

Dear Pi Phis,

Values and Vision were abundantly present at the 64th biennial convention this June in Anaheim. I wish each and every one of you could have been there to experience the excitement in the convention ballroom as nearly 1,000 women watched and listened intently as bigger than life collegians and alumnae told their Pi Phi story on dual projection screens.

Following that, the new collegiate programming, "Leading with Values" was launched. In addition to the programming, our new Pi Phi graphic identity was unveiled and much much more.

Grand President Emily Russell Tarr.

BUT WHY ALL THE NEW?

The future strength of Pi Beta Phi both sociologically and financially depends on the overall involvement of its members. In recent years, the Fraternity has experienced a decline in the number of collegiate members who remain active through four years. There has also been a decrease in the number of alumnae who stay involved in the Fraternity after graduation.

There is mounting evidence that Pi Beta Phi is falling short in adapting to the needs of members today. For Pi Beta Phi to be recognized as a premier organization for women it must restructure existing programs and create new ones in order to make them more engaging, relevant, and appealing. Pi Beta Phi is preparing Friends and Leaders for Life. In doing that we will continue to build on our traditions, but we will not limit ourselves to traditional thinking.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NEW

"Leading with Values" is Pi Beta Phi's Member Development Program. Each collegiate member receives her personal program overview binder which details the Fraternity's commitment to delivering developmental opportunities and support to all members consistent with the ideals defined through the Lifelong Growth Objectives. Because of the need for programming to be adaptable and fluid, many of the program resources are located in the Leading with Values section of the Fraternity Web site. A more in-depth look at Leading with Values can also be found on the Web site. The member development program continues to be grounded on our founding values of integrity, honor and respect, lifelong commitment, personal and intellectual growth, philanthropic service to others, and sincere friendship. This programming replaces existing programming.

The Arrow template has a new design. In keeping with the updated look there are reformatted pages, more color pictures, and larger images for all to enjoy.

The Fraternity Logo has been designed to bring together the elements of our heritage and augment that with a sense of positive forward motion. The modern font and upward design of the arrow are specifically utilized to illustrate those elements. The logo, which will be used on all printed material, is designed to bring a forward-thinking contemporary look and feel to our graphics.

The Fraternity Web site has taken on a bold new look too. Have you visited it at www.pibetaphi.org? Our Fraternity's proud heritage is showcased, but at the site it's easy to see how we are poised for the future — programming and manuals are downloadable, there are bulletin boards for questions and comments and more user friendly navigation, and logo and graphics are there for members, too.

Champions Are Readers (CAR) literacy program has been adapted from an original concept of the Houston, Texas Alumnae Club. The CAR program is designed to serve as an international literacy program that all alumnae clubs and chapters can easily conduct, and it encourages collegian and alumnae interaction for the benefit of literacy. (See CAR article on page 15.) The purpose of the program is to improve the child's reading skills. Program implementation is easy and materials can be ordered at www.pibetaphi.org. Books for the CAR program are generously provided by the Pi Beta Phi Foundation.

YES, THERE'S MUCH ADO ABOUT NEW ...

In our fast-paced world, things change quickly. Pi Phi must position itself so that we can alter direction easily in order to meet the needs of the organization, but also to succeed in providing all members with a lifelong paramount experience. Grand Council believes the right direction has been determined and the Fraternity is on the road to success. We are beginning a new journey; one which will ensure for all Pi Phis the experience of a lifetime. Pi Phis are you ready?

ALUMNAE NOTES

Dear Pi Phi Sisters,

I'm writing to thank you for the incredible warmth you showed me at the 2003 convention. When I boarded the plane in Omaha, I had no idea what awaited me in Anaheim. To my delight, I discovered hundreds of intelligent, successful, goal-oriented women willing to share a smile or a few kind words. The most remarkable discovery I made was the Pi Phi sisters' genuine interest in each other's climb up the ladder of success. You've mastered the art of supporting each other where some organizations criticize successful members amongst them. Not only did I feel welcome, my time in Anaheim sharing with those incredible women was invaluable.

My family often spoke of Pi Beta Phi and Fannie's dream that time couldn't erase. I laughed when I saw Pi Beta Phi inscribed on a pair of flip flops and wondered what Fannie would think of the success born out of their humble beginning. I took an alternate route in my educational pursuit and felt I'd missed an opportunity to continue her tradition.

Anaheim afforded me a chance to walk in my great-great-grandmother's footsteps and I have chills recalling the initiation process.

The desire to research my heritage was the catalyst for contacting the Pi Beta Phi organization to offer my services volunteering at a local university. A few months later I learned I'd been selected as the 2003 honor initiate. To those of you who shared in my initiation ceremony and to those of you I've yet to meet, please accept my deepest gratitude for allowing me to join your phenomenal organization. The support system woven through time by Pi Phi women touches my heart. I'm truly thrilled to call myself an Illinois Alpha and look forward to many years in Pi Phi service.

Today I saw something I never expected to see, my name in The Arrow as a newly initiated alumnae member of Pi Beta Phi! What a wonderful honor to join such a stellar group of women, many of whom I already knew through my job as vice chancellor of the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga or through civic work and friends in Chattanooga.

I am especially grateful to Tennessee Alpha Marion Dobbins Griscom, the regional officer who nominated me for the honor, to the members of the Chattanooga, Tennessee Alumnae Club who welcomed me so heartily, and to the Tennessee Gamma chapter at UT where I received my doctorate a few years ago after turning 60. I feel as if I have a great new group of sisters with whom I will be friends forever and I will work side by side to make great things happen.

Dr. Margaret Kelley TENNESSEE GAMMA CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE

I was so happy to see in the Summer 2003 issue a photo of the Pi Phis in London. This Pi Phi Pocket was started a few years ago by my beloved little sister, dear and treasured friend, California Gamma Elizabeth Robertson Gollin, I was thrilled when I heard she wanted to do this, and know of the dedicated time and effort she put into it.

Years ago our family lived in Germany, and I found there was a thriving Panhellenic group in the area. I joined, and one of the first ladies I met was a Pi Phi. This affiliation helped me make an easy adjustment to living abroad, and I realized that one can probably bump into a sister in the wine and blue just about anywhere. Nice feeling!

SUMMER 2003 FEATURE

This letter is to personally commend you on the Summer 2003 edition of The Arrow. Thank you for the insight and critical information. I found the materials useful and am using them to share with friends. My personal story starts back in 1993, where one of my Pi Phi sisters confronted me [about an eating disorder]. I had many other friends confront me, yet I was not ready to listen. A week before graduation, I was out roller blading, fell and fractured my jaw in five places. I was under 100 pounds at that point — not a healthy place to be.

I am very thankful today for the life I have [without an eating disorder]. I am proud to say that years later, I am coming along side friends and strangers to share in the hope that I found. I want to advise sisters to continue loving and never give up believing in one another, continue to encourage one another, and never give up hope.

JULIE SCHAEFER NEW YORK GAMMA SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA

How refreshing to see a fraternal magazine deal with a real issue in a real way! Eating disorders in the Summer 2003 issue of The Arrow was impressive and appropriate. My thanks to you and Pi Beta Phi for the courage to address topics that matter and inform rather than paint the picture of perfection with the [usual] illusory fraternity propaganda.

DIRECTOR OF RESOURCES AND

SIGMA PHI EPSILON FRATERNITY

I eat "normally" and so was shocked to discover through this article ["Eating Disorders," Summer 2003] the extent to which I "inventory" food and ingredients, additives, processing, supplements, etc. in the name of good health. I am beginning to own up to the way I must comment in some way about everything that might pass my lips. I've sought out information on all aspects of nutrition and the effects of food on the body. Considering the amount of literature in all media on the subject, I am deducing that maybe this is not strange behavior, and that I, too, DO qualify as one obsessed by food. And I am recognizing how insidious this behavior is. Rather than bless and enjoy the fruits of the earth, and the labors of those who prepare and bring it to me, I have become a pseudo-food scientist and critic, unable to break bread joyfully. This attitude is surely a contributing factor to the dis-ease many of us face around food.

Since reading the Summer issue of The Arrow, I have been making a concerted effort to approach food shopping, preparation and consumption in a less verbal and more appreciative way. My husband, for one, will be ecstatic!

Thank you for bringing this issue to such an appropriate readership in a clear and helpful manner.

JEAN RIDGLEY SAMPEL-BUECHELE COLORADO ALPHA BISBEE, ARIZONA

As a professional in the field of fraternity and sorority advising, I have been sadly impacted by disordered eating all too often. Chapter presidents have confided in me about their experiences with members suffering from this disease, women survivors have shared with me their sometimes horrific stories, and I have had to intervene in cases more than once.

I want to thank Pi Beta Phi for its continued education about this issue. Your recent program development on disordered eating coupled with The Arrow article [Summer 2003 issue] provide important information for the members of your sorority to understand and educate others on.

I have always held great respect for your organization and it continues to grow with this type of quality programming and information being provided to your undergraduate members.

I loved the article about eating disorders [Summer 2003 issue]. I have been battling bulimia for six years and with the help of my sorority sisters and friends, have come to the point where I have nearly won the fight. I am not 100 percent better, but I am closer to the finish line than I was even a few months ago. I just wanted to tell you how much I appreciated the article and hope that others will be aware of suspicious eating activities and help others (like my sisters have done for me).

Samantha Brasdis Virginia Delta Chesapeake, Virginia

I was thrilled to read the article on eating disorders by Jessica Setnick in the Summer 2003 issue. This is a serious issue that Jessica addressed head on! I applaud you for featuring this clinical article and helping to get the word out. Working for a hospital that specializes in the treatment of eating disorders, I know that nothing is as important as education and early intervention. Congratulations and keep up the great work!

MARY LOU BONNAMY MASTRO INDIANA EPSILON PRESIDENT/CEO LINDEN OAKS HOSPITAL PALOS PARK, ILLINOIS

Pi Beta Phi was the first women's Fraternity, and has continued to be the first in many of its endeavors. In order to continue our leadership, Pi Beta Phi is embarking on innovative and visionary changes. Changes that will benefit all members and depict our Fraternity as one of the premier women's organizations.

In the 1960s Pi Phi experienced a similar repositioning and looked outside the Fraternity for critical support when it retained Booz, Allen & Hamilton to assist in the organizational structure of the Fraternity. Last summer and fall the Fraternity formed an agreement with Dye, VanMol & Lawrence (DVL), an outside communications firm with national branding experience to help Pi Phi develop a brand.

DVL hosted focus groups with collegians and alumnae and conducted follow-up testing. A recurring message emanating from all Pi Phi audiences is that the Fraternity cannot afford to stand still and run the risk of eroding the assets that members before have established. Pi Phi must stay focused on its collegiate programming, its development of member benefits and its service to the community.

THE BRAND

One of the primary outcomes of Grand Council's strategic plan last Iuly was the creation of three key goals: retention of lifelong committed members; attraction of visionary leadership; and the establishment of significant revenue growth from dues-paying members.

In order to successfully achieve these goals, emphasis had to be refocused on values-based programming and service partnership for members, as well as branding the Fraternity to clearly and consistently convey Pi Phi's messages to its present and prospective members.

From the research and brand attributes, DVL developed Pi Phi's primary positioning statements that defined the brand for each Pi Phi audience. For collegians, Pi Phi is positioned as a young women's community. For senior collegians and recent graduates, Pi Phi is positioned to maintain its friendship and support aspects, but has broadened its mission to help women transition from college life to the real world. For established alumnae, Pi Phi is positioned to be a consistent part of life.

The power of the brand visuals is reflected on all Fraternity communications and materials such as envelopes, letterhead, business cards, a Fraternity purpose brochure and The Arrow. The Web site is also an integral part of the member branding initiative. The newly designed site is live today.

Just as the graphics of the Fraternity are receiving a facelift, so

RESEARCH FINDINGS

After Pi Beta Phi completed the first phase of an internal strategic planning process it sought outside professional counsel in evaluating and strengthening the Pi Phi "brand," both on college campuses and among the Fraternity's alumnae community. The first phase of this process included a research initiative under direction of Grand Council, the Foundation and DVL's research partner, Prince Market Research. This multi-pronged research effort consisted of two telephone surveys — one of collegians, the other of alumnae, and two focus groups with collegians and two with young alumnae. What they found reflected research the National Panhellenic Conference and the North American Interfraternity Conference conducted, as well:

 Collegians cited opportunities for personal development, leadership and a fun social life as important elements of their experience.

• Collegians do not always have a positive view of alumnae clubs, but are interested in what the Fraternity could do for them leading up to and after college and graduation. They are interested in social activities, "hands-on" participation in philanthropic activities and career-oriented events sponsored by Pi Phi.

Alumnae who have lost touch with their sisters or who have not reconnected with the Fraternity (losing touch usually happens within the first five years of graduation) on their own will probably need a personal invitation to get involved in some specific activity.

 All groups were interested in the idea of partnering with one or more other national organizations to make its efforts with literacy more visible and effective.

• The Arrow is widely read and liked by collegians and alumnae, even by those who do not pay their dues.

Donors to the Foundation are the segment most likely to have visited the Pi Phi Web site, although one in five non-dues paying alumnae also reported having visited the site at least once.

too are communication materials of the Foundation.

The brand embodies the promise of Pi Phi, its programs and its services.

LEADING WITH VALUES

Leading with Values member development program for collegiate members is a new programming guide to set collegians on a course of lifelong personal growth. Member development continues to be grounded on our founding values: integrity, honor and respect, lifelong commitment, personal and intellectual growth, philanthropic service to others, and sincere friendship.

This program reflects the Fraternity's commitment to be responsive to the critical requirements of the collegiate members. This means the program needed to be clear and simple with the flexibility to be customized at the local level. It also had to be practical and manageable for our busy collegians, as well as contain a well-defined structure with Web-based technological resources that are updated regularly. The new program focuses on personal and chapter development while offering the promise of lifelong development and commitment. The following growth objectives should be the ideal to which all Pi Phis — collegians and alumnae — should aspire throughout our lifetimes: organizational knowledge; good citizenship; intellectual development; and leadership development.

Pi Phi is committed to delivering developmental opportunities to all members, and this support must be consistent with the ideals defined through lifelong growth objectives, with emphasis on how this helps us fulfill our mission and live our values.

Our Leading with Values member development program sets young Pi Phis on a course of lifelong personal growth, creating the opportunity to be Friends and Leaders for Life.

MISSION

The mission of Pi Beta Phi Fraternity for women is to promote friendship, develop women of intellect and integrity, cultivate leadership potential and enrich lives through community service.

VISION

Pi Beta Phi Fraternity is committed to being recognized as a premier organization for women by providing lifelong enrichment to its members and contributing to the betterment of society.

"The values were the highlight of convention,"—Collegian

From the California oranges at the welcome desk, to the introduction of Pi Phi's new branding, to the indepth look at the Fraternity's values, the 64th Biennial Convention was the Pi Phi place-to-be June 20–24, 2003.

"The highlight of convention is the infusion of ideas, the reunion with loved but seldom seen friends, and the making of new friendships."—Alumna

If you were unable to join the more than 1,000 convention delegates and visitors during this time, here is your time to experience convention — to see the friendships, understand the traditions and keep up-to-date with Fraternity business. Then in 2005 join us in Tampa, Florida to share more ideas and make new friends.

" Everything was great, I loved it all and will hopefully be back in two years," — Collegian

For those of you who did attend convention, let this be a reminder of the new friendships you made, the old friendships you rekindled, and the new ideas to continue to share with alumnae club and chapter members. " I have so many ideas and I'm so excited to motivate my chapter about all I learned! Wahoo!" — Collegian

The preparation, planning and organization required to host four days and nights of meetings, meals and entertainment is a staggering responsibility that extended to many hundreds in Anaheim. Convention Coordinator Carolyn Pavletich Lesh, Convention Site Coordinator Nancy Trogman, the Convention Executive Committee, together with the alumnae clubs of Southern California worked hard to provide a memorable reunion for Pi Phis from all over North America. From the smiling faces in the airport, to the strumming guitars at the opening dinner, to the helpful visitors desk, the committee and volunteers helped make convention one that members will remember for years to come.

" I enjoyed meeting Pi Phis from around the country and finding so many things and acquaintances in common! It's a small world in Pi Phi!" -Alumna

General Chairman Margo Wilton Lesser assembled a great committee that included Assistant General Chairman Sharon Parker Algeo, Arrangements and Communications Chairman Toni Martinovich, Volunteer Chairman Kathie Erickson Bridges, Assistant

Volunteer Chairman Breeze Cooper, Hospitality Chairman Grayne Ferguson Price, and Assistant Hospitality Chairman Bunny Charlson Burns.

"The highlight of convention was reuniting with the feelings I had toward Pi Phi as a collegian and breaking a new ground with the chapter I advise. -Alumnae Advisory Committee Member

So whether you are just now getting a glimpse of convention or are remembering four fun-filled, busy days enjoy recapping Pi Phi's "Values and Vision."

LOV SOCIETY

The Living Our Values (LOV) Society recognizes chapters that made financial contributions to the Fraternity to support special projects, including member development programming and brand identity initiative.

At convention, all chapters that are members of the LOV Society received a certificate and an LOV Society ribbon. Those chapters will also be recognized on the Fraternity's Web site at www.pibetaphi.org. In addition, Charter Member Chapters, those chapters that contributed $5,000 or more, will be recognized on a plaque at Headquarters. All LOV chapters are recognized here in The Arrow, as well.

HONOR INITIATE

Michelle Libbey is a dynamic individual who is kind, honorable, dedicated, confident and fun. "Fannie would never have imaged there would be so many flip flops at convention," Chelley laughs.

About a year ago, Chelley logged onto www.pibetaphi.org thinking she would volunteer at Creighton University's chapter, Nebraska Gamma. After all, her mother said that with her last name (she is related to Fannie through her paternal line), any Pi Phi would know who she is because "all Pi Phis know the Founders." And she was right. Soon after contacting Grand Vice President of Membership Kay Brock, Chelley was having lunch with Parliamentarian Jan Shrader

LEGISLATION INCLUDED:

"We've always had strong women in our family, and I think I have some of her [Fannie] in me," Chelley says. "I took my own path, just as Fannie did so many years ago." And aren't we glad?!

Welcome to you, Chelley Libbey. A true servant leader who is already continuing the Fraternity's tradition of excellence.

GRAND EXITS

These three "grand" women have shared 26 years of service on Grand Council, not to mention their service to the Fraternity prior to their election to Grand Council. At the Wine Carnation Banquet Sunday night, Sis Mullis, Kay Brock and Maurine Jones were honored for their dedication and hours of outstanding service for Pi Beta Phi. We will miss the leadership of these women.

After 12 years of Grand Council service as Grand Vice President of Program Development, Grand Vice President of Collegians and Grand President, Sis Mullis is retiring from Council. Prior to being a council member, Sis was the Director of AACs, a CPP, the AAC chairman for Georgia Alpha and chairman of the Arrowmont Board of Governors. She has attended every convention since her initiation and we hope she continues to come! When she is not "working" with Pi Phi, Sis is a pharmacist at one of the major hospitals in Atlanta.

Maurine Jones has served eight years on Council as Grand Vice President of Program Development and Grand Vice President of Finance. She previously served as Director of Finance and on California Beta's AAC as the financial adviser. With a new granddaughter, Maurine is retiring to spend more time with her husband and family.

With six years of Council experience under her belt as Grand Vice President of Membership, Kay Brock is also retiring to spend more time with her husband, four children and 11 grandchildren. Before her stint on Grand Council Kay served as

INTRODUCING CAR!

Rolled out at the 2003 Convention, the Champions Are Readers (CAR) literacy program was adapted by the Links to Literacy Committee in 2003 using the creative concept originated by the Houston, Texas Alumnae Club. The program is designed to serve as an international literacy program that all Pi Beta Phi alumnae clubs and collegiate chapters can conduct easily. Targeting children in the third grade who are at a critical juncture in developing both good reading skills and a lifelong love of reading, CAR supplements reading activities already being provided in the schools and provides an easy-to-administer program for teachers.

The CAR program enables alumnae clubs and collegiate chapters to offer a turnkey reading enrichment program to their own schools and communities during a designated month of the school year. The program also provides incentives including a recognition ceremony at the completion of the program. The CAR program can be used for one classroom or several, one time during the year or repeated at a later time in the school year. The options are numerous and will compliment current club or chapter literacy projects. It is specifically designed to compliment other local literacy programs that are currently underway by a club or chapter. It is also designed for any size club or a chapter — from the smallest group to the largest.

Champions Are Readers (CAR) offers many benefits and opportunities for clubs, chapters and individuals:

- Opportunity for meaningful community service in the area of literacy
- Opportunity for one-on-one interaction with students
- Opportunity for alumnae clubs and chapters to work together on a literacy program
- Opportunity for recognition and publicity opportunities for Pi Phi, clubs, and chapters
- Opportunities for organization and teamwork within a club or chapter
- And specifically for chapters, the opportunity to showcase a meaningful philanthropy and service opportunity during recruitment

The CAR Program also promotes family literacy within the community. Students are expected to read aloud with a parent or caregiver for 15 minutes daily during the CAR month. Could this become a habit for these students and parents? What better way to foster a lifelong love of reading among children than by reading aloud with a family member. Adult family members will participate in the growth of their children while potentially developing a love of reading. Parents will be invited to attend an awards ceremony and share in their children's pride in reading. The CAR program will touch many beyond the classroom.

The components of the CAR program may be found in the Fall

Mailing and on the Fraternity Web site at www.pibetaphi.org (click on Philanthropy, then Literacy). All marketing tools necessary are easily available. Letters and forms may be downloaded and personalized to your club or chapter needs. A sample budget, timeline, letters to principals and parents, as well as invitations to an award ceremony, and even award certificates are available. The average cost of the basic CAR program for a class of 25 students is approximately $112 or $4.50 a child. A bargain and easily affordable.

The Fraternity has pre-packaged Classroom Packs that contain materials for 25 students. A five student add-on pack is also available. These Classroom Packs for the award ceremony at the conclusion of the CAR program include a book for each child, a bookplate to be placed in each book, a bookmark, AND the official Champions Are Readers — Pi Beta Phi medallion! Complete program materials and Classroom Packs may be ordered from Headquarters by completing an order form found on the Web site and in the Fall Mailing. Ordering may also be done by calling Headquarters at (636) 256-0680.

With your participation, dedication, and commitment, Champions Are Readers (CAR) will become a premier program for your club or chapter and for Pi Beta Phi and will reflect the true attributes and values of our Fraternity.

Start your engines and bring "CAR" to your community through your club and/or chapter!

Foundation

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

She comes from a small rural community. Her parents' combined income is less than the sticker price of some automobiles. She is an excellent student, making the Dean's List every semester. She is actively involved in the community and on campus. She works full time in the summer and part time during the school year. Relying on loans, scholarships and whatever financial aid she can find, she is financing her college education entirely herself. She is a Pi Phi. With expectations high and finances minimal, she faces one test that would challenge even the most judicious collegian.

As federal financial aid decreases and tuition costs continue to escalate, the Pi Beta Phi Foundation is proud to administer a scholarship program that offers undergraduates, graduates and alumnae financial assistance to accomplish their educational goals.

Over the years, hundreds of Pi Phis have received financial rewards for their academic achievements. Ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, these scholarships exhibit an investment in the futures of talented and deserving Pi Phis. The awards are empowering opportunities for success.

"Knowing how much faith and value you place in the quality of my education only pushes me to go farther and try harder."

—Oklahoma Alpha Tara Hagan

The Foundation awarded 65 scholarships and fellowships for the 2003–2004 academic year. COULD we award more — yes! An additional 54 members applied for Foundation assistance whose needs, unfortunately, we could not meet this year. CAN we award more — yes, but only with more and continued support from Pi Phi sisters and friends.

"My heartfelt thanks to the very generous donor and all who have made this award possible. Your gifts are truly making a difference in the lives of Pi Phis like me." —Texas Alpha Michel Miller

Realizing the importance of assisting their own members in need, Oklahoma Alpha and Arizona Alpha endowed undergraduate scholarships this past year. This is the first time in the Foundation's history that such generous chapter gifts have been used for the purpose of creating scholarship endowments. Collegians are not the only ones with an eye out for their members. Pennsylvania Beta's House Corporation endowed the Hanna Mervine Miles Undergraduate Scholarship funded in part by a gift from Mrs. Miles' son. This scholarship was given for the first time this past school year.

"This scholarship will enable me to reach my goals and attend fully to the pursuit of my studies. Your kind assistance will allow me to continue excelling in my academic work and enable me to devote my attention to helping children succeed in school."

—Louisiana Alpha Emily Strassner

Individual, chapter and alumnae club gifts to the Foundation's scholarship program make a significant difference in the lives of our members. Giving to the Foundation's scholarship program demonstrates a caring and respect for those who strive to achieve, yet struggle due to insufficient personal means. As Pi Phis, we must maintain high expectations. We must offer every Pi Phi sister the opportunity to reach her full potential.

"Thank you for this generous scholarship. My first year of law school will be filled with new encounters and the exploration of ideas, but I will always know that Pi Phi is supporting me every step of the way."

—Indiana Beta Emily Smith

Many more Pi Phis seek ways to finance their undergraduate, graduate and continuing education. Please support the Foundation's scholarship program by making a gift or endowing a scholarship. As one develops a connection with recipients, it becomes a personally rewarding experience. Contact the Foundation's Executive Director for more information.

Quotes are excerpts from letters the Foundation received from 2003–2004 undergraduate scholarship, graduate fellowship and Alumnae Continuing Education scholarship recipients.

APPLICATION DEADLINE

The 2004–2005 academic year application deadline is January 31, 2004. A new scholarship application packet is available on the Foundation's Web site, www.pibetaphifoundation.org, or through the Foundation Office.

SURVIVING POST-COLLEGE

One would have to be living on a deserted island not to be familiar with the explosive attraction to reality-based television programs. It is no longer just the survival of the fittest, but the survival of the smartest. Such is life for the recent graduate, armed with a new diploma, a new job and a flood of questions rushing through her mind. She is no longer living in the comfortable cocoon of college life. She is now living in the "real world"!

The big question is, now what? There were no electives to answer the questions of how to find an apartment, how to decipher HMO, PPO, POS and 401K jargon or how to handle oneself at a business lunch.

The answers are in a clever little book titled "Life After School. Explained." This humorous wealth of information was a gift to recent graduates from the Pi Beta Phi Foundation. A second mailing of customized, wine-colored books will occur after the first of the year to December graduates and additional 2003 spring and summer graduates.

"Life After School. Explained." is the creation of two college graduates who founded the company Cap & Compass in 1999. After three years in the working world, they recognized a gap between the subjects learned in the classroom and the challenges faced in life.

"New graduates appreciate that the book is written from the vantage point of a 'big brother' or 'big sister' giving helpful advice," co-author

Jesse Vickey says.

Recent graduates receiving the book also have online access to major city guides across the country designed for new alumnae on the

Feedback already indicates a positive response to this gift. Indiana Beta Laura Purdy wrote, "Thank you so much for the Cap & Compass 'Life After School. Explained.' book. I have read most of it and have really profited from the information."

Parents also appreciate the information "Life After School. Explained." provides. Nebraska Beta Susan McMannama wrote, "My daughter, Carolyn, graduated from Kansas State this May. She received the greatest book from the Pi Phi Foundation — thank you, thank you! What a fabulous gift! Both my husband and I read through it and were impressed."

Popular reality-based television shows may present tough challenges their participants must overcome for survival. Recent Pi Phi graduates, on the other hand, have "Life After School. Explained.," a fun and informative "decoder ring" for the reality of their new lives.

Note: The Foundation's gift mailing was based on 2003 graduates whose senior forms had been submitted by the end of May.

MEETING MORE NEEDS

Fifty-seven years ago at the 1946 Fraternity Convention in Swampscott, Massachusetts, a transfer of $50,000 from the Fraternity's Contingent Fund established the Emma Harper Turner Fund. The principal of this new Fund was to be used for chapter house loans and the interest to be used for assistance to Pi Phis in special need.

Today, almost 60 years later, the Emma Harper Turner Fund, now administered by the Foundation, has evolved. Once a Fund that included assistance only to alumnae in severe financial need, the Fund is now available to all initiated members, including collegians.

A study conducted by the Emma Harper Turner Fund Task Force in October 2001 recommended that a legislative proposal should be presented at the 2003 Convention. This proposal would expand the purpose of the Emma Harper Turner Fund to include emergency educational grants to undergraduate members of the Fraternity. It passed resoundingly.

The eligibility requirement for a collegiate member is that she must be an active undergraduate member of the Fraternity with a recent lifechanging experience that jeopardizes her ability to stay in school (e.g. death, job loss, disaster). Grants cover educational expenses only, no Pi Phi-related expenses. Because these are "gifts of love," Emma Harper Turner Fund grants do not have to be repaid.

For more information about this supportive Fund or to inform the committee of someone who could be eligible, contact Ellie Moore Merrick, EHT Committee Chairman. (See page 35 for contact information.)

BOARD INITIATIVE BUILDS COMMUNITY

The Arrowmont Board of Governors met for their bi-annual meeting at Arrowmont, May 4–6, following on the heels of Pi Phi Arts Weekend. The Board is actively engaged with charting the future course of the school with Director David Willard.

Gatlinburg restaurateur Geoffrey Wolpert, the first non-Pi Phi to be on the board, along with other members, are focusing on building additional community support.

The first step in this effort was the formation of a patron's group composed of local art supporters. They were invited to participate in an "Arts Indulgence Weekend," especially planned for the group, that consisted of an upscale Arrowmont experience complete with hands-on art workshops and information sharing about the school. This project is just one example of building essential philanthropic support for Arrowmont. The board will reconvene again November 6–8, 2003.

MURAL A REMINDER TO "PLANT NEW SEEDS"

A ceramic tile mural created by students and friends of Arrowmont in memory of Marian Heard, first Arrowmont Director, and in memory of Doris Byars, mother of Sevier County art teacher and project initiate Karen Byars, adds color and interest to Arrowmont's newly renovated lounge. The 14 artists who designed the mural were a very diverse group and included children from third grade to college age. The mural retreat began with sketching around campus and finally regrouping to combine all of the images into a coherent composition. The artists transferred the drawing onto the tiles with low-fire glazes before kiln filing.

The theme of the mural titled, "Plant New Seeds," represents the vision of Marian Heard and Pi Beta Phi to evolve the Settlement School into a national school of arts and crafts. Images depict scenes from early Gatlinburg, including the Ogle cabin, which now resides beside Arrowcraft Shop, and present day scenes from Arrowmont's campus including many flowers, trees and a tree swing on campus crafted by studio assistants. "Marian was a planter of seeds for Arrowmont and the community," Karen Byars says. "Doris was a planter of heritage seeds for the Landis Valley Farm Museum in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and a planter of seeds for her family and neighborhood throughout her life." The mural project was funded by donations from Arrowmont staff and friends.

Mural artists pose for a group shot with Karen Byars (upper right) as they gathered with friends and family for the dedication on May 5.

President George W. Bush recently nominated TEXAS ALPHA PAMELA PITZER WILLEFORD as the next ambassador to Switzerland. If approved she would also oversee U.S. relations with tiny Lichtenstein, which borders Switzerland. In 1995, Bush appointed her to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board. She has been chairman of the board since 1998. According to the Austin-American Statesman, Pam likes to hunt, help those in need and work hard. In the story, which appeared in the August 3, 2003 issue, "Everyone else loves her because, they say, she is (fair warning, you are about to read the world's longest list of superlatives applied to one human being): compassionate, fair, humble, ethical, trustworthy, calm, brilliant, energetic, fun, generous, athletic, thoughtful, humorous, detail-oriented, big-picture oriented, beautiful, loyal, wise, creative, charitable, gracious and diplomatic."

She also serves on the hospital's obstetrics and gynecology board and the medical executive committee. Evelyn Peters Kyle Award — to honor a Pi Phi alumna for exceptional service to an alumnae club by performing those duties often unrecognized.

ROBERTA BLISS PITTMAN

"Wisconsin Beta Roberta 'Bobbie' Pittman has been a member of the Ventura Club since 1989, but when our Conejo Valley Club was formed, Bobbie was so anxious for us to succeed that she became a very active member in our club, as well. She has been an invaluable resource and wealth of knowledge for us since 1997, our charter year. She knows all club and chapter procedures and is always willing to lend a helping hand, no matter how large or small the project.

Bobbie has served as treasurer of two clubs and as the Alumnae Club President of the Ventura County, California Alumnae Club. Bobbie produced the club's yearbook in 1982-84 and from 1994-present. She has attended three Regional Leadership Retreats — two of which she made the nametags for and handled the Pi Phi Express sales. Bobbie fills in where anyone needs a helping hand. Bobbie has also not missed an international convention in the last 13 years and always insists on paying her own way.

Though her chapter, Wisconsin Beta, no longer exists, it has not curtailed her enthusiasm for Pi Phi one bit! She even designed a new banner to be carried every year at the Parade of Chapters at convention honoring her own Beloit College. We think Bobbie is truly deserving of the Evelyn Peters Kyle Angel Award for her many years of loyalty and service to Pi Beta Phi."

EMMA HARPER TURNER WINNER MARILYN SMITH ROWELL

Emma Harper Turner Award — to honor a Pi Phi alumna for exceptional leadership of an alumnae club.

"Alabama Alpha Marilyn Rowell is an outstanding leader who is exceptional in everything she attempts and inspires all those around her to do their best. She has excelled in each of her offices and has made the Birmingham, Alabama Alumnae Club stronger in every way.

Communication is Marilyn's forte. E-mails and typed meeting notification cards are sent to those members interested in attending meetings. Telephone calls are also made. These efforts have increased our duespaying membership.

Marilyn took over the reins of a strong daytime alumnae club. She had a long-range vision of making both the Career Club (night) and the Luncheon Club (day) equally strong. That is now a reality. The young women in the night group have gained confidence and knowledge and will make excellent future leaders of alumnae clubs because of Marilyn's leadership. Her devotion to Pi Phi is unequalled and she inspires her sisters (both young and old) with her loyalty, devotion and dedication. To accomplish her goals she has gone to both day and night meetings and has visited interest groups sometimes traveling as much as 30 miles one way. At each meeting, Marilyn makes our group aware of the wide scope and importance of our Fraternity.

I can say without reservation that Marilyn is the best leader I have ever known. This is the unanimous opinion of all Pi Beta Phis in Birmingham."

A FINE FAREWELL

You may have noticed that long-time Arrow editor, Elizabeth Gilkison Cannon's name is missing from this issue's Table of Contents. This summer, Libby left Pi Beta Phi to teach writing classes at a local community college. Libby served the Fraternity as The Arrow's first assistant editor for five and a half years and then as editor for six years. Over the last 11 and a half years, she has worked on more than 40 issues of the magazine. Libby's contagious upbeat personality and daily dedication to the Fraternity will be missed by those who worked with her.
