SUMMER 1965

All Hail the Queen!

By Ginger Lansford, Tennessee Delta

"All Hail the Queen" is an exclamation we have heard many times. Bobbie Lynn Morrow, Tennessee Delta's pride and joy, has heard it many, many times.

This summer, when Bobbie Lynn exchanges one of her many crowns for a mortar board and reaches for a diploma instead of another loving cup, she will be climaxing a campus career that has brought honor to Pi Phi each semester she has attended Memphis State University.

As a freshman, she was selected "Campus Cutie," by the student newspaper and that year was invited to membership in Angel Flight and the dance honorary, Orchesis.

She wore the AFROTC military queen crown as a sophomore. After being selected AFROTC "Little General" by the MSU chapter, she was named "Little Colonel" at the National Angel Flight Convention.

One of the most coveted MSU crowns, that of Homecoming Queen, was worn by Bobbie Lynn in the fall of her junior year. Later that fall she was selected Sigma Phi Epsilon Calendar girl and her picture appeared on the cover of the 1964 Sig Ep calendar.

Other beauty honors that came to her outside of college have included reigning as Miss Savannah (Tenn.), and Miss Hardin County (Tenn.)

One of the most exciting experiences in her queenly career came when she represented Tennessee in the Miss Universe Pageant and placed in the top ten finalists.

Bobbie Lynn was a hostess in one of the New York World's Fair pavilions last summer.

She has crowned her beauty achievements with service to her chapter, having served as its program chairman, recording secretary and scholarship chairman. Under her guidance the chapter attained one of its best scholastic records.

The memory Bobbie Lynn will leave with her Tennessee Delta sisters will be as sparkling as the crowns she has worn during her college career.

Attention Alumnae . . .

NOW IS THE TIME TO SEND YOUR RECOMMENDATIONS

This year deadlines for sending recommendations to chapters have been set up. They are August 15, for fall and December 1, for spring. This procedure is on a trial basis and is an experiment in trying to solve some problems which have existed. So it behooves you to sit down now and write that important letter recommending your candidates for membership in Pi Beta Phi.

In this issue of THE ARROW you will find the names and addresses of Chapter Membership Chairmen and the dates during which their chapter will be conducting rush. (These listings begin on page 29.)

The names of cities and towns included in alumnae club areas are also listed according to provinces. Below these listings you will find the names of the Alumnae Club Recommendation Chairmen responsible for sending reference blanks to the chapters.

If you are not a member of the club which will supply you with the blank for the young woman you wish to recommend to a chapter for consideration you may order Confidential Reference forms from central office or write a letter to the alumnae club chairman involved giving complete information including your name, address and chapter. State your maiden name if you are married.

Send a copy to the chapter, if you wish. If you are writing a letter or recommendation be sure to include all pertinent information.

If you are recommending a young woman living outside an area covered by an alumnae club, write to the Chapter Membership Chairman giving the same information mentioned above.

Some of the most outstanding Pi Beta Phis come from rural areas. Yet, these are the areas from which we have the greatest difficulty obtaining information and recommendations. Consequently, a special plea is being made to those of you living in a rural community to help the chapters by sending recommendations to them.

Daughters of service personnel also present a very real problem because many have recently lived in foreign countries or are new in the community in which they now live. If you know any of these young women, and wish to recommend them, do it now by sending recommendations according to the instructions mentioned above.

It is impossible for alumnae club committees to know every young woman in a large city who is graduating from high school. Don't leave all of the responsibility to the committee. Your favorite candidate may be overlooked because you neglected to turn in her name.

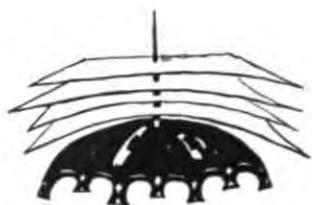

Some of you may be contacted by a chapter, club or State Membership Chairman and you are urged to cooperate with them and give them your prompt assistance. Theirs is sometimes a difficult task and your service to them will be greatly appreciated.

The importance of personal acquaintance and detailed information cannot be over-emphasized. By recommending someone for membership you assume the responsibility for them. But someone did this for you because they were desirous of sharing the privilege of wearing the arrow with you. Won't you do the same for some very deserving young woman today. Do it now. It is never too early to send a Pi Beta Phi recommendation to your Club Recommendation Committee Chairman or Chapter Membership Chairman.

Order official Confidential Reference Blanks from Central Office or from Club Recommendation Committee Chairmen.

off the Arrow hook

SUMMER HANGS HEAVY ON THE ARROW HOOK and no doubt this issue of THE ARROW hangs a bit heavy on the postman's back as he makes his warm rounds. Thanks to an unusual interest on the part of active and alumnae contributors our magazine is a thick, busy newsy issue this time around.

Such an issue means more work for the editor but it is welcome work for it means that we have a more interesting and readable magazine.

Inevitably, though, this type of issue brings to mind the need for a few reminders to contributors on the preparation of copy and the type of pictures we can use. For attention to these details can mean a great deal to the editor in time saved when she sits down to her typewriter and layout table.

Pictures add a great deal to the magazine but they can be real headaches too. Color pictures we cannot use—nor are photographers proofs useable. Engravers need a sharp contrast for good reproduction—and for this reason we just couldn't use some small, dim fuzzy photos that came in with stories for this issue.

Other tips to remember that will help Central Office, your editor and you—all In Memoriam notices, address changes, officer changes or name changes should be mailed to Central Office—all pictures, feature stories or news items should be mailed to your editor in Marked Tree.

And our next deadline is July 15, for the fall issue of THE ARROW.

MANY THANKS TO ALL PI PHIS WHO WROTE in regard to our first "Operations Brass Tacks" article, "Yes, you can still say No," which appeared in the spring magazine. It's our hope you will find this issue's second article in that project's series equally as meaningful. Our NPC Editor's Conference committee on this project felt particularly fortunate to have this article prepared for it by Dr. Freda S. Kehm. Consider her qualifications and background outlined below and we think you will understand why we felt this way.

Dr. Kehm is considered Chicago's foremost authority on family relations. Since 1948, she has been director of the Association for Family Living, a non-profit social service agency which provides an ever-expanding program in parent education to raise better children in happier homes. The association also offers counseling for those with social and psychological problems.

Through her WBBM radio show, "Call Dr. Kehm," she is available daily on four phone lines to listeners needing immediate help. She also lectures on marriage at Northwestern University and she is, very much in demand as a speaker throughout the Chicago area. Her articles, pamphlets, and research studies have appeared in numerous newspapers, professional and popular books, encyclopedias, and films.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Dr. Kehm holds a master's degree from the University of South Dakota and a doctor's degree from Northwestern University. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta.

"ATTENTION ALUMNAE . . ." is the call that appears on the page facing this column. It means just what it says and one can read a double meaning into that call.

For your Director of Membership and your chapter membership chairmen across the length and breadth of Pi Phi do need your attention given to the message contained on that page. Even more do they need your careful and interested attention to this matter of recommendations on prospective members as we head toward another school year.

You will note that no recommendation blank is printed in this issue of THE ARROW. The half-page blank we have printed for many years was insufficient at best. It is a very simple matter to obtain official blanks from Central Office if you live in an area where there is no alumnae club. If you do live in an area or town with a club, that club's recommendations chairman will be happy to furnish a blank for your personal use.

You will find the listings of chapter membership chairmen, their addresses, their school rush dates and also lists of club recommendations chairmen on page 29.

Pi Phi's future rests on your attention alumnae, and your active interest in this matter.

Thirty-Three Years Behind Bars

A Self Imposed Sentence

by Donna Phillips Wright, Tennessee Alpha

In the green rolling hills of central Virginia, overlooking the James River, is a prison farm for women. For thirty-three years a loyal Pi Phi has striven to replace the jail-like atmosphere with beauty and hope for the women committed there. Miss Elizabeth Kates came to the State Industrial Farm for Women as Superintendent at its establishment in 1931. A Pennsylvania Beta Pi Phi from Willow Grove, Pennsylvania, Miss Kates had served as a dietician at the State Home for Girls in Trenton, N.J. and as a deputy and stewardess at the first Federal Reformatory for Women in Alderson, West Virginia.

When Betty Kates arrived in Goochland at the proposed site of the State Farm, there was one stucco building for prisoners and one small frame cottage for the staff. There was no rehabilitation program for the inmates, as the sole purpose at that time was a punitive one. Today, as a result of her vision and service, there are fifty-four buildings and a practical rehabilitation program which stands as a monument to her and to the Virginia State Legislature. An inmate once said, "Nobody could look out of her window at the many beautiful buildings and lovely landscaping and not come out a better person."

Under Miss Kates' direction, the State Industrial Farm for Women became self sufficient through its program of rehabilitation.

The work on the two hundred and seventy-acre farm has provided practically all the food needed for the institution, with surplus sold to other penal institutions. In addition, a scientifically concentrated vegetable garden, the care and shearing of sheep, a sanitary piggery, modern poultry houses, beef cattle and a rabbit warren were introduced. Methods in preserving, canning, freezing and the preparation and serving of foods institute the training of cooks and waitresses in the modern kitchens, bakery and dining rooms, enabling many women to become self-supporting when they leave the farm.

A modern laundry does all the laundry of the institution, as well as that of the Medical College of Virginia, Beaumont School for Boys and several smaller institutions. Rehabilitated prisoners are being sought for employment in laundries from all over the south because of their training at the farm.

Educational opportunities through high school are provided, and correspondence courses in specialized fields to suit specific needs broadens the curriculum.

In the sewing room, girls are trained to make the garments worn by the inmates. There is a craft shop where weaving of draperies, rugs and bed spreads is taught under the direction of Mrs. Edna McCarter McFall, who received her training among the first craft students at Settlement School.

The State of Virginia spent annually about one thousand dollars for flowers for state functions, until Miss Kates talked the governor into giving the farm a thousand dollars one year to build and stock a green house. Since that time the Farm has provided all the flowers for the Governor's Mansion and other state buildings, saving the state a great deal of money. Each year, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts is transformed into the magic of Christmas by hundreds of poinsettias grown by the Farm.

In 1942, under the auspices of the May L. Keller Alumnae Club of Pi Beta Phi, the ELIZABETH KATES FONDATION was chartered. Although the state provides for the needs of a felon when released, no such provision is made for a misdemeanant, who constitutes the majority of prisoners. These needs were first met by the Alumnae Club, but later the Foundation was broadened to include persons and groups from all over the State of Virginia. The Foundation is able to help a prisoner become a better citizen upon her release into society by providing seasonal garments from the "Clothes Rack," a travel ticket from the state line to her destination, the cost of the first weeks living expenses, or a loom to enable her to support herself. In addition, the Foundation pays for correspondence courses and special equipment such as tape recorders, choir robes and artist supplies. It supports budget requests for better health care, the religious life and other benefactions, and is a working tribute to the woman who inspired it's organization.

Elizabeth Kates

"To us, Miss Kates is a 'Lighted Candle' that shines brightest when things are darkest."

Betty Kates has served as President of the May L. Keller Alumnae Club. She has been a member of the board and President of the Richmond Altrusa Club, to which she was elected an honorary member in 1959. She is a member of the PEO Sisterhood and the Business and Professional Women's Club. A highlight of her life came in June, 1951 when her own Bucknell University conferred on her an L.L.D.

An inmate at the State Industrial Farm for Women can count on teaching, training, supervision, recreation, close medical attention, exercise, and a chance of recognition of her talents. She has her own small room in which to reflect, to pursue further work in her chosen field or hobby and to work out her own problems.

Pampering? No. Firmness was Betty Kates watchword. And to prove her vision was sound, there is an extremely low record of parole violations—less than six per cent, for which she has received national and international prestige. Miss Kates' administration was marked by firm discipline, educational opportunities according to ability and length of sentence, and a training program for adjustment to the environment to which the inmate would be released.

"Environment is so important", Miss Kates has said. "To withstand the social pressures of today, every child must have education and good home surroundings."

Asked how to rear a child to avoid crime, Miss Kates has stated, "love the child, be companionable, give him a balanced diet and dress him suitably. Love of family, love of man and religious teachings are the overall necessities for rich or poor, but children of more fortunate families should especially be taught to do an honest day's work and to honor the law."

The women of the Farm do not change overnight. Between the pronouncement of the prison sentence and the finding of new ways of life, there are tears, rebellion, discipline, solemn resolutions, struggle for self control, screams in the night and prayer. Miss Kates knew that some inmates might never straighten out their lives, but she was also confident that with proper guidance and encouragement, the majority could become decent and responsible citizens.

Letters come daily from thankful "graduates." One writes of the joy of teaching a Sunday School class. Another led the community in reopening a closed church "and now it's growing."

"... When I get letters from the girls who have left here and made worthwhile citizens of themselves, I realize more than ever how important it is to help people. In this type of service for my fellow man, I am grateful for a part."

On the eve of her retirement in December, 1964, a resident of the Farm described the feeling of all for their friend. "We light candles at Christmas time. To us, Miss Kates is a 'Lighted Candle' that shines brightest when things are darkest. She always has kind words, a smiling face and a wonderful sense of humor. She is known throughout the United States for her great work in our Institution. She is one who does not seek publicity but helps her girls quietly and efficiently. It is her belief that every girl who enters the gates of Goochland can benefit by her stay here and leave a much better person. Miss Kates has lighted candles for thousands of women in prison; if one can call this Institution a prison."

Frank W. Smyth, Jr., director of the Division of Correction in the State of Virginia said of her: "We are deeply indebted to her for the fine program outstanding in its field and the atmosphere she has created at the Women's Farm."

The May L. Keller Alumnae Club takes pride in the fact that it has been so closely associated with this outstanding woman for many years and has had some part in the work that merits national recognition at the Farm. All Pi Phis can stand in tribute to a sister of courage, who has spent thirty-three years behind bars, a sentence self-imposed.

"Happy Marriages
Don't Just Happen"

Making Marriage Work

by Dr. Freda S. Kehm

With freedom of choice in marriage partners, a new goal in marriage relationships has come into being—individual happiness. It's a very difficult thing to describe; it means different things to each of us.

The emphasis now is on psychological and personality factors, on companionship and equality between husband and wife. Women have greater freedom in our democratic American family than one finds anywhere else in the world. Marriage partners choose one another and are intensely dependent upon each other, since satisfying relationships and understanding between the partners is the expected result if the marriage is to be happy. But freedom of choice calls for responsibility to choose wisely and to try to make your marriage a success. Thus, it takes more love and understanding to make a success of marriage today because we expect more of marriage.

The degree of happiness in marriage depends upon the ratio between what one expects and what one experiences. Happy marriages don't "just happen"; you have to work for the success of your marriage.

What are some guide lines one can follow to try to achieve happiness in marriage?

1. Be sensitive to your husband's or wife's feelings and moods. Consider his or her needs before your own.

Hopefully each of the marital partners is able to function capably most of the time, but each should be able to be dependent upon the other for emotional support in times of stress. The husband gives his wife the security she needs when she is pregnant, for example, by his consideration and understanding of her concerns and worries. The husband, too, should be able to relax and be helpless when the situation warrants it (if he loses his job or meets some other unexpected crises) without feeling any loss of self-esteem.

2. Don't criticize or nag unduly lest self-respect be diminished and your happiness together be in jeopardy.

Instead of criticism, express your ideas as suggestions. Each of us resents criticism because in our childhood it was associated with hostility. Nagging, too, merely causes a reaction of irritation and never achieves the desired goal.

3. Don't be afraid your husband no longer loves you when he flares up occasionally and releases tension in sharp words when the cause lies elsewhere.

Bob usually liked to relax a bit when he came home before having dinner and said, "What's the rush?" if dinner was waiting. But recently Janet had been at a meeting and was rushing to get things started for dinner, feeling a little guilty because she hadn't realized it was so late. When Bob came in, she called, "Dinner will be a little late tonight, dear." "I should think you could have dinner ready when I get home," he responded.

Janet was sure Bob couldn't really love her if he could look so angry and snap at her like that. But in reality, it had been a bad day. A sale he had thought secure hadn't materialized, and the sales manager had seemed to think it was his fault. He couldn't release his tension in his presence, and his thoughts were filled with tension over the lack of understanding of his efforts.

4. Try to nurture a sense of humor. Good humor shows in the faces of those who have this great asset.

They show understanding and they make us feel happy. Remember the bright or funny things that occur during your day away from each other and enjoy them together.

5. Look for reasons behind your behavior and try to understand the motivations of your husband.

In this way, understanding may add to the essential satisfactions that each of you find in your union.

Remember that each of you brought to your marriage from your early childhood different backgrounds, different personalities, beliefs, familiar ways of doing things that have become a part of you. As Dr. Lawrence K. Frank says, "We are what we are because we've been what we've been."

You could not, therefore, expect to agree about everything. Adjustments will be necessary, not 50/50 by each of you, but a willingness to go more than half way. Flexibility and the ability to adjust are among the most important factors in achieving a good marriage.

6. Talk to your husband about the many things that happen or in which you are interested, big or small, deep or light, and listen with attentive and sympathetic interest, thus keeping alive the essential habit of communication between you.

Happiness in marriage is enhanced by sharing ideas and ideals.

7. Don't try to impose your will on your mate nor deny interests other than your own.

Your mate is not your property but is a person quite apart from you. As you learn to give and give in at times and to discuss decisions before they are made, you enhance the health of your marriage.

8. Keep the dignity of your marriage inviolate.

Never demean its sacredness in public or private. Not only does it hurt the feelings of the marriage partner, but it is embarrassing to the friends who are exposed to your personal disputes.

9. Pray together in your place of worship, for love is blessed in the aura of Godliness.

10. Uphold truth in your marriage. Never practice deceit, whatever its motives.

Respect for each other is as vital as love to assure life-long happiness together.

But sometimes even marriages that start out well develop problems. When couples marry, they are in love, they believe their marriage will bring them only happiness; they meet each other's emotional needs. They feel happy and comfortable together. There is a BALANCE in their interpersonal relationships.

When they start having marital problems something has happened to that balance; to their relationship. This might have been affected by internal or external pressures. Usually, each individual prefers to think he isn't responsible, and it must have been something outside of himself that caused the rift. Counseling helps individuals become aware of their own personal involvements. Sometimes couples then can work out their problems and re-establish the balance in their marital relationships.

Here are some danger signals.

First, lack of communication. Married couples must be able to talk things over even when they don't agree. Each of us needs someone to whom she can express hostility, be furious and say so without having the feeling that she does not love her husband and is not loved in return. No two persons' emotional needs are so completely matched that there is no frustration, and whenever there is frustration, there is hostility. Indifference is possible when you're not in love—but not when love exists.

Others talk at each other, not to each other. Those of you who have heard Leonard Bernstein's opera, "Trouble in Tahiti," remember what he calls the "screaming silence." In the opera, there is a Greek chorus which explains what each of the marriage partners means to say. Unfortunately, in life, there is no such chorus, and misunderstandings, not discussed and settled, can mushroom into serious problems.

Lack of communication between the husband and wife sometimes brings about over-involvement by one or the other with their children; or one or the other or both become too involved with social life, filling time with meaningless activities. Some couples seem unable to enjoy being together, such as Mr. and Mrs. Jerold.

Mrs. Jerold, the mother of two young children felt very depressed. Her husband came home tired, was disinterested in going out and generally was glued to the TV set. He was the silent, self-sufficient type. "It wasn't at all like it had been when we were in college; he just seemed to live for the time we could be together then," said the wife, who came for counseling help. The husband came, also, because he wanted to save their marriage.

This wife was helped to accept herself as a more mature figure. The man was helped to recognize that a woman who has to give so much to young children and has no adult company during the day needs more emotional satisfaction, more emotional support than he was giving. He faced up to the problems involved in fatherhood.

Another signal is found where a wife has vague feelings that she is not needed—the woman who feels that all of her husband's time and interest is centered in his business, so that he has no need of her. When they were first married they discussed all his business affairs, but now he seems to act as if she were not able to understand them.

The third signal is that of a power struggle. The person wants to be in control so that he can have his or her dependent needs met, but he or she still wants to be boss. There is increased disagreement as to details of homemaking, of management of money, of the children, or of management of their leisure time. For example, there are the Ardens.

Mrs. Arden, who had been married for 2½ years, came for counseling to evaluate her marriage. She described her husband as selfish, overly critical of her, and his approach to almost everything, in particular to her ideas or wishes, as negativistic. She commented that in recent months they argued about everything, so much so that at times even they could see the humor of the situation.

She had worked since her marriage, and her husband was now established in his work to the point they could plan to have a family. However, she felt very insecure about having a child when their relationship was so unstable. Mr. and Mrs. Arden had similar economic, religious and cultural backgrounds. She and her husband had gotten along very well until his family began to take over plans for the marriage, when for the first time, she realized that her husband was influenced by his family. Since their marriage, she felt that his family were in and out of the house as if it were "Grand Central station."

Mrs. Arden had a very close relationship with her own parents and had actually been quite indulged as a young child, when she often cried or had temper tantrums if she could not obtain the things she wanted. Her husband was concerned about their relationship, too. He considered his wife immature and felt not only that she was critical of his family but that she could not recognize the extent to which she was involved with her parents.

Actually, Mr. and Mrs. Arden's complaints about each other were quite similar. These young people were so involved with their respective families that they could not use their energy to work out their own relationships. They were behaving like rivalrous siblings. Each wanted to be the favorite child. Mrs. Arden did not allow herself to feel or act like an adult, instead she continued to act like a bad child. Mr. Arden, in turn, was provocative or rejecting, and this interaction persisted until they were helped to become aware of the pattern. When they were able to look at what they were doing rather than focus on what the other person had done, they had taken the first step toward a more mature and satisfying relationship.

The fourth signal shows where there is increased resentment on the part of the wife regarding her husband's work or on the part of the husband regarding management of the home.

The last signal of danger ahead that I shall mention is that of feeling let down with experiences when reality doesn't meet one's expectations and the person is bored most of the time.

The psychologically healthy individual is not bored but is able to be alone. The feeling of being shut out or feeling he or she will not be understood is illustrated by the case of the Perkens.

Mrs. Perken came to the agency during a period of distress involving personal discouragement and the possibility of divorce after 20 years of fairly successful married life. Both she and her husband were forcing one another to the brink of divorce, although neither really wanted such a solution. Their teen-age son and daughter were discouraged and somewhat confused.

During the course of her interviews, the source of Mrs. Perken's discouragement became clearer. She felt inadequate and used and abused by her family. She had felt this way during her early adolescence, when her mother died suddenly and she was left to assume much of the family responsibility. During this important period of her life, she saw her father as a cold, strict, but reliable man. She was angry with him because she was not able to experience the indulgence her young siblings received.

Although it came slowly, Mrs. Perken was able to recognize that her father was quite dependent upon her and that she did have a close, satisfactory relationship to him, as demonstrated in later life when he relied upon her rather than her siblings. Her interviews provided a source of dependency and acceptance. As she gained confidence, she was able to express some of her wishes and feelings directly. Much to her surprise, her husband responded with greater interest and consideration.

The most important factor in achieving a happy marriage would seem to be the degree of emotional maturity of the marital partners. Dr. William Menninger has said that the most important factor in personal happiness and effectiveness is the ability to get along well with other people. It depends upon whether you can love more than you hate.

What is your capacity to love? The love I mean is that which the Greeks called agape. That love means considering the wishes, the desires, the goals of your husband (or wife) before your own, rejoicing in his or her accomplishments, sharing his trials as well as his triumphs.

Today more than ever before American youths need the examples of successful marriages which educated men and women can give them. We who believe in family life as the basic relationship in our culture must by our example illustrate its value.

We echo the words of the poet, William Cowper:

"What is there in the vale of life
Half so delightful as a wife,
When friendship, love, and peace combine
To stamp the marriage-bond divine?"

'World of Understanding'

In Africa

From the Pittsburgh Press

The stormy continent of Africa seems foreboding to most Americans, but the family of Dr. Carroll Reynolds of Mt. Lebanon, Pa., tends to think of it in terms of contrasts and great promise.

Mrs. Reynolds, a member of the Pittsburgh-South Hills Alumnae Club, talked about her six months in Nigeria with her husband and two daughters, Marilyn and Beverly.

The Reynolds lived on the University of Ibadan campus where Dr. Reynolds was sent by the Rockefeller Foundation as consultant to the medical librarian at the University of Ibadan.

Nigeria, Mrs. Reynolds reminded, gained its independence only four years ago. Although it is gaining prosperity, there is still much of the despair associated with an underdeveloped country.

As a teacher of home economics, Mrs. Reynolds was concerned with the welfare of children. The No. 1 killer among children in Nigeria is kwashiorkor, caused by a mineral and protein deficiency.

"You see peanuts galore in the country," injected her daughter Marilyn, a senior at the University of Pittsburgh, "but they won't touch peanut butter sandwiches which most children love."

"But the Nigerians realize the importance of education," Mrs. Reynolds stressed. "They want to give more nutrition and consumer training. And they have new programs to reduce the shortage of teachers and medical personnel."

Another aim of the schools, Mrs. Reynolds related, is to save the African crafts that are fast becoming extinct with industrialization. Some of the manual skills still flourish.

"Every 16 days the 'native cloth market' opens at 6 a.m.," she said. "Here one may buy hand-woven cloth, ornate embroidery, pottery and jewelry."

The Nigerian women buy this cloth which has been designed free hand and dyed in backyard caldrons, to use as wrapped skirts or to tie babies onto their backs.

Despite the political problems unfolding within Nigeria, the Reynolds found the people pro-American.

"An American friend of mine said she felt like Queen Elizabeth as she strolled the streets, for children everywhere gaily greeted her," she noted.

But the ubiquitous threat of tribal allegiance in Africa was brought home to Mrs. Reynolds when she visited a northern university.

"At the time of our presidential elections, a Nigerian student asked why I wanted to vote for Johnson or Goldwater if he weren't from my home state of Pennsylvania," she said.

"He said he would never vote for a man unless he were from his own tribal region."

Although there are three tribal languages in Nigeria, plus 247 dialects, the Reynolds found enough people were educated in government and missionary schools that they could travel without a translator.

They met people from many continents working together to give a portion of their knowledge to this new nation.

"It created a world of understanding for us," related Mrs. Reynolds. "If more people had had such an opportunity, there might be less prejudice and more friendship among peoples."

Bell Ledford Mottern Is New Designer at Arrowcraft

Bell Ledford Mottern (Mrs. James T.) from Oak Ridge, Tennessee, is the new weaving designer and supervisor at Arrowcraft Shop in Gatlinburg.

The position was developed in 1925 with Winogene Redding, who served in this capacity over twenty-two years.

Recognition has been given Mrs. Mottern with two one-man shows in Oak Ridge, also in regional shows. Her earlier experience included teaching at Georgetown College and Berea. In recent years she has free-lanced and has taken an active part in the Southern Highland Handicraft Guild. At present Bess is serving as president of the Tennessee Regional Group of the Guild.

Mr. Mottern is chemist-supervisor of special analyses in Technical Division of Union Carbide Company. Son, Jim, Jr., is a junior at the University of Tennessee, majoring in Psychology.

Gregg Powers—

Virginia Alpha Scholarship Winner

I do not believe that I could ever forget the wonderful experience that I had at Pi Beta Phi—University of Tennessee Craft Workshop in Gatlinburg in the summer of 1964. Pi Beta Phi made this all possible. Being a freshman and a new initiate into the Pi Phi Chapter at the University of South Carolina, I was especially thrilled to receive the news that I had been chosen the Virginia Alpha Scholarship winner.

Being able to see first hand the work that Pi Phi has done and is still doing in Gatlinburg and being able to meet many of the wonderful women who run the Settlement School, strengthened my love and admiration for Pi Phi. Then too I was able to meet many Pi Phis my own age and see the different types of girls that make up our national fraternity.

The instruction in crafts at Workshop was excellent. Nearly anyone could find at least one course that would be of interest. My trouble was that too many of them interested me. I had to narrow it down to two, so I enrolled in poetry and textile design. The credit I received for these two courses was transferable to my own school record. Of course I was glad to receive the extra credit toward my art major, but even better, I learned too much and had such a good time that I will never forget the month.

For Pi Phis Who Teach

"Pi Phis who teach in an art or related field can have especially good reasons for attending the Craft Workshop Summer Sessions in Gatlinburg," so writes Helen Moffett Russell, Illinois H, former Settlement school Chairman and home economics teacher in Clayton, Missouri, who attended for graduate credit the Pi Beta Phi—University of Tennessee Craft Workshop in 1959 and again in 1964. "Of course, there are people in many other social-educational-service fields for whom art and craft competency plus college credits are essential. They, too, find the Craft Workshop worthwhile, along with individual men and women who want the quality of college-sponsored courses without the responsibility for earning credits. The wonderful feature of the summer Workshop sessions is versatility—according to individual needs.

"Every Pi Phi probably has a basic desire to visit the fraternity's national philanthropic project in person someday. If an active or alumna can make that visit from the inside by working and living on Pi Phi grounds for several weeks as a summer student, the visit is far more meaningful than a few hours spent in looking around the Settlement School.

"Most teachers today must consider periodic summer school attendance to maintain or advance their positions, so if you are a Pi Phi teacher with an urge to see for yourself, those available college credits may indeed have appeal. Add the challenge of creative productive work under outstanding instructors, the vacation aspect of the beautiful Great Smoky Mountains environment, and the company of other interested Pi Phis while there, then the total inducement becomes quite attractive. I know, for the reality of two different experiences quite literally exceeded the anticipation. If you teach, do consider this experience in 1966."

Summer Craft Workshop Mentioned in February "Holiday" Magazine

Marion Mueller, Director of the Settlement School, received many inquiries about the Pi Beta Phi—University of Tennessee Summer Craft Workshop as a result of the article in Holiday Magazine telling about the various educational vacation centers. Quoting from this article, "Their appeal is not economic; it is primarily intellectual. They offer the vacationer the cultivation of learning, creativity and culture in their diverse forms, in contrast with the pursuit of play and pleasure for their own sake."

Reservations at the Red Barn

Many church youth groups have taken advantage of the accommodations of the Red Barn to hold retreats over weekends, in addition to many groups of Pi Phis. Alabama Alpha Pi Phis were scheduled for March 27th and the South Carolina Alphas came on April 30th. The Carson-Newman Literary Group spent the Easter weekend at the Red Barn.

Gifts

The Settlement School is very grateful to the Pi Phi Alumnae Clubs and Chapters, as well as to the many interested friends throughout the country who have been so generous with gifts, especially at the Holiday Season. The demands on the Settlement School are continuous. Clothing is always put to good use, gifts of all sorts are most welcome, including trading stamps and even its equivalent—money.

Short Workshop Session

The short session of the 1965 Pi Beta Phi—University of Tennessee Craft Workshop at Gatlinburg, Tennessee, will begin on July 19 and run through July 23. Cost for this session (room, board and tuition) is from $51.00 to $55.00. For further information on this short session write:

GERTRUDE C. FORD, A Rose by Any Name, A. S. Barnes and Co., Inc., 302 pp.

The lure of mystery, the challenge of a crusade, the appeal of logic—all these are operative as one reads "A Rose By Any Name" which should earn supporters for the author's theory that the incomparable literature attributed to the man called Shakespeare was actually the product of Edward de Vere, Earl of Oxford.

It has long been recognized among such men of letters as Mark Twain, Coleridge, and Emerson that the preponderance of evidence indicates the name Shakespeare is a nom de plume. Not one of the six known signatures of the barely educated man who lived in Stratford is spelled the same, and it is a matter of record that his father's name was Shaxbere.

The plays and sonnets themselves proclaim their author an astute student of human behavior, an artist in the arrangement of words, and a storyteller both imaginative and creative. Furthermore, and of prime significance to Mrs. Ford's premise, they reveal an intimate factual knowledge of Elizabethan court and a familiarity with the world and its affairs available only to a chosen few in the sixteenth century.

But why cast the Earl of Oxford as the True

Shakespeare? Why not Bacon, or Marlow, or Kyd or Essex to name a few who have strong champions? These were men of intellect, taste, and knowledge who wrote well and might have been the Bard of Avon. Long before she herself thought of dealing with the problem Gertrude Ford read the conflicting arguments and remained unconvinced by any. There never seemed to be an adequate reason why this possible Shakespeare or that one would chose anonymity, and Mrs. Ford could not justify substituting one hoax for another.

When she became familiar with the Oxfordian case, however, she responded to its apparent validity and found herself intrigued and challenged to the point of conducting a personal search for evidence to support the theory: that a romance between Oxford and Queen Elizabeth produced a son, brought up as Henry Wriothesley (pronounced Rosely), third Earl of Southampton; that the romance inspired many of the sonnets and plays, and that Elizabeth's status as the Virgin Queen and the power the monarchy derived from that status would be threatened and their relationship given credence were Oxford recognized as the author.

Here was a case whose reasoning Mrs. Ford could accept; at the same time, however, she felt instinctively that Oxford would have resented both the Queen's unwillingness to acknowledge their son and the latter's claim to the throne and as a corollary the withholding of recognition for his own literary genius. Oxford, she theorized, would have written out his anguish for himself and his son as well as his frustrated love for Elizabeth and he would have deliberately left clues to his authorship.

On this assumption Mrs. Ford commenced the search for those clues and was amply rewarded, so amply, in fact, that coincidence almost has to be ruled out, except the coincidence that provided a real person with a similar name to serve as a front for the muzzled genius.

Happily for the reader Mrs. Ford's contribution toward solving the Shakespeare enigma did not end with a careful re-reading of all the plays and sonnets in her methodical search for clues to the truth, nor is their presentation a pedestrian one.

Her case for Oxford is told in highly readable verse and her precise annotations showing the source of each clue and fact are printed in parallel columns, a thoughtful arrangement which frees the reader from repeated shifts to bottoms of pages or to the back of the book for corroboration.

Mrs. Ford feels strongly the desire to right the injustice she believes the true Shakespeare has suffered for four centuries, and she has made a vigorous case for Oxford, one which earned the enthusiastic support of Francis T. Carmody, until his death in February, America's leading Oxfordian, who wrote the book's introduction.

There will be persons who will question, "What matter all this? It's the work that counts." Perhaps, however, it was never more important than now in a world of automation and atomic threat that men have and retain stature commensurate to their own creations. Whether or not Gertrude Ford's case for Oxford is ever absolutely validated, her book is a valid statement in behalf of great and lasting literatures being the product of human emotion, involvement in life, and judgement as well as of human intellect and invention.

AUTHOR INTEREST: Georgia-born Gertrude Castellow (Mrs. Aaron) Ford, D.C. Alpha, is the wife of former U.S. Representative Aaron Ford, a Jackson, Miss., attorney, and the daughter of a former representative as well. Although until comparatively recent years her main interest was in the literature of antiquity, she first questioned the man from Stratford's literary role when, as a seventh grader, she first read his scanty and commonplace personal history. Chance reading of some other theories on the subject started her own delving, first for her own amusement and ultimately with a firm dedication to right an injustice. She has maintained her participation in Pi Phi which included helping found Mississippi Alpha.

RANDOM NOTES: MARTHA EADS WARD, Illinois Beta-Delta, children's librarian for the Quincy, Ill., Free Public Library, has collaborated with her assistant, Dorothy A. Marquardt, to produce a reference work, Authors of Books for Young People, which contains 1030 biographies. Included are all Newbery and Caldecott Medal winners but otherwise preference was given to contemporary authors whose biographies proved difficult to locate. Mrs. Ward began her academic preparation at Knox College, was graduated from the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, and received her library training at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N.Y. She is currently chairman, Children's Librarians' Section, Illinois Library Association, and recently authored an article, "Seven Years in the Space Age," for the journal Illinois Libraries.

Women's Judicial Board-Student Sounding Board at Duke

by Jo Benson, North Carolina Beta

At Duke University the Women's Judicial Board has been the leading sounding board concerning the new challenges to the "southern" code of campus living. Pi Phi's Linda Orr (Judicial Board Chairman), Jeremy Hewes, Monica Stevenson, Karen West, and Brenda Koll have contributed their efforts toward creating a campus atmosphere where the rules and regulations are coincident with the needs of the students and the standards of the University.

From Freshman Week until Graduation, the women students are encouraged to voice their opinions and demands through their dormitory judicial representatives. The Judicial Board serves the dual role of arbiter of rule infractions, and innovator of campus-student policy. At a typical weekly meeting, the Board will act as an investigating committee which will consider all facets of a rule in question. After several weeks of discussion, the Judicial Board will make a recommendation to the Women's College Deans. In making their decision, the Deans have a detailed analysis of student body sentiment and a thorough listing of possible results of the proposed rule change.

A pertinent example is the proposed revision of the Woman's College drinking rule. This has come about as a result of the decision last spring semester by the administration of Trinity College (the men's sector of the University on West Campus), which approved permitting alcoholic beverages in the fraternity dorm chapter rooms and independent dorm social rooms on the men's campus. Subsequently, there was a demand for the reconsideration of the Woman's College rule which prohibits the possession, or transportation of any alcoholic beverages on East Campus. The Judicial Board in its study was not necessarily appealing for a relaxation of respected rules, but rather an administrative recognition of student trends, and the strain on rules that are not sufficiently reviewed as the new situations arise. For a majority of the fall semester, the Woman's College Judicial Board considered the problem, and then presented its findings to its Dean. The proposed change of rules did not pass because of the living situation and the administration's concept of the role of the Woman's College at a southern university. Woman's College students would be allowed to drink alcoholic beverages in the approved areas on West Campus, but the reviewing committee chose to retain the standards of the Woman's College rule.

The Judicial Board had competently served its purpose as a means to make the University authorities more aware of the transition situation of women students at southern universities.

Arizona Beta Is On Its Way

Arizona Beta of Pi Beta Phi is on its way. It took its first step in February of this year with a rush period led by Dorothy Weaver Morgan, NPC Delegate, and Edythe Brack, Grand Vice president. Twenty-nine fine young women pledged on February 14.

Arizona Alpha assisted during rush with a delightful rush skit. Three active Phis, Judy Cutler, Graduate Counselor from Colorado Gamma, Pam Roush, New Mexico Alpha and Polly Horlacher, Iowa Gamma, did yeoman service in making sure the first rush was a fine one.

Other highlights following pledging were an exchange with Phi Kappa Psi, when a silver tray was given the new Pi Phi colony; a surprise brunch given by the Camelback Alumnæ Club and a tea given by Delta Gamma to welcome two new Arizona State colonies, Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta.

March 25 was another happy day. On that date, Peggy Goldwater, became the thirtieth member of the pledge class, and an honor initiate of Pi Beta Phi.

Early in May the new Pi Phi chapter was installed in ceremonies led by Grand President Alice Weber Mansfield.

Members of the newest Pi Phi chapter have already brought honor to their chapter and their fraternity. Sharon Legge is the president of Kappa Sigma Stardusters. Jane Hyde is a member of Philadelphia of Phi Delta Theta; Ruth Foster is a Little Sister of Minerva. Janet Soderstrom is representing the ASU student body at a Leadership Conference in Flagstaff.

St. Lawrence Honors Alice Griswold

One name appears in all editions of Who's Who of American Women and in the annals of Pi Beta Phi.

She is Alice L. Griswold, New York Gamma, who was the only woman in a group of six, honored recently by St. Lawrence University in the 1964 Homecoming exercises.

Educator and editor, she has co-authored six textbooks.

Born in Canton of an old North Country family, she was graduated from Canton High School in 1916 and from St. Lawrence University in 1920. In 1938 she received her Master's Degree in education from New York University. At NYU, Alice was elected to Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary for women in education.

Her professional career started in 1920, and, spanning 40 years, was dedicated to the teaching of mathematics.

Her retirement from high school teaching followed 25 years at Garden City High School, Long Island N.Y.

With a flair for the executive, she has been supervisor of student teachers of mathematics at Adelphi University on Long Island, led a group on Construction of Effective Classroom Tests at Rutgers Mathematics Institute in New Jersey, and participated in Summer Workshops at Clarkson College of Technology in New York.

Active in the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Alice Griswold was one of the founders in 1951 of the Association of Mathematics Teachers of New York State. During 1962-63 she was the president of the organization, which is the largest state association of its kind in the nation.

Since entering the teaching profession in 1920, she has been at the forefront of the movement to improve the teaching of mathematics through modernization of content and techniques.

In post retirement activities since 1960, she continued with the supervision of training of future teachers in the cadet teacher program at Adelphi University and, at present, is associate mathematics editor for Holt, Rinehart and Winston, and a member of the committee on state scholarship examinations in engineering.

St. Lawrence University took note of all these outstanding achievements in their citations to Alice L. Griswold last October and concluded by expression of "great pleasure in having this opportunity to recognize her highly successful career and her constant loyalty to her Alma Mater."

Blonde Glow Lights All

There's a special blonde ray of sunlight at Washington Beta.

She reflects on all those that know and admire her fresh enthusiasm and admirable accomplishments. Since her first year at Washington State University, Jan Moodie Smith has personified the ideal Pi Beta Phi.

This fall Jan was elected to represent the senior class on the Board of Control. She was tapped for Mortar Board, Phi Kappa Phi, and Pi Lambda Theta, and was chosen as one of the five Outstanding Greek Women on campus. She is a May Queen semi-finalist.

During her freshman year, Jan's beauty won her a place in the Sigma Chi Sweetheart contest. She was among the top 50 freshman women.

As a sophomore, she served her University through Spurs, women's service honorary. She was on an AWSU committee and received the House Scholarship certificate for the highest grades for one year.

Jan increased her student government activities her junior year to serve as her class's expanded Executive Representative. She was chairman of the junior-senior prom and worked on panhellenic.

If "all that we give into the lives of others comes back into our own," Jan truly has many rewarding years ahead of her outside college.

She's Miss Football USA!

September, 1964—A 5'2" cheerleader from the University of South Carolina boarded a plane for what she expected to be no more than an exciting week in Norman, Okla. She returned the next Sunday with a crown, a trophy, and a national title: "Miss Football, USA."

Ruth Henderson, petit brunette with saucer-wide brown eyes, had been selected last summer as one of ten finalists from colleges and universities throughout the United States. The honor followed a list of others including "Miss Columbia, S. C., first runner-up in the Miss South Carolina contest, and Miss Garnet & Black (yearbook queen).

The week-long national contest was a new experience, however, and jam-packed with luncheons, parades, fashion shows, and preliminary competitions. Ruth placed first in the evening dress category, the formal speech presentation, and the talent contest. She sang "Just You Wait, 'Enry 'Iggins" from "My Fair Lady." Active in the town theatre dramatic group, Ruth had sung this in the role of Eliza Doolittle when the musical was produced a year before.

Contestants relaxed at the University of Oklahoma-University of Southern California football game. "The strangest feeling," she related later, "was yelling 'Beat USC', the initials she has long used in leading cheers at South Carolina.

As Miss Football USA, Ruth appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show with the All-American football team. She also made guest appearances on the Jack Parr and Johnny Carson shows. During last fall's football season, Ruth "reigned" over games in South Carolina and nearby Southeastern states.

While in Oklahoma, Ruth enjoyed the warm hospitality of Pi Phi there. On a visit to their house, she said, "the whole chapter was there to greet me at the door. They were all so friendly and easy to talk to . . . it really showed me the meaning of national sisterhood."

A busy Pi Phi, this lively beauty can't find enough orbits to settle her life into or time for them all. Her normal routine has as many directions as the costumes she wears: cheerleader outfit, Angel Flight uniform, or dress-up attire to hostess her own afternoon television program. On the town theatre stage she has taken leading roles in "South Pacific," "Bye, Bye, Birdie," and "Little Women."

A senior in journalism, Ruth is active in Theta Sigma Phi national journalism honorary for women and in the Press Club.

Ruth contributed much to her chapter as scholarship chairman and music chairman. In the latter office, she led S. C. Alpha to a second place trophy in Songfest.

She will take her talents on into graduate school and into a life with the gentleman who gave her a diamond ring several months ago.

She will pass on her crowns and titles, but her queenly attributes are a way of life.

Taking Seattle—By Title

"Kippy danced down the steps of Pi Beta Phi Sorority house today, cheered by her sorority sisters who strung a banner across the front door: 'Congrats, Kippy, Miss Seattle!'" stated the March 1 issue of the Seattle Times.

Kippy Lou Brinkman, sponsored by Washington Alpha, added one more honor to her already long list of achievements. A former Miss Wool and a first runner-up to Miss Washington, Kippy pledged Pi Phi this year as a junior. And yet, the list goes on, for Kippy left her hometown of Richland, Wash., as Miss Tri-Cities to enroll at the University.

However, Kippy possesses far more than a winning beauty. On campus she is a junior honor woman with a 3.1 accumulative grade point on a 4.0 system and is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, music honorary. Outside the classroom, she's also a varsity cheerleader.

Unusually talented, Kippy has taken piano for a dozen years and also is an accomplished harpist. She is a regular performer with the Seattle Youth and University of Washington symphonies and the Festival Opera Company.

She sings, she models and she tap dances.

Kippy literally has danced her way into the hearts of her sisters and her University of Washington public.

Mary Garber—L.A.'s Only Woman City Editor

A pert little blond from San Marino, California, has become the only woman city editor of a daily newspaper in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

She is 20-year-old Mary Garber, a junior student at the University of Southern California, and a member of California Gamma of Pi Beta Phi.

A journalism major, Miss Garber has taken over the reins of the City Desk for USC's student newspaper, The Daily Trojan (circulation 5,000). She is the fourth woman student ever to hold the position in the 74-year history of the paper.

Directing a staff which will average 8-10 persons each day, Miss Garber reports to the Daily Trojan City Room daily at noon. She will put in an eight-hour day before her first and only edition is "put to bed."

In addition to staff direction, Miss Garber's daily routine will include a share of the responsibility for the copy reading, head writing, photography planning and page layout. She also does a column and personally handles some of the more difficult writing assignments.

Mary's boss is a man—USC journalism senior Gregg Peterson, whose orders, along with her own, she must relay with firmness to Daily Trojan staffers.

The Garber smile, it has been noted by many, seems to accomplish more than the growls traditionally expected from the more characteristic city editors—even in student journalism.

During the relatively brief time Miss Garber has held her Daily Trojan assignment, she has become thoroughly familiar to the USC family—of students, faculty and administrators and a welcome visitor in all areas.

A graduate of San Marino high school, where she began her career in journalism by editing the student newspaper, Miss Garber also headed the Student Publications office in high school. A life member of the California Scholarship Federation she was a member of the Prometheans, student honor society in San Marino.

At USC, Mary has been vice president of her Pi

City Editor Garber at her Daily Trojan desk.

Phi chapter; a member of Spurs, service organization; served two years as a member of the student election commission; was named Little Sister of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity; is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary, and was assistant city editor of The Daily Trojan during the first semester of the current academic year. She has also assumed the job of publicity chairman for this year's Songfest, annual all-student music event.

Over and above all of this, there's Mary Garber, student, currently taking 12 units and studying The Press and World Affairs, Social Psychology, and Newspaper Production and Management.

Her Office A 'FIRST'

Pi Phi Mrs. Edwin H. Busch, Jr. has become one of the first women in the Diocese of Los Angeles to be elected to serve as a member of the vestry of the Episcopal Church.

The constitution of the Diocese was changed in February to permit women to hold office.

Mrs. Busch, formerly Ruth Touzalin of Illinois Zeta, has been elected to the Mission Committee of St. George's Episcopal Church, La Canada.

The change in the Diocesan constitution permitting women to be members of vestries, members of the Standing Committee, and delegates to General Convention as well as other offices formerly restricted to men was approved at the Annual Convention of the Diocese held in Los Angeles earlier this year.

Mrs. Busch helped to organize the Women of St. George's and was the first president of the group from March 1959 to December 1960.

Ana Sol—All American Pi Phi

by Mary Louise Gross, Pennsylvania Epsilon

Ana Sol

El Salvador boasts one All-American girl. She's Ana Sol, Pennsylvania Epsilon.

A native of El Salvador where her father is International Economist, Ana was educated in Washington, D.C. Ana has one brother, a recently ordained priest, and no sisters.

After spending her summers in El Salvador, Ana spins many tales for her sisters. Her family literally is "waited on by hand and foot" by their servants who are insulted if, for instance, a family member would make his own bed.

Ana spent her junior year studying in Geneva where she became engaged. She has returned to work on her Master's Degree in chemistry. After receiving this, she and her future husband will return to El Salvador where she will be the first woman chemist in the country.

Although she was an outstanding student in the College of Chemistry and Physics, she was a very active campus leader. She was president of the Associated Women Students' Community Council, chairman of the Panhellenic InterFraternity Council Music Festival, chairman of Pi Beta Phi's El Salvador Delegation to Penn State's Model United Nations, and the 1964-65 Homecoming Queen.

Ana gave a lot of her time to her chapter. She was the Panhellenic delegate and chairman of the Spring Week dance committee.

Her interests in music and dancing are reflected in her varied extra-curricular activities. A fluent linguist, she speaks French, Spanish, Italian and English.

Ana Sol is truly outstanding. So much so that two countries and one proud sorority gladly claim her.

Second to Nunn

by Sara Thrasher, West Virginia Alpha

Second to "nunn," Nanci Nunn is lauded by her sisters as one of the most outstanding members of West Virginia Alpha. Her activities have included both college and fraternity for the past four years.

She served as vice president of the senior class and president of Spokes, senior women's honorary.

Noted in the Associated Women Students' organization, Nanci has been a delegate to regional and national IAWS conventions the past three years. She served two years on its judiciary board, and as a junior was region IV IAWS vice president and presided over the Region IV convention.

She was an active freshman in YWCA, and as a sophomore, she served on the student union social committee. She was on the Junior cabinet of YWCA and on the steering committee for Golddigger's Weekend. A junior, she was a Beauties Editor for the college yearbook.

In fraternity life, she was vice president of her pledge class, activities chairman, sophomore rush chairman, and pledge trainer her junior year.

The word Nunn has stood for much in campus and fraternity activities, say West Virginia Alphas, "We'll miss her."

Fourth Link In a Proud Pi Phi Chain

by Edith Barker Blattenberg, Iowa Beta

Four generations of faithful membership are evidenced at Iowa Beta. This is how it started.

In the fall of 1874, when Ida Cheshire Barker was a sophomore at Simpson College, she received a letter from Anna Porter of Monmouth College asking her to contact nine other "estimable" young ladies at Simpson with the purpose of founding the Lambda chapter of I. C. Sorosis, now Iowa Beta.

She spoke to her close friend (later her sister-in-law) Kate Barker McCune, and they chose eight other young ladies.

Meeting at the Cheshire home, they read and adopted the constitution and elected officers. Next they purchased their arrows with $20 borrowed from Mr. Cheshire, president of the Warren County Bank.

Soon afterward they made gingham aprons from a bolt of gingham given to them by store owner Mr. Barker. They wore their aprons and attended chapel in a group. This sorority was the first at Simpson, and for some time, the only one.

Many relatives of the two founders have been members of Iowa Beta. The first direct descendent was Edith Barker Blattenberg, a daughter of Ida Cheshire Barker and a niece of Kate Barker McCune. Next were the granddaughters of Ida Cheshire Barker, Marilyn Ida Blattenberg Wallace and Edith Louise Hartzler Kukula.

Now, the first of the great granddaughters, Lisbeth Blattenberg has been initiated into Iowa Beta—fourth generation of this founding family.

Lisbeth Blattenberg

There's a Song For Her

"Once there was a Pi Phi cutie, she had personality, charm and beauty . . ."

And at Wyoming Alpha her name was JoAnn Simmons.

Named in 1965 to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, JoAnn has been nominated for the Most Outstanding Greek Woman on campus and for the Amy Burnham Onken award.

During her career at the University, JoAnn has been a Spur, served as president of Chimes, and is serving as secretary of Mortar Board. She has represented Pi Phi in her junior co-educational honorary, her journalism honorary, and her pharmacy honorary.

JoAnn is a three-year member of the American Pharmaceutical Association and of the Wyoming Union Special Committee. She has served on the yearbook as a staff editor. She has been a representative to the AWS board and was chosen Queen of the Powder River Ball by the student body.

Maintaining a 3.4 grade average, JoAnn has been the recipient of a four-year scholarship in pharmacy and was named the most outstanding freshman in pharmacy. Twice she has been awarded the Founder's Day award for top grades in her class and has been one of the top five girls in the University in her class.

JoAnn Simmons

In a Word—Outstanding

Everyone's singing the praises of "Sister Sue."

Sue Nall, Oklahoma Beta, embodies the ideals of Pi Beta Phi at its best.

Mortar Board, national women's scholarship-leadership fraternity, tapped Sue for membership, elected her president, and sent her to the National Mortar Board convention as their delegate.

Sue, a senior, has maintained a 3.4 grade average on a 4.0 system. She serves on the Arts and Science student council, AWS Executive Council, and is active in the home economics and speech clubs.

Busy Sue is co-chairman of the Government Week Keynote committee, Ambassador Co-chairman of the People-to-People committee, a member of the President's Advisory Council, and serves on the Religious Week committee, and other religious organizations.

Beauty Sue has been named Honorary Cadet Colonel of the Fifty-second Wing, Fairest of the Fair, Varsity Review girl, candidate for Horticulture Club Queen, and the chapter's nominee for Sigma Chi Derby Day Queen.

As a freshman, Sue began a brilliant college career earning membership in two honoraries and winning two scholarships plus having her name added to the Dean's List.

The sorority has used Sue's talents to the fullest. She has served as assistant social chairman, membership chairman, pledge trainer, and on numerous other committees. As pledge trainer, she revised pre-initiation week and instituted the highly successful program of having a secret Angel Sister for each pledge.

Each Oklahoma Pi Phi is happy to call Sue "sister" for she exemplifies the best of the characteristics which run in the Pi Phi "family."

Best Loved by Her Chapter and Campus

Minuet music sounded its way into the rock and roll era and filled the dining room of Lawrence University's Colman Hall.

George and Martha Washington and James and Dolly Madison danced to the music as they entered dressed in traditional ivory, blue, and lavender colonial costumes.

The year was 1965, and James Madison was portrayed by none other than Patricia Sayre, Wisconsin Gamma, honored this year at the annual banquet for the four Best Loved Women in the senior class.

This colorful annual tradition began in 1924. The Best Loved Senior Women are chosen on the basis of warmth and radiance of personality in an election by sophomore, junior and senior women. It is one of the highest honors a Lawrence woman can receive and Wisconsin Gamma is especially proud of Patricia.

An applied piano major from Peoria, Ill., Pat is an accomplished musician and has performed in a number of recitals, both as soloist and accompanist. She was chosen to solo with the Lawrence Orchestra in the annual Commencement concert in June.

This year Pat is chapter vice president of Wisconsin Gamma. She also has been the chapter courtesy chairman and Settlement School chairman.

Pat has been a member of the steering board for the Lawrence United Charities organization, and currently is acting as head proctor of Colman Hall, member of the women's association, and member of the Women's judicial board.

An outstanding student, she has been elected to Sigma and Pi Sigma honoraries.

Best Loved by the university Pat is no less loved by her Pi Phi sisters for her generous personality and her valuable contribution to Pi Beta Phi.

New York Gamma Success Stories

"Indescribably ambitious"—two words aptly describe two busy New York Gamma's. Seniors Debbie Spencer and Jane Petrie have assumed leadership not only of their chapter but of the entire St. Lawrence campus as well.

Debbie

Debbie, a petite five-foot-three, has guided New York Gamma through a hectic year with calm poise and authority. During her tenure as president, the chapter created a spirit and enthusiasm that was invaluable in campus leadership and in rushing. Her outside activities include Mortar Board, Hill News Editorial Board, student government cabinet, and the Panhellenic presidency.

Debbie's history major proves time consuming also, but time seems to be on Debbie's side. One can always hear her voice echoing through the halls, "Bridge? Is there a fourth?"

Debbie looks forward to continued success in a teaching career.

Jane has been a cultural leader on the campus throughout her four years here. As a freshman, she was selected for the Laurentian Singers and served as soloist. She also was soloist for the Chapel and the Chamber Concert her junior year. Three years a member of the Sinners, women's singing group, Jane directed the group her sophomore and junior years.

Jane

To a beautiful voice, Jane adds dramatic talent. She was selected for the Dramatic honorary as a sophomore and has held a major part in more than five plays here at St. Lawrence. Among them she played the main dancing lead in the "Fall of the City," lead in "Three Penny Opera," and played Hermia in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Early accomplishment made her Sophomore of the Year in 1962-63.

Despite many outside interests, Jane has helped chapter members improve their voices through positions as song leader and octet director. An English major, Jane too plans to be a teacher with her ultimate ambition that of a professional vocalist.

The success of these two echos the quality of excellence that is Pi Beta Phi, St. Lawrence.

Shaaf Must Go On

Shaaf must go on. The motto seems to fit Betty Shaaf, Maryland Beta.

An example of her conscientiousness and desire to serve was displayed last summer when she completed all of her parliamentary procedure programs while bedridden for a month.

Leadership and scholarship characterize better. For the past year she has been chapter vice president. Prior to that, she served on Arrowboard, was chairman of spring retreat, and held several chairmanships during rush and initiation. She is about to embark as editor of the local newsletter "Arrowtips."

Outside sorority, Betty was elected vice president of her dormitory and judicial board chairman for her dorm. As a junior, she served on the Associated Women Students judicial board, was elected president of her dorm floor, and was elected to senior legislature.

At the end of her junior year, Betty was chosen for Mortar Board and membership in Diamond. She participated in Chapel Choir and, last summer, was chosen by a large Baltimore department store to serve on its college board.

Never a member in name only, Betty is always an active participant in her organizations. Through it all she has maintained a 2.9 overall grade average. An excellent student, Betty works to her maximum, and through her organizational ability is able to cope with her many activities.

Known for her sincere interest in the people around her, Betty willingly accepts work and duties which will further the welfare of her chapter.

Maryland Beta was proud to choose Betty as its nominee for the Amy Burnham Onken Award—a reward aptly fitted to the efforts expended by one outstanding Pi Phi.

Betty

Jane Dallen

She Majors In Awards

"What! Another award for Jane Dallen!" is a frequent cry around the North Carolina Alpha Pi Phi house these days, for it seems that every week Jane adds a new honor to her ever-increasing list.

A native of Port Clinton, Ohio, Jane transferred from Lake Erie College to the University of North Carolina following her sophomore year and immediately became an outstanding person on the campus here. As a junior she was member of the debate team, served as Chairman of the Junior Class Publicity Committee, worked on the Carolina Symposium, and, at the end of the year, was presented with the Outstanding Junior Woman Award.

This year, her senior year, Jane has been an Orientation Counselor, a member of the Carolina Political Union, Chairman of the Student Government Committee on Honors, and coordinator of personnel for the U N Model Assembly held on this campus. Her abilities in many fields were recognized when she was tapped into Amphotothen, an honorary public speaking society, and into Valkyries, the highest women's honorary society on campus.

Not only has Jane been extremely active in campus activities but she has also contributed much to her fraternity. Jane has served as Pledge Scholarship Chairman and as Treasurer. She also led her chapter in scholarship for the year 1964 and is a candidate for the Amy Burnham Onken award.

Recently Jane has received a Woodrow Wilson fellowship. She will use this for graduate study at Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies in Washington, D.C.

Her Next Stop Is Harvard

by Wendy Hummel, Illinois Beta-Delta

To the diligent go the Harvard University Scholarships. And Vicki Anderson, Knox college senior and member of Illinois Beta-Delta chapter of Pi Beta Phi, is one of a few conscientious scholars to be so honored.

Vicki has been selected to participate in Harvard's Master of Arts in Mathematics Education program. She is among thirty young people chosen from some fifteen hundred top ranking students from eight hundred colleges and universities throughout the country for the coveted honor.

Vicki graduates this June after three years of concentrated study with a mathematics major, an English minor, and a secondary education teaching certificate.

An active contributor to sorority and college, she has served as corresponding secretary and pledge trainer in Pi Phi. She is on the college yearbook staff and has participated in the Central Illinois Bowling Tournament.

While maintaining an outstanding grade average, Vicki teaches bowling for the physical education department.

Bowling, or teaching, or reaching out for an exclusive scholarship, Vicki gives her best—and it's good enough.

"Sis"—An Ideal Sister

by Cherrie Taylor, South Carolina Alpha

"Sis, lend a hand?"

"Sure, where do I start?"

That's a typical conversation on the University of South Carolina campus where the name of Sarah Ruth Mullis is synonymous with liveliness, enthusiasm, sincerity, and friendliness, not to mention serious intellect.

Her graduation this spring from the school of pharmacy will leave vacancies in many positions of leadership. She is president of Rho Chi pharmaceutical honorary and the Alpha Order women's honorary. A 1965 member of Who's Who, Sis is a member of Panhellenic council, the President's Council, Tri-Epsilon Activities Fraternity, and the Student Faculty Relations Committee.

She is a past president of Euphradian Literary Society, a past vice president of YWCA, and was voted one of five Sorority Women of the year 1964.

Capping her honors last fall, Sis was selected to represent the university at the President's Student Conference in Washington, D. C.

Never too busy for her sorority, Sis has served as pledge trainer and recently completed her term as president of South Carolina Alpha.

"Sis" Mullis

Sis has the unique ability to give of herself to anything she undertakes, and therefore enriches the lives of all who know and work beside her.

If one were to ask "What's in a name?" in reference to Sarah Ruth Mullis, any South Carolina Pi Phi would reply with pride and conviction, "Plenty!"

Geologist Has Rocks In Her Head

from the Edmonton Journal

Some of Alice Payne's best friends are rocks. And she's meeting new ones all the time, in her work—geology.

An adventuring spirit and a love of the outdoors led the attractive 24-year-old blond Alberta Alpha Pi Phi into this overwhelming male field.

As the only woman geologist in any Northwest Territories mining camp last summer, Miss Payne says, "the men were amazed to see a woman in the bush."

Taking her master of science degree in the geology of hard rocks at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Miss Payne was in Yellowknife doing field work for her thesis when she had an opportunity to go farther north.

She took her pick, packsack and bedroll and hitched a ride in a bush plane to Coronation Gulf, 75 miles within the Arctic Circle, where a mining syndicate was doing exploration work for gold.

"The men—14 geologists—promised I'd be treated just like any other geologist."

But they gave her a special tent with a cot, straw mattress, a stove and three oil drums with a plank across them for a dressing table. The men lived in one large tent with bunk beds and a stove.

"And the prospectors did all the cooking."

She spent a week in the Arctic camp, 975 miles north of Edmonton, collecting about 150 pounds of rock samples for further study here this winter. She also did reconnaissance work with other geologists and studied rock formations and the continental drift.

Her thesis work for the university is on radioactive rocks from the Great Canadian Shield.

The tall, blue-eyed blonde says she prefers field work to being in the laboratory and likes a job that can take her "anywhere, anytime and under practically any conditions."

She says it is hard for a woman geologist to find work in the field. She won't be hired into an all-male crew, and she can't go underground for mining companies, due to miners' superstitions.

But Miss Payne won't be too worried about placement in field work in her future. After her forthcoming marriage to Robin Leech, 27-year-old biologist, she'll be in the field with her husband.

She's Monmouth College First Lady

by Ruth Turnbull, Monmouth (Ill.) Alumnae Club

Peggy Skerry Wimpres

In September, 1964, Dr. Duncan Wimpres became the seventh president of Monmouth College. The Monmouth Alumnae Club was delighted to learn that Mrs. Wimpres is a member of Pi Beta Phi, having served Oregon Alpha as its president while attending the University of Oregon, (Peggy Skerry, class of 1946).

Before coming to Monmouth, Dr. Wimpres was President of Monticello College, Alton, Illinois, and will also be remembered in Colorado where he served as Assistant to the President of the Colorado School of Mines. They have a lovely family which has rapidly become an integral part of the community. Their children are Wendy, sixteen; Vicky, twelve; and Gordon Duncan Wimpres III, two—and who is better known as Scotty.

The Monmouth Alumnae Club held a reception for Peggy Wimpres early in November to introduce her to other Greek women in the community. It was held, fittingly, at the Holt House, which looked lovelier than ever with the recently redecorated rooms, but best of all was having such a gracious and interested Pi Phi Alum to introduce to our friends and welcome to our club.

Our Girl In New York

by Mrs. Walter M. Carlson,
Northern Virginia Alumna

One woman who has all the answers is Pi Phi Alumna Nancy Carboy Woodall of Manassas, Va.

When the New York World's Fair opened for its second season in April, Nancy was one of 200 librarians on duty at the United States Pavilion to answer questions about this country.

The exhibit, Library USA, has a reference section of 1000 books and computers programmed to offer information on 75 different subjects. It includes a communications section, a selection of children's books, and a section of adult books for browsing, all contained in 7,000 square feet on the first floor of the pavilion.

Nancy will use the facilities to answer the questions asked by visitors from all over the world about the U.S.

She temporarily relinquished duties as branch librarian at the Woodrow Wilson Branch of the Fairfax County Library in Virginia and as recording secretary for the Northern Virginia Alumnae of Pi Beta Phi. She first became associated with Pi Phi at Middlebury College when she pledged Vermont Alpha in 1953 and later moved to the University of Maryland.

Salary Is a Scholarship

by Sharon M. Zimmerman, Ohio Beta

The brawn is supporting the brains at Ohio Beta. Because of the hard work of Ohio State University fraternity and sorority pledges, Anne Taylor, Ohio Beta, has been awarded a $125 scholarship.

The pledges helped the Central Ohio Heart Association during February by selling balloons in different areas of Columbus. Grossing over $200, they were awarded the scholarship for their efforts.

Ohio Beta is proud of its pledges for giving to such a worthy cause.

Anne

Little Girl, Big Arrow

by Jayne Welch, Alabama Gamma

Vivacious, pert Anne Williams can stretch herself out to a tall 5'1" but wears perhaps the biggest arrow on the Auburn campus.

Ann has been adding jewels to her arrow since she first became a Pi Phi as a freshman. The first jewel came as a result of her service on various Union committees. The second jewel was soon acquired as Anne became an officer in her freshman dorm and served as a member of Junior Panhellenic. Membership in the Young Republicans is the third jewel in Anne's arrow. Her active participation in campus politics soon resulted in her election to the position of Sophomore Senator. This jewel has added brilliance because of the fine job Anne did in representing the sophomore class in student government. Anne is also presently serving on the Executive Cabinet of Auburn University.

Anne has received jewels for being chosen finalist in both the contest for sweetheart of Kappa Sigma and in the one for Navy Color Girl. She was recently chosen by Sigma Alpha Epsilon to become one of the Little Sisters of Minerva. The Auburn chapter of this organization was just begun this year, and membership is a particular honor.

Each of Anne's new accomplishments seems to outshine the others, for soon after becoming a Little Sister of Minerva, Anne was named "Miss April" in the Auburn Calendar Girl Pageant.

Along with Anne's long list of campus activities, her fine scholarship is not to be neglected. Anne has a 2.00 overall average, which makes her a very likely candidate for Mortar Board this year.

Finally, the most recent jewel to be added to Anne's arrow was awarded her for serving as president of the Panhellenic Council. This is perhaps the most brilliant of all her jewels right now because of the outstanding job she has done as co-chairman, along with the president of the Interfraternity Council, of the first annual Auburn University Greek Forum. The forum was a huge success, and Anne is to be highly commended for her work in making it so.

Alabama Gamma is very proud of "Little Anne." She has done much to bring honor and recognition to Pi Phi, and her arrow will always be kept shining by her friendly interest and enthusiasm in everything she does.

We're Double-Proud of 2

by Mildred Leverman, Nova Scotia Alpha

Two "faces in the crowd" of Nova Scotia Alpha's graduating members stand out for special recognition for their outstanding contributions to their chapter and school.

They are Linda Thomson and Leslie Ballem.

This year Linda obtains three degrees. At spring convocation she receives her B. Comm., in the fall, her B.A. and in the summer she gets her "Mrs." Linda will be married Aug. 14 to Brian Beckett of Halifax.

During the past four years Linda has served as chapter president, junior and senior panhellenic representative, and panhellenic secretary-treasurer.

On campus, Linda has been the mainstay of the Commerce Society acting as its secretary for two years and as a student teaching assistant in Commerce I.

Her school gives her up enviously to her new role as housewife.

Pi Phi Leslie Ballam is a member of Dalhousie's first graduating class in physiotherapy. After graduation, Leslie will spend the summer working in Calgary, Alberta, before returning in the fall to intern at the Victoria General Hospital.

On campus Les has been sports minded with an interest in ground hockey and synchronized swimming.

Rightfully royal, she has served as Campus Queen, Pine Hill Queen, Dentistry Queen, and a winter Carnival princess.

Pi Phi Doll "Ideal" For Big Girls

by Jan Thomas, Lexington Alumnae Club

Do alumnae really have more fun?

The Lexington Alumnae Club thinks so after a recent project which turned out to be a "doll" of an idea. Following a suggestion from the Province President, the Club decided to dress a Miss Pi Phi doll, actually a Miss Ideal doll, and sell chances on her at Christmas.

That's when the fun began. Throughout the summer, members vied for a chance to house the orphan and added to her wardrobe. Sewing machines buzzed, proud Pi Phi's-turned-seamstresses hummed, and needle fingers busily stitched until the voluminous wardrobe of 30 outfits was completed by mid-September.

Hand-picked fabrics and accessories have been lovingly made into a wardrobe which included pajamas, robe, curlers, and bag, A-line dresses, afternoon dresses, a raccoon-collared suede coat with matching slacks and vest, a U of K cheerleading outfit, ski pants and a hand-knitted sweater, knit dress and coat with a white rabbit's fur collar, muff and hat, complete candy striper and girl scout outfits, a madras skirt and matching blouse, gray wool suit with matching blouse and hat, a navy linen dress and large white broad-brimmed hat, a wedding gown with detachable train and veil, a Halloween costume, a blue satin formal, velveteen cocktail dress, a red shift and sunhat, bathing suit, early American colonial dress and hat and all necessary lingerie such as short and long-line bras, slips and panties, both in black and white.

Perhaps Miss Pi Phi's appeal was largely due to the accessories necessary for any well-dressed young lady's wardrobe. Each outfit had its own shoes, hats, gloves, purses, scarves, belts, etc. Her clothing was accentuated by her own selection of jewelry.

The miniature wardrobe was protected and displayed in her own cloth-covered wardrobe trunk provided by the available husband-power.

Ticket-selling enthusiasts gave parties with the doll as a center of attraction, made store window displays, and used pictures of the dolls while making sales.

The real fun came when the club's cash register rang up $450 profit which was contributed to the chapter's new Pi Phi house now under construction.

Remember Jane Collins?

by Mrs. R. A. Hobbs,
Eastside Alumnae Club, Seattle

Whatever happened to sister Jane? She graduated and went on to greater challenges.

Remember the stellar performance which marked the undergraduate years of Jane Collins at Colorado Alpha, University of Colorado. She admirably represented Pi Beta Phi as a campus leader in the class of '37. Voted "Miss Colorado University," she was also named Outstanding Senior Woman. She distinguished herself on the year-book staff and served as President of Mortar Board and of YWCA, and she served her chapter well.

Jane

Today, as Mrs. Robert B. Temple of Mercer Island, Wash., Jane continues to contribute leadership and service to the community and to a Foreign Exchange Program as well as her fraternity.

Mrs. Temple served as host parent for an exchange student from Bremen, Germany, and has shared her daughter Barbara in the program abroad.

A trophy winning golfer, Jane is president of the Women's Division of the Overlake Golf and Country Club.

She has served Pi Phi on Washington Alpha's Advisory Board and is vice president of the House Corporation.

In community service she has given many hours to Girl Scout work.

She's Miss Cheerleader

from The Indianapolis Star

She is a bubbling blond beauty with more bounce to the ounce than a rebounding basketball, the energy of a giantsized power plant and enough voice to lead a cavalry charge—she is Miss Cheerleader USA.

She also is Miss Elizabeth Jean (Jeannie) Carroll, Pi Beta Phi and a 21-year-old teacher-to-be who is winding up her reign as "queen" of the nation's cheerleaders as she wins her final letter with Indiana University's Fighting Hoosiers.

Her "All-American" honor is a special tribute to Jeannie's cheerleader skill and school loyalty. Yet, she is as modest about her selection for national acclaim as she is about how she became a cheerleader in the first place.

It began back in St. John's Grade School, at Fort Wayne, when she "couldn't sit still at the ball games and attracted attention because I was yelling the loudest and hitting anyone sitting around me," Miss Carroll explains.

After two years of leading "yells" for Southside's athletic teams, Jeannie moved to the Bloomington campus and, as a freshman, became one of the 30-member, select group of Pom Pon girls.

She gained membership on the university's cheerleader squad the following year and was waving a megaphone for the second year when she became one of the five finalists in the 61-contestant field seeking the Miss Cheerleader title.

Jeannie's dazzling smile and infectious enthusiasm were factors in her winning the crown at Cyprus Gardens, Fla., last March, and again when she became one of five finalists for the right to represent Indiana in the Miss America pageant. That same year, 1963, she was named one of Indianapolis' "500" Festival princesses.

In addition to her crown, a scholarship award and a silver trophy for being the nation's No. 1 cheerleader, Miss Carroll won a trip to New York City and a surprise guest appearance on a network television show last fall.

Away from the sidelines of court or field, the pert senior, an English major, has been a member of the Student Athletic Board for two years. During the summer, she is a lifeguard at Fort Wayne's McMillan Park.

As for marriage, Miss Carroll takes the view that "it's too early to talk about that now."

A college girl on the threshold of life, Jeannie is an extrovert in front of a cheering section, but a semi-introvert as she looks to the future and talks to friends.

If you ask her why she's a look-a-like for the "girl-next-door," Doris Day type of beauty, she replies "that's something I'd have to check in front of my mirror."

They Wear Crowns of Honor

by Nancy Fowler, Louisiana Alpha

Mardi Gras may be a favorite theme of sorority balls everywhere, but Louisiana Alpha has a go at the real thing. Its festivities lent just one of many good times of this school year.

However, amidst the "fun-type" activities have come numerous honors. Three Louisiana Alpha's were among the seven winners of Woodrow Wilson Fellowships on the Newcomb campus.

So honored for their academic achievement were Gridley McKim, Suzanne Seeman, and Peggy Culpepper. Gridley, who had a perfect average during the spring semester, has been tapped for the Hall of Fame along with Lynn Farwell, past Pi Phi president, and Jackie Hestwood.

Louisiana Alpha also tripled in beauty honors. Meredith Jamison is Sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Mu and her pledge sister Alexa Harrison is Queen of the Freshman Beauty Court. Patty Heatherly is a maid on the Tulane Beauty Court and adds it to many other honors.

Beauty and accomplishment are among the many faces of Pi Phi in Mardi Gras Land.

Planning To Move?

Don't miss an issue of THE ARROW. Use the blank on the inside back cover of this magazine to send your new address to Central Office.

Newly married Pi Phis will need to fill out the blank too, so that Central Office records on them will be up to date.

The eyes of Texas are upon Becky Crouch, Miss Mohair of the Universe. Raised on a Texas hill country ranch near Fredericksburg in the heart of the goat country, Becky has a fair knowledge of mohair, and the angora goat from which it comes. Texas produces ninety percent of the world's mohair. Texas Alpha Pi Phi member Becky combines beauty with brains and a flair for art. She is on an art scholarship at the University of Texas. She poses here in one of her wool costumes designed exclusively for her reign as Miss Mohair by Charles Dickey of Dallas.

She Has Winning Way

"Sure and begorra" the name McLaughlin has the sound of the Irish.

And impish Mary McLaughlin, Arkansas Beta, has the luck of the Irish to have been endowed with a winning smile and personality to match, plus wit, brains, and the leadership abilities of an Indian chief.

Recognized nationally by Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, Mary has stepped out from the crowd as a leader of campus and sorority.

She was last year's president of Arkansas Beta. Other executive positions have included junior class president, Panhellenic president, and vice president of Phi Theta Kappa.

She was secretary of the student senate her sophomore year and is a member of Hood 'n Tassel and of Sword and Shield, senior honorary.

Mary has been active in many other social, academic, and religious organizations at Little Rock University.

The leprechauns will have to bestow some of the McLaughlin luck on Arkansas Beta to fill the busy shoes Mary leaves behind as graduation propels her into a teaching career elsewhere.

TOP SCHOLAR—Elizabeth Fink, Vermont Alpha, is one of her chapter's top scholars. She has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, initiated into Phi Beta Kappa and is a member of Mortar Board.

Many of the members of New York Alpha have received honors this year. Sue Quinlan was recently tapped by Phi Kappa Phi. Kitty Heflin and Nancy Baker received one of the highest honors given to sophomores when they were selected to serve on Traditions Commission. This group has full responsibility for Freshman Orientation Week. Chris Hall and Gretchen Schein were selected Little Sisters of the Golden Heart (Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity). Marty Thompson received the title of Honorary Wing Commander, Angel Flight.

Judy Emerline is spending the semester in Poitiers, France on the Semester-in-France Program.

In November, the chapter received the Panhellenic trophy for the best attendance at the Pan-Hell Ball.

Recently, we received honorable mention as one of three houses on campus with the highest scholastic improvement.

Indiana Beta is proud to announce that we have three members on Mortar Board this year. Heather Whittemore is the president. The two other members are Suzie Crouch and Carolyn Tracy. These girls are also extremely active in campus and house activities. Heather is on A.W.S. Legislative Board, is a scholarship recipient, and served as House Manager last semester. Suzie is Vice-President of Foundation. Carolyn is President of Y.W.C.A., and is a member of Student Foundation.

We have some girls who are extremely interested in athletics this year. Mary Jo Thompson is Vice President of Student Athletic Board, Kay Dell Franklin is Secretary of Junior Athletic Board, and Dee Gregory is a member of Junior Athletic Board. Priscilla Logan, Jean Verhoven, and Alice Driscoll are on Oceanides. Alice honored us last summer by swimming her way to the semi-finals in the Olympics. Jeannie Carroll, our famous I.U. cheerleader has been chosen "Miss Cheerleader U.S.A." in a national contest held in Florida.

There are six additional girls who need special attention in this issue of the ARROW. Priscilla Logan is Secretary of the Senior Class, on Foundation Steering Committee, and served as Activities Chairman for the house last semester. Julie Rench is on Union Board, Secretary of Freshman Camp, a member of Foundation, and in Omicron Delta, a business honorary. Jan Writer is on I.U. Sing Steering Committee. Freshman Camp Steering Committee, Pom Pons, and is a member of ANOMONE. Janet Kingsbury is in Phi Sigma Iota (Language Honorary) a merit Scholar, and has studied in France last year. Marie Kuchuris, our past president, is on Foundation Steering Committee, and is in Alpha Kappa Delta and Psi Chi honoraries. Kathy Lybrook is on Foundation, Phi Sigma Iota and Pleiades, and has recently received a scholarship to study Spanish in Chile this summer.

The Indiana Betas may seem to be all brains and brawn this year, but we have been honored with many queens, also. Joan Kastning is Sigma Chi Sweetheart, and is also on the Military Ball Court, Arbutus Queen Court, and Angel Flight. Barb Fenton is the Indiana State Sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and is a Little Sister of Minerva. Becky Bell is the Sweetheart of Sigma Nu. We have four Princesses in the "500" Festival this year; Peggy Paul, Vicki Fry, Judy Wake, and Cassie Kamp. Cassie has made the final five.

Peggy and Cassie are also in the Belles of Indiana and Peggy was on the court for the Flower and Patio Show. Merri Mueller is the Freshman Tyronian Queen.

INITIATED February 26, 1965:

Bonnie Berghult, Chicago, Ill.; Barbara Brayton, Indianapolis, Ind.; Regina Crawford, Miami, Fla.; Sandra Dixon, Tulsa, Okla.; Joan Frederick, Webster Groves, Mo.; Hilda Gaston, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Susan Gilman, Milwaukee, Wis.; Jean Hamilton, Cincinnati, Ohio; Marta Hansen, Glenview, Ill.; Noel Hayashi, Chesterland, Ohio; Jane Heinemann, St. Louis, Mo.; Jill Kneen, Mentor, Ohio; Lynda Lauer, Cincinnati, Ohio; Karen Lind, Highland Park, Ill.; Susan McGraw, Bucyrus, Ohio; Barbara Malmgren, Flossmoor, Ill.; Susan Robinson, Lebanon, Ind.; Jennifer Ross, Norwalk, Ohio; Barbara Smith, Kirkwood, Mo.; Pamela Peabody, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

Starting the year off with a queen has become a tradition at Indiana Epsilon, and this year was no exception. Judy Herbst, a sophomore, was crowned Old Gold Day Queen, an honor which the Pi Phis have received for three consecutive years.

But the honors did not cease. Junior Nancy Pedersen was elected to Student Court, the student disciplinary committee, and truly an outstanding honor as Nancy was the only woman member of that body. She is also a member of Beta Beta Beta, the biological science honorary, and former house treasurer. Margaret McGleish, also a junior, was named President of AWS Senate. Marg had formerly served as dorm advisor in one of the freshman dorms. Following in her capable footsteps is Linda Erf, a sophomore, who has been selected to act as dormitory advisor next fall. Junior Diane Ling was elected President of Panhellenic, an office she will hold until next February. Judy Wise, also a junior, has done a great deal of work in campus radio which includes having her own morning show. Judy was selected to direct the Spring Little Theater production, Rashomon. And yet another junior, Beth Hunter, was crowned Military Ball Queen.

THETA PROVINCE

Alabama Alpha, Birmingham-Southern College

The following girls have been initiated into Alabama Alpha (1964-65): Pat Alford, Alice Atkins, Jane Edge, Sharon Phillips, Anne Walker, Birmingham, Alabama; Donna Barnwell, Martha Merrill, Anniston, Ala.; Melanie Duffey, Janice Guernsey, Pensacola, Fla.; Sharon Mattox, Norborne, Mo.; Pat Strother, Shawmut, Ala.

Outstanding honors earned by Alabama Alpha this year include the following selected to be in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities: Kimi Stinson, Barbara Payton-Wright, Nancy Murphree, Holly Farmer, and Melinda McEachern. The freshman class at Birmingham-Southern elected officers for the first time this year, and Alice Atkins, one of our new initiates, was elected secretary of the class. Carolyn Gomillion was chosen secretary of the Student Government Association, and Barbara Wright was selected to be senior women's representative for SGA. Pat Graybill is also women's SGA representative and was elected cheerleader earlier this year for the BSC basketball team. Ann McKnight and Melinda McEachern were chosen favorites for the Southern Accent, the campus yearbook.

Among the honors which have come to Alabama Gamma this year, the one in which we take the most pride is winning the trophy for the Ugliest Man on Campus contest. Pi Phi and Kappa Alpha sponsored Tucker Frederickson in the event. Some of the projects which we used to earn money for this included selling chicken dinners to fraternity houses on Sunday night, selling autographed pictures of Tucker and chances for a late with him. However, the project which made the most money for us and on which we expended the most effort was washing and ironing boys' shirts—six for a dollar.

Also this year Betty Williams was selected Delta Sigma Phi Dream Girl and Anne Williams was in the top twenty for Navy Color Girl. Anne is also president of the Panhellenic Council this year and has just finished a wonderful job as one of the two co-chairmen for the Auburn University Greek Forum.

Iowa Gamma has had several outstanding individual honors this past year. When ΣX Derby Days rolled around last fall, Debbie Kaehler was chosen to be their Derby Darling. Also near the beginning of the school year, the chapter raised $140 for Campus Chest by auctioning a Christmas party to the Ward system. This was the highest amount ever raised by one sale at the Blast auction.

Betts Baukol Field, Margaret Wilson, and Susan Ambrosius are new members of $\Phi K \Phi$. Susan was also selected for membership into $\Delta \Phi \Delta$.

Two new $\Sigma A I$ members, Nancy Lind and Jane Coletti, are also active in other campus activities. Nancy has the lead in the Stars Over Veishea production of the "Unsinkable Molly Brown." Jane recently was elected as the Science and Humanities representative to Union Board.

Going to England this summer on the Iowa State-Student Project for Amity Among Nations (SPAN) program are Sally Schworm and Barbara Hemerson.

Kaye Rogerson, a $\Sigma A E$ Little Sister of Minerva, was chosen $\Sigma A E$ Sweetheart this year. Debbie Kaehler was selected chairman of the Greek Week dinner exchange.

Vivian Voelker and Sue Farmer have been busy this year working on the Bomb, the yearbook. Vivian is the managing photo editor and Sue is the activities editor.

Kathy McClain and Sue Eisele are busy making plans for Veishea. They are chairmen of the Veishea Child Development Open House.

The new initiates have been very active this year. Pat Dunn was elected vice-president of Junior Panhellenic Council. She was also a Pledge Princess finalist. Vicki Kofender was an Engineer girl of the month and the Dunn twins (Pam and Pat) were the Greek Star pinmates. Lindy Owen was selected co-ordinator of the Veishea Home Economics Open House.

This year finds the Pi Beta Phis at Oklahoma Beta holding numerous scholastic and campus honors.

In the scholastic realm, Sue Nall has served as President of Mortar Board this year, and recently tapped as new members of Mortar Board are Toni Biard, Jeanie Cooper, and Norma Gray.

Pi Beta Phi leadership is shown with Jan Lemaster as president of Education Student Council and Norma Gray as president of the Home Economics Student Council. Marsha Martin, Sue Marlow, Sharon Russell, and Mary Brower are chairmen of Business and Professional Week in Business Student Council. Also very active in campus life are Margene Montgomery, Jane Fitzpatrick, Mary Delozier, and Susan Scheffel, who are chairmen of committees on the Student Union Activities Board. Margene Montgomery represents Oklahoma State University as Regional Vice President of Student Union Activities Board. Judy Jones was elected to be a member of the Student Senate. Marsha Martin is serving as president of $\mathbf{B} \Psi \Sigma$, national business honorary. Frances Davis, Susan Scheffel, and Mary Dolozier are committee chairmen for the National Association of Women Students Conclave to be held at Oklahoma State University in 1966. Pi Beta Phis were represented well at all athletic events, having Jeanie Cooper, Connie Graves, Jan Turner, and Susan Scheffel as cheerleaders. Una Thurston has just ended her term as Commander of Angel Flight and Linda King, Eileen Freeman, and Margene Montgomery are new members.

Queenships abound in Pi Beta Phi. Sue Nall was chosen as Fairest of the Fair and Norma Gray reigns over all the campus fraternities as Princess Athena. Janice Grant was chosen to be Collegiate FFA Queen. Redskin Beauties this year are Sue Ann Gibbs and Marilyn Mobley. Sharon Hannon was chosen as Honorary Cadet Colonel of Air Force ROTC and Carla Gaither as Wing Commander. Still other royalties are Sharon Russell, "O" Club Queen Attendant, and Jeanie Cooper and Carla Gaither, both attendants for Engineering Queen. Kay Walker represented Pi Beta Phi abroad in the United Service Organization tour of the Orient.

INITIATED SEPTEMBER 19, 1964:

Patricia Allison, Ft. Worth; Nan Faulkner, Lubbock; Charlotte Stewart, Snyder.

Texas Gamma has received many honors in all phases of college life this year. Sweethearts and favorites include Camella Moore who has served as cheerleader and has recently been elected as Miss Texas Tech. Emilie Tucker has been selected by Kappa Sigma Fraternity as their Dream Girl for the year.

Representing Texas Gamma in the dormitories are numerous legislators and officers. These include Sandy Harris and Patty Smith, dorm presidents; Cathy Thompson, dorm vice president; and Nancy Fortran, dorm AWS representation. Also serving the Association of Women Students are Sandy Harris as secretary and Suzy Crain as freshman representative, while Janie Kinney is serving as the secretary of the freshman class.

Many Phi Phis have been chosen for honoraries at Tech this year. Linda McSpadden, who was also a Bloc leader of the Model United Nations, has recently joined Phi Kappa Phi; Gena Odell, Darlene Hunter, Carole Brennan, Patty Smith, and Linda McSpadden were asked to serve on President's Hostesses; Gwen Connelley, Janie Kinney, Marcie Windler, Suzy Crain, Gretchen Strief, Julie Simmons, and Suzanne Easley have all pledged Alpha Lambda Delta; and both Lynn McElroy and Becky Parker have been chosen for Who's Who. Becky is also Co-Editor of the Tech yearbook.

We fared very well in all-university events winning first place in Greek Week over all other sororities. The Greek Week Central Committee was abundant with Pi Phis and one did an outstanding job as co-chairman.

Judy Baldwin, one of Colorado Beta's two candidates, reigned as Winter Carnival Queen. Winter Park, Colo., was the site of this year's Winter Carnival and Pi Phi's twin victories in the ice-skating and novelty races. We accumulated enough points in the over-all competition to win second place among all sororities.

Special recognition goes to Caren Coffman, President of Spurs, Jeanne Nibley, President of Little Sisters of Minerva, and Linda Dee who will be trying out for the Ice Follies this summer.

For many years Wyoming A's have been proud of their campus leaders, this year having been no exception. Pi Beta Phi is represented in the Student Senate by Mary Thomas, an elected senator from the College of Education, Colleen Bruns, secretary to the student body president, as well as the many Pi Beta Phis picked to serve on senate committees. Helen Augsbach represents Pi Beta Phi as the new president of Panhellenic, JoAnn Simmons serves as Secretary of Mortar Board, and Jan Klepinger is finishing her term as president of ΣN Sweethearts. Colleen Bruns, JoAnn Simmons and Susie Trowe were chosen to represent the University of Wyoming in the Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Susan Ferguson and Ann Christenson, a social affiliate, won honors when chosen co-editors of the WYO, the University annual and are ably assisted by their many Pi Phi sisters serving as section editors.

Wyoming A is especially proud this year to be the only sorority on campus to have placed a finalist in every all-campus queen contest, recently climaxing this achievement with the coronation of Susan Mackey as Snow Queen at the annual Snow Carnival. Susie, along with Mary Thomas, our sporty Pi Beta Phi, recently placed 10th and 1st respectively in a regional ski meet. Another Pi Beta Phi beauty, Linda Watts was chosen Sweetheart of T K E.

The Mortar Board scholarship cup given to the sorority on the MSC campus with the highest grades for the year once again decorates our mantel. For the past two years we have received the scholarship and leadership trophies awarded by the Les Buffons, Senior Men's Honorary.

Numerous awards and honors have been bestowed upon individual members. Four of the sixteen members of Mortar Board are Pi Phis: Judy Lohr, Linda Lammers, JoAnn Cada, and Susan Symonds. Phi Kappa Phi tapped Linda Lammers and Susan Symonds. These two top gals were also selected to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges along with Lynda Bramlette.

Spurs tapped Denise Vielleux, Ginny Sikonia, Kitty Keeton, Judy O'Donnell, and Polli Moore. Phi Upsilon Omicron, of which Susan Symonds is President, chose Denise Vielleux. Etta Webb is President of WAA with Sharon Smith as bowling manager and Peggy Winn Volley Ball manager.

The Associated Women Students elected Lois Lohr as President for the coming year. Lois is also President of the College Chapters of the Montana Home Economics Association. Joanne Luebbe will serve as Treasurer of the State AWS.

Beauty is not to be forgotten from the Pi Phi's long list of honors. Lynne Allen was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, Sherrie Kelly Sigma Chi Derby Darling, and Edrea Matelich Mardi Grass Queen and Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl.

SUSAN CHRISTENSEN

Oregon Gamma, Willamette University

We have just completed our first year with deferred rush and are very excited about the twenty-two girls who pledged in February. Our freshmen were quite active during their first year on campus; the seven girls in Angel Flight were Marlene Anderson, Julie Cramer, Joanie Loomis, Jane Osborne, Marin Pearse and Nancy Wintz. Four freshmen, also, participated in Honeybears, a freshman dance team. They are Sue Cox, Claudette Ebi, Laurie Monnes and Barb Montford.

During the second semester two girls, Donna Kemp and Cathy Atterbury, traveled to Washington, D.C. to attend the American University on the Washington Semester Plan. This is on a reciprocal basis with Willamette and the American University for political science majors. Both Donna and Cathy are in the social science honorary, Pi Gamma Mu.

For the fourth straight semester we were awarded the scholarship trophy for the highest grades on campus.

Along with our scholastic achievement Bonnie Mitchell was elected Kappa Sigma Stardust Queen, Kathy Norris was the winter Delta Tau Delta princess. In February AWS elected Linda Jongeneel coed of the month, an honor bestowed to an outstanding senior woman each month.

Vicki Baker was elected secretary of the sophomore class and Candy Coffelt is the new vice president of the senior class for second semester. Rally members this year were Julie Brandford, Levi Crooks and Linda Naylor who put many hard hours of work into a rewarding year full of fun and spirit. The AWS Carnival is being presented again this year with Julie Brandford and Judi Brecht as co-chairmen. This is a money raising project with all profit given to the American Cancer Society.

MARLA PARBERRY

PI PROVINCE

California Gamma Chapter, University of Southern California

Fall initiates include Diane Frame, Susan Baak Furgerson, and Eleanore Phillips from Los Angeles, Joby Raulston from Corona del Mar, Karen Sandwick from Long Beach and Joan Travis from Pasadena.

Spring initiates include Carol Farr, Jody Lawler, and Teri Sheridan from Los Angeles, Carol Hawley, Janet Jones, and Susan Tatsch from Newport Beach, Brooke Hurlbut and Denny Keefe from Redlands, Donna Bredall from Pacific Palisades, Cindy Cleary and Judy Heid from Santa Ana, Lynn Buck from Fullerton, Judy Campbell from Chicago, Donna Escallier from Playa del Rey, Christy Farrell from Piedmont, Kathleen Flynn from Altadena, and Linda Ivison and Debbie Langen from Pasadena.

This year California Gamma has had many outstanding honors on and off campus. We are very proud to have had five girls nominated by various Fraternities to run for Greek Week Queen who is to symbolize the Greek System. Our Diane Frame was named queen and was nominated by the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Not only have we had girls active as little sisters of fraternities as Judy Heid, Sharon Kemmer, Donna Bredall, Joy Arbogast, Donna Escallier, and Carol Sailors, we have several girls who have the honor of being president of organizations as: Maggie Sidenfaden who is president of the Daughters of Diana, Mary Kay Shaw who is president of the Pi Kappa Alpha little Sisters and Ann Nocerine who is president of the Little Sisters of Minerva.

We have two girls on the Senior honorary society called Mortar Board. These two girls are Judy Webster and Barbara Cummings. We are proud to have two girls named as Helens of Troy, an honor for only seven top senior girls on campus. These are Judy Webster and Joan Pedersen, the Chief Justice of Judicial Court.

VIRGINIA HILTY

The chapter is very proud of its President, Tere Smith, who was recently honored by becoming a member of Cal Club, whose members are chosen by the University President. Tere and twenty-four other members comprise the Club which serves as a co-ordinating body between the President of the University, the University itself, and the city in which the University is located.

Three members have been active in honorary service organizations. Sue Ailman and Penny Coale are members of Spurs, and Tere Smith is active in Chimes. Also, Lee Anne Horine recently became a member of Mortar Board.

Carol Ferguson, Mimi Loomis, Mary Ryder, and Julie Williams were invited to join the SAE Little Sisters of Minerva.

New initiate Nancy Earle was crowned Military Ball Queen at the annual function in early March. Lorraine Baptist was chosen as the Best-Dressed Coed at U.C.S.B. in a contest sponsored by Glamour Magazine, and she now goes to New York this summer for national competition in which ten finalists will be chosen.

Campus royalty has claimed Pi Beta Phi's Susan Lemmons among the Engineering Queen Finalists. Betsy Galloway is the Chapter's nominee for Greek Week Queen. Kathy Lines, Susan Jordan and Jeannie Block are finalists contending for the title of "Miss Pima County."

Connie Gillaspie charmed young and old alike in her outstanding performance in the lead role as "Eliza," in the University's production of My Fair Lady.

Congratulations Barbara Sato! She has been selected as one of five American Students to visit Japan under the United States-Japan Student Leader project. Riska Platt and Sheryl Firth were tapped for Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic honorary. Sheryl also received an award for holding the highest scholastic average in the pledge class.

JODIE ADAMSON

At times there is need for a Graduate Student Counselor to guide a new Pi Beta Phi chapter. If any 1965 graduates are interested in this sort of fraternity work, please fill out this blank and mail it to Mrs. William H. Mansfield, #8 Long Meadows, St. Louis 31, Missouri.

The Pi Beta Phi Arts And Crafts Center Will Benefit Teachers And Students

During its 20 years, the Summer Craft Workshop at the Settlement School has had students from 43 states and 12 foreign countries, and has offered 18 different courses. When this is replaced by the year-round Arts and Crafts Center, there will be greatly expanded services. The University of Tennessee will continue its unique association with Pi Beta Phi—there will be university standards for both undergraduate and graduate work, with college credit for those who want it. Students will receive credit toward their diplomas. Teachers taking a refresher course or learning a new craft, will return to their homes to use their knowledge in public and private schools, summer camps and senior citizens centers.

For Pi Beta Phi to inaugurate this educational center, the help of every active and alumna is needed. The present physical plant must be added to, and there will be additional salaries for teachers, administrators and maintenance force.

Don't forget that donations made in memory of a Pi Phi or in honor of a Golden Arrow Pi Phi are beautifully inscribed in our Memorial Book. Such donations should be accompanied by maiden name, married name, chapter and alumna club of the one being honored.
