) You only get out of an organization what you put into it. 2) To be an effective leader, you must be positive and enthusiastic. 3) Be yourself and allow others to be themselves. 4) Welcome change and be open-minded to improvement. 5) Continue involvement in Fraternity after graduation to be the positive influence for others, just as others were a positive influence for you.

He added, "The ideals of Fraternity don't apply just to ATO. The beautiful principles that we hold so dear should be expanded to our fellow men as we go out into our workplaces and communities."

And doesn't that apply to Pi Beta Phi?

Have you heard—the best man for the job is usually a woman!

Because of their concern over the use of alcohol, the national presidents of all 26 NPC groups have agreed to the following:

1. that we are opposed to the misuse of alcohol;
2. that all college chapters, all individual members, and all guests must abide by state, local, college/university laws and regulations;
3. that no college chapter funds may be used to purchase alcohol (Co-sponsors of social events are potentially liable regardless of how the expenses are shared.)
4. that it is inadvisable to host a party involving alcohol when the majority of guests attending are under the legal drinking age.

Each NPC group has a national alcohol policy and is expected to abide by it. In addition, the national presidents expect their chapters to respect the regulations of any NPC co-sponsoring group.

We hope that this agreement will give college chapters the courage and ability to initiate discussion and formulate a Panhellenic stand on the subject of alcohol.

Charter members of Colorado Delta at Colorado School of Mines.

"My heart belongs to Pi Phi" was the theme surrounding installation of the Colorado Delta chapter. This was truly an eventful and inspirational weekend, held January 31 to February 2. Twenty-five collegiate and six alumnae initiates became part of the chain of friendship of Pi Beta Phi. The colony had been a local sorority for three years on the campus at one-hundred-and-twelve-year-old Colorado School of Mines, located in Golden, CO.

Twenty-five chapters, represented by active members and alumnae, showed their deep appreciation and dedication to Pi Phi. Their presence allowed new members to see how much Pi Phi has meant and how special it was to see our membership grow.

Members of Grand Council participated in the weekend, adding a special grace to the installation. Grand President Carolyn Helman Lichtenberg, assisted by Grand Vice President of Philanthropies Adrienne Hiscox Mitchell, Grand Secretary Carol Inge Warren, Grand Vice President of Membership Jean Wirths Scott and Director of Extension Nancy Carlock Rogers conducted the initiation ceremonies at Calvary Episcopal Church in Golden. This impressive ceremony gave members a chance to remember their own initiation and feel a special part in the history of Colorado Delta.

Chairmen of the event were Diane Dailey Howard and Betty Shrader Hughart. Other special Pi Phi guests included Eugenie Steinhauer deLuise, Rho Province President; Christa Landgraf, TGC; Mary Olson Lester, Alumnae Province President, Rho Province; Carolyn Pavletich Lesh, Director of Alumnae Records; Lynn Moore Neisis, Rho Province Coordinator; and Peg George Houston, winner of the national Evelyn Peters Kyle Award. Golden Arrows present included Maxine Hayes Ullemeyer, Margaret Kunsmiller Brown, Marie Albi deLuise, and Edith Jane Sturgeon Johnson.

The weekend began with a Cookie-Shine held Friday evening at the Sheraton Inn in Lakewood, chaired by Lynn Neisis and Rae Ann McMahan. This was fun and a wonderful surprise for the new initiates. Alumnae and members commented that it was a Cookie-Shine they'd never forget—they had never seen one so elaborate or meaningful. Various chapters gave gifts to Colorado Delta, from silver trays to framed poems. A scrapbook, completed by AAC member Cyndi Fogg, was appreciated by the chapter.

The banquet

Formal banquet, chaired by Mary Bliss Ainsworth, was held at the Green Center on campus. Each table was centered with a wine and blue flower arrangement with wine and blue angels, donated by the Jefferson County Alumnae Club. Small silver angels on ribbons were gifts from Grand Council. Also at each place was a silver bud vase from Rho Province chapters and Pi Phi buttons from Florida Delta. Attractive blue programs with wine letters were the responsibility of Donna Wallace Kato.

Dr. Barbara Blake Bath, Kansas Alpha, a professor at the School of Mines, was toastmistress, welcoming over one hundred Pi Phis in attendance. Pi Phi grace was led by Nancy Rogers, and introduction of the head table was done by Jean Scott. Colorado Alpha and Gamma chapters had the largest delegations of the more than twenty-five chapters represented. Guests from Idaho, Arizona, Wyoming, Oklahoma and New Mexico were present. Four actives from Oklahoma Alpha and eleven from New Mexico Beta made the longest trips to the celebration.

The presentation of gifts from Grand Council and area alumnae clubs was acknowledged by Jane Hallenbeck and Melanie Marquardt, former and current chapter presidents. Chapter members were delighted with the many lovely gifts, and sang Pi Phi songs to show their appreciation.

Colorado Delta was then installed by Grand President Carolyn Lichtenberg and the evening concluded with the Loving Cup Ceremony.

Sunday's Reception

Concluding an impressive weekend, a reception for faculty, parents, students, and members of the community was hosted in Green Center. Over two hundred guests attended. Chairmen Pat Hill Pascoe and Kathryn Drenan Cole arranged for cookies, punch and coffee to be served. Cookies were donated by local alumnae groups. Gifts were displayed on tables throughout the room. Guests enjoyed the opportunity to meet new chapter members as well as Grand Council.

The Colorado Delta installation committee was chaired by Mary Olsen Lester. Chairmen not previously mentioned included Janie Shover Hutchinson, registration; Diane Dailey Howard and Betty Shrader Hughart, initiation; Georjean Dubois Taylor, accommodations; and Julie Gray LaChance, registration packet.

School of Mines

The Colorado School of Mines has the largest enrollment and is the second oldest institution in the United States devoted to minerals and energy engineering education. Students must be in the top 10% of their high school graduating class to be considered for enrollment. Engineering areas range from geophysical to electrical.

Rho Province and members of Pi Beta Phi are proud and honored to welcome the newest chapter of Pi Phi—Colorado Delta. The sky is the limit for this chapter!

Initiates

Melanie Marquardt, Cindy Mystkowski, Julye Nugent, Elinor Price, Judi Rapisardy, Jean Rickert, Betsy Ryan, Megan Thompson, Suzette Thompson, Alicia Thornton, Michele Vivona, Tracy Vowel, Kristin Westwater, Resa Wilt. Alumnae initiates are Kay Camp Dillingham, Pat Glenski Knipp, Geraldine Bowles Place, Catherine Reasoner, Louise Nichols Steinhauer, Kristin Zembeck.

Twelve girls competing in a largely male-dominated scholastic atmosphere. Twelve girls who wanted to make a lasting impact on their campus by forming a group which would provide a chance for women to associate in an organized manner. . . . Sound like something you might read about Pi Beta Phi? It is kind of. Before Colorado Delta became a colony, it existed for two and one-half years as a local sorority—Omega Delta Psi—on the Colorado School of Mines campus.

The founding story of our local goes something like this: One evening in 1983, two initiators and roommates, Jill Williford and Chris Millar, were discussing their dissatisfaction with the one Greek option available to women at C.S.M. Somehow the idea of simply "forming their own" was contrived. After careful selection of ten other girls whom they thought would be amenable to the idea, a constitution was written with the help of present Panhellenic advisor Bill Hill, and Omega Delta Psi was formed on April 3, 1983.

There was extreme opposition to the idea (Don't you girls know? . . . You cannot just form your own sorority!), but this attitude sparked our determination to succeed. We continued to grow in both size and campus popularity and prestige and it soon became evident that we had the capacity to be much more than a local. Letters were written to several national sororities and five possible colonization responses were received. The five sororities were scheduled to come and meet us. We listened to the first four, but little did we know we had saved the best for last. From the moment that our now beloved Nancy Rogers, Jean Scott, and numerous alums walked on campus, we wanted to be Pi Phis more than we could possibly express. Fortunately, the feeling was mutual and we were pledged on October 20, 1985. On February 1, 1986, we were honored to be initiated by Grand President Carolyn Helman Lichtenberg.

Our affiliation with Pi Beta Phi has been absolutely fantastic as we have been encouraged to maintain our individuality as a chapter, while at the same time integrating all of the wonderful things about Pi Phi onto our campus. A New Mexico Alpha alumna attending the installation festivities summed it up perfectly: "I heard about your founding story and couldn't miss any of this. It just goes to show that you can never tell a Pi Phi what she can't do!!"

Kristin R. Westwater

These outstanding young women received the 1985-86 Pi Beta Phi Graduate Fellowships of $1,500 each. Left: Jill Verdeyen, Alabama Beta, a 1985 summa cum laude graduate, will have a year of graduate work at William and Mary before continuing law degree studies at the University of Alabama. Center: Pamela Midboe, North Dakota Alpha, received a B.S. degree in May and will pursue a medical degree at the University of North Dakota. Right: Laurel Andrew, Illinois Beta-Delta, earned a B.A. degree this spring and will study for her Master's degree in business administration at the University of Chicago.

Arrowfacts

All Pi Beta Phis are familiar with the story of our founding, the meeting at Major Holt's home, which laid the foundation for greater opportunities for women. We celebrate that occasion every year on Founders' Day.

It was in 1865 that Beta Theta Pi and Delta Tau Delta established chapters at Monmouth College, followed a year later by Phi Gamma Delta. These chapters generated great interest in Greek-letter societies among both men and women students. Thus, during discussion on this topic at the home of Fannie Whitenack, five of our Founders decided to form a Greek society for women. They chose six friends to join them at a meeting to be held in the room of Libbie Brook and Ada Bruen in order to plan for this grand undertaking. Jennie Nicol was not a part of the initial process, but because she was initiated very soon after our organization, is considered among the original twelve.

On April 28, 1867, these young college women met to organize. Committees were appointed to draw up a Constitution and nominate officers, and the grip was chosen.

The next meeting of I.C. Sorosis was held at the home of Maggie Campbell on May fifth. With great secrecy, our Constitution was adopted, with every other two letters being omitted when written, in order to assure secrecy. Our motto was chosen, the badge was selected, and Emma Brownlee was elected our first president.

These actions were not the result of a school-girl whim, for from the outset our Founders planned for a national organization, fully realizing they would face opposition. This was, after all, aggression against men's privileges. Emma Brownlee Kilgore later said, a woman's society was "such a new and wonderful vision to the developing woman . . . that it filled them with fear." The precedent-setting organization helped lead to greater opportunities for women, exceeding even the greatest dreams of our Founders.

Beauty blossoms in Yarmouth Port

by Beatrice Warner Vincent

Retirement for Doris Hatch Cipolla, Illinois Alpha, has become a time of outstanding community service. While her husband, Ralph, has been active in town government, Doris has turned her efforts to beautifying her community. What results she has attained!

Three years ago Doris decided that it would be lovely if residents of the town would fill baskets with flowers and hang them on their gates, mailboxes or fences on the first day of May each year. She enlisted local papers for publicity and her idea grew and grew. Today people love to ride around Yarmouth Port on Cape Cod on May 1 and enjoy the beautiful results of her initiative.

April and May in Yarmouth Port this year were spectacular due to Doris' efforts. Last fall she organized residents living along the main street to plant over 4,000 daffodil bulbs. She is a member of the Village Improvement Association and is now working on plans for planting double that number of bulbs next fall.

Visitors to her town also enjoy the "Spice of Life" herb garden on the grounds of the Historical Society. Doris is in charge of the garden's maintenance and of recruiting volunteer workers.

Her civic beautification talent blossomed again last holiday season when Doris decided there were forty-five street signs bordering Main Street that could be decorated for Christmas. She organized residents and a stroll down Main Street last December revealed live, beribboned greens gathered into swags decorating each sign. A lovely idea and a lovely sight.

Doris also runs an annual clean-up day for residents. Bags of litter are swapped for coffee and donuts and she makes the clean-up a fun time for all.

Settlement School teacher

After graduation from Monmouth, Doris taught first grade in Pi Phi's Settlement School for three years in the early '40s. After her marriage, she became a park naturalist with the state of Illinois. During the war years Doris lived in France and Germany where her husband, Ralph, was a Colonel in the Corps of Engineers and where their two daughters, Leslie and Dean, were born. After the war she lived in Washington, D.C. and then retired to Cape Cod in the early '70s.

Doris is a "mover and shaker" in her town and she is honored by its residents for the beauty she has created.

Kipling wisely wrote:

Such gardens are not made
By singing "Oh, how beautiful!"
and sitting in the shade.

Cape Cod residents are proud of Doris' accomplishments and the Cape Cod Alumnae Club is proud that she is one of theirs.

Curiosity inspires children's author

by Joanne Breeze Schowe

Have you ever wondered about a dear, old possession—something having the patina of loving use—and wished that you knew from whence it came and about the myriad of tales it could tell along its way? For Tony Taylor Johnston, California Beta, a children's author, an old quilt belonging to her family provided just such an inspiration for one of her many books. A childhood visit to New Hampshire at Christmas time was the catalyst for another story, Five Little Foxes and the Snow, involving the magic of waking to the sight of a new fallen snow.

Tony was the delightful speaker at a recent South Coast (CA) Alumnae Club meeting. During her talk, listeners were prompted to see their surroundings and experience their emotions from the viewpoint of a child—everything so new and fresh. There is so much curiosity!

Tony was raised in San Marino, CA, and attended the University of California at Berkeley where she affiliated with Pi Beta Phi. After two years, she transferred to Stanford where she majored in history and received a Master's Degree in education. Teaching school became her profession, writing stories for children her passion.

Tony no longer teaches but has become a well-recognized author who has managed to combine her career with that of her banker husband and their three daughters, ages 14, 10 and 5. She and her husband have a collection of over 500 different hand-woven Indian belts, as well as trade beads and antique Mexican furniture, an interest intensified while living in Mexico City. Tony is also an avid quilter.

Day by day the house manager copes

by Myra Moran

(Myra Moran, Georgia Alpha, served as house manager of the chapter for two years and earned the Lillian Beck Holton Award for the best house manager in 1985. Her description of a typical day should bring nods of appreciation from others who have been in the same office.)

Start day with a refreshing shower. Ignore comments coming from shower next to you about how there is no hot water. Rationalize that the razor that flew past your leg and severed the shower curtain must have been dropped by the complainer.

Towel off and put on your robe. Step out of the shower room and be greeted by three men delivering the new Coke machine. A pledge steps out from behind them and screams "Man on the hall!" Thank her for her proficiency.

Tell the Coke man where to put the new machine. Go back to your room. While you are getting dressed, referee a disagreement between four roommates. You hear the alarm—the Coke men have gone out the wrong door. Go downstairs to get the alarm turned off. The new machine is wedged in the door. Someone asks if she can get a Coke. Look at her closely and wonder how on earth she got into college.

Turn around and you are face to face with a cute boy who is in one of your classes. He is returning the notebook you loaned him. Your hair is wet, you have on no make-up and you are wearing a t-shirt that says, "My parents went to Mexico and all I got was this shirt." You decide life has no meaning.

Go back inside the house. You pass a room with a unique form of carpeting. Instead of throw rugs, the occupants are using clothes. Decide that they will receive the "Pi Phi Pig" award this week.

Finish getting dressed. Go down to sign the rent contract from the Coke company. The Coke man doesn't recognize you with your make-up on and your hair curled.

On the way back up the stairs, you are told by various people that the air conditioner is set too high, the air conditioner is set too low, three lightbulbs need replacing, and our sign painting set walked out the back door again. Decide to leave the air conditioner set where it is, go get the three lightbulbs and send the houseboy to the fraternity house next door to retrieve the paint set.

You are late for class. Run for the Milledge bus. On the bus you are told that somehow the fraternity two doors down has learned the combination to the lock on the back door. Make a note to have it changed when you get home.

Before dinner you are told by the housemother that either too many people are eating and not signing up or not enough people are eating but they are singing up to eat. She wants to make dinner attendance required. Tell her this is impossible. Feel guilty about missing dinner last night.

Call the Coke company to order drinks for the week. Harold Benton answers the phone. You tell him you are calling from the Pi Beta Phi house. He repeats something like "Ti Deta Pi house." You spell it out. He again gets it wrong. You start using radio code—"P as in peanut, I as in Idaho . . ." etc. You ask your roommates if they think you have a speech impediment.

After dinner you give the new door lock combination to in-house sisters. Walk in the TV room and observe someone stuff an entire Little Debbie snack cake into her mouth in order to avoid being caught eating in the TV room. Tell a joke to make her laugh and when she can't because of her full mouth, act surprised.

Go to the study. Get up six different times to get change from the Coke machine, unjam the washing machine, investigate a noise in the basement, open the attic, talk to an alum on the phone and adjust the thermostat.

Re-check door and light check. Go to bed. Sleep ten minutes. Listen to loud yelling start at the fraternity house next door and move into the parking lot of the Pi Phi house. Get up and go out into the hall. Your roommates lock the door behind you. Run downstairs and scream "NO!" at the pledge about to open the door for the nice young man in a coat and tie. She doesn't see the crowd of guys hiding behind the back wall with nothing on at all. Lift the mail slot and tell him that no one is home. Turn down his offer of his watch. Thank him for the compliments he gives you. Ignore the banging on the door. Stand there and sing, "I hear you knocking but you can't come in!" at the top of your lungs. Finally, after forty-five minutes, they go away.

Go to bed.

Illini honor Jane Rader

"Being an Illinois Zeta Pi Phi from 1950-54 was the highlight of my college activities. I held many chapter offices, but the lasting reward is the close friendships—many of whom are very close today."

Jane Hayes Rader, Illinois Zeta

So writes Jane Hayes Rader who this month became the fourteenth recipient of the Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award at the University of Illinois. Jane lives in Cobden, IL, and she began to serve the University soon after graduation when she became a member of the Alumni Association's board of directors. In 1973 she was elected to the Board of Trustees, the University's governing body, and when she left the Board in 1979, its members cited her for having "served on nearly every standing committee of the Board" during her tenure.

Jane found time to serve in other capacities. She was a member of the U. of I. Foundation's Board and a member of the Presidents Council. During her tenure on the Foundation Board she was a chairman of the Annual Funds Committee and served on the Financial Resources Council and the Public Relations Committee. She currently serves on the Athletic Board of Control.

Jane has also been active on the state level. In 1978 Gov. James Thompson appointed her to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, a position she still holds. She was one of twenty-five members of the governor's Tax Reform Commission and of his task force on the future of Illinois. She has been a member of the state Board of Elections Steering Committee and on the nominations committee for the Governor's Awards of the Illinois Arts Council.

Collegiate honors

A sociology major, Jane is a Mortar Board, was a member of the Illini Union committee, Star Course manager all four years, a member of Freshman Council, University Chorus, on the Concert and Entertainment Board and the Convocations Committee.

In the late 1950s, while living in Oakland, CA., Jane was active in the Berkeley-East Bay Pi Phi Alumnae Club, serving as its president for a time. Since she returned to southern Illinois twenty-five years ago, she has been active in the Carbondale City Panhellenic, since there is no Pi Phi alumnae club in the area.

Jane and her husband Robert, a surgeon, have two sons. "Pi Phi has been an important part of my life and the association with other Pi Phis is always one of pride and joy," says this outstanding civic leader.

Margo Harris, Arkansas Alpha, has had a busy year at the movies. She was an extra in Arkansas Sesquicentennial Minutes, a stand-in and extra in the NBC production, Under Siege, and is Ruthie in The Tuscaloosan, scheduled to open in theaters this summer.

Heads news at Northwestern radio

by Wendy Beer

Laverne McKinnon, Illinois Epsilon, is not just your typically talented Pi Phi. She has proven herself to be an exceptionally coordinated and skilled leader in her position of news director at Northwestern's radio station WNUR.

Laverne has extensive experience with the station. She has been both newscaster and reporter. As production assistant she produced public service announcements, newscasts and promotions. She has focused on teaching newscasters about professionalism in the broadcast industry.

Laverne's creed, that professionalism is a standard of performance that represents the best work an individual is capable of, reflects her approach to life. She strives for quality and likes to think that she challenges people to do new things and to be the best they can be. Her news programs and schedules have afforded her staff an opportunity for experience and training.

Staff members appreciate Laverne's close supervision and willingness to assist, train or supervise any of the station's projects. She has set high standards and served as a model of excellence for WNUR.

short stories of sagacious sisters

Texas Eta, Texas A&M

It's been a little more than a year since Texas Eta received its charter. Recently one of the chapter's most important events occurred—initiation of the first pledge class. Thirty-eight smart, talented and beautiful girls became fully initiated members of Pi Beta Phi. Actives and alumnae are very excited about this first addition. The chapter is growing fast and has high expectations for a most successful future.

Washington Beta, Washington State
Four Pi Phis were selected for SPURS in the fall. Erika Schlomer, Mary Ritter, Gretchen Gold and Tracy Richardson have made the college service honorary for sophomores a big part of their lives.

Illinois Epsilon, Northwestern
Lisa Hubbard and Gloria Scudella have been accepted to a senior honors economic seminar—two of only fifteen members. The girls will each write a thesis and try for honors on the topics of international trade and finance.

Indiana Delta, Purdue
Laura Woodruff was honored at the Society of Women Engineers' Banquet for her overall academic excellence and achievements in the field of electrical engineering. She was presented with the Society's Merit Award and the Schlumberger Scholarship for academic excellence.

Illinois Alpha, Monmouth
Four actives and a pledge—Joan Chatfield, Monica Greiwe, Tracy McCartney, Anita Ridge and Kelly Emmert each received a 4.0 GPA for the first term of the school year and were entitled to wear the chapter scholarship ring. Each wore the ring for two weeks of the ten in the following term. For the second term, Joan, Kelly and Anita again received the honor.

Ohio Delta, Ohio Wesleyan
For the 1985 fall semester, Pi Phi topped all Ohio Wesleyan sororities for house grade point average, with several women earning a perfect 4.0 and numerous others being named to the Dean's List. The fall 1985 pledge class also achieved the highest GPA for pledge classes on campus.

Kentucky Gamma,
Eastern Kentucky
June Crenshaw earned the prestigious Kentucky Recreation and Parks Society Outstanding Senior Award, given for showing great enthusiasm toward the field and for outstanding leadership qualities and professionalism.

Raised Kains, now has halo!

After raising three daughters who have become Pi Phi angels, it was time for Mrs. Shari Kain to have her own halo, wings and arrow. In January, Shari became an alumnae initiate of Pi Beta Phi at Washington Beta, Washington State. Two of Mrs. Kain's daughters, Kari and Kristi, were Washington Beta initiates, while her third daughter, Kassie, is retiring president of Washington Alpha. Kassie was able to conduct the ceremonial part of her mother's initiation, which added a special touch.

As the initiation ceremony and celebration took place, it was easy to see how important the day was to this quartet of angels.

Charter members leave mark

by Ann Marie Dockstader

Charter members give much of themselves to a new Pi Phi chapter. They are the foundation and the basis for success or failure in the early days.

The final twenty-five charter members of Iowa Eta at Drake University were graduated in May. At the same time, the national Fraternity placed confidence in the stability of the chapter and feels that Resident Graduate Consultants are no longer necessary. An era has ended at Drake; now only a handful of people will remember a campus without Pi Phis.

The graduates have made their mark in many areas. With majors such as education, news editorials, advertising/P.R., human services, finances and pharmacy, these women will be moving to both coasts and farther north to Chicago and the Twin Cities.

There are many ideas about what they gained from the Pi Phi experience. Leadership ability and the value of communication were the most common answers.

"It brought me together with a lot of people I never would have met otherwise," said a smiling Jenny

Summers. "Now they're my best friends."

As for the chapter, it will be losing the diversity of attitudes having charter members brings, because they joined for different reasons than have the new pledges.

According to President Ruth Gornet, "We'll be losing the fact that we're a new chapter, but we will be gaining roots. As they spread out, we'll be establishing Iowas Eta across the country."

Eight Pi Phis were among those honored during the Texas Rose Festival in Tyler last October. Serving in the Rose Queen's court, or as Ladies in Waiting were (front, l-r): Leanne Gailand, Texas Beta; Catherine Ann Cobb, Texas Gamma; Diane Dobbs, Texas Zeta; Suzanne Showers, Texas Alpha. Middle: Cathy Boyles and Stacey Lane, Texas Alpha; Mollie Arnold, Texas Zeta. Top: Dottie Thompson, Texas Alpha.

Now hear this, Pi Phis

Okay, Pi Phis, how many of you know any more about Arrowmont than what you vaguely remember as a pledge? About as many as ever used "the grip" in serious company? Well, this may be interesting to you. Pi Beta Phi's original philanthropy, Settlement School, you may remember, was founded in Gatlinburg, TN, to bring health and educational opportunities to families of the Great Smoky Mountains area. Traditional mountain crafts were encouraged in the school and soon found an outlet through the Arrowcraft Shop as a cottage industry. As general public education improved in the area, Arrowmont could afford to turn its focus on crafts, offering more media workshops as the national crafts movement grew along with it. Today Arrowmont has evolved into a nationally recognized visual arts complex offering excellent workshops year round to artists and craftsmen who come from all over the world.

How did I hear about it? The ARROW comes to my house too, and I've flipped past various articles about the school that made me curious. I would mentally store my interest behind the "If we ever drive through Tennessee" file. Last year there was an article about an alum who won a scholarship to attend, so I sent off for information and was thrilled by the return brochure of course offerings. I gathered references, filled out the application, and to my delight, won a scholarship from the Virginia Alpha Alumnae Club.

Before I knew it, my mother-in-law pledged to feed my husband and hold down the summer fort containing our four children, while I hopped a plane for Knoxville.

If the time I was there had been nothing more than a chance to paint for a solid week, I would have been thrilled enough. As it turned out, Arrowmont far exceeded my expectations. The school is accredited through the University of Tennessee and I received graduate credit for my fun. Arrowmont is a wonderful facility with great labs for weaving, photography and paper-making, work in fabric, metal, wood basketry and clay, among others. The dorm facilities were fine, but who ever slept—the labs were open and busy until midnight all through the week.

One of the highlights was the nightly slide show where all the students gathered to view the process and products of teachers' work. No matter what the media, each teacher's commentary was inspiring, often hilarious and triggered many ideas. I was encouraged hearing their honest doubts, their candor about the accidents that somehow worked, and their own transparent excitement about color and form.

My teacher, Bruce Bobick, is the art department chairman at West Georgia College. We had a lot of fun as a class—even painted in the Great Smoky Mountain National Park. Mr. Bobick has a terrific gift at giving guidelines and encouragement that can translate into each painter's personal style. His favorite phrase was "trust me" and by mid-week we did. I can think of only one other teacher who established me so well into the use of my own gifts.

Arrowmont should be as well-known by the Pi Phis who support it as it is by the arts and crafts community who use it. There is a fine library on the campus that, alone, would make a trip to Gatlinburg worthwhile. Don't wait for the time you plan to drive through Tennessee. Whether you're a full time professional in the arts, an aspiring dabbler, or just an interested onlooker, take advantage of Pi Phi's significant foothold in the mountains.

Crafty lady is new Arrowcraft manager

Sallye Harrell

The Arrowcraft Shop is now under new direction as Sallye Harrell came on board as new shop manager in January. Sallye, a native of Bristol, Tenn., and now a resident of Knoxville, received her Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from the University of Tennessee in March, 1984.

Having a long history of craft interests, she has designed and produced pottery, quilts, teddy bears, soft sculpture dolls and furniture, with many other art interests. This art and craft background has led her to Arrowcraft where she sees much potential for future growth of the shop.

One of her first objectives is to increase national awareness of Arrowcraft through Pi Phi and other sources throughout the United States. Arrowcraft has long had the tradition of offering a regional outlet to quality craftsmen of all media, and continuing this tradition is the strong foundation of Arrowcraft's future. Sallye hopes to give exposure to as many southeastern artists and craftsmen as possible through the shop, with increased efforts to promote handcrafted items of different media, emphasis and design.

Sallye previously worked with the Knoxville Arts Council, and enjoys outdoor activities during her leisure time.

Arrowcraft Assistant Director Clare Verstegen looks over the summer workshop brochure.

Clare's work earns distinguished honor

The permanent professional staff at Arrowmont continually exemplifies the high standards that the school maintains, and through each individual's accomplishments and dedicated work at the school, helps perpetuate the excellent reputation Arrowmont has established throughout the art world. Each staff member has certain strengths and abilities that make input into the Arrowmont program vital to day to day operations and to long term goals of the school's future. Maintaining solid foundations in the arts community through contacts and personal development has long been identified as one of the keys to Arrowmont's success.

An example of this came to light recently when a highly prestigious award was granted to Arrowmont's Assistant Director, Clare Verstegen. Her work of serigraphs was selected by a panel of jurors for Art Quest '86. As a finalist in the printmaking category, Clare's work, along with nine other printmakers, was chosen from entries submitted from across the United States and will be included in Art Quest '86/ the Catalog, a color publication distributed to over 1,500 prominent members of the art community. The Art Quest organization vigorously searches for and promotes its well deserving artists who have been chosen by a panel of eight distinguished people including curators and directors of leading museums and galleries in America. To be selected by this panel as a participant in Art Quest '86 is a special honor, establishing the selected artists as those on the leading edge of their particular media areas.

Serigraphs are a form of printmaking where silk screens are used with images created on paper. In Clare's work she uses ten to fifteen separate screens, each representing a new color in the print. Her prints include highly patterned and colorful imagery with relation to landscape themes. Clare's work for about twelve years has been done primarily in fabric, with the series of serigraphs started a year ago. Still working with textiles and screen printing related to fabric, Clare is trying to put her primary focus on serigraphs, as she feels they are more narrative in reference to a personal statement made through her work.

As Assistant Director of Arrowmont, Clare handles program planning and development, supervision of office staff and studio and store-room planning, ordering and organization, in addition to gallery installations and photo documentation of school programs and exhibits. With these many responsibilities, she works long hours and still makes time for her own artwork with a strong drive toward growth and personal development. This type of dedication to her job and to her art work has put her in the highest regards of her peers, and by her association with Arrowmont has brought that regard to the school.

Lambert returns again and again

Arrowmont draws an exceptionally diverse group of faculty members from different university and studio settings, with various teaching styles and approaches being apparent as you walk from studio to studio during any workshop session. To offer a wide scope of experiences to students, faculty members are alternated from year to year in each media, with new faculty being added to the staff. Upcoming artists and craftsmen are always being sought as possible teaching staff.

However, there are some faculty members who are favorites year after year, and continually attract a large following of students. One such person is Ed Lambert of Athens, GA. Lambert, textile designer and Associate Professor of Art at the University of Georgia, has been teaching workshops at Arrowmont off and on for over ten years. Recent classes have dealt primarily with resist/direct dyeing, a technique he uses in his own work of silk banners. Lambert's pieces are represented in private and corporate collections throughout the United States, and have been exhibited in well-known galleries including the Renwick Gallery, Washington, D.C.; Florence Duhl Gallery, New York City; Mint Museum of Art, Charlotte, NC; Greenwood Gallery, Washington, D.C.; and the High Museum of Art, Atlanta, GA.

Lambert says that the unique quality of Arrowmont students with various backgrounds, ages, and hometowns is "pretty wonderful to see." Workshop students tend to be "much more involved and interesting" than the typical university student he teaches daily. He attributes this to the varied and unpredictable nature of people who come to Arrowmont and to the fact that people who attend a workshop really want to take the specific class, not merely fill in a schedule or get a few art credits.

Teaching at Arrowmont also lends itself to mixing class time with other media and shared experiences through different classes in progress at the same time. To Ed, the workshop setting also offers a special challenge in that each class must take a new direction or focus to meet the demands of the group.

The studio facilities at Arrowmont are another plus as indicated by Lambert. Everything is available and ready when a workshop begins, or else the staff works to build equipment or find special items on short notice. For this reason, Ed finds Arrowmont to be one of the easiest and most convenient places he conducts workshops.

Any workshop requires much hard work and long studio hours, but for some reason, Ed's class always seems to have fun! Impromptu kazoo bands, humorous T-shirts, and Lambert's witty personality are factors in the special atmosphere that occurs when he is on campus.

Evening slide presentations by the week's faculty are part of each workshop session. When Ed is teaching it is a special time, as his intricate slide programs are ways he can show his work and his thoughts about art where verbalization often falls short. After watching beautiful images of flowers, trees, a special magnificent garden and friendly favored animals fade in over slides of colorful, sensual silk banners, you truly see the artist and how his love of life and nature and his work come together.

Arrowmont qualities attract many people

Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts has many unique qualities that attract people from all walks of life and all areas of the U.S. and world to the spring and summer workshop program. In a recent program given by Arrowmont's Director, Sandra Blain, the following were outlined as special features about the school that make it the environment where many find increased aesthetic awareness, visual stimulation and an unending source of energy.

- Opportunity to work in an environment conducive to creative thinking.
- An impressive physical facility on 70 acres of wooded property—an oasis in Gatlinburg, TN, within easy walking distance of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park entrance.
- School buildings (studios, housing, food service, gallery, resource center) are all located within close proximity to one another.
- Provision for food and lodging on the compound—students not faced with domestic involvements—their life is centered around their work.
- Opportunity for students to work in well equipped, spacious and well lighted studios.
- The stimulation of three galleries providing changing juried, invitational exhibitions and the work of the faculty who are currently teaching.
- An on-campus resource center including thousands of art/craft books, periodicals, historical research materials, slide and print collection and equipment/supply catalogs.
- An on-campus book and supply store for purchase of needed items.
- An environment where human concerns and art/craft are interwoven.
- A school for serious study.

- A place for contacts, an environment where connections are made.
- Concentrated sessions where students work uninterruptedly in one medium.
- An environment where traditional and contemporary techniques and concepts merge.
- Sessions where age is no barrier—often students 18–80 are in attendance in one class.
- Short term sessions (1 and 2 weeks) for students who cannot be away from their studio, another job, domestic or school activities for long periods due to time or finances.
- Programs for beginning and/or advanced students, amateur or professional students—often students of different levels work together sharing and learning together.
- A non-competitive atmosphere of human warmth and encouragement—a sense of camaraderie.
- Emphasis on an individual's development in design, materials and techniques related to a particular medium.
- Opportunity for students to study with different and nationally recognized faculty from one session to another, thus diversity in viewpoint and practices.
- Time periods set aside for faculty slide presentations, discus- sions, demonstrations for the entire student body.

- Opportunity for interaction between media.
- Opportunity for students to have a media experience often not possible at their own institution or in their own community.

- Availability for UG and G credit transferable to home institution—credit is through University of Tennessee, Knoxville-Department of Art.
- Opportunity for student to be part of a flexible curriculum changing with today's needs.

Arrowmont Gallery during the "New Quilts of the Mid-South" Exhibition, February 22-March 29.

A multi-media exhibition of pieces from the Arrowmont Permanent Collection.

Thousands of visitors enjoy Gallery exhibits

The Arrowmont Gallery is a vital part of the educational facility on the campus in Gatlinburg, with thousands of visitors and program participants touring the gallery annually. Exhibitions are viewed by people of various ages, from many places, and with different interests and expectations. Gallery attendance is made up of students at the school, tourists in Gatlinburg, area school children and regular visitors from the art community. With this mixed audience, the school is constantly challenged to provide a variety of exhibitions to meet the educational and aesthetic needs of all who frequent the gallery.

Exhibitions at Arrowmont are invitational or juried shows, many with a theme or emphasis. Some focus on specific artists or media—but all have the same objective of providing the community and the southeast with a display of contemporary art and craft works of the highest standards possible.

With a two to three year advance schedule, the exhibits change monthly, sometimes weekly, offering regular gallery visitors exposure to new works and an extensive range of artists.

A large percentage of shows at Arrowmont include artists from all areas of the United States and some foreign exhibitors. A time for diverse works in all media is an annual competition sponsored by Arrowmont with emphasis in new form—new function. The 1986 exhibit (October 25, 1986–January 24, 1987) will be entitled "Space: New Form, New Function." Previous new form, new function exhibits have had themes of "The Garden," "The Box," "The Fan," and "The Figure." A leading artist in the United States is selected to write the prospectus with the theme defined. That artist then acts as the juror, viewing hundreds of slide entries to determine which pieces will be included. Arrowmont's new form, new function exhibits have gained extensive recognition throughout the U.S., with each year's competition drawing more interest from participants and viewers.

During the spring and summer workshop programs, faculty exhibitions are scheduled so the teaching staff's work can be viewed by students and visitors. With the exceptional qualifications of Arrowmont instructors, these mixed media exhibitions display a unique gathering of leading trends in various mediums offered by contemporary artists working within these formats.

Although many exhibitions are mixed media, some single format exhibits are also popular among gallery goers and anyone who appreciates quality crafts. From February 22–March 29, 1986, a highly acclaimed exhibit of "New Quilts of the Mid-South" interested quilt and design enthusiasts with a wide variety of approaches presented in this traditional craft form. The technique of functional quilting has brought beauty to homes for many years. Artists whose work comprised the exhibit used this traditional domestic art form to create innovative, exciting quilt works for wall pieces.

In addition to traveling displays, special competitions, and in-house curated exhibitions, the school maintains a permanent collection of art pieces in all media, purchased or donated by former faculty and staff at the school. Several new acquisitions are made each year, with this body of work being featured periodically in the main gallery as well as other locations around campus.

Another special feature of the Arrowmont Gallery is that it is designed to accommodate three different exhibitions at the same time, if appropriate. A small gallery area is located in the entrance/reception area of the school, with the main and atrium gallery areas located in the center of the main studio complex. Diversity of exhibits can be achieved with this three-fold approach as the area also offers an expansive amount of total space for large format exhibitions or displays involving numerous pieces.

Upcoming exhibits of interest include "Arrowmont Faculty Mixed Media Exhibition," May 30–August 15, 1986; "Dulin Print and Drawing Exhibition," August 19–October 18, 1986; and "Gloves" by Glen Kaufman, August 19–November 1, 1986. Gallery hours are Monday–Saturday, 8:30 a.m.–4:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Assistant Pam Wiley, right, helps a student in the book and supply store. Pam has been an assistant on several occasions for workshops and conferences.

Grad student is summer assistant

Many people come to Arrowmont year after year for workshops, conferences and programs, and it is always special to see familiar faces and rekindle friendships. One person many associate with Arrowmont is Pam Wiley, who brings with her vivacious enthusiasm a special affection for the school.

Pam is a graduate student at the prestigious Cranbrook Academy of Art where she is pursuing an MFA in fiber. During a recent summer workshop program she came to Arrowmont as a special assistant to run the book and supply store, and to help with various activities on campus.

Wiley first came to Arrowmont in the fall of 1981 to attend a surface design conference on Japanese Dyeing Techniques. Up to that point her work in surface design had been self taught through trial and error methods. The exchange of information, along with the numerous resources available at Arrowmont, convinced Pam to attend a summer workshop the following season.

"A real mind-opener" is how Wiley described her first workshop at Arrowmont—a wax resist dyeing class taught by Ed Lambert. After attending this workshop, she made a serious commitment to her work, began entering exhibitions and communicating with other artists. The pace and energy established during the workshop carried over to her studio work at home in Tallahassee, FL.

During 1983, Pam was a regular assistant for six weeks, taking classes and working at Arrowmont. She returned for the entire eleven weeks in 1984 to work in the bookstore and take classes. She was also an assistant during the National Surface Design Conference held at Arrowmont in 1982.

Pam feels that Arrowmont has much to offer in addition to the exceptional class instruction. The chance to be an assistant put her in contact with nationally known artists in her field, gave her opportunity to exhibit her work, and offered exposure and feedback from other assistants and students.

"The supportive atmosphere and mix of people at various levels make Arrowmont a unique place and it makes you feel good about what you are doing," stated Wiley.

During Pam's residencies at Arrowmont she has been a special asset to the school through her hard work and her ability to perpetuate fun, creative activities on campus. Organizing hayrides, picnics and special outings are second nature to Pam and because of these impromptu events, many have found the Arrowmont experience to be memorable and fun as well as rewarding and educational.

Regionals

Florida Beta at Florida State University was the setting for the 1986 Southeast Regional Leadership Workshop. Chapter presidents, AACs and delegates from sixteen chapters in Lambda, Zeta and Epsilon provinces traveled to Tallahassee for the big event, organized by Province Presidents Jane Hainkel Drennan, Sharon Rather Moore, and Karen Schwab Gray. More than eighty Pi Phis gathered over the March 1st weekend to share forty-eight hours of learning, laughter and Pi Phi love.

Meetings began Friday afternoon and covered everything from rush to alumnae relations. Speaking of alums—present to participate and learn were fifteen AAC chairmen, three province presidents, three province coordinators, Annette Mitchell Mills, Grand Vice President of Collegians, Sarah Mullis, Director of AACs, Jan Ruffin Hatchett, Supervisor of Chapter Histories, Marilyn Simpson Ford, ARROW Editor, and Brooke Coker, Resident Graduate Consultant.

A welcoming rush skit was performed by Florida Betas on Friday. Saturday continued as many topics were discussed including alcohol awareness, rush, membership selection, scholarship and philanthropies. A sit-down dinner Saturday night was special with arrow cooky cutters as favors.

The excitement and openness of all those in attendance were key elements to the success of the workshop. Highlight of the weekend was the Cooky-Shine and song-fest—everyone relaxed, sang all kinds of Pi Phi songs and did what Pi Phis like to do best—EAT! The weekend concluded after lunch on Sunday, and everyone departed with lots of new ideas, new friends, renewed spirit and a deeper appreciation and dedication to Pi Beta Phi.

At the Rho, Sigma, Tau province workshop, many ideas were shared, including this rush skit of King Tut by the host chapter. From left: Reina Roberts, Cece Coffin, Stephanie Sommerville and Candace Tam.

During the weekend of March 7, four Kentucky Alpha sisters attended the regional workshop at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. The fun-filled weekend consisted of seminars led by successful Pi Phi alumnae, chapter delegates and national officers. Several chapters were present and it gave everyone an opportunity to share and learn.

Each girl felt very close to the group as a whole because of the special Pi Phi bond which existed.

Indiana Beta at Indiana University was host of the 1986 Eta, Theta and Mu Regional Workshop on March 14–16. Pi Phis from Canada, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana attended the three-day leadership event intended to generate new ideas among the provinces.

The weekend of February 28, Sigma, Rho and Tau Provinces met at Colorado Alpha, University of Colorado in Boulder. Leaders from each of the chapters attended. It was a weekend of constant meetings and presentations, yet no one seemed to tire of the many suggestions. Information about programming was abundant, and the event provided an incentive to improve chapter programs.

The true value of the workshop was even more apparent when we returned to our chapter, Washington Gamma. It was interesting to assess our strengths and weaknesses. It is a good feeling to know that we have programs that are efficient and productive and that there are ways to improve the areas of chapter programs that need revision.

When those who attended the workshop returned with high spirits, the entire chapter was affected. The information will help each officer with her programs, and it helps lift the spirits of the whole chapter.

Drying sheets inspire artist

by Marilyn Webb Hoch

Like Alice in Wonderland, Virginia Reese Bowles, Indiana Beta, became "curiouser and curiouser" one day when she was hanging laundry outside on her clothesline, and it recently resulted in a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree with a major in painting.

"I was hanging some white sheets outside to dry, and they happened to catch the sun's rays. I suddenly wanted to know how to capture such a scene on canvas. This particular occurrence was a turning point for me."

Ginny majored in art in high school in Indianapolis, but when she entered Indiana University at Bloomington, she decided to go into education and didn't take any college level art courses.

She married her high school sweetheart, Robert Bowles, upon his return from the army following World War II, and they moved to Albuquerque, N.M., where Ginny transferred to and graduated from the University of New Mexico with a Bachelor of Arts in Education. After Bob's graduation, they returned to Indianapolis and started a family.

When their third and youngest son entered grade school, Ginny returned to school as well, teaching preschool and kindergarten for 18 years.

Her interest in art never waned through all this time, however, but she basically painted and sketched for her own amusement. In 1980 she decided to enroll at the John Herron School of Art in Indianapolis, but a portfolio was required for acceptance. Instead of a portfolio she prepared several drawings and enrolled in a non-degree summer art course at Herron. Ginny's instructor praised her work and was very encouraging.

"He personally took my drawings to the Herron admissions chairman, and I was readily accepted for enrollment in the art school."

Enrolled as a full-time student,

Virginia Bowles and one of her oil paintings—"Windows."

Ginny had to take 80 hours of studio courses and 15 hours of art history. She took studio training in three-dimensional, ceramics, photography, lithography and etching. Her major at Herron was in painting: oil and encaustic, which uses melted beeswax and dry pigment. Currently she is studying watercolor with someone from the Indianapolis Art League.

In January of this year after four years of art school, Ginny had her first exhibit in a downtown Indianapolis gallery along with two of her former fellow students. In May she participated in a guided tour of art studios and museums in France. Led by Ian Fraser, Art Historian and Curator of the Indianapolis Art Museum, the tour included stop-offs in such places as Giverny, the gardens and home of impressionist Claude Monet, the Louvre in Paris, Albi, Nimes and Arles.

Ginny's hobbies are traveling, reading and her two grandsons. She is a past president of the Indianapolis South Suburban Alumnae club and presently is its ACRIC, a position she has held for several years.

77 benefit from Gregory trust fund

Seventy-seven Arkansas Alpha Pi Phis can thank a Pi Phi husband for $44,270 worth of scholarship help during the past ten years.

In 1974, James K. Gregory of Fayetteville, AR, set up a $50,000 trust fund in memory of his wife, Mary Campbell Gregory. Yearly interest is given to deserving Pi Phis, carrying on the dedication given to Arkansas Alpha for many years by his late wife. The fund is administered by three trustees selected from alumnae members of Arkansas Alpha, initially appointed by Mr. Gregory.

Recipients of the scholarship must have a 3.0 average or better and must agree to attend school the following semester. Pledges may also apply. In the event the chapter would go off campus, the fund would go to the University of Arkansas.

At Pi Phi State Day in 1961, Mr. Gregory was made the Official Brother of Arkansas Alpha and presented with a brother's pin. He always assisted his wife in all her efforts in support of the chapter.

Call the alums!

What do you do when serenades get worn out because the same songs are always sung? Call the alums!

Michigan Gamma has an almost brand new alumnae advisory committee this year, so in order to meet them, the chapter held an active-alumnae slumber party. Included in the evening was a Cooky-Shine and a sing-a-long. Actives polished some of their traditional songs and they were taught lots of new (old!) ones, too.

All of the Pi Phis involved had a great time and are looking forward to more activities with alumnae and their spring serenade.

Health advocate honored for outstanding service

Alice MacKay Cruden, New York Gamma, one of Phi Phi's newest Golden Arrows, is recipient of the Meritorious Service Award presented by the Florida Public Health Association. The award is given to those who, in the opinion of judges, have made an outstanding contribution to the health and well-being of Florida's citizens.

After graduating cum laude from St. Lawrence University, Alice followed several careers. She married her husband, Donald, and they raised two sons. When Donald was overseas in World War II, Alice moved to Florida, where she was a volunteer in civic and social activities.

At age 48 she returned to the work force as secretary to the director of Brevard County Health Department, Dr. T. Paul Haney. Under his tutelage, she initiated the Health Education Department. One of her first tasks was to determine the needs of pregnant teenagers in the county, and to what extent they were being met. Unfortunately they were not being met at all, and she became involved in an intensive effort to provide the needed services, both educational and primary, to the youngsters. Working with schools, churches, and other civic organizations, a plan emerged to provide a classroom setting with a nursery for unwed pregnant teens. This led to establishment of the Education Center for Teenage Mothers in Brevard, which was one of the earliest attempts to provide an alternative to suspension for pregnancy. As the Education Center developed, it became a model for the state, and was influential in convincing legislators that pregnant teenagers should not be suspended from school. The program continued to grow and was eventually adopted as an ongoing public school program.

Earns Master of Health

In 1970 the Division of Health sponsored Alice's attendance at the first Master of Health Education degree program at the University of Florida. As the oldest coed on the University campus, she acquired her Master of Health Education in seven months. Upon her return to the Brevard County Health Department, the Health Education Department took wings, employing two additional health educators and a secretary.

From 1974 to 1984 Alice initiated another new program—5 Day Quit Smoking clinics held at the Health Department. In 1984, the Health Department received a Community Health Promotion Merit Award from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Service for its highly successful program.

Children's Television

After having five grandchildren, Alice especially enjoyed doing nutrition and general health programs on TV with and for children. She believes that the real meaning of public health is prevention, and the best road to prevention is health education. To her, everyone in a health department, from the receptionist to the director, is a health educator.

Alice has received many awards and honors. She was named "Space Age Woman" in 1984 by Today's Woman. She has received the Appreciation Award of the Brevard Interagency on Smoking and Health; Outstanding Service Award presented by Brevard County Commissioners; and Outstanding Service Award of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Although she worked within the confines of a county health department, Alice's scope was not limited. Her enthusiasm for her work was an inspiration and an example to young health educators all over Florida, encouraging them to the highest ideals of a health education career.

Co-anchors TV2 news

Margaret Lawhon, Texas Delta, has been named co-anchor of WBRZ-TV's weekend newscasts in Baton Rouge, LA, sharing newscast anchor duties on TV2 with Mike Ross. She also continues in her capacity as reporter with "2 On Your Side."

Margaret is a 1979 graduate of Texas Christian University. Shortly after, she attended Louisiana State Graduate School in marketing and communications. In 1981 she was hired by KTBS, Shreveport, as reporter and substitute anchor. During her tenure with KTBS, Margaret was recipient of awards from both United Press International and Associated Press.

She has been employed by WBRZ-TV since June, 1985, as reporter for the highly successful consumer action feature series, "2 On Your Side." Her professional affiliations include Louisiana Press Women, American Women in Radio and Television and Sigma Delta Chi, Society of Professional Journalists.

Short conference is big time event

by Chris Costanzo

I was shocked and delighted when the associate editor of the Cornell Daily Sun assigned me to cover both a press conference and a lecture given by Geraldine Ferraro. I was also nervous! This was big-time stuff. Reporters from as far away as Syracuse and Rochester were coming to Cornell to report on the event. I wondered what questions I would ask her and prayed that I would be able to write a decent story.

My panic turned to excitement as the time of the conference came closer. When I finally entered the small room, I was surprised to see television crews setting up cameras and microphones. I felt privileged to be covering an event along with people who were old pros in the journalism business. While my palms were getting sweaty in anticipation of Ferraro's arrival, I listened to reporters around me grumble that they had to hurry and get this thing on the air so they could go do their laundry.

When Ferraro finally arrived, the conference proceeded just like the ones you see on TV. People were calling out questions, and the cameras were clicking constantly. (No, I didn't ask any questions. I was too busy soaking up the atmosphere to think of any!)

The conference was short—about twenty minutes—but it was, without a doubt, an experience I will never forget.

Five Idaho Alpha Pi Phis were members of the University of Idaho cheerleading squad that helped the Vandals win the Big Sky conference championship. Helping generate student spirit were (back, l-r) Ruth Eccles, Karen Scharbach, Teri Stokes. Front: Julie Hartwell, Lisa Hamric.

Maria computes new career

by Sheila M. O'Connell

When the Champaign-Urbana (IL) Alumnae Club approached Illinois Zeta about purchasing a computer in the spring semester, 1984, Maria Hirsch became head of the committee to research the different types available. The committee presented a proposal for the purchase of an IBM-XT and various peripherals and the alums accepted.

The Pi Phi computer can be used by any member or alum for word processing and data base management. Chapter officers use the computer to make their jobs easier and many members use the word processor to type papers, projects and resumés.

When Maria heard that formal rush was going to become automated at the University of Illinois, she approached Adlon Jorgensen, Panhellenic Advisor, about helping to organize the transfer. Maria then began working with a group to switch rush to personal computers. During rush, Maria's responsibilities included:

1. Advising other sororities on the purchase of equipment and software.
2. Working with a group to determine functions and format of programs which would manipulate rushee data.
3. Helping sororities get systems running in time for rush.
4. Developing training materials for rush counselors and computer chairmen.

5. Familiarizing thirty rush counselors with IBM computers and giving them a working knowledge of data base programming.
6. Training twenty-four computer chairmen on IBM and giving them a more extensive knowledge of the operating system.
7. Helping determine policies to be followed in the future.

Maria was kept up late a couple of nights during rush to help houses who were having trouble with their programs. Only one computer broke down and there were a few minor mishaps, but overall it was a very successful rush using the microcomputers.

Following in Pi Phi's footsteps, eighteen other sororities on the Champaign-Urbana campus installed permanent computers.

The opportunity to work so closely with the computers has given Maria, a senior majoring in Agricultural Industries, a possible new career goal. She now works for the Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, Office of Computer Coordination, as head consultant.

Maria has certainly made a name for herself and for Pi Beta Phi with her outstanding contributions to her chapter and to the Greek system at the University of Illinois.

College professor earns honors for excellence

Margaret Wischmeyer Taylor, North Carolina Beta, has been recognized twice in the past year for her accomplishments in teaching. An assistant professor of English and journalism at Cuyahoga Community College (CCC) in Cleveland, Ohio, Margaret was one of twenty-five semifinalists in the 1985 National Professor of the Year competition sponsored by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

Funding for CASE comes from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. First presented in 1980, the award recognizes excellence in teaching and demonstrated impact on the lives and careers of students and former students.

At Cuyahoga, Margaret earned the Professional Excellence Award, recognizing "educational competence and the achievement of academic excellence in all aspects of work in and for the college community." 1985 was the first year for the award and Margaret received a plaque and a $750 certificate of deposit.

When asked her reaction to receiving the new award, Margaret responded, "I was speechless—a sorry state for a communication person."

Margaret has been teaching at the Eastern campus of CCC since 1972. She was creator and advisor of the campus newspaper for eleven years. Since its founding the paper has received thirteen awards from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association of Columbia University.

In 1980, Margaret was also the first recipient of the Ralph M. Besse Award for Teaching Excellence at CCC.

The Stottman sisters—Cheryl, Donna, Lori

Three grow up to Pi Phi

They had grown up together, playing Barbies and eating grape popsicles on hot summer afternoons. They lay awake on Christmas Eve anticipating the arrival of Santa Claus and they waved goodbye to each other as, one by one, they went off to college. Then, on January 20, 1986, they found themselves all together again in the chapter room of Kentucky Alpha. Lori and Donna Stottmann were sharing in the initiation of Cheryl, their younger sister. This occasion would now be among all the other special memories that they share.

Lori is a senior at the University of Louisville and will be graduating with a degree in communications. As a Pi Phi she has held the offices of rush chairman and V.P. Social. Donna is a junior majoring in elementary education and is the current president of Kentucky Alpha. Cheryl, the new initiate, shows great potential after leading her pledge class as president and currently holds the office of intramural chairman.

Kentucky Alpha welcomes Cheryl to her second sisterhood . . . in Pi Beta Phi.

Alums, hubbies road trip for day

The Clearwater (FL) Alumnae Club has branched off into bus trips. In January, fifty-two club members and husbands joined Nan Ivey Wilson and her husband, Bob, at their home on Crystal River in Florida. It was to be a day with manatees, an endangered species mammal.

A glass bottom boat and Bob's offshore fisherman carried the group into the many warm water springs abounding in the Crystal River Basin where the manatees frolic. They sighted at least ten of the critters foraging on water hyacinths, poking their snouts into the air to breathe, rolling and burrowing in the sand on the bottom.

After being entertained by the manatees for two hours, the partiers returned to the Wilson home for a delicious luncheon.

It was a special fun day for everyone.

Kim Casey, California Delta, escorted by Bill Barley, was one of the five Homecoming Queen finalists. Selection was based on participation and contributions to UCLA.

Chapter wins two top awards

by Karen Daragan

Pi Beta Phi captured most of the applause at the Panhellenic/Interfraternity Council banquet at the University of Florida in January.

Of four awards given by Panhellenic, two went to Florida Delta to the delight of Greeks and faculty attending the gathering.

The most prestigious individual award was presented to Julia Terango, selected by Panhellenic as the Most Outstanding Chapter President of 1985.

Julia, a Florida Delta charter member, led her one-year-old chapter from a small colony into one of the largest houses on the University campus.

The ex-president is a member of Order of Omega leadership honorary, has been nominated for the President's Recognition Award for Leadership, was a member of the Lady Gator Cheerleading squad, a teaching assistant, member of Panhellenic constitution revision committee, and a 1986 Greek Week Director, bringing in over $12,000 for Stop Children's Cancer.

Julia graduates this summer with a Bachelor of Science in journalism.

Julia Terango, an outstanding Fraternity president.

The second award presented to Pi Beta Phi, for the chapter, was in the area of fraternal excellence. Florida Delta was named the Most Improved Chapter for 1985.

Pi Phi's accomplishments at the University of Florida were evident. Panhellenic said that Pi Phi did more in its transitional year from colony to chapter than many established houses on campus.

Everyone left the banquet happy with the outcome. Florida Deltas left smiling for they knew they had set their mark at the University of Florida. And they would continue with success in the future.

Humanitarian earns award

Marion Carr Russell, Iowa Gamma, of Pescadero, CA, has been given the 1986 Robert J. Koshland Prize for humanitarian services. Marion received the $10,000 prize for her work with children on the San Mateo County coast and she designated South Coast Children's Services to receive the award money.

The prize was presented to the San Mateo Alumnae Club member in Palo Alto at a meeting of the Peninsula Community Foundation. The award is made in recognition of volunteer leadership in initiating or developing human services programs.

Marion is a founder and current president of South Coast Children's Services and has worked with the Pescadero-La Honda School District to create preschool and summer daycamp programs for Anglo and Hispanic children.

She is a professional preschool educator and has worked with a 4-H ranch that provides low income and handicapped youngsters with an understanding of agriculture and the area's natural resources.

Anita Phillips, Mississippi Alpha, was crowned Miss Panhellenic of 1986 during the contest sponsored by ATO at the University of Southern Mississippi. Anita is a radio, TV and film major.

In 1956 Shirley Falk Fulop and Judy Fassler Arkebauer met for the first time when they pledged Pi Phi at the University of Toledo. Thirty years later, at Bowling Green State University, they met again when both daughters pledged Pi Phi at the brand new chapter. From left: Shirley and daughter Cheryl get acquainted with Amy and her mother Judy.

Athletic Angels

On your marks—Get set—GO!

Four NEBRASKA BETAS are NU timers for the swim team. Shelby Greene, Sonia Goodman, Chris Hrdy and Jean Wurtz help the swimmers through enthusiasm and spirit, cheering them on throughout the year.

CALIFORNIA EPSILON participated in the Santa Barbara Inter-Sorority Volleyball Tournament for the first time in three years. Two teams were organized and played. Lambda Chi sponsors the tourney.

OKLAHOMA ALPHA'S Keli Stallings is captain of the University of Oklahoma cheerleading squad for the 1986-87 year.

Christie Tyler, OKLAHOMA ALPHA, competed in the Sundance Welcome and the Kachina Classic horse shows in Phoenix, AZ. In both shows Christie was named as the champion Adult Amateur Jumper.

In the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash at Ohio Wesleyan, the OHIO DELTA team came in second overall scoring and their supporters won the Spirit Award for enthusiasm.

This is the first year for women's soccer at North Texas State and Melinda Meyer, TEXAS EPSILON, scored the only goal in the team's first game. It was also the winning goal.

Susie Williams, MISSOURI ALPHA, is a member of the Student Athletic Board at the University of Missouri. This group organizes the seating lottery for Tiger football and basketball games and distributes promotional cat paws, t-shirts and other Mizzou paraphernalia.

Intramurals

FLORIDA EPSILON won the sorority soccer league at the University of Central Florida this spring.

An intramural coed football team of four SAEs and four Pi Phis made it to the finals to play at Husky Stadium. They held on through double overtime before losing. Washington Alphas are (front, l-r) Mary Robinson, Nancy Seifert, Betsy Miller and Caroline Ligon.

Oklahoma Betas won all-Greek and all-University in football during fall semester and attended the National Flag Football Championship in New Orleans. Back, l-r: Laurie Rains, Lisa Robinson, Alisa Tate, Marybeth Koerner, Susie Johnson, Maryjane Shirley, Corey Riddles, Heidi Barnard. Front: Amye Uhl, Stacey Campbell, Kim Hartwig, Beth Brown, Susie Miles, Kelly Soergel.

NEBRASKA BETA Leslie Brase represented Pi Phi at the University rodeo. Although she had never ridden a live animal before, she quickly learned—and took second place in the steer-riding competition! The chapter swam to victory in the All University swim meet, claiming seven individual and two relay medals. Sonia Goodman, LeAnne Hoover, Anne Wilson, Chris Hrdy, Donna Grant, and Tina Peters finished second overall in team competition.

In soccer, NEW YORK EPSILON had an undefeated season and outscored opponents 25-2.

MISSOURI BETA cruised through IM football at Washington University and won the championship without a defeat.

COLORADO DELTA won championships in soccer, swimming and racquetball.

Georgia Alpha's football team ended the season with a 6-1 record after losing to the Vet School in the first game of the playoffs. They were undefeated in regular season.

Carolyn Black, ALABAMA ALPHA, won special recognition for being the most involved in campus athletic events at Birmingham-Southern. She was not only an excellent player for the Pi Phi volleyball team but she was a referee for the men's IM volleyball games.

MISSOURI ALPHA intramurals are rising to the top with the "A" basketball team making it to the semifinals. Kristy Weber and Jackie Smith took first in racquetball doubles, sweeping the Greek intramurals.

Varsity

Two of the nine member Willamette tennis team this year are OREGON GAMMA Pi Phis. Kristie Green played first position in both singles and doubles after winning the Alaska State High School tennis championship last season. Michelle Kirkpatrick played number six singles and number three doubles.

Jocelyn Furnia, NEW YORK GAMMA, became the all-time scoring leader in the history of St. Lawrence women's basketball, scoring a total of 1,140 points in her career. She also set this season's record of 337 points and 131 assists. A Presidential Scholar, Jocelyn is a strong contender for Academic All-American Honors and the Naismith Award which goes to the best all around student basketball player in the nation under five feet six inches.

Julie Link, MISSOURI ALPHA, plays for the Mizzou ladies softball team. She plays center field and practices about fifteen hours a week.

Tulane just added a women's polo team to its roster of club sports and Evelyn Chumo, LOUISIANA ALPHA, is president of the team.

NEW YORK DELTAS Molly Brown and Amy Stanzin led Cornell's Women's Ice Hockey Team to second place in the Ivy League this year. Molly was voted Most Valuable Player for last year's and this year's seasons. She is the third best all-time Cornell defensive scorer and among the top ten all-Ivy scorers. Amy scored a total of 157 points in her Cornell hockey career, making her the fourth leading Ivy League scorer and the fifth all-time Cornell scorer. She has been called "one of the best women's hockey players ever at Cornell."

NEBRASKA BETA welcomed Tiffany Hill, a transfer from the University of Colorado, who sparkled in her first season on the Cornhusker basketball team. She will spend the summer traveling throughout South America playing basketball for Athletes in Action, sponsored by Campus Crusade.

Patricia Doty, PENNSYLVANIA EPSILON, competes in the long jump and triple jump on Penn State's Lady Lions varsity track team.

Competing on the Simpson College women's track team has been an experience that will go down in history for two members of IOWA BETA. Nicki Stewart and Lori Benisch have rewritten three Indoor school records. Nicki competed in the triple jump and broke the school record by 1 1/2 feet in her first competition. Lori set her records on the track in the 440 yard dash and the 300 m.

Five Iowa Betas were on the roster of the varsity softball team this spring. They were Julie Hansen, Dee Katko, Kristi Kehoe, Shellie Wicks and Nicki Stewart.

Landis Cox, Spencer Barnes and Anne Stephenson, NORTH CAROLINA BETAS, play on the tennis team for the University of North Carolina.

Kathleen Geils, NEW YORK DELTA, was chosen co-captain of the women's basketball team for the 1986-87 season.

Twelve of the thirteen members on the varsity swim team at Colorado School of Mines are COLORADO DELTAS. They also make up half of the women's soccer team.

CALIFORNIA GAMMA Jill Moses has been a competitive gymnast since age twelve and competes on the USC gymnastics team. Rosann Nardon, on the track team, holds the USC record for the 10,000 meter run.

A dedicated group of California Delta Pi Phis became a part of history by participating in the first Los Angeles Marathon. Back, l-r: Karen Palladino, Chris Rowley, Deanna DeMuro, Julie Hawkins, Beth Johns. Front: Linda Honey, Teresa Raffo, Terri Focht, Lori Sasé.

Life in the fast lane? For these Nebraska Betas it's life in the bowling lane—at least on Wednesday nights. Clockwise from top left: Betsy Brouillette, Terri Finnigan, Sonia Goodman, Katie Lavigne.

Renee Henry, Washington Beta, is a member of the Washington State A ski team. Renee is a mechanical engineering major, maintaining over a 3.0 GPA.

Mississippi Alpha's Kelly Jo Sixkiller is a member of the University of Southern Mississippi's Lady Eagles basketball team.

Polly Plummer, California Delta, was "Athlete of the Week" twice last fall for her performance as a UCLA cross country runner. The team was sixth nationally, and Polly was second in the regional, third in conference and fourth in the national meet.

Runner, swimmers stretch for goals

For Willamette University senior Wendy VanMatre, Oregon Gamma, running a marathon was just one more goal that she set for herself and accomplished successfully. On February 22, Wendy ran with 900 others in the Seaside, OR marathon and placed fourth in the category of college student runners.

Wendy had done three triathlons, but decided she wanted something more challenging. So she began training last May for the 26-mile run and worked up to 60-70 miles per week.

Wendy's first thought after crossing the finish line was, "I'm glad it's over!"

Weather on the day of the run was terrible. Of 800 contestants, over 200 dropped out, especially in the last sixteen miles, because of heavy rain and strong headwinds.

"People have to be crazy to run a marathon," Wendy commented. "You keep asking yourself 'Why?'"

Now Wendy is taking it easy and getting caught up on things. "Training for something is really, really time-consuming." She said she wouldn't run a marathon again, but if she had it to do over, she would.

Swimmers

The week of March 3-9 was an eventful one for Oregon Gammas Leslie Wilday, Darci Piper and Nancy Olsen. The NAIA national championships were held in Spokane, WA, marking the end of two collegiate swimming careers, and the beginning of another.

Leslie, a senior, swam the 100 yd. breast stroke, the 200 yd. breast stroke, and the 200 yd. individual medley, placing eighth, twelfth and ninth respectively. For this effort she made All-American in all three events, thus finishing her four years on the Willamette swim team in fine form.

Darci, also a senior, placed well in her diving events. She finished thirteenth in the one-meter and twelfth in the three-meter, making All-American in the latter.

Freshman Nancy Olsen marked her national swimming debut by qualifying in the 50 yd. and 200 yd. freestyle.

Competing in the Junior NASTAR recreational ski racing program in Aspen, CO, Michelle McClung, Missouri Alpha, placed eighth in Missouri in the 16-18 age category.

Helene Foellinger is honored by University

(Portions of the following article appeared in the Illinois Alumni News.)

Helene R. Foellinger, Illinois Zeta, of Fort Wayne, IN, was one of three University of Illinois graduates to receive the 1986 Alumni Achievement Award. The award is the highest honor given by the University Alumni Association to a distinguished alumna or alumnus. The awards are given annually and were presented to the honorees at Commencement ceremonies this month.

Helene Foellinger's life has been characterized by achievement, starting with her student days on up to the present—a lifetime filled with hard work as a newspaper publisher, a civic leader, a philanthropist and a University of Illinois benefactress.

Helene's father was publisher of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel and Helene and her sister grew up playing around the printing plant. She always wanted to work in a newspaper.

After graduating in 1932, she joined the News-Sentinel staff. Before long she was named the first editor of the women's section of the paper, a section she created.

When her father died in 1936, she succeeded him as president and general manager of the News Publishing Company and later became president of the News-Sentinel Broadcasting Company, Inc. and Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc., a joint venture with the city's Journal-Gazette.

Under her management the newspaper grew in circulation and flourished in an era when profitability of independent afternoon newspapers was declining. In 1980, lacking family heirs, she sold the paper to Knight-Ridder Newspapers.

A civic leader

Helene has a long list of civic and philanthropic activities, serves on a number of boards of directors, and is a longtime supporter of the arts. It was her $3 million plus gift to the University that made the restoration and renovation of the Auditorium on the Illinois campus possible. (See The ARROW, Spring '83, pg. 39.) It was renamed the Foellinger Auditorium at the formal re-dedication last spring.

An influential campus leader at the University, Helene was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Pi Mu Epsilon, Alpha Lambda Delta, Torch and Mortar Board. A mathematics major, she was active on student council and was women's editor of the Daily Illini.

Earns many honors

In 1974 Helene was named to the National Newspaper Board of United Press International and was the first woman to be named to the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

In July of that year, she was one of ten featured in an article in Parade Magazine on women who served on boards of American corporations.

In 1964 she received a Doctor of Letters degree from Tri State College and in 1977 Indiana University awarded her an honorary Doctor of Law degree. She also has been inducted into the Indiana Academy.

Club piques member interest

by Shirley Gayda Dora

Most of us have had an art or music appreciation class as college students. How many of us wish we knew more? The Indianapolis Alumnae Club put the question to their members and came up with a series of four lecture/tours including "Looking at Art," "Portrait," "Landscapes" and "Sculpture." These meetings were held at the Art Museum, spanning the club year from October through April.

All of the planning was done by Museum docent, Marni Ransel Fechtman, Ohio Zeta. She has been volunteering and imparting her special art insights for the last nine years. Alumnae were so excited by what she's shown them that a Chicago Museum field trip is in the planning.

Members could have visited the Museum on their own, but this interest group added a warmth and gaiety that isn't found with strangers.

Stock dividends, IRAs, capital gains and financial planning can be as confusing as a road sign in a foreign language. The club is also fortunate to have their own interpreter. Nela Peterson Swinehart, Indiana Delta, is a Dean Witter representative and unscrambled these economic mysteries as well as presenting fundamental guidelines for saving and investing. An afternoon and evening session were offered to reach as many members as possible.

ASUM lobbies for Missouri students

One member of Missouri Alpha is truly a politicking Pi Phi. Cindy Gash is a registered lobbyist for the Associated Students of the University of Missouri. ASUM is a lobby organization that works on student-related issues in Missouri's state capitol at Jefferson City. The group is lobbying for several issues, one of which concerns Greek Tax Reassessment. If passed, the bill would allow fraternity and sorority houses in Missouri to be classified in the residential rather than commercial tax bracket, thus lowering Greek taxes.

Cindy works specifically on a bill that would set up a state work-study program with private employers, opening up intern positions for needy students.

In addition to their work at Jefferson City, student lobbyists take an annual trip to Washington, D.C. to meet with Congressmen from Missouri. This year they will discuss the recently passed Gramm-Rudman Deficit Reduction Act and the President's budget proposal and its affect on student financial aid.

Tennessee Gamma Caroline Bright attended the Knoxville Girls Cotillion last December. Her escort was Rick Schelp, a Phi Sigma Kappa at the University of Tennessee.

Nebraska Betas (l-r) Joan Doyle, Kathy Waddle and Megan Felzien are members of the Husker Hostess program working with Nebraska Cornhusker Coach Tom Osborne, back.

Mary Barker, a charter member of Texas Eta and a third generation Pi Phi, was presented by the order of De Pineda in Corpus Christi in December. Her mother, Courtney McCampbell Barker, Tennessee Alpha, also made her debut with the Order of De Pineda.

Joni Cobb, Missouri Alpha, is vice president of Arts and Science government in which she and the president control a $14,500 budget. They award scholarships and schedule speakers and films for Arts and Science Week at the University of Missouri.

Mississippi Alpha Mallory Brooks, Covington, LA, was presented as a maid in the 1986 Carnival Ball of the Olympia organization.

New initiate Debbie Hartselle, center, is continuing the Alabama Beta tradition. Joan Suto Hartselle, right, Debbie's mother, was initiated in 1961, and Diana Hartselle Flemming, left, Debbie's paternal aunt, was initiated in 1968.

ALUMNAE YOUR HELP IS NEEDED!

1. Fill out a Rush Information Form (RIF). See the form in this magazine. Additional forms are available from the Alumnae Club Rush Information Chairmen (ACRIC) listed in this issue or from Central Office, 7730 Carondelet, Suite 333, St. Louis, MO 63105.
2. Return the completed form to the ACRIC in the rushee's home city or send a personal letter directly to the Membership Chairman of the appropriate chapter. If the form is sent directly to the chapter, the ACRIC from the rushee's club area would appreciate receiving a copy of factual information.
3. Although only one RIF is needed for each rushee, letters are welcome from all alumnae who may wish to write.

Four Pi Phis nominated for President's Ball Queen

by Jennifer Brubaker

This year Michigan Alpha at Hillsdale College had much to offer judges of the annual President's Ball Queen contest. Four of six candidates were Pi Phis, one of whom walked away with the title.

Winner Laura Bringman was in the company of Pi Phi sisters Maureen Kennedy, Michelle Pariso and Beth Clem. Candidates were selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Laura's unique, exciting life has lent itself beautifully to the development of these qualities.

She has divided her post-secondary education into several study programs. She attended the American College in Paris where she studied international politics, and Tel-Aviv University in Israel where she participated in an archaeological dig. She also participated in the Washington Hillsdale Internship Program, working for Congressman Hyde from Illinois.

On campus Laura participates in many different activities. She is in the French honorary, Pi Delta Phi, in which she held the office of president; Phi Alpha Theta history honorary; and Canterbury Club. Each semester of her college career she has been on the Dean's List, and last year she received the Botswick French Prize for her outstanding performance.

Laura Bringman was honored by classmates and faculty after receiving the title of President's Ball Queen at Hillsdale.

She has been active within Pi Phi also, having chaired both the alumnae relations and the campus and community committees. She was president of her pledge class.

Laura graduated this month with a history major and minors in philosophy and French.

Regina Priest, Texas Zeta, is a first team All-American Collegiate Cheerleader. She and her partner, Tim Kendall, were selected from cheerleaders from over 2,500 colleges and universities. Ten men and ten women are named to the All-American team each year. Not chosen was Regina's friend Judge Pepper, Baylor mascot.

New home fulfills dream

by Lauri Larabee

Ohio Delta can truly say that parting is such sweet sorrow. The girls from Ohio Wesleyan took on the huge job of moving their home from the comfortable and familiar 96 Elizabeth Street to a new house at 91 West Winter Street. Buying a new house had long been a topic of discussion, but now, with the help of national officers, it became a reality.

Built in 1955 exclusively for Pi Phi, the house on Elizabeth Street was called home by Ohio Wesleyan Pi Phis for thirty years. The girls were sad about leaving it and the night before furniture was moved, a fireside was held to express the sorrow, hope and excitement concerning the move. The chapter had just completed a very successful winter rush, and feelings of gratification were mixed with a few tears during this final hour.

The house on West Winter was in need of renovation and remodeling and the girls put in a lot of time and support. Everyone agreed that this period was crucial and university personnel, along with Ohio Delta alumnae, were helpful and supportive. During the awkward period, house and chapter meetings were held in the study room of a nearby dorm. The girls kept in close contact by planning extra social and community functions.

Everyone is in high spirits and it is clear that Ohio Delta is looking forward to a successful year.

Doing Unto Others . . .

Through Chapter Service Projects

An "Arrow Open" Golf Tournament, sponsored by VIRGINIA ZETA, proved a great success. The event was open to Greeks and non-Greeks and benefited both the chapter and Pi Phi philanthropies. One winner and five runners-up were chosen from a field of nearly 150 golfers.

FLORIDA EPSILON raised money for Arrowmont by delivering singing Valentines over the phone. They obviously do good work on the phone since twenty Pi Phis also raised $5,160 in the University of Central Florida Phone-a-Thon, and were the only group to break $5,000. Pi Phis and Pikes also gave a picnic for twenty children from Great Oaks Village, a home for wayward children.

NEW YORK GAMMA and Sig Pi worked together during the St. Lawrence Alumni Telethon. The callers raised $12,900 in three short hours!

Multiple Sclerosis has come up with a new idea, and at least three of our chapters have become active in Rock-alike contests.

WASHINGTON ALPHAS Sue Betcher, Elise King, Tracy White and Kelly O'Leary produced a Beatles routine, lip syncing to "Twist and Shout." These four and other University of Washington students raised $10,000 for MS.

The same type of contest was held at Tulane, and LOUISIANA ALPHA was represented in the lip sync competition by Mary Blackmon who impersonated country star Loretta Lynn.

Florida Deltas sport their jerseys and letters at Field Day in Greek Week. The chapter has been on the University of Florida campus for only two years and has won second place in Greek Week both years. This year "Greeks Look to the Skies" was the theme and the week raised over $12,000 for Stop Children's Cancer.

Tennessee Gamma Suzanne Phillips isn't a bit worried about giving blood to Medic. Pi Phi and Alpha Chi Omega tied for first place in the blood drive sponsored by Interfraternity Council at UT and Medic.

Sue Kircos, ILLINOIS ZETA, is vice chairman of Students Against Multiple Sclerosis (SAMS) at the University of Illinois. SAMS is a national organization of college students which raises money for research of the disease. SAMS also sponsored a Rockalike contest.

TEXAS ZETA won the SAE Food Drive for the second year in a row by donating 1,320 pounds of food. Baylor Pi Phis collected nearly $300 for the drive, benefiting the Salvation Army.

MICHIGAN BETA added some bounce to philanthropy and held a Jello Jump as part of Greek Week in March. Proceeds benefited Muscular Dystrophy. As a result of all Greek Week activities, United Way Food Fund and the Area Council for Children benefited.

Two WYOMING ALPHAS, Molly Meeboer and Muffie Lawrence, are assistant Girl Scout leaders, with one of their AAC members, Karla Satchwell. The chapter invited the troop for dinner recently and everyone thoroughly enjoyed herself.

In December INDIANA GAMMAS had their annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children from Christamore House, the chapter's local philanthropy. The children helped decorate the tree, had refreshments and each received a gift from Santa.

The popular Newlywed Game was revived at Hillsdale in March when Mimi Baker, MICHIGAN ALPHA, along with three classmates, simulated the game show as a project for their Organizational Communications class. Mimi hosted the show, charging admission to raise money for the American Cancer Society.

IDAHO ALPHA has recently adopted a local philanthropy. The organization is Stepping Stones, Inc., a group home for physically and mentally disabled citizens. They also adopted a Palouse Disabled Outdoor Group which will involve the people in activities such as horseback riding, white-water rafting and swimming.

Greek Week at Florida State benefited three organizations in Tallahassee. Funds raised went to Sickle Cell Anemia's local branch; Refuge House, a shelter for battered women; and GAMMA (Greeks Against Mis-Management of Alcohol). FLORIDA BETA placed first in fundraising. Paired with Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Sig, Pi Phi was second in the various competitions.

Florida Beta was also asked to help a little girl named Leticia who had muscular dystrophy. She had the opportunity to attend a MDA camp this summer but lacked the $300 necessary. Florida Beta organized a garage sale and raised money so that Leticia will go to camp this summer.

LOUISIANA ALPHAS spent well over 160 hours doing volunteer work in the New Orleans area during the past school year. They did everything from acting as teachers' aides to working with children from a housing project to helping out with festivals and special days at Audubon Zoo. Celia Cirone, with about thirty hours, and Mollie Talley, with twenty, were the most generous with their free time and energy.

During fall semester, a campus-wide Greek competition at Oklahoma State raised money for the Stillwater Humane Society. Thanks to Melinda Sellers, chairman, OKLAHOMA BETA raised over $400 (the most pounds) in dog food.

OHIO BETA Pi Phis fought off the spook of Halloween by visiting the Columbus Children's Hospital. Pi Phis took pumpkins, a Dr. Seuss skit and cheer to the children in a short program.

CALIFORNIA EPSILON participated in San Diego State's biggest fund-raiser, Spring Fiesta, by running a submarine sandwich booth. The Fiesta had a variety of rides, games and refreshment booths which raised thousands of dollars for local charities.

Carolyn Mark was recognized by the Dean of San Diego State for her contribution to the Missing Children's Foundation. What started out as a project for her management class, to do a fund-raiser, ended as a success for the foundation and for Carolyn. Through her effort, she received a contribution of over $1,000 from a large San Francisco firm.

TEXAS BETA pledges at SMU worked at the Canterbury House of Dallas, which helps feed homeless and hungry people in the Dallas area. Pledges spent a Sunday afternoon making sandwiches for the House.

Pearson Uhlhorn, Tennessee Gamma, doesn't seem pleased with her performance in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Knoxville Bowl-A-Thon. Eight Pi Phis participated and raised over $200 for the organization.

Kathie King and partner Dan Noble danced till the last minute in the University of Virginia's Ninth Annual Dance Marathon. Kathie and Don represented VIRGINIA EPSILON to help raise funds for three charities: Madison House, a volunteer student organization which provides programs to the community such as Big Sisters and Hot Lines; Camp Holiday Trails, a local center for children with terminal diseases; and Virginia Epsilon's local philanthropy, the Children's Rehabilitation Center, also for children with terminal diseases.

CALIFORNIA GAMMAs worked on a special local philanthropy during Christmas season. They sold candy and raised over $200 which purchased clothing, music and books for a young woman to help make her extensive hospital stay a little easier. Beth, a 17-year-old, was victim of a kidnapping and brutal assault which resulted in total disfigurement to her face due to acid thrown on her by her assailant.

"Have a Heart for Someone Special" was the theme for GEORGIA ALPHA'S community philanthropy with Beta Theta Pi. They sold helium balloons to be delivered on Feb. 14 with special inscriptions on a card. Over $400 was raised for Georgia Special Olympics.

Penn State dances

In February Penn State's Interfraternity Council sponsored their 14th Annual Dance Marathon. Pennsylvania Epsilons teamed with Sigma Alpha Epsilons and sponsored two pairs of dancers for the event. Julie McDonald and Linda Yohe joined SAE brothers Mark Tassoni and Keith Anguish on the dance floor to dance continuously for forty-eight hours.

Crista Meyer was one of ten "Black Visors" who oversee activities of Morale teams who circulate on the floor to keep dancers alert and enthusiastic. Eight sisters were chosen as Morale members and two more were judges for the event.

This year's marathon raised over $245,000 for The Four Diamonds Fund at the Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, PA.

The Penn State IFC Dance Marathon claims to be the largest student-run philanthropy in the nation.

Clue game benefits C.P.

by Ann Marie Dockstader

I. M. Stiff was found hanging from a beam in his apartment—very dead. Who killed him? That was the big question to be answered one Saturday afternoon as the Greek community at Drake turned out to participate in the Pi Kappa Alpha Clue Game.

Pi Phi Bonnie Brown takes notes from a tape recorded confession as Mitch Dolan and Felicia Popp listen in.

The scheme was devised by Rick Sullivan as a fund-raiser for his fraternity to benefit United Cerebral Palsy of Iowa. Each house had a sponsor and then collected money on their own. Iowa Eta Pi Phi donated the second highest amount, $200.

The fun began at noon as Pikes, dressed as various suspects, dispersed throughout campus and beyond. With an hour and a half to gather clues and collect information, members of the fourteen Greek organizations ran to each appointed site. Pi Phi was the first to submit a solution.

Two children with cerebral palsy were present during the celebration and awards. They were made honorary members of the houses and given shirts with the Greek letters.

KA is King of Hearts in campus-wide voting

Mississippi Beta at the University of Mississippi made $1,700 in a new fund-raiser for spring semester. During the week of Valentine's Day, Pi Phi sponsored their first King of Hearts contest.

Sororities on campus were asked to nominate two men as candidates for King of Hearts, and Pi Phi chose one candidate from each sorority. This eliminated the chance of having one man nominated by more than one sorority.

Voting was done with money. A jar for each candidate, with his picture, was available for the voting. Change was counted as negative votes, and bills were positive. At a penny a vote, a dollar bill would be counted as 100 positive votes and a quarter would be counted as 25 negative votes. The entire chapter pitched in, working at their booth in the student union where the voting was done.

Todd Grandy, Kappa Alpha, was chosen King of Hearts, sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta. The winning sorority and fraternity were entertained by Pi Phi, and Todd was given a dinner for two at a local restaurant.

Mizzou helps cancer victim

An alumna of Missouri Alpha, Kim Dubois, has been diagnosed as having Hodgkin's Disease, a cancer that, in its present state, can be successfully treated. However, these treatments are expensive.

To help alleviate some of the huge financial burden, Missouri Alpha, along with the whole Mizzou campus, is helping Kim. Sigma Chi sold and delivered carnations on Valentine's Day. Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity has helped by such fund-raisers as selling White Castle hamburgers in Columbia that can usually only be purchased in St. Louis. The Pikes and Pi Phi had a suitcase party. Tickets for $10 were sold and a trip to New Orleans was raffled off. New initiates did their part by serving dinner for a night at campus fraternities and collecting tips.

Kim was presented with a Valentine's Day trust and nearly $1,700 has been raised thus far.

Tennessee Gammas Kim Winslette, Pearson Uhlhorn and Laurie Pesut enjoy their visit to Arrowmont and the Pi Beta Phi Elementary school in Gatlinburg.

Diana Kahalley receives her award from Dean McPheeters.

Graphic designer honored

When Auburn University's Student Government Association held its Honors Day banquet, Diana Kahalley, Alabama Gamma, was named most outstanding student in the School of Architecture and Fine Arts. She was nominated by a faculty committee in the art department and was then chosen from nominees in other departments within the School.

The award is given on the basis of scholastic achievement, honors, activities and campus community involvement. Diana, who has served Pi Phi as VP Social, chapter historian, publications chairman, alternate delegate to the 1985 Convention and "resident artist," is a senior majoring in graphic design.

Keith McPheeters, Dean of the School of Architecture and Fine Arts, made the award presentation.

New housemom is Pi Phi

by Jill Upstill

Kansas Alpha welcomed a new housemom January 1. Mom Etienne Guerrant Britton was born and raised in Manhattan, KS, and is a Kansas Beta Pi Phi. Since her college years at K-State she has stayed active in Pi Phi through many alum clubs. She attended the Pi Phi Convention in Pasadena, CA when she was a member of the Sioux City (IA) Alumnae Club, and she has been involved with the Wichita (KS) and Denver (CO) Alumnae Clubs. She was a Panhellenic representative from those clubs and has been a Panhellenic Woman of the Year.

Mom Etienne discovered the need for a new housemother at Kansas Alpha through Pi Phi friends.

"It simply came to me on a silver platter," she said.

Friends told her the housemother at the time, Rosalyn Whirley, was too ill to continue and the substitute, Freida Rogers, wasn't planning to stay on. Mom Etienne knew the girls needed someone and she wanted to be that someone.

"I feel like I'm back home," she said.

She is enjoying being a Pi Phi housemom. The fact that she is a Pi Phi makes it "just twice as nice. There's a bond," she says.

Summing up her feelings about the house and the sorority in general, she says, "There's nothing like Pi Phi sisterhood."

Campus groups join in "Friend to Friend"

by Kendra Payne

The Virginia Zeta chapter at Virginia Tech is excited about their "Friend-to-Friend" program. Since there has been a growing concern about the problems and legalities of alcohol at Virginia Tech, three Pi Phis have taken this program and expanded on certain areas, developing it so that it may be presented to organizations outside their chapter. Mary McGuirk, Kim LeFrancois and Kendra Payne have given the program not only to the chapter, but they have presented it to other sorority pledge classes.

They divided the program into three sections. The first consists of the myths of alcohol, and how to detect a problem drinker. The second section deals with the legalities of alcohol and the consequences of drunk driving. Lastly they present the importance of sisterhood and the idea that sisters want to help their sisters. The counseling services available on campus are presented also.

This program has been a big success. Not only are other sororities interested in hearing their program, but Mary, Kim and Kendra have been asked to present it at a Panhellenic meeting and for several fraternities.

Virginia Zeta is thrilled about the progress of the program, and hopes that it may continue to expand "Friend-to-Friend" to more and more organizations.

New bracelet style set

by Jody Kamrath

If some day you happen to be strolling around the Colorado School of Mines campus, you just might bump into a girl or two wearing—oddly enough—fishing tackle around her wrist. You might be saying, who is this strange person and what is this innovative piece of jewelry which she seems to like so much? Well, chances are you have met a Colorado Delta and the bracelet she wears, besides being beads, is actually her Family Heritage Bracelet.

Back in the fall of 1984, while they were still a local sorority called Omega Delta Psi, they began the tradition of giving each new pledge a pledge mom. Last fall they added a new dimension to the program. One member, after seeing that type of bracelet being made at summer camp where she was working, brought back the idea of making these bracelets into a sorority bracelet. It was suggested the three colored beads on each link be symbolic of the family in which the wearer is a member. And so the tradition began.

At pledge mom ceremony, each new pledge receives a fishing tackle bracelet bearing the same colors as those worn by her mom. In addition, each Graduate Consultant who lives with the chapter is given a bracelet. The colors on her bracelet are red, silver and blue, symbolizing the wine and silver blue of Pi Beta Phi.

Men of Bradley are featured in calendar

by Elizabeth Cashman

Illinois Theta has eagerly begun work on a recent tradition. The 1987 Men of Bradley Calendar is being handled by an able committee and chaired by Jill Ihlein and Julie Rapp. Selecting twelve representatives of Bradley's male population, scheduling advertisers, and the compilation, layout and distribution of the calendar requires the enthusiasm and responsibility of spirited Pi Phis.

The selection process begins with nominations from students on campus. The chapter narrows nominees to twenty-five semifinalists and then chooses the twelve men to be photographed. Criteria are appearance and campus involvement.

Originally the calendar had been designed for the academic year, but now it is planned for January through December. Because of a new commission incentive, Illinois Thetas are scouting the area for possible advertisers and they have received favorable responses.

The calendar began with the 1983 spring pledge class. The project was developed and completed because of the initiative of those four young women. Today it is a chapter project.

Georgia Alpha's Christmas party was especially atmospheric as it was held in the Taylor-Grady House in Athens. The antebellum home, on the National Historic Register, was built around 1840, and its grandeur added to the occasion. Kristie Ottinger and Sandra Simpkins enjoyed the surprise visit from Santa.

Nancy Rogers and Jean Scott wear hard hats presented to them in appreciation for their work in establishing Colorado Delta. Hard hats are given to incoming freshman at the School of Mines.

Volunteer teaches farming

Ruth Kaufman, Pennsylvania Beta, is a Peace Corp volunteer in Sierra Leone, Africa. A 1985 graduate of Bucknell University, Ruth began her two year stint last September.

As the first female volunteer in her area, she teaches farming techniques such as rice cultivation and irrigation. She has learned the African language.

Conditions are primitive. She lives in a tin hut without electricity, yet she is enjoying the opportunity to help those less fortunate and less educated.

Exciting plans are under way for a Pi Phi reunion at Nebraska Beta July 18-20. A fun-filled weekend is planned at the Pi Phi house on the University of Nebraska campus for 1956-57 pledges and/or 1960-61 graduates. If you were a member of either of these classes and have not been contacted, please write to Judy Hughes Leech, 4315 Cooper Ave., Lincoln, NE 68506. Nebraska Betas of all ages are invited to join the reunion at an Open House on Saturday, July 19, from 1:30-4:00 p.m.

Deadline panic

A typical college scene: Sisters, bound by the ties of wine and blue, share academic struggles, friendship and the music by Squeeze and Depeche Mode.

In the wee morning hours in Smith Hall, home of Washington Gamma, Barb writes, Jill types, Michele gripes. I'm Michele, the ARROW Correspondent. Tomorrow is the spring issue deadline. I have last minute stories to edit, type and copy for my personal file.

Barb is writing a letter to her friend, a model in France. Jill is typing a report for Business and Professional Communication. I keep nagging: "Jill, I need a better word. Where's the thesaurus?"

'twas the day before deadline and all was not right not a creature was stirring not even a mite.

I, the ARROW Correspondent, screamed
at the top of my lungs
"I'm so very stressed!
What can be done?"

I can't find the pictures
the photographer is gone
the dark room is flooded
I just can't go on.

I worked until day
edited all the entries and sent them away.

Chapter shines at banquet

Florida Epsilon Pi Phis at the University of Central Florida had a great deal to be proud about at the Panhellenic awards banquet in February. The five-year-old chapter was given the Outstanding Improvement Award for significant improvements in all areas of chapter programming. New initiate Stacy Skinner was named 1985 Pledge of the Year, while her big sis, Salli Sanguiliano earned the Dean Wilson Scholarship Award for good scholarship and involvement in Panhellenic, campus and sorority activities.

But that's not all. Florida Epsilon had three sisters, Sharlene Wendel, Kristina Fike and Salli Sanguiliano, tapped into Rho Lambda.

Pi Phis shone in athletics as well, taking top honors in intramural volleyball.

Panhellenic involvement is a growing tradition with Florida Epsilon. For the past three years, they have held the office of assistant rush chairman, and are represented this year by Laura Leofsky. Andrea Steinneman is Panhel secretary and Ann Peters is chairman of the prospective Greek housing committee. The sorority awards committee this year was lead by Salli Sanguiliano and the Panhellenic service committee was chaired by Therese Hamilton.

From nation to nation there's lasting elation

by Kim Johnson

I am a second semester senior at the University of Vermont, completing my final phase of college life.

Freshman year I rushed and was given a bid at Pi Beta Phi. Last year I had to make the hardest decision of my life. Should I hold an office in Pi Phi or go abroad for a semester? Ultimately my decision was made and I went to Bristol, England for four months. At the last meeting of the year I was tearful and my feelings were torn. Was I doing the right thing? Now I know I made the right choice.

When I arrived in England I was scared, excited and overwhelmed, all at the same time. The journey to Bristol, two and a half hours west of London, was an exhausting one. But I had my Pi Phi paddle, pictures, pin, memories of friends at school, and my friend Gail.

I lived in a family owned Bed and Breakfast with the Americans in my program and other English Accounting students. During the week I commuted on a double-decker bus to a British Infant School. I practice-taught in a "top infant class" consisting of thirty-three six- and seven-year-olds. At night we ate dinner at the pubs, bought fish and chips at the "take away" places, or had tea at a teacher's house. On weekends we donned our jeans, raincoats, Let's Go England tour guide books and cameras as we boarded coaches to embark on new adventures as American tourists.

My favorite weekend was spent in Paris with Gail and Julie, a fellow Vermont Beta living in London. We traipsed through the city posing in front of the Louvre, standing in the Eiffel Tower and sitting on the bridge of the River Seine wearing Pi Beta Phi sweatshirts, socks and hats.

During our week holiday we went to the continent where we met more Pi Phis. It was such a tremendous learning experience! I will never forget the fun times, the friendships made and places seen. My loneliness and longing for Pi Phi was abated by the many letters and phone calls I received from friends and sisters in Vermont.

Now back at UVM, I feel as though I never left. So much has changed in my life, but the sisterhood brings back that stabilizing factor. I love being able to return to the house and I realize now that Pi Phi is more than four years of wine and silver blue or worn out songs. It is a great group of friends who will remain close for the rest of my life.

It will be sad to graduate this month but I know that it will be made easier because I can always count on my sisters to be a support group. The true memories will remain with me always.

In many ways, I have Pi Phi to thank for nurturing me and helping me grow up.

A reunion in Greece brought back Pi Beta Phi memories for Indiana Delta alums Julie Wischer Swaim and Karen Linstromberg Soderhold. They met for a holiday, only to find Greek letters for Pi Phi written on hotel walls. Apparently the Greek letters mean "fire." Add the B between and it's "fire brigade."

Boyden is delegate to Washington conference

by Laura Herbold

Anne Marie Boyden, an active alumna of Utah Alpha, was elected in October as Utah delegate to the National White House Conference for small businesses. She is president of et al inc., a Salt Lake City marketing and advertising firm.

Anne Marie is a 1961 graduate of the University of Utah. She is a past president of the Salt Lake City Alumnae Club and was chairman of the Utah Alpha Alumnae Advisory Committee.

As a delegate to the Conference, Anne Marie will be able to help small businesses by affecting the laws that govern them, especially concerning capital formation and liabilities. It is only the second time in history that small businesses, the backbone of the American economic system, have been given the opportunity to be represented in this way.

Shannon Burns, a Pi Phi from Illinois Zeta at the University of Illinois, and Holly Andrews, from Ohio Zeta at Miami University, had the surprise of their lives last summer.

When Holly received her summer issue of The ARROW, she came across the list of new initiates at the Illinois chapter and immediately recognized Shannon's name. They had been best friends in grade school but had lost touch after seventh grade. After a few phone calls and letters back and forth, Shannon and Holly spent a weekend together at the University of Illinois. It was a fantastic experience to rekindle a friendship after so many years. Shannon and Holly would like to thank The ARROW and Pi Beta Phi for bringing a great friendship back together!

Actresses perform with several groups

by Sarah Paxton

Lisa McGinnis, Virginia Epsilon, is making her way up the ladder to stardom! Lisa performed in the Virginia Players April production of The Dining Room in the Culbreth Theater at the University of Virginia.

This was Lisa's first opportunity working with the Players, the most prestigious theatrical group at the university. 250 people, including drama and theater majors, other students, and members of the Charlottesville community, auditioned for the six parts.

The Dining Room was the last play of the Virginia Players' 1985-86 season.

The bright smile and striking red hair of Colleen Sudduth enhanced her delightful performance as Patty in You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, by Act I, a community theatre group in Charlottesville. A special performance was given at the Children's Rehabilitation Center in February. The center is Virginia Epsilon's local philanthropy.

School thanks "green army"

Joan Chatfield, Illinois Alpha, thought of an original idea for St. Patrick's Day and the chapter co-sponsored a Green Army Appreciation Day. The green army consists of the people who maintain campus buildings and grounds during the school year and do refinishing and restoration of campus buildings during summer months.

March 17 was "be nice to the green army" day. There was an open reception for the whole campus at the student union to get to know better the behind the scenes people.

Fifty-three Texas Zetas, including Regina Priest and Kim Crow, danced their way into "Pigskin Revue" in March during Baylor University's annual "All University Sing." The top four men's acts and top four women's acts will be performed at "Pigskin Revue" during Baylor's Homecoming next fall.

Indiana Gamma V.P. Michele Brooks, left, presents new initiate Heather Bratton the award for having the highest pledge grades. Heather, along with pledge mother Sabrina Pfeiffer, also earned honors for the highest mother/daughter combined G.P.A.

Three are honored

Three Oklahoma Beta Pi Phis were honored as top students for the school year of 1985-86 in the College of Education at Oklahoma State.

Susie Johnson earned the Ora A. Henderson Memorial Scholarship, awarded to students who are sophomores or above, have held leadership positions, believe in God, and have demonstrated potential for a teaching career at a small school or city.

Kelly Soergel received the Daniel C. and Mary L. Herd Scholarship and was recognized as one of the Top Ten juniors and seniors in the college.

Julie Wheeler was given the Trudy McFarland Scholarship presented to a student with high moral values, leadership experience, and who has shown an evidence of love of education. Julie was recognized also as one of the Top Ten students, and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Two attend Banner workshop

Texas Betas Susan Robbins and Margaret Wallace are two of the twenty-seven students selected to attend a year-long television production course taught by TV producer Bob Banner. The Bob Banner Workshop includes twenty hours of class every other weekend, as well as a three week interim in Los Angeles. Banner has produced such shows as Star Search, Solid Gold, and the Carol Burnett Show.

While in Los Angeles Susan and Margaret had an opportunity to work on the Star Search program and Super Model of the World. They even made music videos for former Star Search performers.

Monica Davis, Emily Bell and Audrey Hill, Alabama Alphas, joined twenty other students from Birmingham-Southern to study political science, literature and classics in January. Their travels took them to Italy, Switzerland and France, including a visit to the Leaning Tower of Pisa in southern Italy.

Edythe Mulveyhill Brack

Edythe Mulveyhill Brack died Monday, March 17, 1986.

Edythe, a Kansas Alpha, served the Fraternity as Grand Vice President (1964-67), Director of Membership, a Council position (1963-64) and Province President. Her spirit and dedication to Pi Phi were an inspiration to the Fraternity and all who knew her.

Memorial services were held Wednesday, March 19, at Saint Michael's and All Angel's Church in Dallas.

Surviving are her husband, Reginald, two sons and a daughter, Linda Brack McFarland, Texas Alpha.

The family has requested that donations be made to Arrowmont.
