Perspective

Rush Recruitment

Each member of Pi Beta Phi, both collegiate and alumna, has the opportunity to contribute so Pi Beta Phi and the Greek community will continue into the new century. Friendship and support were important when our 12 Founders gathered in 1867. Friendship and support continue to be vital in the year 2000. As we use new National Panhellenic terminology and move from rush to recruitment our philosophy remains the same. We seek young women whose values are compatible with ours.

For collegians, this means getting to know the women who will become their sisters. Conversation is more meaningful so women with compatible values find one another. Philanthropy projects are often incorporated into the formal rush/recruitment process. Many new members come through Continuous Open Bidding and chapters are encouraged to look for members who have not been part of formal rush.

For alumnae, membership recruitment also happens every day of the year. Recruitment really starts with alumnae as they model the positive influence Pi Phi has in their lives. Through club involvement, alumnae encourage Greek membership. The benefits of Fraternity life and the leadership opportunities available must be explained to our legacies, to their friends and to all high school women.

Alumnae introduce outstanding young women to the chapters by means of the Rush Information Form (RIF) and the Legacy Introduction Form. Alumnae must introduce the most qualified women to the chapters; chapters must select the most compatible. The process may have changed but our method of membership selection continues as it was in 1867. Friendship and support are the foundation of our Fraternity. As long as this continues, we will see the Greek system and Pi Beta Phi flourish as we enter this new millennium.

Recruitment ... Formerly Known as Rush

by Jean Wirths Scott,
National Panhellenic Conference Delegate

Hectic days of elaborate decorations, theme parties, choreographed entertainment, intricate costumes and multi-thousand dollar rush budgets are fast becoming obsolete in the new world of NPC membership recruitment. Rush is out ... recruitment is in.

Methods of attracting new members are changing to better reflect the interests of today's female student and to represent the true purposes of our organizations.

At the core of new methods is more time for quality conversation—learning more about the potential new member and sharing more information about what it really means to be a sorority member. Instead of being entertained, chapter and potential members are spending time together on philanthropy and community service projects. Many Pi Phi chapters have added a literacy or arts/crafts project to their recruitment schedule. Sharing who we are and what we represent is taking the place of emphasis on balloons, streamers, skits and spectacle.

To accompany the new direction on recruitment procedures, the National Panhellenic Conference has adopted new terminology to reflect a more professional image (see vocabulary box). While not adopted in the form of a Unanimous Agreement, thus binding on all members, the new terminology is being used by NPC in all written materials and programs. Many College Panhellenics have adopted the use of the new vocabulary as standard procedure, as is a growing number of the twenty-six NPC member groups.

In the year 2000, Pi Beta Phi collegians on 132 campuses continue to assume the responsibility of adding to our Fraternity's membership. They are sharing Pi Phi with potential members at recruitment events—not rushing at parties. Their attitude reflects a new understanding that a lifetime commitment to membership deserves more than "being rushed."

NPC Vocabulary

- Recruitment—(rush)
- Potential Member—(rushee)
- Events—(parties)
- New Member—(pledge)
- Formal Membership Recruitment Acceptance—(preference card)
- COB (Continuous Open Bidding) Acceptance—(COB card)

Note: It is not contrary to Pi Phi policy to use the terms rush and pledge, however, chapters are encouraged to follow the vocabulary used by their campus panhellenics.

Rush Recruitment

A Legacy is ...

"A legacy is a daughter, sister or granddaughter of a member." Each chapter must determine if they also want to consider step-daughters, step-sisters and great-granddaughters as legacies. A legacy brings a rich heritage to our Fraternity through a supportive family and an understanding of Fraternity values. Grand Council believes in the tradition and loyalty legacies bring to a chapter. They encourage chapters to give special consideration to legacies whose qualities are comparable to those of other rushees. Legacies are given extra credit in the membership selection ranking process. This credit is added to that given for academics, leadership and activities.

However, membership is by mutual selection. As the number of women participating in rush increases on many campuses, so does the number of legacies. From a numbers perspective it is not possible for our chapters to pledge each legacy that participates in rush. It is the privilege and responsibility of chapters to select the members who will enhance their chapter. It is also the privilege of rushees to select the group that is best for them.

Preparing legacies for rush ...

Alumnae have a responsibility to educate legacies about the rush experience and about the Greek system. The rushee must feel free to pledge the chapter on her campus where she is most comfortable.

The chapter and its responsibility ...

Chapters have the responsibility of following Pi Beta Phi policies on legacies:

- The Chapter Membership Chairman shall inform the chapter of all rushees known to be Pi Beta Phi legacies.
- A legacy shall be invited to at least one invitational round of rush.
- A legacy who attends a preference party shall be placed on the first bid list.

The chapter must remember the legacy brings an innate dedication, support and commitment to Pi Phi.

Last year more than 1,490 legacies participated in the recruitment process. Thirty-four percent of these women pledged Pi Beta Phi.

The rushee's obligation ...

It is the rushee's obligation to enter rush with an open mind, to look at all Greek groups where she may have an affinity and to select the group that is best for her.

It would be wonderful if Pi Beta Phi could extend membership to every legacy participating in rush, but that is not realistic. Family members and legacies must understand the emotional issues faced during the rush process and not place undue expectations on the rushee or the chapter. The Greek system has many advantages for its members. Those benefits will be best realized when a rushee selects her own group. Knowing a legacy has made the decision that best suits her will bring joy and happiness to all on Bid Day.

It is imperative that our chapters know the Pi Phi legacies going through rush.

How You Can Help

What to send

- Fill out a Rush Information Form (RIF) on any prospective rushee you wish to sponsor for membership in Pi Beta Phi. See form on next page. The form may be copied or additional forms are available from Central Office, 7730 Carondelet, Suite 333, St. Louis, MO 63105, (314) 727-7338. You can also find the RIF at www.pibetaphi.org/rushdates.htm.

- Return the completed form to the Chapter Membership Chairman of the appropriate chapter. Collegiate chapters and Chapter Membership Chairmen are listed in this issue of The ARROW beginning on page 10.
- Please send the RIF early. Complete information about the rushee's qualifications is essential. If possible, send a picture of the rushee.
- Although only one RIF is needed for each rushee, letters are welcome from all alumnae who may wish to write and offer their comments.
- If you know of a legacy going through rush, please fill out a Legacy Introduction Form found on the bottom of page 7. The Legacy Introduction Form does not take the place of a RIF.
- Save the Summer issue of The ARROW with all 2000-2001 rush information. This information will not be repeated.

Remember Panhellenic Rules

Dos

- Do use the information gathered by the alumnae panhellenic group in your city, if available. If the rushee has not filled out a panhellenic information form, please encourage her to do so.

Don'ts

- Do not call the family or the rushee for information.
- Do not send food or gifts of any kind to a chapter on behalf of a rushee. Breaking Panhellenic rules may cause the collegiate chapter to be penalized.
- Do not contact the collegiate members during rush.

News

Arizona Alpha, University of Arizona

At New Mexico State University, NEW MEXICO BETAS and rushees assemble coloring books and donate them to different schools and charities.

Camp Pi Phi is the theme of MINNESOTA ALPHA'S philanthropic recruitment day at the University of Minnesota. During this day, members and rushees make bead necklaces for children at the Ronald McDonald House.

For philanthropy day, ILLINOIS THETAS and potential members at Bradley University create picture frames for the local children's hospital.

On preference night at the University of Arizona, ARIZONA ALPHAS give a silver Pi Phi ring to each rushee. The rushee can wear the ring until the end of the round when she throws it into a fountain and makes a wish. The women who return to the chapter on Bid Day receive their silver ring as a memorable gift.

At Ohio University, OHIO ALPHAS and rushees create a touch-and-feel book for each child in a local hospital. Each page has a different texture for the child to discover.

COLORADO ALPHAS and rushees at the University of Colorado fill paper bags with school supplies for children who cannot afford to buy them.

WYOMING ALPHAS paint flower pots with rushees at the University of Wyoming and donate the pots to a local foundation.

Every year, COLORADO DELTAS at the Colorado School of Mines prepare a video for rush. The video features sorority life at its best: friendship, leadership, sisterhood and philanthropies. Last fall, the chapter traveled to beautiful Red Rocks Amphitheater to tape the video.

During philanthropy night at the University of Richmond, VIRGINIA ETAS and potential rushees draw and design nursery rhyme books to donate to a local elementary school.

OHIO THETAS and rushees at Bowling Green State University decorate shapes made of felt. The chapter donates the sets of shapes to local elementary schools in order to help children recognize shapes and learn new words.

The army theme of IOWA ETAs' philanthropy day coincides with Drake University's policy of recruitment. As part of the decorations, large wooden crates are filled with books and labeled Links to Literacy and Arrow in the Arctic like military supply containers. The books are later donated to a local library.

Rushees and INDIANA ZETAS make goodie bags for children who have recently been taken from their families, and women in a local shelter. This activity is part of Ball State University's philanthropic day during rush.

For philanthropy day during rush, TEXAS ALPHAS at the University of Texas and potential members make pages for alphabet books, which chapter members later bind and donate to Austin Junior Helping Hand, a center for abused and neglected children.

To show unity and to support Illinois State University's Greek system, ILLINOIS IOTAS and every other panhellenic chapter on campus wear similar T-shirts during welcome parties. The back of the shirts show the entire Greek alphabet, while the front has the individual chapter's letters.

Portraying scenes from different commercials and TV shows including GAP, ESPN's SportsCenter and MTV's Total Request Live helps TENNESSEE GAMMAS feature their awards and accomplishments for potential members at the University of Tennessee.

At Arizona State University, ARIZONA BETAS show a video during philanthropy day that consists of footage from the various philanthropies the chapter participates in throughout the year.

PENNSYLVANIA GAMMAS and rushees at Dickinson College created two three-dimensional murals of outdoor scenes for the children's room at Safe Harbor, a local homeless shelter in Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

TEXAS BETAS at Southern Methodist University make alphabet books under the direction of Lindsay Goletz. Each rushee picks a letter, chooses a word, writes a sentence for the word and draws a picture of the word. When the books are compiled, chapter members donate them to J.W. Ray Elementary School where members tutor twice a week.

With Astroturf and bases covering the floor, a giant scoreboard and baseball pennants on the walls, INDIANA THETAS at Valparaiso University present their chapter to potential members during their baseball theme party. The potential members sit on wooden benches and watch the skit "Pi Phi Field, Home of the Angels" while some chapter members act as vendors, selling popcorn and Coke to the crowd.

At Northern Arizona University's first round of rush, chapter presidents give speeches and each panhellenic group, including ARIZONA GAMMA, has a booth where rushees can find out more about each chapter.

A trip to the principal's office during rush? MISSOURI ALPHAS at the University of Missouri have incorporated this plus other classes in their house-tour day, Pi Phi Prep. For example, a potential member who is sent to the office meets the Chapter President and other chapter officers; if she goes to PE, she finds out the athletic possibilities Pi Phi offers. Also during this day chapter members and rushees make flash cards to use when members volunteer at local elementary schools for Links to Literacy.

NEBRASKA BETAS hook up a laptop to show the official Pi Beta Phi Web site during the University of Nebraska's rush interest center day. This allows potential members to get a feel, not only for Nebraska Beta, but for the whole Fraternity.

At Millikin University, ILLINOIS ETAS make an impression on rushees during the second night of rush when the chapter commemorates Pi Phi from coast to coast with tasty treats like New York cheesecake and Seattle cappuccinos.

Classical music and a relaxed garden setting help rushees and UTAH ALPHAS get to know one another during the chapter's garden-party theme day at the University of Utah.

FLORIDA ALPHAS chat with rushees at Stetson University while making sock puppets and bookmarks for children in the community.

At Vanderbilt University, TENNESSEE BETAS welcome potential members back on the final round of rush by singing "Speed Thee My Arrow." After visiting with the women, enjoying cake and participating in a candle-lighting ceremony, chapter members again sing the song as potential members exit the house.

ILLINOIS ALPHAS at Monmouth College dedicate one night of rush to the big sis/little sis program. On this night, the little sisters explaining how important, special and helpful their big sisters have been.

Construction didn't stop KANSAS ALPHAS from having a successful rush last fall. The chapter house at the University of Kansas was under renovations, so chapter members incorporated overalls and yellow hard hats into one of their rush themes for the week.

Young Artist Finds Home at Arrowmont

For artist April Sullivan, Arrowmont has become a second home.

April began her association with Arrowmont as an eighth grader when she enrolled in Saturday children's classes. Recognizing her extraordinary talent, Arrowmont bent admissions rules and allowed April to enroll in the school's community classes and eventually she signed up for adult workshops.

During the 1999–2000 school year, the Gatlinburg-Pittman High School senior has been working in the Arrowmont bookstore under the supervision of Karen Byars. After school, in-service days and Saturdays find April at Arrowmont working in exchange for taking classes. According to Karen, the relationship between Arrowmont and April is mutually beneficial.

"Having April here allows Arrowmont the opportunity to influence and nurture a young talent. April not only receives excellent instruction in art and craft, but she is gaining valuable job skills with her retail work in the bookstore and her work in the library. In return, I have the help I need in the bookstore, I have the pleasure of working one-on-one with a student, and I'm able to further the Arrowmont mission of enriching lives through art."

April's presence at the school has allowed Arrowmont to strengthen its connections with Sevier County schools. Karen believes the teamwork between Arrowmont and April's high school art teacher Alice Fisher has been invaluable to April's success.

"I can't imagine not working with Alice Fisher to assure that April has a solid foundation of supportive mentors in her life. Alice opened the door not only for April, but for other young artists and Arrowmont is here to keep that door open."

Arrowmont has touched April's life in many ways. In addition to her work with Karen Byars, April found a mentor in woodturner Max Posey, who suggested that the multitalented student join the Smoky Mountain Woodturners Association. The organization not only accepted April as a member, but they also awarded her a scholarship for an Arrowmont wood class. In 1999, one of April's wooden vases won first place in a Sevierville art and craft festival.

It's hard to know the exact impact Arrowmont will make on April's life, but it is sure to be a positive one. For now, April can go into the world more confident in herself and spread the word about Arrowmont.

An Updated Arrowmont Web site

In February of this year, Arrowmont launched its newly updated Web site, which offers electronic registration and downloadable application forms for class enrollment, work-study, scholarships and studio assistantships. For weekly first-hand updates of all that is happening on the Arrowmont campus, individuals can sign up for the Arrowmont Exchange.

Southern Highland Craft Guild Exhibition at Arrowmont

The Southern Highland Craft Guild exhibition, "An Innovative Spirit: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Celebrates 70 Years," was on display in the Arrowmont Main Gallery through May 17.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild exhibition, "An Innovative Spirit: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Celebrates 70 Years," was on view in Arrowmont's Main Gallery through May 17.

The exhibition is a pictorial record of the guild's 70-year history and showcases work created by crafts people from 293 mountain counties in nine southern states. Four different mediums were chosen to explore changes in design and process through the decades: baskets, jewelry, teapots and woodcarvings. The progression of design informs one about the time in which objects were made. The exhibition is also divided into four sections: Icons, work closely identified with SHCG; Media Time Lines, a visual chronology following objects of similar design (1930-1999); Educational Centers, the teaching of history of crafts and crafts history; and The Future, focusing on craft artists who represent crafts future.

Women who were part of education-based settlement schools or colleges that employed a craft education component in their curriculum founded SHCG in 1930. SHCG is the second oldest craft organization of its kind in the country. It educates both the public and crafts people, preserving objects for the future generations and offering objects for sale in retail shops and craft fairs. Arrowmont, Penland School, Crossnor School, Berea College and Hindman Settlement School are original members of the guild.

The mission of SHCG is to bring together the crafts and crafts people of the Southern Highlands for the benefit of shared resources, education, marketing and conservation. Artists whose work is represented in the exhibition include Tyrone Larson, Rude Osolnik and Amanda Crowe.

For more information please call (865) 436-5860. The Arrowmont galleries are open Monday-Saturday 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

2000–2001 Scholarship & Fellowship Recipients

The Pi Beta Phi Foundation is pleased to announce that 55 women are 2000–2001 scholarship and fellowship recipients. It is with great excitement that we are able to present five additional awards this year due to the generous support of our donors. The additional awards are possible through two new permanent endowments, the Carol Inge Warren Undergraduate Scholarship Fund and the Corinne Hammond Gray Fellowship Fund. The Friendship Fund and the Holiday Scholarship Fund are responsible for three additional undergraduate scholarships. The total dollar amount being presented for the internationally competitive 2000–2001 awards is $76,000. This represents an increase of more than 15% from last year. Not only are we granting more awards, some of the awards are larger. We thank our donors for making this outstanding achievement possible. We also thank the members of the Undergraduate Scholarship, Graduate Fellowship and Alumnae Continuing Education (ACE) Scholarship Committees for their participation in the selection process.

These scholarship recipients exemplify academic excellence and have demonstrated a commitment to volunteer their service in their communities, on their campuses and within Pi Beta Phi. Collegians and alumnae interested in applying for scholarships and fellowships for the 2001–2002 academic year should contact the Scholarship Program, Pi Beta Phi Foundation, 7730 Carondelet, Suite 333, St. Louis, MO 63105. Please indicate which application you are requesting. Applications can also be obtained through Pi Phi's official Web site, www.pibetaphi.org/foundation.htm. A firm January 31 deadline applies for all applications and supporting materials.

For more information about the workbook, the author or caregiving products visit www.caregivingsolutions.com.

While visiting her parents in Sarasota, Florida, NEW YORK ALPHA KIM PATTERSON was diagnosed with acute myelogenous leukemia, which is a rapidly progressing cancer of the blood cells and bone marrow. Approximately 10,100 leukemia cases of this type are diagnosed in U.S. adults annually. Shortly before receiving a bone marrow transplant at M.D. Anderson Center in Houston, Texas, three of Kim's friends in New York decided to raise money for a vacation for Kim. However Kim requested that all the funds be donated to M.D. Anderson for leukemia research. These donations, which grew from a few hundred dollars to a few thousand, were the beginning of the Kimberly Patterson Leukemia Research Fund. To help Kim in this fight, several fellow New York Alphas have planned fund-raisers including Jennifer Lordi, who planned and held two in New York City and Gretchen Bruce Siano, who is planning one in Boston. Kim and her fiance Brian have also created a Web site to keep those interested in the fund and in Kim's story informed and up-to-date.

Katsy was accompanied by her daughter Tennessee Beta Mary Kay King Carmichael and her granddaughter Ohio Zeta Shelley Carmichael McClary.

A Reminder About Our Badge

Due to recent questions about the sale of Pi Beta Phi badges on the Internet, the following is a reminder about the proper care of the badge as stated in the Pi Beta Phi Constitution, Article XVIII, Section 2:

The badge, which shall be worn on the left side near the heart, shall be a golden arrow, bearing the Greek letters ΠΒΦ transversely on its feather, with a loop chain of twelve links pendent from the shaft.

Upon the death of its owner, a badge may be buried with its owner, bequeathed to a member of the Fraternity or to a collegiate chapter or alumnae club to be used as an honor badge or sent to Central Office for such disposition as directed by Grand Council.

Remember 1925

Seventy-five years ago, in the same year our 75-year members were being initiated, women's athletics were being introduced on college campuses.

March 1925

From: The ARROW of Pi Beta Phi

The following article has been written, not only from a study of athletics but also from practical experience as Mary Nestor Moore was playground director, Wichita, Kansas, 1920; Director of Girls' Athletics, Haskell Indian Institute, Lawrence, Kansas, 1921; and since 1923 has been associated with the University of North Dakota in the Department of Physical Education.

At no other time in the history of Physical Education have athletics held as prominent a place as they do today. This has been the outcome of many years of labor by those interested in trying to put before the public the importance of athletics for women from a health and recreational standpoint. The old idea that athletics were for men only is fast disappearing and in its place we find a growing demand for more organized play for women. The detrimental disadvantages that fostered this old idea have been overcome by close supervision and regulations by authorities. Hardly a year passes but the rules governing certain athletics are amended in a way to benefit the player. The progress in this field has been very slow. In the south even today we find many schools where the old idea is still prevalent.

In order to bring about a change it was first necessary to study athletics in their relation to health. Each game was analyzed, its good and bad points studied and gradual changes made. One of the first disadvantages that was noticed was the lack of proper supervision. Therefore it became necessary to draw certain restrictions as to time limit, training and playing rules.

A study of the history of basketball for women will bring out very clearly the changes most games have undergone since women first took part in them. It was found that girls participating in games were playing according to men's rules. Educators felt that men's rules were not desired but they were not ready to take each specific point of the game and change it. The three court game resulted in a modification but this game was entirely too restricted and lacked the appeal men's basketball possessed. Each year a great many points which had previously been thought detrimental and discarded, but have since been proven otherwise when closely regulated, have been added to the game.

Kansas Alpha Mary Nestor Moore

Athletics for Women

In April, 1923, a conference on athletics and physical education for women and girls was called by Mrs. Herbert Hoover at the suggestion of the National Amateur Athletic Federation of America. At this conference problems connected with all types of athletics were studied and resolutions concerning them adopted. It was decided that athletics should be encouraged and provided for and that certain regulations regarding them should be enforced. It was resolved that only competent women who have had adequate instruction in health and physical education and who for that reason realize the significance of close supervision of athletics should be placed in charge.

Physical education departments realizing the benefit of making exercise attractive to students as well as beneficial have permitted sports classes to be substituted for the required work in physical training. In these classes, however, the emphasis is not placed on competition of the winning of the game as much as upon the recreational value.

Basketball, volleyball, baseball, tennis and hockey are representative of the type of game that has come into prominence because of this.

The interest that has resulted has caused many to take part in athletics outside of class who might never have gotten into the game at all.

The Athletic Conference of American College Women has also helped in bringing about the advancement of athletics. It has fostered the organization of athletic associations in the various colleges and universities of the country with the aim of developing athletics as a means of promoting health, physical efficiency and good fellowship. Each athletic association is governed to a certain extent by the national organization and in most cases is under close supervision by the Physical Education department. The interest that has been shown by the increased membership in the associations and by the continual introduction of news sports can mean nothing else but that athletics for women are here to stay.
